Judge Forfeits Bonds of Four Red Leaders

New York, July 3 — (AP) — Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today forfeited the bonds of four of the 11 convicted communist leaders when they failed to surrender in court.

The motion to forfeit the bonds, totalling $80,000, was made at the request of the government when the names of the missing reds were called and there was no response.

Seven other leaders, also members of the party's American political region, began serving their prison terms yesterday. The four missing leaders were no longer supervised by court at the same time.

The fugitive list, of a countrywide search, are Henry Winston, the party's national organization secretary; Gus Hall, Ohio organizer man Robert Thompson; Illinois Chairman Gilbert Green and Party National Secretary Gus Hall.

The 11 leaders were convicted nearly three years ago of plotting to teach the forcible overthrow of the United States Government. Their prison sentences ranged from three to five years.

Judge Vacates Divorce Decrees Of Two Couples

Port Angeles, Wash., July 3 — (AP) — Two couples who planned to celebrate their divorces with plans interrupted yesterday by the judge who gave them their decrees.

Last Friday, Judge Max Church granted Elnora Rondeau, 21, a divorce from her husband, Virgil E. Rondeau, 24, both of Port Angeles.

A few minutes later the couples appeared in the county auditor's office to fill out applications for marriage licenses with a switch of spouses.

After the required three - day wait, the two men went to the auditor's office today to pick up their licenses. They were told that Judge Church had directed the licenses not be issued. The judge, meanwhile, had lasted an order vacating the divorce decrees for the two couples. He said he acted because of their marriage plans.

Peacetime Expenditures $1,300,000,000 Passed

Ottawa, July 3 (CP) — The fourth session of Canada's 21st Parliament, which started on its nine quiet, adjourned Saturday until Oct. 9.

The 104-day session ended at 7:40 p.m. EDT after Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting for the governor general gave royal assent in the senate to a lengthy list of government legislation.

The measures included money bill authorizing the government to make record peacetime expenditures of more than $1,300,000,000 during the 1951-52 fiscal year ending March 31st.

When the bills list item on the Commons order paper was passed Speaker Ross Macdonald called for the "next order of business."

Russell Hopkins, deputy clerk of the chamber, raised his hands and said with a grin:

"We've run out of business." Developments during the final day.

1. Disclosure by Justice Minister Garson that an investigation has been launched into the case of an Ottawa corporation which forced a news dealer to accept comics if he wanted to be supplied with the better types of magazines.

2. Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed the hope that the Korean war might be ended in the near future. No word has reached the government that would "dampen" hopes that current cease-fire overtures will be successful.

3. Trade Minister Howe said he will be able to assess the unemployment situation in the motor industry within the next week or two. If much unemployment develops, it will be possible to move defence contracts into areas where they are needed.

4. Mr. Howe estimated that 80,000,000 to 90,000,000 bushels of 1950 wheat still will be left in country elevators when the time comes to harvest the 1951 western wheat crop, starting in August.

Berliners Dial 'Zero One' And Trouble Murder or Bugs, Will be Looked After

Berlin, July 3 — (AP)—Murder or bugs, just dial "zero one" in West Berlin and the trouble will be looked after.

At least that is what some West Berliners seem to think, to the despair of police officials.

It was for murder, kidnapping, armed robbery, riots and other such emergencies that West Berlin police headquarters set aside the short-easy-to-remember telephone number "zero one." It rings more than 200 times daily.

An elderly woman dialed it in the middle of the night. A radio car raced to her flat where the excited woman presented the officers with two bugs carefully wrapped in paper.

"For months," she said, "I've told the landlord to do something about the bugs in this house, but he never believed there were any. Now I've sought the proof and you must see witnesses."

Fearful spinsters are frequent customers or "zero one." Sometimes there is something tangible for police to work on — like the desire of two robbed burglars in her house. The "burglar" turned out to be an inebriated neighbor trying to fit his key in the wrong door.

One unusually - cautious young lady called "zero one" just to be sure somebody was there in case something should happen. "I expect a young man visitor, you see," she explained to the flabbergasted policeman, "and you never know . . . ."

Weary police officials have noted that the number of emergency calls rises sharply on pay days. Usually on those days police are sought to stop a beer-hall fight.

Correspondent Denies Charge Over Operating Espionage Ring But Admits He Had Been Spy

Frankfurt, Germany, July 3 (AP)—William N. Oatis, denied a communist prosecutor's charge yesterday that he had taken over an "espionage network" when he became Associated Press Bureau chief in Prague. But he said the court trying him on anti-state charges that he had been a spy.

The prosecutor, who described Oatis as a link in a spy ring including former Prague correspondents of Reuters News Agency, Agence France-Presse and United Press, indicated he would call 11 witnesses to the stand today.

Among them are several Czech writers, former employees of Pan American Airways and the United Press, and Havelka, alleged murderer of a Czech security officer; Leylia Vavrova, former AP employee, and Mate Kubik, former Hotel Alcron bartender.

Oatis, first American newspaper man to be tried behind the iron curtain in Europe, testified yesterday in Ruzyne Pankrac prison where he has been held incommunicado since April 24. He is charged with activities hostile to the state.

The 37-year-old native of Marion, Ind., looked pale and strained as he took the stand. A tense hush overroom without the glasses he usually wears, he spoke slowly and in a firm voice, never looking at the spectators.

Since his arrest, American embassy officials and The Associated Press have been unable to communicate with Oatis or to provide him with counsel. His defence counsel is a Czech, appointed by the government.

Two United States Embassy employees admitted to the trial yesterday that testimony to the American High Commissioner's office in Frankfurt. There are no western newsmen left in Czechoslovakia to cover the trial.

Reports from the trial room said Oatis spoke in careful phrases which suggested that he had been carefully coached.

Three Czech writers, formerly employed by the AP, are on trial with Oatis. They testified yesterday that they also engaged in spying. They are Tomas Svoboda, Pavel Wojdinek and Peter Muntz.

Although warned by the court that admissions of guilt would have a bearing on their sentences, they said they "felt guilty."

Asked if he agreed with their testimony, Oatis said, "Generally speaking, yes."

The government charged in a 10,000-word bill of the trial that Oatis and the three post-war AP bureau chiefs who preceded him in Prague had organized the bureau into a spy centre that worked closely with United States government officials.

The Associated Press has denied the charge and declared it is preposterous. It will deceive no one in the free world."

Oatis supported the prosecution charge that three former western colleagues — Russell Jones of U. P., Robert Bigio of Reuters and Gaston Fournier of A. F. P.—also engaged in spying.

In Phoenix, Ariz., J. Rod Oatis, 52-year-old father of the defendant, branded his son's "confession" as "all a pack of lies."

DOMINION DAY WEEKEND MARRED BY DEATH TOLL

75 Violent Deaths Recorded in Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Deaths on highways and at beaches marred celebrations of Dominion Day as Canadians took full advantage of the first long weekend of summer.

A Canadian Press survey recorded a steadily-mounting toll of 75 dead in drownings, traffic accidents and other mishaps in the period between Friday evening and Monday midnight.

Of the dead, 32 persons were drowned, 24 died in automobile accidents and 19 died from other causes, including fires and shooting.

Heaviest toll was in Ontario where 36 persons met violent death ,including 20 by drowning and seven in traffic.

Quebec total was 14 dead, of which six were by drowning and seven in highway accidents.

Six persons died when a car-truck collision at Della swamped the seven killed in traffic accidents in Alberta. The total number of violent deaths in that province was 13, including two drownings.

Eight died in British Columbia's six, Manitoba five, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan one each.

It was the worst three-day Dominion Day weekend at least since the end of the Second World War, surpassing the toll of 65 dead in 1949. Last year 51 dead were reported in the four-day week-end. In 1948 there were 70 violent deaths in five days, from July 1 to July 5, and 1947 there were 90 deaths in four days of the holiday.

Sporting events and highway outings were most popular for the thousands of Canadians who preferred an active Dominion Day weekend.

Crystal Beach Reeve Orders Dismissal of Police Chief

Crystal Beach, Ont., July 3 — (CP) — A seething controversy over law enforcement in this Lake Erie resort centre today took a surprise turn yesterday when Reeve Alfred Dresser ordered Police Chief Gilbert L. Robertson.

The dismissal was ordered by Reeve Claude Dresser after police action is expected to be an important topic of discussion at a special town council meeting today.

The meeting has been called to consider the problem of law enforcement in this resort which has about 20,000 summer residents, most of them from either Toronto or Buffalo, N.Y.

The current controversy was touched off by a number of residents concerned over the trend here in recent years. They say that what was once a respectable family resort is deteriorating into a noisy, beer-drinking summer hotspot in which bootlegging and prostitution rampant.

The residents admit their concern in economic. They say the conditions in Crystal Beach have resulted in growing numbers of vacancies at tourist accommodations, a state that was unheard of several years ago.

Police Chief Robertson was not available last night for comment on his dismissal. The status of the six constables in the Crystal Beach department has not been altered by the chief's suspension.

Provincial police have been assigned to police the village.

Residents who touched off the probe of law enforcement have set themselves up as vigilantes. They indicated yesterday there would shortly be disclosures which would "blow the lid off the scandal."

Tonight's special meeting was called to probe the dismissal of Constable John Sandell from the local force but it is expected to deal with the whole affair. Sandell was dismissed a short time ago by Chief Robertson who gave no reason for the dismissal.

A petition has been signed by hundreds of permanent residents asking that provincial police be brought in to clean up the situation. It is addressed to the Attorney-General of Ontario. One of its demands was that before the provincial force is withdrawn back to the local force, there should be a change in police chiefs. This was effected by yesterday's action.

Alleged Leader Of Abortive Navy Revolt Arrested

Bangkok, Thailand, July 3 (Reuters) — Lt.-Gen. Kach Songgram, one of the alleged leaders in the abortive two-day navy revolt in Thailand, has been arrested at his home, press reports said today.

The general, a former marine officer, was exiled by Prime Minister Pibul Songgram more than a year ago for plotting to overthrow the government.

He was one of the key men in the November, 1947, coup which put Pibul Songgram in power. Pibul Songgram was kidnapped by the navy but later released.

Official estimates of casualties during the navy fighting are still unavailable. One report said about 300 civilians were killed.

Speaker Davies accepted the flag in the name of his government and invited Governor Williams to visit Queen's Park, Toronto, where "the flag will be prominently displayed as a token of good feeling between the Province of Ontario and sovereign State of Michigan."

Wray Furnishing Store Gutted, Four Others Damaged

Four Families Forced From Homes by Smoke

Fanned by a strong west wind which sent flames roaring through the structures, fire early Monday evening caused an estimated $150,000 damage as the Wray Furnishing Store on Front Street was gutted with smoke and water causing damage to at least four other places of business.

The two upper floors of the Wray building were completely gutted by the fire which was discovered about 5:30. Quantities of stored furniture in the upper floors was destroyed while fire damage in the adjoining Reddick's bakery was also heavy.

Suffering smoke and water damage were the City Hotel and the J. Diamond and Son, men's and boys' furnishings, while smoke damage resulted at the Model Home Furnishing store and at Salz and Son home furnishings.

Families Forced Out

Four families living in apartments over the J. Diamond store adjoining the Wray building at the south were forced from their homes by smoke while smoke also drove out guests at the City Hotel as well as beverage room customers.

By eight o'clock firemen had the blaze under control but it was still burning, and was not finally extinguished until about two hours later. Every man on the fire department was called out and at one time Deputy Fire Chief Frank Orr had 12 lines of hose pouring water into the blaze. Firemen stood on guard all night to watch against further outbreaks.

Dog-Tired Loggers Win Upper Hand Over Forest Fire

Campbell River, B.C., July 3. (CP)—Dog-tired loggers today won the upper hand in their 12-day struggle with a 30-square-mile forest fire on Vancouver Island.

About 200 of them blunted the southern spearhead of the fire by extending the 14-mile fire break along the eastern flank around the southern end of the fire zone.

This, temporarily at least, removed the threat to the Argonaut mine, where several tons of explosives were buried. Only a strong wind would be likely to drive the fire out of control again.

At the same time, bulldozer men on the western and northern sides of the fire accomplished a job believed impossible—they constructed a fire break up a steep mountainside.

Fallers and buckers cleared a trail and bulldozers were pulled up the slope by cable and winch, gouging out the fire break as they went.

Weatherman to Help

Meanwhile, the weatherman added a ray of hope. He said increasing cloudiness should be evident in the southern coastal areas late today. No rain was likely by the immediate future but higher humidities should ease parched conditions.

Foresters said only a heavy rain could stamp out the fire.

Bulldozers were also busy today—on Redonda Island between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland. Fifty men were fighting a 300-acre blaze on the heavily sawmilled property. About 3,000,000 board feet of cut timber has already been destroyed.

Rain fell last night in the Queen Charlotte Island, 400 miles north of Vancouver, to ease the fire threat there. Along the southern coast, there has been no rain for 20 days.

Meanwhile, near Hope, 100 miles east of Vancouver, a forest fighter was killed whiel battling a small blaze. Y. Hadachi was carried to his death by a landslide.

YOUTHS UTILIZE PICNIC TABLES FOR DIVING BOARDS

This old spring that necessity is the mother of invention apparently is right in line with the several youths who over the weekend utilized picnic tables at Zwick's Island for diving boards.

The boys piled one of the tables and carried it into the water and from it had 15 minutes or so of fun before their presence reported to police.

The lads were still there when police investigated and they were put to the trouble of lugging the table back onto dry land.

Holiday Traffic Did Not Overtax City Facilities

Holiday traffic through Belleville over the weekend, while heavy, did not apparently overtax facilities offered the fun-seeking public. Although extra trains were running out of Toronto and Montreal on main lines, traffic was handled with relative ease. On the highway, many American cars streamed past the "four corners" all weekend, in preparation for their July 4th celebrations.

Jim Jarrett, who operates the Colonial Coach Lines terminal here with Cecil O'Neill, said this morning that the traffic handled was the heaviest so far this year. He made no estimate of the number of extras put on to handle holidayers, and said that many of them were express buses which made no stop here on the way through.

Automobile traffic was heavy on highways but no fatalities were reported in the immediate district. Provincial police reported a few minor accidents, and there was no one hurt in city mishaps.

Late trains coming into the city from the west early this morning were comfortably full, but Belleville passengers were not much more numerous than usual.

City residents found their entertainment at Speedway Park, where the racers raised the dust, or went to the horse show at Picton, Or they stayed at home, and saw a softball game at the Almeita Public School at night. Estimates of the crowd at the auto races placed the mob at about 4,500 people, while approximately 1,000 cars parked around the park.

City police had their hands full, particularly during the evening, when traffic along Front Street had to be re-routed because of the fire opposite Victoria Avenue. And the fire station provided a sight for countless residents who streamed downtown to watch firemen bring it under

Mosquitoes are Still Big And Voracious in North

If you're thinking of heading north for your holidays in the near future, and some wit tells you that the mosquitoes have dropped out of circulation, take the advice with a barrel of salt. In some spots, they're almost non-existent, but when you do find them, they are big and voracious.

One old-timer near Bancroft said last week that the curse of the tourist was the worst he had ever seen. "Usually they buzz a bit and warn you, before they bite," he said. "This year, they just crab a chunk." Deer flies, black flies are still vicious in the bush, but one or more of the various newer repellents offered on the market this year do a fine job of keeping them at their distance.

Tourist traffic in the Bancroft district may be a little better this year, but most operators are still keeping their fingers crossed. A few are booked up for the summer, but many others are still open for reservations. There is still a feeling that the Korean war cut off much tourist trade from the United States last summer, and a hope that this year will make a better showing. If the Dominion Day weekend was any indication, the hope may be justified, because automobile traffic on Highways 62 and 28 into Bancroft, and also on 60 to Maynooth, Whitney, Barry's Bay and other points was heavy. Sunday saw a steady stream of cars heading northwards, most of them bound for the cottage areas.

For the fisherman, things look bright. Speckled trout, down deep in the lakes of the northern areas of the county, are still hitting with some regularity, and a few catches of grey trout have been reported. In pickerel lakes, bags have been only fair, but are picking up all the time. Bass were hitting ahead of time and were being returned to the lakes.

But to get back to the mosquitoes. While they have lessened in their numbers during the past month, those that are still around are big and nasty. Fishermen on Papineau creek, in particular, are still getting fine lumps from the pests, and few campers are escaping the menacing buzz. They're on the way out now, however, and a few hot dry days this month should reduce the hazard considerably.

Fire Sidelights

A party of eight or ten soldiers out of Kingston army camp missed their bus home last night when they turned in to assist in moving merchandise out of the J. Diamond store on Front Street and thus prevent heavier smoke and water loss.

When smoke and water started coming into the store the manager decided to move as much stock as possible out of harm's way and the soldiers pitched in willingly. The result was that after the chore was completed the boys found to their dismay that their bus had left without them.

One of the boys who formerly worked with a Toronto glass firm noted that just a year ago he had assisted in putting in the store front at Diamond's following the previous fire.

"Little did I realize at that time that I would be helping to move stuff out of the store," he commented.

Two young women who claimed to be from Toronto also made themselves useful in assisting to move store stock. For their troubles the girls got drenched when they got in the way of a mis-directed fire hose.

"Twice is enough, I don't think I will sleep in the building again."

At least that was the attitude taken last evening by Herbert Boothby, apartment tenant who with his wife and family was driven out of his home by Sunday afternoon's fire at the Wray Furnishings store on Front St.

It was the second time in little more than a year that the Boothby family had been driven out of the same apartment by fire.

On the first occasion in March, 1950, the apartment was completely gutted and the Boothby's lost most of their household furnishings. Yesterday they were driven out by smoke and water as result of the fire next door. The Boothby's were eating their evening meal, when someone smelled smoke. They looked out the window and saw the roof of the Wray building ablaze.

Number of Minor Car Accidents Over Holiday

Crime was at a low ebb in the city over the Dominion Day holiday with little more than routine matters being handled by the police department.

A break-in was reported at Belle Cleaners where the cash box was rifled of a small sum in cash.

A few young boys celebrating their relief from class rooms testified their stone throwing ability as was attested by five broken windows in the Prince Charles School.

Traffic was heavy but no accidents resulting in personal injuries were reported.

A two-car collision resulting in heavy property damage occurred Monday night at the corner of Yeomans and Catherine Street. Fred Armstrong, 149 1-2 Front Street, was east-bound on Catherine, when he failed to see the stop sign as he entered Yeomans and collided with a truck driven by Gilbert Zebedee, 277 Sidney St. Both vehicles were extensively damaged.

George Murdoch, East Toronto, missed the curve at the Devil's Elbow and crashed into the checkerboard sign carrying it away.

Clinton Woodbeck, Thurlow township, missed a left turn while driving south on North Park Street and proceeded across College Street crashing into a hydro pole breaking it off.

Two highway transports owned by the Reliable Transport bumped on Dundas Street near the hospital. The transports were travelling together, when the first vehicle had to slow to avoid a striking an oncoming vehicle the driver of which was attempting a left hand turn. The second transport was unable to stop quickly enough and crashed into the first vehicle and was damaged to the extent of about $300. Driver of the auto was Harry Brasm, R.R. 4, Belleville.

Local Pee Wees Defeat Petes By 13-4 Score

Walker Hardware's entry in the pee wee baseball league trounced the Peterborough pee wee baseball club 13-4 in a holiday game in Peterborough.

The locals started in early on the slants of three enemy flingers and were never headed. Joe Ryan did the firing for the first six innings for Walkers, striking out six. Vaughan came on in the seventh and in the next three frames whiffed seven.

Wayne, Reid and Moffat failed to stop the Belleville attack in pitchers' roles for Peterborough.

The Pelts will be in Belleville Thursday evening at 7:00 p.m. for a return engagement with Walkers. The game will be played on the Queen Victoria school grounds.

Collins Plans Court Action

Lake Placid, N.Y., July 3 (AP)—Ted Collins, owner of New York baseball Yankees, said today he would start court action against sportscaster George Batterman if Batterman switched to the Montreal Alouettes.

Lew Hayman, boss of the Alouettes, announced in Montreal Monday night that Batterman would play with Montreal if the Big Four football union next season.

Collins, in a statement issued at his summer home here, said Batterman was in the second year of a three-year contract with New York Yankees. "If he is jumping the team to play in Canada I shall start legal action immediately. . ."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 3 (CP)—Selective buying boosted a handful of issues strongly ahead as the session progressed on the stock market today.

In industrials, papers, utilities and banks showed a majority of gains. Foods, liquors and retail stores were lower and agricultures, constructions, refining oils, steels and manufacturing companies were about balanced. A few issues posted increase of a point or more.

Base metals way up fractions.

Heading the list higher were Falconbridge, International Nickel, Quemont, Sherritt Gordon, Sheep Rock and United Keno Hill.

Western oils were fairly mixed. Gold easily moved and had little change. Senior producers were mixed while a few second-ary golds slipped pennies.

Motorcycle Club Members Hosts At Social Night

On Wednesday evening, at Bethel-Zion community hall, an enjoyable social of ice cream, strawberries and cake was sponsored by the Quinte Motorcycle Club for members and cycling friends.

Members were pleased to welcome back Pauline Andrews a former club member who is a pilot for squadron 426 on the Korean airlift.

After a short address of welcome by Roy Hay, amusing slides of "Our Gang" were shown followed by contests. An impromptu recital closed much merriment at the expense of the performing "artists" brought the evening to a close.

Brockville Memos In First Place Of Central Loop

Brockville, July 3 (CP) — Brockville Memos took over undisputed lead in the Central Ontario Baseball League Monday night as their ace left-hander, Smokey Smith, limited Belleville Redmen to four hits and sent them to a 7-0 defeat.

Brockville got 11 hits off Belleville hurler Bill Strachan, who went the route. The Memos entertain second place Kingston Leafs here Wednesday evening.

BITTEN ON LEG

Hamilton, July 3 (CP) —One constable was bitten in the leg and another received a broken finger when they arrested two men here yesterday. Anatolis Galagan, 34, and William Winegarden, 31, were charged with breaking entering the apartment of Mike Zinlak and assaulting him.

Interesting Notes in Paper Of Daily Ontario of 1899

"The Montreal livestock exchange yesterday sold 300 head of choice cattle, at $ 3 1-2 to 4 cents a pound, while lower grades sold at 2 1-2 and 3 1-2 cents. Sheep brought from 3 1-2 to 3 3-4 cents a pound."

So reads the livestock report in an 1899 edition of the Belleville Ontario, brought into the news office last Saturday by Earl Pope, of Belleville, who came across some fragments of several issues of that paper published in June and July of that year. He found the old papers in the backing of a picture frame which he was dismantling.

Other interesting items for the housewife include white cheese at 8 and 15-16 cents a pound being sold on the Kingston Cheese Board. Vermilyea and Sons were selling men's boots at a $1 a pair, and Haines and Lockett were also selling shoes, "ladies' fine dress kid at $1 a pair."

Wallbridge and Clarke were advertising that they carried a complete line of "Yacht Stores," which they would "deliver free of charge to the dock or the railroad station." Coffee was selling at 30 cents a pound and "black tea that tastes like green tea" was being offered at 40 cents a pound.

Could Solve Problems

One hurried shopper of today could solve all his problems at 1899 prices, when it was possible to buy Indian nightgowns at 33 cents each. "Men's unlaundered white shirts with linen bosoms reinforced back and front, 37 cents' each." Linen handkerchiefs were eight cents each and "ladies' collars in all 20 cents each" at D. V. Sinclair and Company.

Oak Hall, not to be outdone in the clothes field, were selling coats and vests for 75 cents.

Letters to the editors were in a pleasanter vein in those far off times and J. J. B. Flint wrote a long letter congratulating the mayor and council for providing the citizens with the Thursday night band concerts in Victoria Park. He went on to state, however, that it was indeed sad that few middle-age or old people were present to hear the delightful music.

Delightful Spectacle

In describing concert he wrote "last night presented a most delightful spectacle at the Park. The moonlight silvering the water, the graceful canoes the snowy sails of the yachts, the bright lights from the little pleasurers gliding about with their happy cargoes of youth and loveliness listening to the sweet strains from the band, presented a beautiful feature." Oh, for one such night!

The steamer Alexandria was making round trips between Belleville, Rochester, Kingston, and Montreal, in those days, and the advertisements included the salient facts that it was "electricity lighted throughout", and that, "safety, comfort, and enjoyment, was insured by the personal supervision of Captain Smith and Purser Wilson."

On the sporting scene Toronto defeated Syracuse 8-4 in an Eastern League game at Syracuse, while Rochester downed Montreal 2-1, and Worcester dropped Hartford 10-5.

International News

International news of vital importance in 1899 included the story that the Hague, "the first committee of the international peace conference met yesterday. After long discussion the convention unanimously supported the prohibition of firing explosives from balloons."

The Hague story went on to say that, "Delegates from the United States and Great Britain voted against the prohibition of the use of asphyxiating gases and expansive bullets."

Labor relations were just as turbulent in 1899 as they are now, but their solution was somewhat different. An item datelined New York carried the information that, "A transit strike in New York and Brooklyn was broken up when any number of men appeared to take the place of the strikers."

Social notes had "Mrs. W. H. Finkle and two daughters left yesterday for a visit among friends in Toronto", and the fact that, "Trenton firemen took about $400 worth of prizes at the Firemen's tournament held at Brockville." The yacht Skylark took a party of 30 for an enjoyable cruise to the Murray canal, and from the number of items about Massassaga that park was one of the districts busiest summer resorts.

FOURTH SESSION

7. Progressive Conservatives criticized the government for delaying so long over an appeal to the privy council on a grain case it lost before the Supreme Court of Canada. The case involves a grain trader—Jeremiah Nolan of Chicago—who defied a 1945 federal order-in-council demanding that all barley be turned in to the government at the time of decontrol of grain prices. The Supreme Court upheld Mr. Nolan.

8. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called for action against the communist newspapers published in Canada.

9. The Senate dealt with a number of measures previously passed by the Commons.

In the closing minutes, Mr. Drew referred directly to a series of personal clashes between himself and Mr. St. Laurent in the final days of the session. In one such exchange, he charged the prime minister was acting "cowardly"—an accusation which he later withdrew.

Mr. Drew said he had no reservation about the prime minister's personal courage. He said he had used an expression in those exchanges which was "unparliamentary and inappropriate". He recalled that expression now because everyone knew that Mr. St. Laurent would be called on during and summer recess to undertake heavy responsibility.

Challenge Not Accepted

No matter what had been said, he wanted to assure the prime minister that he had no reservations about Mr. St. Laurent's personal courage in the discharge of those responsibilities.

Mr. St. Laurent thanked Mr. Drew and suggested it was perhaps not unfair if at times the legislators demonstrate the "natural traits of human beings."

The clashes between the two party leaders, running over a three-day period, arose from Mr. Drew's charge that Production Minister Howe had arranged government contracts for the "family company" — the C. D. Howe Company of Port Arthur, Ont. Mr. Howe denied the charge.

He challenged Mr. Drew to stake his parliamentary seat on proving his charges, but opposition leader did not take up the challenge.

During the session, members considered 377 bills, including 294 divorce bills for Quebec and Newfoundland — the only two provinces without their own divorce courts.

New Social Program

The government's legislative program was highlighted by expansion of the social-security program.

Parliament passed a measure authorizing the federal government to share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of $40-a-month pensions to needy between 65 and 69. Another bill authorized the government to share on a 75-25 basis with the provinces the cost of similar pensions to needy blind persons 21 and over.

At the fall session, members will be asked to pass a bill providing for federal payment of $40-a-month pensions to all 70 and over regardless of means. The whole social security assistance program is scheduled to become effective Jan. 1 next. While making provision for the $400,000,000 pensions program, members also approved second peace-time defence expenditures of more than $1,600,000. A new department of defence production was established to handle a $1,000,000,000 defence production program for the next five years.

After authorizing the recruiting of a brigade for service in Korea last fall, parliament approved government plans to raise another brigade for service in Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Command.

The sum of $25,000,000 was voted as Canada's initial contribution to the Colombo plan to aid south and southeast Asia.

NEW MEMBER OF FAMILY

Santa Monica Calif., July 3 — (AP) — An eight-pound baby girl is the newest member in the family of actor Burt Lancaster. The child named Joanne Marie, was born to Mrs. Norma Lancaster yesterday. The couple has three other children. Lancaster wasn't here to hand out cigars. He's in Italy to start a new picture.

Calumet Flyer Could Handle Any Kind of Track

New York, July 2 — (AP) Hundreds of thousands of American racing spectators have seen Citation in action. The great Calumet flier could handle mud, slop, a fast track — any kind of track. If it was dusty, Citation stirred it up for the others behind him.

His two-year-old career indicated his impending greatness. His first major stakes of his three-year-old campaign was the $50,000 Flamingo, at Hialeah in February, 1948. After that one, there was no doubt who was going to win the Kentucky Derby and the other big sophomore classics.

In the fall of 1948, after a trip to Chicago, Citation made a farce of the $100,000 Jockey Club gold cup. Two years later he did the same in the $100,000 Empire City gold cup. He won the Jockey Club three days after his sensational Syosonby performance. In 18 days, Citation had won $182,000 for Calumet and millionaire owner Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

Racing commissioner hurriedly adopted rules giving tracks the power to declare win betting only when Citation runs in small fields, sometimes with stablemates. It was like money in the bank: bet Calumet to show, and collect at least five or 10 cents on the dollar. Many people were in on the occurrence.

Citation was backed down to 1 to 10 many times, and in his final race of 1948, was 1 to 20 for the Tanforan Handicap.

APPROVES CABINET

Luxembourg, July 3 — (AP) — Grand Duchess Charlotte yesterday approved a coalition cabinet organized by Pierre Dupong, premier-designate. The coalition, composed of Christian Democrats and Socialists, was set up after the June 3 election.

ALWAYS SCARED OF STALIN

Honolulu, June 3 — (AP) Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York arrived by plane tonight on his way to visit Japan and other Asiatic points. "Every time the Soviet Union starts a peace move, I get scared," he told a press conference of moves for a Korean cease-fire. "Every time Stalin smiles, I get scared."

Seven Dodgers Dominate National Loop's All-Stars

By JACK HAND

New York, July 3 — (AP) Seven-man gang from Brooklyn dominates the National League squad for the 18th all-star baseball game July 10 at Detroit.

Not found by the American League rule limiting selection of pitchers to one from each club, manager Eddie Sawyer named Preacher Roe and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn and Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen of New York to his eight-man staff.

Sawyer, manager of the pennant winning Phillies in 1950 and thus boss of the Nationals, picked 17 men today. The eight starters already were voted into the lineup by the fans.

Back of the "big four" from the leading Dodgers and runner-up Giants, Sawyer's staff includes his own Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn of Boston, Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati and Dutch Leonard of Chicago.

Backing combination of the Dodgers had a solid delegation by voting starting jobs to first baseman Gil Hodges, the home run sensation of the year; second baseman Jackie Robinson and catcher Roy Campanella.

Sawyer added Dodgers' Roe, Newcombe, shortstop Pee Wee Reese (named for the seventh time) and centre-fielder Duke Snider.

The squad:

HANDED OVER WEDNESDAY

Frankfurt, Germany, July 3 (Reuters) — Lieut. Luther Rolland, of Hummelstown, Pa., one of two jet pilots who handed 12 Czechoslovakia June 8, will be handed over to American authorities at the Czech-Austrian border tomorrow. The American High Commission did not say what will happening to the other pilot Bjorn. Johansen, a Norwegian, one of the trained by the United States Air Force in Germany. The Czechs promised to return the two jet planes to the American zone at American expense.

POLICE HOLDING DRIVER

Essex, Ont., July 2. (CP)—Police are holding Donald Lee Baldwin, 16, of Detroit, said to be driver of the station wagon in which 16-year-old Stewart Jenkins of Detroit, a passenger was killed when it was struck by a freight 24 miles east of Windsor Sunday.

The train struck the right rear portion of the station wagon, and pitched Jenkins into a patch of weeds about 30 feet from the point of impact. Jenkins had been riding in the back seat.

QUALITY FOODS SHOULD BE SERVED

Recently the managing director of the Canadian Restaurant Association told the convention of Canadian Dietetic Association that regional foods should be featured on Canadian menus. It was suggested that such items as honey, maple syrup, fresh apple pie, home-made sausages, Canadian bacon or other specialties of their districts be served.

This is a sensible suggestion, but we fear that the items listed except Canadian bacon are common items on lots of American restaurant and hotel menus. Actually there seems to be a dearth of genuine Canadian dishes and the only one we can think of is the habitant soup of Quebec. Canada has plenty of excellent quality food, which when properly prepared, is as good as can be found anywhere, but as for regional specialties we do not know where any can be had except maybe around Kitchener where German cooking is very good, indeed.

Those in the food business which cater to tourist trade should make sure that there is a good supply of fresh fish appetisingly cooked on their menus. We have heard complaints from Americans about the absence of fish on the menus and the poor quality of the cooking when it was served. Fish is a delicate-flavored food and requires the same conscientious preparation as does a good steak. There is also a reasonably good selection of fresh water varieties such as whitefish, lake trout and pickerel fillets, all of which give good results when properly grilled and served piping hot with lemon or lemon butter to enhance the flavor.

Properly cured Canadian bacon has a flavor unequalled by anything of the same thing generally served in the United States. Possibly it is because our hogs are fattened on grains other than corn. Corn, it is said, tends to develop a softer grade of meat. Whatever it is our bacon and ham act as the perfect complement for a brace of fried eggs in the morning and that starts the day off well for any tourist.

It is becoming a fairly common practice to serve fine, old Canadian cheese in dining rooms and we believe this is an excellent idea as long as the cheese is of good quality and not dried out. This food goes well with so many desserts that nearly everyone should have an opportunity to sample it with their meals, but let it be tangy and fairly soft.

As a final suggestion may we suggest that the coffee served should be freshly percolated and strong enough to satisfy the most discriminating person. Insipid coffee will spoil an otherwise good meal for many people to whom good coffee means more almost, that any other item on the menu. We recall being pleasantly surprised one morning in a hotel in Maryland by the waitress bringing in a fresh pot of coffee as soon as we sat down to breakfast. It was so much appreciated that we hope it will become a common custom eventually. A small thing, perhaps, but nice.

Thus it would seem, in the absence of genuine Canadian dishes, that if hotel and restaurant managements would concentrate on the proper preparation of the foods at hand without too much worry about specialties our guests and Canadians as well would be more than satisfied with what they receive. A good meal deftly served is one of the greatest good-will builders we know and serves as an unwritten invitation to return at the earliest opportunity.

STIFF SENTENCE GIVEN HIT-RUN DRIVER

(Kingston Gazette)

Penalties will merited by the circumstances and the seriousness of the offence were meted out in Ottawa recently to a Montreal man found guilty of being a hit-and-run driver — technically, failing to remain at the scene of an accident. The accused, Donat Parent, age 30, of Deputation Street, was fined $500 with the alternative of six months in jail in event of non-payment. In addition he had his driver's licence suspended for three years, such revocation being mandatory under the law on conviction for such an offence.

The evidence supporting the charge, to which Parent pleaded guilty, was particularly clear-cut and provided a glaring example of the type of conduct which the penalties stipulated by law are designed to punish and prevent. After striking down a civic worker with his car, Parent left the man unconscious and critically injured on the pavement and drove on.

Relatively stiff sentences such as this are fully warranted where hit-run convictions can be registered, which admittedly can be difficult at times because of the doubt raised by pleas of some accused that they did not know they had hit a pedestrian in the dark. It is to be hoped that, despite these difficulties, police authorities and the courts here will follow a similar course in apprehending, prosecuting and penalizing hit-run drivers who attempt to flee the consequences of careless or drunken driving.

HOME LOVER

At work in the evening whenever I may,
I notice him raking or cutting the grass
Or edging it neaty or using the hoe.
I'm sure that way a man's character shows.
To him I am willing to take off my hat.
There isn't much wrong with a fellow like that.

His shoes and his trousers are worn and wet,
But he is a man to be trusted,
I'd bet.
Whatever his faults, they are — not then in sight.

His love for his lawn shows his love for right.
Without such devotion the grass would fall flat,
So, there's a lot to agree with a fellow like that.

I don't know his name or his work through the day,
But his lawn and his garden
his courage display.
I'd guess that his neighbors on him can depend
And are proud and are glad to have him for a friend.
For him the word "welcome" is always spoken.
There can't be much wrong
with a fellow like that.

The day bridge was formally declared free on the morning of June 30th, when a large crowd was present and it was a great day for the people of Belleville and Prince Edward County. The speakers were Mayor Gerow, Hon. Nelson Parliament and Hon. Manning Pringle, Provincial Engineer. At the close of the speeches the toll board was placed in the centre of the bridge by the Hon. Nelson Parliament, having in a short understanding some of the city aldermen and the president and secretary of the Board of Trade in his Commerce were held up with their arms on the toll arm of the bridge and did not reach the toll house in time for the speeches. The first car to drive over the bridge after it was declared free was occupied by Lieut. Col. Wilson, Major R. D. Ponton, Mr. F. R. Wotten, and Mr. C. Skinner. The last motor vehicle upon which toll was paid was driven by Mr. T. C. Thompson, baker of Rossmore. The last nickle paid by a pedestrian was collected from Mr. A. E. Phillips of Ameliasburg township. It is understood that the Fox at Ameliasburg will be the superintendent of the free bridge. The erection of the superstructure of the bridge was commenced on Nov. 10th, 1920 and was completed on April 16th, 1921. From that time until yesterday, perfiled toll was paid by all who passed over the bridge.

The new pastor of Holloway Street Methodist Church, the Rev. R. Real, preached his first sermon here on Sunday.

Mr. Arthur Rodbourne of this city while spending Dominion Day in Shannonville, N.Y. was watching people bathing in the Genesee River, when he noticed two young men collide when diving, their heads coming together with such force that they were stunned and both went down, one came up and was able to get to shore, but the other did not come up. Mr. Rodbourne immediately jumped into the water and by diving was able to bring the young man to the surface and eventually to shore, where he was soon revived. Mr. Rodbourne's prompt action was highly commended by those who witnessed his heroic action.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In some hospitals, an orderly has the privilege of being newsboy, to carry the newspapers through the corridors, distributing them from room to room. In others, they even allow a regular newsie to do the wholesome trade. In either case, nobody is more welcome to the weary and impatient patient. He's usually a nurse with absolutely nothing in her hands. Not even family or friends.

A newspaper spread out before the eyes of the patient opens vistas, for a little while, the reality, the familiarity of normal life. A book fails to do that. In some measure, even magazines can't. But the one feature of the big six monthly publication devoted wholly to women's interests entitled them to at least an honorable mention alongside the dailies. And that is the food illustrations, in color. A lady of my acquaintance was slowly recovering from a serious operation. The problem facing her, and her doctor, and her nurses was—how to make her eat. She was at the stage where she felt she would never eat again. Then one afternoon, while lopsidedly leafing through the books and magazines her family had brought her, awaiting the arrival of the hospital orderly with an armful of papers, she came upon one of those full pages these magazines devote to the preparation of food. This was all about fruit salads. There were dishes of every conceivable combination of grapefruit, lettuce, oranges, cherries, romaine lettuce, cucumbers, bananas, peach preserves—and that magic instant, appetite returned. She demanded fruit salad. She had not had fruit for the first rung of convalescence.

On the other hand, these color layouts of food must cause a great deal of marital unhappiness. A healthy man gets hold of one of these displays, and then looks at what his wife has laid out for supper. Maybe W. Ia. is what the American divorce mills call mental cruelty.

Letter to the Editor

Greater Production, Co-operation Needed

Editor: Ontario Intelligencer
Dear Sir:

The March first edition of the Toronto Globe and Mail carried a letter of mine under the heading "Control Breeding Stock Slaughter."

In that letter I tried to point out that we as producers of live stock in Canada were pursuing a short-sighted policy, and that the high prices being paid for veal was responsible for slaughter of over 75% of our entire calf crop. I suggested legislation to control the slaughter of baby calves to such an extent and until such time as proper balance in production had been reached, otherwise we would be faced with a serious beef shortage, plus a vast acreage of land lying in cultivation. Today, three months hence, nothing has been done and now in addition to short supply we have a black market in operation, which, in my opinion, will further speed our beef supply plus all the attendant disadvantages.

Today, in the daily press about the Restaurant Association members and housewives in the U.S. are being urged, in order to refuse to buy meats, in other words a strike against producers to force an intimate dealer. This drastic action is not democratic and will not solve our shortage of beef or inflation problem, it is not productive and inadequate, production is the only answer. Essential to bring desired result. At present in Canada, slaughter of all classes of cattle is at an all-time low, and consumer demand has risen in the country's population, is increasing rapidly, (nearly a million since the last census was taken).

On June 1st, 1945, the cattle population in Canada was approximately 10,750,000 head as compared with a like survey taken on June 1st. last year, when there was less than 9,000,000 head. These figures show that we have sent to market all the natural annual increase plus what amounted to a 20% liquidation of another 23% of our 1945 total cattle population. If this trend is allowed to continue it can mean rough times ahead, since the present number is not where these vast numbers of our cattle were disposed of.

Of the above following figures, taken from the Feb.-March 1951 letter dealing with Canadian cattle slaughter and published by the Industrial Council of Canadian Meat Packers. That letter tells us that during the year 1950, 1,137,000 cattle were slaughtered in registered plants in Canada for immediate consumption, and that during the first half of our best live cattle were exported to U. S. I submit had it not been for the large export of our best cattle the beef available for Canadian consumption would have been up to, and would have been ample to supply our own needs and left a surplus of two million people (all meat consumers). These figures prove that Canada is not a beef cattle country, but mainly a dairy country producing milk for manufacturing purposes, and is not capable of supplying any surplus of beef.

Today because of price roll back and control and shortages in the U.S. the U. S. the meat market values of our two nations are completely out of line. It calls for should be coming to Canada thus giving the Canadian consumer a better advantage to say such is not the case. U. S. buyers are still in our markets, buying everything in sight. They now slaughter these cattle in Canada and take the excess beef across the line retailing it at a price much higher than their own U.S. cattle ceiling prices warrant under roll back price control law. As I read recently, there has been a recent provision written into the "Trades Agreement Act of the U.S. regarding how agricultural products may be imported only if there is a shortage in the domestic support price, thus it permits these black market operations to import. Agricultural products such as beef by the carcass.

This seems a strange brand of co-operation since it benefits but a few at the expense of the consumers of both nations. They in the U. S. thought it advisable in this emergency to institute a system of controls, the primary purpose was to prevent inflation in essential goods. Today they have their so called control laws, but with a black market operation of them. Why partial enforcement you ask? The answer is, we have not yet had the benefit of co-operation from their own people, but I believe eventually we will see the fullest national and international co-operation will insure successful enforcement.

I will hazard a guess that if the traffic in cattle is allowed to continue between Canada and the U. S. consumers in Canada will be penalised further and further. Let us hope that the U. S. will co-operate and tighten the law respecting importation, which is a must if their control laws are ever made to work.

It should not be untimely to inquire of the cattlemen and farmers of the U. S. why they have been so reluctant to support or second the agricultural products law covering beef carcass importation, and to leave their own market for themselves, such action would be more logical than their present pressure propaganda of trying to destroy the controls which have been instituted to protect all classes of the American people including Canadian consumers.

Communists May Try to Delay Cease-Fire Talks

Washington, July 3. (AP)—The communists in Korea probably will use any delay in the start of cease-fire talks to strengthen their military hand for the bigger political game to follow.

This is the view of competent officials here, who offered these possible explanations for the communist proposal to wait until July 10 or 15 to open formal negotiations:

1. The United Nations terms for an armistice are believed to demand a halt on the movement of any reinforcements into Korea until the military truce gives way to an over-all settlement.

2. The Chinese reds now are moving fresh and probably better-equipped troops into Korea to replace at least some of the 501,460 men they are estimated to have lost there.

3. Chinese communist forces will probably refuse to leave North Korea until their North associates if the armistice ends and so located as to counterbalance the South Korean force which would remain in Korea after the allied armies withdrew following a general peace settlement.

Early today Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander, notified the communist commanders by radio that he was prepared to meet them tomorrow to meet them between July 10 and 15 "to discuss matters of cessation of saving lives, that preliminary talks begin by July 5.

Peiping radio has said the U.N. command is alert to the possibility the reds are stalling for time in order to prepare a new fresh onslaught. Most officials believe, however, that the Chinese will live up to any strictly military agreement.

U.S. army officers explained that the known weakness of Chinese communist transportation facilities may be a factor in the red desire for delay in starting the armistice talks.

Heavy Agenda Facing Members At Fall Session

Ottawa, July 3. (CP)—Canada's legislators, after their five-month session behind them, already have their work cut out when parliament meets again in the fall.

The government already has indicated the major legislation to be placed before the autumn session, including the proposed new universal old-age pensions and to implement recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

There also likely will be measures to put into law some of the recommendations of the royal commissions on arts, letters and sciences, particularly those affecting broadcasting and federal aid to universities. The government took interim action in these fields before parliament rose last Saturday.

Much of the program will be disclosed in the Speech from the Throne to be read when the new session opens. The Throne Speech tradition is that enough work will be provided to keep the commons busy from January to shortly before Christmas.

Four new members—all Progressive Conservatives—will take their seats Oct. 9. They are the victors at the hands by-elections in Hamilton East and two others from the Liberals.

Some changes are expected in their ridings are. Howie Meeker, 26, representing Waterloo South; Jack Macdonald, Queens; Gordon Churchill, 52, Winnipeg South Centre, and Walter Dinsdale, 35, Brandon.

The latest commons standing is:

Liberals 185; Progressive Conservatives 50; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent-Liberal four; Independent four; vacant none; total 262.

Personal Health Talks

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, I Articulation to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

STEP OUT, DON'T SAUNTER

If it's a pickup you are after, perhaps sauntering will best advertise the fact. If health is your object, then by all means step out.

If you have ever walked any distance with a decrepit, infirm or very feeble person you know how much more tiring it is than a much longer walk would be if you could step briskly along. It is not necessary to make extraordinary speed in order to get the full health benefit of walking. A straight walk over a clear course should cover a mile in 15 to 18 minutes. This is seldom possible in cities where there are frequent slowdowns or momentary stops for traffic etc.

Occupations that require long hours of standing afford little exertion to work full force without the counteraction of self-massage of the legs by the rhythmic contraction of the muscles in walking, which normally pumps the blood in the veins toward the heart, the valves in the veins allowing blood to flow upward only.

From prolonged standing without such rhythmic contractions of the muscles, a trick one must learn to do every few minutes while standing, the veins in the legs become distended from the constant pressure of the column of blood above them. Besides this distention becomes too great the valves in the veins become incompetent and the extremities are blood from flowing back. That causes varicose veins.

If the walk is listless enough there may be insufficient contraction of the thigh muscles to counteract this effect of gravitation, so the walker finishes the walk more fatigued than before, instead of refreshed.

Oxygen. Oxygen on the hoof. Walking increases the absorption of oxygen, prevents or cures many complaints due to subnormal ration, anoxia. Walking at the rate of 3½ miles an hour (a mile in 17 minutes) at a brisk pace increases the oxygen intake to nearly four times the resting rate.

It's expensive walking. Most people can't afford it. The time, I mean.

But if it is at all possible to take two miles of oxygen on the hoof once a day, say going to work in the morning and coming home in the evening, there's no other health builder to compare with it, especially for the sedentary or white collar worker.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
It Is Not So Easy

One reason why we enjoy your articles is that you have the gift of expressing things in language a layman can understand. Then too, we admire your forthright style. (Mrs. W. C., Ont.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. It's not gifts, but an art acquired by long study. When I think I'm doing pretty well at it I generally get from some reader who has the goods on me.

Importance of Milk

I know that babies and growing children require milk to maintain health and growth, but how about mature adults? How important is milk in the diet of mature or elderly people? (Mrs. G. J. N.)

Answer—In my opinion every adult should consume at least a pint (two glasses) of milk, better three or four glasses every day. For one thing it is the best source of calcium, and calcium deficiency is the cause of many complaints of middle aged and elderly adults. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks.

Children Who Smoke

Several times I have caught my 13 year old daughter smoking cigarettes. When I try to explain to her that they are injurious to her health she says all her friends smoke. (Mrs. H. L.)

Answer—Ask her to take the pledge not to use alcohol or tobacco before she is 21.

VICES—OLD AND NEW

Each generation has its own particular vices. If we look at some of the past centuries, such as the 13th, the 16th and the 19th and see in them certain characteristics that we can easily label, we get a clear picture of the world as it was.

We study the possibility of death confronting people during the 14th century. Most of us, then, we wonder how any human being can ever reach middle age. Yet the overwhelming majority of people do live. Somehow, under the grace of God, we shall be able to muddle through—that is, if we can make clear to our minds what the peculiar vices are by which we and our generation are being ruined and fight those things in season and out of season.

Finally we are ruining our souls by getting used to killing people in wholesale lots.

Add to all these special twentieth century vice we have the old vices which eat away at the hearts of men and women to-day precisely as they have through the ages.

Let's review the possibility of death confronting people during the 14th century. Most of us, then, we wonder how any human being can ever reach middle age. Yet the overwhelming majority of people do live. Somehow, under the grace of God, we shall be able to muddle through—that is, if we can make clear to our minds what the peculiar vices are by which we and our generation are being ruined and fight those things in season and out of season.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GIVER

I recently read in my newspaper of the meeting of two men who had adjoining beds in a large hospital. One was a young British seaman and and an-boxer; the other was a man of middle age, who had been blind for five years. The boxer had damaged his eye in an accident, but the eyesight could be saved. He offered it to his bedside comrade, who soon saw with both eyes as well.

When out of the hospital these two merchant marines became "sight seeing" together. I can imagine the gratitude of the one blinded person to the "boy" he could see for. Baker, the late New York banker-statesman, died when he saw it finished and noted the boys in its very arms, he went home and left a bequest of a million dollars to add to its endowment.

ELEVATED TO CHANCELLOR

Topeka, Kas., July 3 — (AP)— Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, 35-year-old Dean of the University of Kansas medical school yesterday was elevated to Chancellor of the University. He succeeds Dean W. J. Bleeker who resigned earlier this year to become president of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

BEE NIPS DRIVER

East Greenush, N. Y., July 3 — (AP) — A bee flew through into an automobile last night and nipped the driver's face. The sting set off a series of violent accidents that included a car hitting a parked truck, a car overturning and a car striking a pedestrian.

I often think of a very rich New York man whose wealth was wiped out a few years ago by the so-called depression, but all his life this man has taken an interest in others, and so established a youthful training school that gave instruction to thousands. Finally he sold his magnificent estate and settled in moderate circumstances. Some remarked that he felt richer than ever, for he kept thinking of the usefulness of the thousands he had helped in better days, which continued to train men for their place in the world.

often think of this great work of art in connection with an etching that hangs in a home that I have by Mary Cassatt, wodderful mother and child artist. The Thinker by Rodin is another picture in my mind what each sent out to the world—the wonderful givers—the gift of love.

The giver is always giving something beside the mere material thing offered. He is giving something of himself. That is why the receiver of anything given is only secondary to the giver. Some years ago I went to visit that beautiful Baker Library at Dartmouth College without knowing that it was given by Mr. Baker, the late New York banker-statesman. I was there when he saw it finished and noted the boys in its very arms, he went home and left a bequest of a million dollars to add to its endowment!

Paul Rodin bronze "The Thinker" that is so familiar to thousands though they may never have seen the original has its counterpart in Oakland. There is one in San Francisco's fine park, and there at the entrance to the beautiful Cleveland, Ohio, Library. I

LATTA

Latta—The W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Garnet Denyes on Wednesday afternoon. There was a large gathering.

The musical concert was a great success. The proceeds were to help buy a power mower for the cemetery at Plainfield. It is hoped to get replies from the letters which have been mailed to about 40 homes who have relatives buried there, and be able to have the bee soon and get the grass cut first with mowers as it is rich land and grass grows so fast. More money is needed, perseverance will be maintained until the objective is reached.

WEDDINGS

SIMMONS—KRUEGER

Madonna lilies, pink roses, ferns and flickering tapers at the altar of Devine Street United Church, Sarnia, formed the sacred setting on Saturday, June 30, for the wedding ceremony when Nola Ileen, daughter of Mrs. Krueger, of Zurick, and the late E. G. Krueger, became the bride of Hugh Browne Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Simmons of Frankford.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. A. B. Irwin, officiated. Mr. Haydn Weston, of Sarnia, played the bridal music and accompanied the soloist Miss Ruth Brownlee as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father-in-law, Mr. E. C. Holden, of Prospect Hill, and was given in marriage at the altar by her mother. The bride was lovely in an ankle length gown of white Venise bridal-rose lace over satin, fashioned on princess lines with exaggerated fullness in the skirt. The lacy scalloped cap sleeves were accented by a deep V neckline, tufted standup collar and lacy-cuffed nylon net gloves. A bonnet veil with of illusion net with satin braid held the bridal veil which fell gracefully over the shoulders. She carried a rosary of red roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Ralph Krueger, the bridal attendant, was gowned in maiden's blush nylon marquisette over taffeta; tiny organdy flowers, each centred with a brilliant ornamented the bodice of her dress and pink daisies with yellow centres adorned her lace-trimmed picture hat. She carried a matching nosegay of pink daisies.

Mr. Ralph Krueger, of Hyde Park, brother of the bride was groomsman, Mr. Mel Stewart, of Sarnia, and Mr. Tim Burgess, of Lambeth, were ushers.

The post-nuptial reception was held in the church parlors. The ladies of the church choir, of which the bride was formerly a member, catered to the wedding supper.

For travel, the bride chose a dainty printed nylon frock with white accessories and wore a corsage of fuchsia sweetpeas and a matching spray on her hat. Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to Ottawa, Rochester and the eastern seaboard the young couple will reside in Trenton.

GREATRIX—BEAUDRIE

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, June 27, at 2:30 p.m., at the Bancroft parsonage.

In the presence of the immediate relatives Miss Elizabeth Jean Beaudrie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Beaudrie, of Greenview, became the bride of Lloyd Franklin Greatrix, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie L. Greatrix, Belleville. The Rev. Simon Brownson officiated, assisted by Rev. Stanley Beasley, of Newfoundland.

The bridal group took their place under an arch of bells and ribbons surrounded by baskets of orange blossoms and peonies to the strains of the Wedding March, played by Mrs. Maxwell Reynolds.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a handsome gown of white slipper satin and lace, featuring molded bodice, buttoned down the back with scalloped lace-trimmed shoulder line ,tiny reed pearls and rhinestone accentuating each scallop division and nylon yoke. The sleeves were tight fitting ending in points over the wrists with lace trim. The full billowy skirt fell in graceful folds and the hemline was caught up in cascades by satin ribbon. The Chantilly-edged fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Janette Beaudrie was bridesmaid for her sister and looked charming in deep yellow taffeta and carried a bouquet of Queen Elizabeth roses.

Mr. Kenneth Stapley, of Belleville, attended the groom.

After the wedding a reception was held at the bride's home which was beautifully decorated with pink and white wedding bells and streamers and an abundance of summer flowers.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing powder blue crepe and a corsage of cream roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore printed silk and a corsage of pink roses.

Later a larger group of friends and relatives gathered to welcome the young couple and to shower them with gifts and good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Greatrix left later for a motor trip through Northern Ontario. On their return they will reside on the 2nd of Thurlow in the brick house which the groom's grandfather built nearly 70 years ago.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cnest of silver.

Right — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Alexander. The bride is the former Miss Marjory Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Webb of Trenton. The marriage took place on June 16, 1951, at St. George's Anglican Church in Trenton.

Fashion Flashes

STEALING the show from the bride at a recent wedding was the little flower girl in a floor-length gown of teal blue silk taffeta with tiny bright yellow velvet bows on the tiered sleeves and high-fitting neckline.

EASY to wear and care for is a new series of house clothes. White cloque pique makes a sleeveless breakfast coat styled like a beach dress, with a halter neckline and an easy-to-wear, and easy-to-iron side wrap closing.

ESTABLISHED by now as major late spring and summer choice is the dark velvet hat. Navy or black velvet is used for a level platean hat that juts out a little over the forehead and dips a little at the sides. Heavy white Venise lace is appliqued in a flower pattern at each side, and there is a heavy velvet cord bow in back.

ALMOST indispensable to the woman with a full social calendar is the well-tailored silk suit. Navy silk surah, with a widely spaced matelassée print in white, is used for a deftly fashioned suit. The collar and revers of the jacket, which is skeleton lined, are piped with narrow navy velvet, as are the slit, turned-back cuffs on the three-quarters sleeves. Skirt is pencil-slim.

GOOD companion for the traveler is the topper and skirt costume, each good on its own, and a smart suit when worn together. Lightweight basket-weave woollen in eggshell-beige, is used for a topper with raglan shoulders sloping into sleeves that are attached to the body of the coat down to the elbow-high cuffs that may be unbuttoned to bracelet length. Skirt is slim.

THERE'S a glow from pink that makes it an ideal millinery color. Pink straw makes a forward-line coif bonnet, frimmed at either side with a wide arrangement of tiny rosebud clusters. Fine, starched net veiling comes just to the eyeline.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

Brown gravy is not always brown.

Too often it is a pale yellow or dull tan or just white with flecks of charred vegetables.

A gravy turns brown when it is cooked with browned meat, browned bones or vegetables which impart their color to the liquid used for the gravy. If the gravy does not turn a deep appetizing brown, it is a good idea to add a small amount of gravy color for the sake of eye appeal. In restaurants carmelized sugar is sometimes used for this purpose. When used excessively, however, it gives the gravy a bitter flavor.

If lamb for pot roast is browned in the oven, rather than in a frying pan with hot fat, it will have the rich flavor of a roast and will impart this flavor to the gravy. Follow this procedure when making a lamb pot roast in a brown gravy seasoned with caraway seeds.

Lamb Pot Roast, Caraway Sauce
Serves 5-6

3 lbs. boned shoulder of lamb
Salt—pepper
2 tablespoons vegetable fat
1 onion sliced
1 carrot sliced
1 niece of celery sliced
2 sprigs of parsley
1-2 teaspoon leaf thyme
2 tablespoons flour
1 can undiluted consomme
1-2 cup water
2 teaspoons caraway seeds

Have the butcher bone and tie the meat as for roasting. Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put the meat in an uncovered pan in a hot oven 450 degrees. Let meat remain in oven until brown.

While the meat is browning melt the vegetable fat in a large saucepot or Dutch oven. Add the onion, carrot, celery, parsley and thyme.

Saute the vegetables until light brown. Do not scorch. Sprinkle the flour over the vegetables Mix well.

Put the browned meat in the pot. Add the consomme, water and caraway seeds. Cover the pot. Simmer over a slow fire for 1 1-2 to 2 hours or until meat is tender.

Gravy should be about 1 cup of liquid left in pot. If more has evaporated, add hot water to make 1 cup. Skim fat from gravy. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add brown gravy color if necessary. Strain gravy. Pour over sliced meat on serving plates.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A "terrible mistake" threatens their happiness

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About eight months ago, I met Larry and fell in love with him. I am 16 and he is 19, and he loves me, too. We were planning our savings so that we could get married in a couple of years.

But, somehow, we forgot to think of the future and we made a horrible mistake. Now I am going to have a baby. We regret this mistake very much, but we still love each other.

We would like to get married right away, but we do not have enough money and it would be awfully hard going. We have not told our parents yet, because both his people and mine are wonderful to us and would never dream anything like this could happen.

Do you think we should get married right away and try to make a go of it, or is there some other advice you can give us?

Lois and Harry

Dear Lois and Larry:

You have asked me a question that is very difficult indeed to answer. There is a great deal to be said both for and against your plans now.

A girl of 16 can be married with her parents' consent and so can a boy under 21. If your love is one that you are fully convinced nothing can ever change, but that you're sure will only increase with the years, marriage now would be your best solution even though, as you say, the going would be awfully hard for a while.

On the other hand, for a boy of 19 who has little money to take on the responsibility of a wife and baby, and for a 16-year-old girl to assume her part in the responsibility could be very hazardous.

What I think you should do is to confide in your parents without further delay, and ask them to help you make the decision. If they are as wonderful as you say, I am sure they would far rather you took them into your confidence, even though the truth will hurt them, than hurt them worse by doing anything else.

A 17-year-old wife is ready to call marriage off

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 17 years old and married. I love my husband very much, but we have separated because he loves his mother and sister too much. He spends all his time and money on them and neither time nor money on me. He was always trying to move me in with his family, but I thought we ought to have our own home.

I'm afraid he will never change, so do you think I should divorce him and just charge it all up to experience?

Mrs. J. M.

Dear Mrs. J. M.:

Evidently your husband is far too immature for marriage, and I'm afraid I am inclined to agree with you that the chances of his changing his ways now are very slim. It would be possible for him to do it, of course, but he would first have to want to himself very much and second, get psychological help from someone who could show him how to change himself.

Incidentally, I am not quite sure how mature you are yourself, since you seem to have quite a casual, carefree attitude toward terminating your marriage.

I agree with you that young married people should have their own home and not double up on housekeeping with the family of either if it can possibly be avoided.

If there is anyone in either of your families who could influence your husband, I suggest you discuss the problem with that person. My own feeling would be that if there is any way in which your husband can be persuaded to take a more responsible attitude toward his marriage, it would be worthwhile for you both to make another try before just charging it up to experience."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Take a backward look, lady.

In the gold old summer time, when everybody is in the swim, backs are out in the open. In the winter season, bare backs are displayed by pretty ones who wear formals that are held up by nothing at all, much to the puzzlement, of sometimes observers who wonder how the trick is accomplished. It stands to reason, then, that a woman should be familiar with the appearance of her back. Unless she uses a double mirror she won't know a thing about it. And backs have their beauty defects.

It is not unusual for blackheads to for: on the shoulders. They can come from the friction of fabrics that are harsh—like taffetas and heavy linens. Something must be done about blackheads; they are favorite tenements for bacteria and can result in acne. The remedy, of course, is thick, rich soap suds scrubbed into the flesh with a stiff brush.

A long-handled bath brush should be part of every woman's pulchritude equipment. If it does not dislodge the black points, mother or sister should rush to the rescue and have the skin lightly with rubbing alcohol, which goes into the pores and dissolves the waxlike contents.

In addition to a smooth, white skin surface the back should have just enough adipose tissue, and no more. Skinny backs and fat ones are equally deplored by those who have them.

When we speak of a beautiful body—of lovely shoulders, and of the splendid manner in which the head is carried—we do not realize that all this and more is dependent upon the spinal column. Body balance is maintained by a straight back, the symmetry of which is not only attractive in itself, but affects all parts of the body.

Let the spinal column relax and the shoulders drop forward. That means that a little shelf will appear south of the belt line; the figure will lose snap. You are supposed to stand and sit on your bones. They never tire as do muscles that are not working together harmoniously.

With strong back muscles, a woman is likely to have a graceful silhouette. That is one reason why career girls should make an effort to have a certain amount of outdoor life. The girl who sits at a desk all day or thumps a typewriter, and the saleswoman who stands a large part of the time, are likely to assume faulty posture along toward the end of the day. This must be avoided, not only for the sake of the body culture, but because relaxed fibres invite fat cells to take up residence.

Many Unusual Facts About Birds Revealed in Book by Canadian Author

(Written for The Canadian Press)
By PERCY GHENT

Canada's ruby-throated hummingbirds who breed as far west as Alberta and fly to summer quarters as far west as Alberta and fly to winter quarters as far south as Panama, have wing-beats averaging 50 to the second, special motion-picture studies reveal.

How those tiny engines can keep going on the long, migratory flights is a mystery. A tradition has grown that hummingbirds hitch-hike on the backs of big birds like the Canada Goose. But we are not to believe the myths about hitch-hiking hummers. Says Lester L. Snyder in his new book, "Ontario Birds," (Clarke-Irwin). They use their own steam.

Nevertheless, there's a delightful drawing by the Canadian bird artist, Terence M. Shortt — one of 146 in the book — showing that water bird the pied-billed grebe, with one of her chicks hitch-hiking a sail on her ma's back.

Covers 300 Species

There are 650 species of birds in North America and more than that number of sub-species. There are well over 300 species in Ontario alone and Mr. Snyder has something to say about them all and in a charming way. His research during a lifetime of service as curator of ornithology at the Royal Ontario Musum gives his book the stamp of authority and it will find readers and admirers far beyond the provincial field.

Written essay style, there isn't a page without its happy touch concerning flight, song or nesting habit of the bird discussed. And it is strictly up-to-date.

For instance: "Recently the winter home of the chimney swift was discovered. It is along one of the upper branches of the Amazon River in Peru. After years of speculation and search 13 birds with bands placed on them in North America were secured in the area mentioned . . . It is of special interest that one of the birds had been banded at Kingston, Ont., in May 1940."

GOOD MANNERS

(By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman)

Details for menu for large luncheon should be thoughtfully considered

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you approve of this menu for a luncheon that we are giving for about sixty women: delegates—tomato juice, chicken salad, with assorted sandwiches, apple pie and ice cream, for dessert? Or, instead of pie and the ice cream for dessert, could we serve cake and small cookies with the ice cream? Should we serve tea or coffee, or both? (The luncheon is to be served at small tables for four.) —H.T.

I think that with just a few changes you could improve this menu, even taking into account the doubtless limited space and service you probably have to reckon with. In the first place, even if the day is extremely hot, you should plan to add some items that take away the chill from this menu. For example, instead of serving assorted sandwiches with the chicken salad, serve small hot rolls and/or small biscuit. (These might be a local specialty). . . should be opened, buttered, and heated, and the supply kept heated in the oven or in some kind of warmer. Easy, too, as addition, is heating a loaf of French bread, or any small crusty loaf: make cuts every inch or two inches half through the loaf; butter each incision, and heat in slow oven, 325 degrees F., for about 20 minutes. Also, if you're daring, insert a very slim slice of garlic with the butter in each incision. (Incidentally, be sure that the crackers served with the tomato juice are really heated.) Also, for a warmth-detail, serve hot, not coffee with the salad, or, if convenient, offer a choice of coffee or tea. If possible, have a buffet table or large tea table set with equipment for serving coffee and tea, with co-hostesses stationed there.

And that dessert contemplated . . . please don't, for it is lacking in imagination, even though not in calories! Serve ice cream, which I am sure it will be the convenient procedure for this menu, with the cake, with it, not-very-sweet small cakes and/or cookies. . . and, if you can manage it, perhaps pass a hot sauce, for example, an apricot sauce, for the ice cream; or serve crushed fresh berries with the ice cream.

How to urge the groom's parents to make their list of wedding guests

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My family and I are so confused concerning one plan for my wedding. We asked my fiance's parents for a list of their guests, but they said that they are not entitled to invite guests. I have heard of some who think that I would like your opinion, please, concerning this.—Puzzled.

I never heard of such a thing either. . . and I believe there must be some confusion of terms". For example, could it perhaps be that by "not entitled to invite guests" they mean that your parents, not they, properly do the inviting? In other words, perhaps they didn't thoroughly understand about their responsibility to submit a list, but thought you were asking them to do the inviting? However, you can clear up this or any misunderstanding by asking your fiance if he and his parents will please make their list of the names and addresses of guests as soon as possible, so that you can get the invitation-envelopes addressed. (As a matter of fact, he and his parents might well consult together about this list.) To add emphasis to your request for the list . . you might at the same time ask them to list the names and addresses of the four nearest close relatives whom they wish to have seated in the front pews (the very first pew is of course to be occupied by the groom's parents) on "the groom's side of the church," the right of the aisle.

Homer in Tenth Breaks up Tense Pitching Duel

Don Goyer's homer in the 10th inning broke up a 1-1 tie and gave Howe and Hagerman a 2-1 victory over Glen Roy Athletic club for their second win over the league leaders in their last two meetings.

Up to the 10th it had been a tight a battle as any seen in the Commercial League this year. Don Boyle, Lem Carson turned in magnificent performances on the mound with Carson having the edge.

The field was not conducive to the best kind of defensive game but some extra work in the afternoon plus two loads of sand made a big difference. Stellar defence by both teams was marred by only one error, a bad throw by Boyle to first base on Carson's bunt. However, it did not figure in the scoring.

Glen Roy escaped unscathed from a threatening Howe and Hagerman rally in the first inning to score their lone run in the third for the first tally in the game. With two out, pitcher Boyle walked. Rowebotham singled him to second. An error at first put Tuman aboard to load the bases with Boyle stretching things as he stole home from third. He slid in under the throw for his team's only run.

Leo Goyer tripled in the fourth with one away, and then after Locke had fouled out to third base, Harry Wardhaugh slashed a clean single through short to plate Goyer.

Howe and Hagerman provided the only threatening rally from that point on when Don Adams and Jack Wardhaugh singled and doubled in the seventh with two away but they were unable to score.

Goyer's blast in the top of the 10th settled the issue as the Glen Roy squad were unable to do anything with Carson's delivery in the bottom of the 10th.

Carson went all the way on the hill for Howe and Hagerman pitching superb ball as he walked but one, struck out three, and scattered four singles.

Don Boyle was the loser in a rout-going job for Glen Roy. He walked four, struck out three, and gave up eight hits.

Two Border Loop Clubs Want To Leave League

New York, July 3 — (AP) — Watertown and Auburn announced Sunday their withdrawal from the class-C Border League and applied for admission to the Canadian - American circuit, also a class-C organization.

This action touched off a dispute that will have to be settled by George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues.

The point at issue is whether Watertown and Auburn have the right to withdraw from the Border League and enter the Canadian-American. Such action would leave the Border League with only two teams.

Details of the minor league scarf were disclosed following separate meetings of the two leagues. Canadian - American officials and club owners met at Amsterdam. The Border League met at Watertown.

Following the Canadian - American meeting, President Albert E. Houghton said Watertown and Auburn had applied for admission to the six-team circuit.

Meantime, in Watertown, the two border team voted to disband the league as of Sunday. They were opposed by the other two members of the league, Ogdensburg and Kingston, Ont.

The former six-team league was reduced to four when Geneva and Cornwall, Ont., quit the league last Tuesday because of financial difficulties.

Johnny Hetki On Road Back To Major Leagues

(By The Associated Press)

Johnny Hetki, '28 - year - old righthander of Toronto Maple Leafs, is on the road back to the major leagues.

Hetki, a so-so pitcher when with Cincinnati Reds, is the International League's top winner.

The veteran has compiled an impressive 11-3 record for the Leafs, in fifth place, 17 games behind the league - leading Montreal Royals.

Hetki won only 11 in little more than three seasons with the Reds beginning in 1945. He stands a good chance of winding up with St. Louis Browns' who have a working agreement with the Leafs.

Johnny posted his 11th victory yesterday as the Leafs swept a double-header from Springfield Cubs 7-3 and 4-2. He stopped the Cubs on eight hits in the first game. The Leafs snapped a 2-2 tie with two runs in the seventh and clinched it with three more in the eighth.

Bobby Shawn, who doubled home the tie-breaking run in the second game with a three-run, two-out homer in the last inning.

Montreal split a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs winning the opener 1-0 but losing the nightcap 4-0.

Bob Alexander blanked the Chiefs on four hits to gain his 8th victory. Bobby Morgan drove in the lone run with a fly in the 4th. Dick Libby, making his first start, blanked the Royals on three safeties in tie nightcap. The split enabled the Royals to maintain their nine-game lead.

Buffalo Bisons took a twin bill from the Ottawa Giants 2-1 in 11 innings and 5-3. Bob Wellman doubled home both runs in the first game, Archie Wilson socked a three-run homer, his 17th, in the fourth inning to launch the Bisons' drive in the nightcap.

Ed Mierkowicz' eighth-inning homer enabled Rochester Red Wings to edge Baltimore Orioles 5-4. Lou Ortiz also homered for the Wings.

Former Hurling Star, Hugh Casey, Takes Own Life

Atlanta, Ga., July 3 — (AP) — Hugh Casey, former major league pitching star, committed suicide in a hotel here early today, police reported.

Police said Casey's body was found with a .16-gauge shotgun wound through the neck.

Police said ill health was the apparent cause that led the great relief pitcher of Brooklyn Dodgers to take his own life. Casey was known to have been in poor health for some time.

Casey was talking by phone to his wife in their Atlanta home he fired the blast that took his life, police said.

Wife Heard Blast

Mrs. Casey told officers she heard the blast that took her husband's life.

Fleming quoted a bell boy at the hotel, where the former mound star registered last week, as saying Casey told him Saturday that his physician had given him only about 10 days to live because of a heart ailment.

Gordon McNabb, a friend, told police Casey telephoned him shortly after midnight and said he planned to kill himself. McNabb, police said, sought to dissuade Casey, then hurried to the hotel.

When McNabb was about 30 feet from the door to Casey's room he heard the blast. McNabb said Casey had made similar threats for the last three days.

Morris Button, Mrs. A. Lloyd Win Trophy

Lawn bowling is a peculiar and fascinating game. It is not always the professional bowler who wins the big prizes at the local tourneys and this was ably attested to on Dominion Day at the local greens when a comparative new bowler and his partner won the top prize in the mixed doubles and the New Queen's Hotel trophy. Morris Button, and Mrs. Addison Lloyd won the three-game high and first prize when they took on three of the best mixed doubles on the lawn and showed them the way home in each game.

The Tip Top trophy, secondary feature of the tournament was won by Mr. and Mrs. Morley Gault, always welcome visitor at the Belleville tournaments. Art McConnell and Mrs. Stewart Gunyo of Brighton were third high, with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Legault being fourth and Percy Graham and his wife in fifth place.

Harry Taylor and Mrs. Kenneth Smith lost one game but managed to have high score for two game win. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Black won the one-game high with Dr. A. E. Carleton and his daughter, Grace from Stirling winning the hard luck trophy. There were 44 rinks on hand from Kingston, Campbellford, Brighton, Stirling, Madoc and the local club and everyone had a grand time. The visitors were welcomed by the president, Fred Harper, before the beginning of play and the draw was conducted by Austin Watkin and his committee. The greens were in excellent condition for play.

Cleaner Combines Defeat Jewellers By 7-1 Count

On Saturday evening the cellar-dwelling Cleaner Combines hooked up with 3rd place Avon Jewellers and defeated them by a score of 7-1 at Alemite Field.

It was the second victory of the season for the Cleaners and in the manner in which they won left little doubt that they will be giving strong opposition to the rest of the league from here in.

The win still left them in the league cellar but with two games in hand they can gain considerable ground on the league leaders with a pair of victories.

Rogers of Avon and Holmes for the Cleaners hooked up in a real pitchers' battle for seven innings with only one run separating the two teams going into the eighth inning.

Holmes started the game very unsteadily, walking the first three men to face him. Good support by his team-mates and real steady pitching kept the opposition down to one run as the next three men were retired. From that point on Holmes faced only two men over the minimum number as set Avons down on two hits. He struck out eleven and his slow-ball to good advantage and had the Avon boys batting their back on it.

Pick up Pair

The Cleaners picked up a pair of tallies in the second inning and both teams batted tooth and nail until the Baldwin, who had replaced starter Rogers in the 7th, was touched for three hits and a pair of walks and after the dust had cleared away, eight of the Cleaners had batted, four of which had crossed the plate.

Derushie scored final tally for the Combines when he doubled in the ninth and scored on a pair of outs.

Jones led the hitters for the winners with a pair of safeties while Derushie hit the only extra-base knock of the night. Ford, third-baseman for Avons, accounted for both hits given up by Jack Holmes.

The teams:

Cleaner Combines: York cf; James c; Derushie 3b, Sb; Draycott lf; Mulvihill ss; Jones 1b; Young 2b; Jacciola rf; Holmes p.

Cloutier 2b, replaced Young who retired from the game in the 8th.

Avon Jewellers: Donovan cf; Baldwin lf, p; Doran c; Hull ss; Garvin 2b; Ford 3b; Murray 1b; Rogers p, lf; Bellis rf.

Rain and solid batters saved Gallo Pete Kanzig from the wrath of outraged fans last night as Terriers defeated the second-place Waterloo Tigers 8-3 in an intercounty senior game.

Kanzig, playing his third game as shortstop for Terriers, committed four errors during 5 1/3 innings played before the game was called by rain. When the umpires called it in the top of the sixth, Waterloo was in the midst of a rally that scored two runs and put two men on base with two out.

In other intercounty clashes, London and Kitchener split a doubleheader although they played only seven innings, while Brantford Red Sox defeated St. Thomas Legion 5-1. Legionnaires downed London 4-3 in a replay of a game played last May 29. A home run by Hugh McGillivray in the bottom half of the tenth ended things for the visiting Indians.

In the second, Loudon scored twice in the second inning and held Kitchener to a single run in the bottom of the fifth before the game was called in the top of the sixth.

In other Ontario action, Kirkland Lake Greyhounds battered Hollinger Bombers 12-2 in a Timiskaming senior game.

Oshawa Merchants moved solidly into second place with a 6-3 win over Toronto Staffords in a Vladuit senior game, Saturday. On Monday, the clubs clenched their second win winning ways runs at Shuniah Park. Defeated Crofions.

In Saturday intercounty action, Guelph Maple Leafs rose up from fifth place to shut out Kitchener Legionaires 5-0. The Leafs stole five bases and came up with two timely double plays to hold down the fourth-place Legionaires.

London tied down second place a little tighter when they defeated the third-place Waterloo Tigers 6-3. Two home runs gave the Majors five runs to sew up the win.

Red Devils Burn Up Cinder Track In Winning Meet

Toronto, July 3 (CP)—Toronto Red Devils burned up the cinder track Saturday and ran off with the Canadian junior and field championships.

Red Devils, coached by Lloyd Percival and one of the greatest track and field teams produced in years, cracked nine of the 19 records broken and compiled a total of 301½ points during the two-day meet.

In second place far behind was Montreal track and field club with 81½ points.

The others, in order, were: Hamilton Olympics, 49; Toronto Queen City, 31½; Montreal Olympics 30½; Winnipeg, 14; London Track Club, 12; Leamington High School, 7; Sudbury, 3, and the Medway Club from Arva, Ont., 6.

Rich Ferguson running his lost year as a junior, broke the mile record with a time of four minutes and 21 seconds. He clipped two and six-tenths off the old mark.

Lacrosse

Hamilton, July 3 (CP)—Hamilton Tigers scored three goals during a misadventure in the five minutes of play Monday night to defeat fifth-place Minico Mountaineers 7-6 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game.

The win put Tigers into undisputed possession of third place in the league.

Blaine MacDonald paced the Tiger attack with four goals while Bobby Grainger scored two. Elmer Lee and Merv McKenzie got one apiece.

Benny Peterson scored three for the Minico squad and Harvey Downer, Ken Lytle and Bill Horwood got singles.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Pittsburgh, July 3 (AP)—Bobby Feller was the first man who pitched his third no-hit game for Cleveland Sunday, but did anybody notice that Jim Hegan caught his third no-hitter at the same time? ... There may be a connection ... Hegan, noted as one of the best men behind the plate in all baseball, was the receiver when Don Black earned no-hit fame in 1947 and when Bob Lemon tossed his no-hitter in 1948. Now he has added Feller to the list...Manager Al Lopez, who caught more games than anyone else, never was on the receiving end of a hitless game ...Lemon, Black, Buddy Rosar (he played in Wilkes-Barre and his roommate now, pointed to Jim when he was being congratulated on the job and said: "There's the guy that did it."

Sports Before Your Eyes

Bob Hudson, who personally underwrote the 1947 Ryder Cup matches, will pick up the entire tab for the British Ryder Cup team from the time it hits New York next fall until it reaches Pinehurst, N.C., site of the International matches...Ralph Kiner, the Pirates' homerun slugger, spent an afternoon off watching Sammy Snead hit a golf ball yesterday...Sam, after winning his semi-final, said he was going to the ball game last night. "I want to see Kiner hit one," Sam explained.

Smiley Quick, Los Angeles, Wins Ontario Open

Kitchener, July 3 — (CP) — Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, Cal., shooting three brilliant sub - par rounds, won the Ontario Open golf championship Saturday by a single stroke with a 54-hole score of 209.

The United States professional, in taking the $1,000 first-place money and the Cardinal Trophy, fired rounds of 70, 70 and 69, over Kitchener - Westmount's par-71 layout to edge out two fellow Americans — Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and Al Besselink of Mt. Clements, Mich.

Hawkins and Besselink tied for second place scoring scores of 210 and won $300 each. They were four strokes in front of two other Americans, Doug Ford of New York and Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif., both of whom won $100 with scores of 214.

Long-hitting Bob Gray, Toronto Scarboro professional, and amateurs Phil Farley of Toronto and Jerry Kearsley of Kitchener shared the honor of being the leading Canadians, tying for sixth place with totals of 215 each.

O'Keefe's CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

Amazing as it seems, football is only a few weeks away. On August 18th, the Dominion Champions will head for points west and the preluds to another football season. Thanks to the complexities of modern, mercenary sport, fans in Eastern Canada will have the opportunity of watching Big Four-Western Conference football in the Blazing Summer sun. Whether this experiment will be accepted by the cooly dressed Western fans, the sight of 24 gridders rushing around in sun-suits in mid-August would be enough to make us double our psychiatric treatments.

Flying Team

The Dominion Champions will take along as additional fire Americans to compete for the team positions previously held by Jake Walkup, Jack Wedley and Ernie Stocks. (Dunlap will skip football for law studies this year, while Wedley heads for Regina and Stocks joins the Stamps at Calgary). Ex-college stars Jack Grey of Varsity, Don Moffatt, McGill; Doug Wosley, Queens; George Arnett, McMaster; and Bill Ford and George Arnott of Western University will also make the plane trip as replacements for the Americans.

According to Bob Morsn, President of the Club, the Dominion Champions will concentrate this year on strengthening their line, while standing pat with their starry backfield of Smylie, Toogood, Bass, Cahill, Krol, Dekdebrun and company.

Ottawa Opposition

As far as Big Four competition in the coming season is concerned, Bob Morsn has this to say:

"With former imports John Waggoner and Howie Turner of Ottawa now rated as Canadian under the 4-year playing rule, it leaves the Roughriders in a commanding position as far as talent is concerned. And I understand they are importing a big, 6 foot 3 inch, 220 lb. end named Baldwin, who is very fast, and a new quarterback named O'Malley, who will vie with Adam Gordon for the passing spot.

"The new Ottawa manager, Clem Crowe," continues Morsn, "is building a strong side for a wide-open game and, as far as the fans are concerned, we consider them the team to beat in the coming season."

Western Prophecy

Now that Mr. Morsn has stated his views on the East, let's pick what we think is the chief Western threat. In our opinion, there are two outstanding reasons for picking the Calgary Stampeders for the top spot in the Western Conference.

Neither of these considerations is influenced, incidentally, by the highly publicized rumours and buying sprees currently making the rounds in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton.

We pick the Stamps to return because we feel that Ken Royal of Copeland will recover from his slump of last season. Established star Cope was faced with the problem of starring with a 7-formation squad last year. This made his reputation with Teddy Morris' single-wing Queens. In the next few years, the bloody backfield set was incorporated at the specialized "T" game. Gamely he played his heart out and sustained injury as a result. Now, with the lesser learned, Copeland will probably be the dangerous snow-head of the Calgary attack.

Our second reason for picking the Stampeders is the very important fact that although Coach Les Lear has a five-year contract hale fellow he is not a happy man. The story goes that if Lear doesn't produce this season, he will likely resign as boss man of the Stamps (by request or on his own). Taking into acceptance two years of learning, he automatically pick Calgary as the Western Grey Cup winners.

So think the Tiger Cats will take it all? Sorry, bud, we can't hear you while hiding under the table!

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By. GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The weather was unkind. That, in a nutshell, sums up the reason why most of the weekend sport scheduled for Belleville was unscheduled. However, some of the events went on and they were duties. Saturday night at the Alemite Field, Steve and Bluemun downed the Army Athletic Club 5-1 in ten innings. The contest was another Saturday night classic and possibly the best game seen this season. Both teams committed one error which, considering the condition of the field after a heavy morning rain, was remarkable. Some lusty spade work in the afternoon and two loads of sand on the infield put the field in playing condition to begin with, and then the players threw away the law of averages to play a superlative brand of defensive ball. The win was the Frimbers' second over the league leaders in their last two meetings.

Down at Speedway Parkland yesterday afternoon Dick Burrowes threw more than 20 cars into a full card of stock car races as the weather and the largest crowd of the first three meetings at the new raceway conspired to make it a thoroughly delightful afternoon. This bureau would like to thank the Provincial Police for their kindness in driving us to the meet—(this should prove that sojourn in the back of the cruiser was purely a friendly affair with not the slightest business involved).

The feature race in yesterday's do saw fourteen cars start off, and by the time the 10 laps was finished we were eight of the starters. Only six cars finished. A pileup on the first turn, a blowout, and an engine fire had the fans swiveling about like a weathervane in a cyclone as the bloodlust tried to pick out the scene of the greatest carnage. Stu McGowan of Trenton, was the best man on the track, winning the novice race, finishing second to a terrific drive by Nickie Sargent in the second qualifying heat, and then coming on to win the feature.

The Belleville Redmen, who couldn't find room for a reporter on their trip to Brockville yesterday afternoon, found the sledding tough as Stanley Smith smothered the homesters'.. bludgeons with three hits while his mates racked up a 7-0 win. 'Tis rumored that several flies to the outfield were lost by the defendes while on their journey to the outer gardens and before they were found the ball game had been lost with them. Saturday night it was the weather that called a halt to scheduled game with Memces here. Tomorrow night the Fetherbough Petes, currently mopping up the opposition in the Vindicl League, will be on hand at the Fair Grounds to give the Redmen a taste of action. The locals have had several home and away games rained out with the result that more than a little rust is beginning to corrode their batting and fielding prowess. The exhibition tilts with senior clubs are designed to sharpen the squad for future OBL competition, and incidentally, help the treasurer to make ends meet.

Tomorrow afternoon yacht racing returns to the bay of Quinte after a long and unnecessary absence. Mr. Freeman Burrows, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce has challenged Maurice Callahan for the W. C. Mikel Trophy currently held by the laird of South George Street, and the builder, master and all-round sailor who pilots sailboats, power boats, and ice boats of his own design and construction. The trophy however, is for standing keel craft, and Maurice, who has sailed the boat in his centreboard boats, will be using Harold Selden's "Helcyon" in his title defence. Others in the race include "Astra" skippered by Group Captain A. Hawtrey, Trenton; "Windrift II" sailed by Jack Sills; "Windrift I" sailed by George Graham; "Passon" sailed by Bob Boyce and a Trenton yacht skippered by Grant Rathbun. The race starts at 3.00 p. m. and the course extends from the government dock to Massassaga to the Bay bridge and back to the government dock. Two laps if the wind is brisk, and one if the wind is light.

HERE AND THERE

Howe and Hagerman's Commercial League A entry journeyed to Kingston, Sunday, for an exhibition game against the Portsmouth penitentiary nine known as the "Skins". Well we were willing, and they were willing, but the rain - soaked field was not, so the local boys sat and watched a three-hour boating show instead . . . Glen Roy Athletic Club provided the feature attraction on a lively holiday celebration in Tweed last evening. We don't have the score as yet . . . The afternoon games in the Commercial League A race were cancelled yesterday by mutual agreement among the teams and with the league's consent . . .

Sports Menu Today: Trenton vs Canadian Legion in a Midget baseball game at the Fair Grounds at 7.00 p. m. . . . Empire Greenerys vs Richardson's Queen Victoria School grounds at 6.45 in a Pee Wee baseball game . . . Yard Office vs Motive Power in a CNRAA softball set-to on the Station Street flats. And that is that.

Toronto Driver Smashes Track Record Before Large Crowd at Speedway Park

A bright sunshiny day with a crease in it he stayed in front by four car lengths for the remaining three laps to win.

Piled Into Rail

In the novice class Stu McGowan of Trenton whipped around six laps in four minutes, one-and-one-half seconds to take the money. Frenchy Giroux of Napanee was second and Frank Carleton, Oshawa, was third. Stu Carr started the race but Kenny of Trenton piled into the rail on the third turn of the first lap to put his car out of commission for the rest of the afternoon and the other two starters fell by the wayside before the finish.

The most exciting race of the afternoon was the third heat of the qualifying round in which Nickie Sargent of Picton, came from last position in the starting lineup to win in the last lap over Stu McGowan of Trenton, who had taken the lead from the second pole position during the first lap.

McGowan of Trenton, made a day of it by staying out in front all the way in the feature race, leading for most of the 10 laps to win both the novice race, the feature, and second in the third heat.

14 Cars Started

In the feature event 14 cars started for the largest field yet seen at Speedway Parkland, but only six of them were around at the finish. Four cars were knocked out in the first lap with a pileup on the first turn accounting for three cars.

Results of the races with the first four finishers are as follows: Novice Race, 6 laps: Stu McGowan, Trenton; Frenchy Giroux, Napanee; Frank Carleton, Oshawa. Time 4:1.5.

First Qualifying Heat: 8 laps: Don Whiston, Toronto; Sherm Kenny, Trenton, whose car was driven by Jerry Inglimoe of New York State; George Bowers, Toronto, and John Bath, Niagara Falls.

Second Heat, 8 laps: Earl Redfern, Malton; Norm Babcock, Woodbridge; Dave Rose, Woodbridge; Arnold Duffy, Belleville. Time 5:1.5.

Third Heat, 8 laps: Nickie Sargent, Picton ; Stu McGowan, Trenton; Pete Siener, Toronto; Jim Peterson, Toronto. Time 10:41 4/5.

Consolation Race: Bill Wilson, Bleidelsteine; Frank Carleton, Oshawa; Graham Robinson, Toronto; Al Doughty, Toronto. Time 5:7 3/5.

Feature Race: Stu McGowan, Trenton; Dave Rose, Woodbridge; Norm Babock, Woodbridge; Sherm Kenny, Trenton. Time 10:41 4/5.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

by R. J. SCOTT

AT THE CAPITOL — Bert Lahr gets into one of his numerous "I-told-you-so" arguments with Jack Carson as Janis Paige looks on. Scene is from the new comedy about wrestling, "Mister Universe," now having its first Ontario showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program "Wildfire", story of a horse, in Glorious Color, and starring Bob Steele and Sterling Holloway.

AT THE BELLE — Spencer Tracy, who became "Father of the Bride," in M.G.M.'s stellar comedy hit, now becomes grandfather of little Donald Clark in Metro's hilarious follow-up picture, "Father's Little Dividend," closing at the Belle tonight. Elizabeth Taylor is now a doting young mother, with Joan Bennett again represented as Tracy's better half.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Willie and Joe," those fabulous cartoon characters of World War II, capture the high-hearted humor of fighting men in Bill Mauldin's "Up Front," Universal-International comedy presentation starring Tom Ewell, right, as "Willie" and David Wayne as "Joe." Marina Berti, Italian beauty, was brought to Hollywood for the feminine lead in the screen adaptation of Mauldin's popular book. "Up Front" is now on the screen of the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Murry Dickson Wins Tenth Game of Year For Last Place Club in National League

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

All Murry Dickson needs to become the first pitcher to win 20 games for a last-place National League club is 10 more victories and the cooperation of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The last-place Buccaneers, however, must remain in the cellar.

The 32-year-old righthander notched his 10th triumph last night, downing Chicago 7-2 to lead a large list of individual achievements in an unusually active Monday of baseball.

Here are some of last night's highlights as every club but Detroit and St. Louis Browns saw action:

1. Allie Reynolds' scoreless streak was snapped at 21 1-3 innings and he walked his first batter in 37 2-3 innings but he gave the New York Yankees a one - game lead in the American League race by stopping the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-5. It was Reynolds' sixth straight victory.

2. Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan scored all three runs as the Indians zapped the Chicago White Sox 3-2 with the aid of Lou Brissie's perfect relief hurling for 2 1-3 innings.

3. Rookie southpaw Leo Kiely, in his first big league start, pitched the third - place Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over Washington as Vern Stephens hit his third big-league homer in spacious Griffith Stadium. The win cut Chicago's second-place margin to 2½ games.

Ahead of Ruth's Record

4. Gil Hodges clouted his 25th homer for Brooklyn to help Preacher Roe beat Boston's Braves, 6-1, for the southpaw's 12th victory against only one defeat. The homer put Hodges a game ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when the Bambino hit his record 60 homers.

5. Jim Hearn of the Giants whipped his Philadelphia "cousins" 4-3 for the 10th time in 11 decisions but he needed relief help from George Spencer as well as Bobby Thomson's 11th homer in the sixth inning with a man on base. It was the second straight day Thomson won a game with a homer.

6. Pete Castiglione batted in 3 Pittsburgh runs with a single, double and triple, and scored twice to lead the Pirates to their 7-3 win over the Chicago Cubs.

7. Stan Musial raised his league-leading batting mark to .370 with two singles and a run in 3 St. Louis runs as the Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds, 8-2.

A home run by Ransom Jackson with one on in the seventh deprived Dickson of a shutout but the little curveballer rang up his 10th win. Since Pittsburgh still has 37 games left of its schedule, Dickson stands a fair chance of notching 20 wins.

WALLBRIDGE

Presentations Made

Wallbridge—A large number of relatives, friends and neighbors recently gathered at the Orange Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Philip (nee Marilyn Rikley), who were recently married and presented them with beautiful gifts.

The evening was spent in games and a short program, after which refreshments were served by the ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Philip thanked all for their gifts; all joined in wishing them many happy years of married life.

A similar party was also held recently for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lake (nee Helen Fisher) who also were recently married. The party included Stone Church community and Wallbridge and was held at the Stone community hall.

A good program was enjoyed by all and Glen and Helen were presented with an upholstered chair and end table. They both thanked all for their lovely gifts and invited all to come and see them in their home. To Helen and Glen, many happy years of married life.

Mr. D. Trow spent the weekend with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Trow of Toronto.

Mrs. J. Smith held a plastic demonstration at her home on Wednesday last. Quite a number of ladies attended. Mrs. Dale of Trenton, put on the demonstration.

Mr. Cyril Major of Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris on Sunday evening.

The recent rains have again been a benefit to all crops and strawberries have been a good crop as the rains have kept them growing and the warm sun is ripening them quite fast.

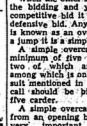
MADE SPECIAL, CONSTABLE

New Haven, Conn., July 3—(AP) — The Board of Police Commissioners last night appointed Winston Churchill a special constable. There was no need to contact the British foreign office, however. New Haven's "Winnie" has been a guard at a local firm for many years.

BALLOTING QUIET

Helsinki, July 3 — (AP) Finland today ended its two - day balloting to elect 200 parliamentary deputies. Moderate parties comprising the present coalition regime predicted victory with little trouble from the communists. Balloting has been quiet.



By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The gal should not play bridge at all. Perhaps she ought to dance. She thinks a simple overcall is cowboy denim pants.

When the other side has opened the bidding and you stick in a competitive bid it is known as a defensive bid. Any defensive bid is known as an overcall. Without a jump it is a simple overcall.

A simple overcall promises a minimum of five tricks, at least two of which are high cards, among which is one sure trick. A suit mentioned in a simple overcall should be biddable and a five carder.

A simple overcall hand differs from an opening bid of one in a very important department. Whereas each promises five tricks, no less than four high cards and two sure tricks are promised by an opener.

Thus fortified with the basics for a first bid as aggressor or defender, take a look: West's mouth opened with a bid of one diamond, west found himself with the hand shown here:

♠A J 7 4
♥J 10 9 3 2
♦K Q J

West has two biddable suits, three high cards, one sure trick, five tricks; enough for a simple overcall of one. He should come in here with a simple overcall of one heart.

With two biddable suits of different lengths, first bid the one that is longer. It is unwise to make a simple overcall in a suit of only four cards. So, any way you look at it, west bids a heart.

West would not have had enough hips and sures for an opening bid of one heart. But he has enough for a simple overcall of a heart. The fact that he simple overcalled did not misinform his partner.

Suppose west had another high card, another sure. He would have had the stuff for an opening. In that case he would not make a simple overcall. He would signal such a hand by saying double.

This distinction is what partner is entitled to know about your hand. When you have something good, tell your partner about it.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"The Enforcer" Starring Humphrey Bogart and Zero Mostel

After four years of effort, Humphrey Bogart, an assistant district attorney, feels he has a foolproof case against Jeff Corey, head of a gang which sells narcotics as a commodity. Corey's lieutenant is in custody and ready to testify, but is killed while attempting to escape. Starting all over again, Bogart pursues a labyrinthal trail in search of other witnesses, but each time he almost succeeds, the prospective informer is wiped out. Eventually Bogart discovers that the crime syndicate has rubbed out the wrong party — having murdered Susan Cabot under the impression that she witnessed a killing. The real witness, Patricia Joiner, is rescued by Bogart just as a gunman is about to finish her, and Bogart knows that at last he can convict Corey.

WHY SAY

Two Skulls
This word refers to someone who gets a free passage or admission. It started in the pleasure theater where different priced sections of the theatre were marked with odd symbols so that ushers could find their sections easily. The free part of the theater was marked with two skulls which gave rise to the expression, "deadheads."

Mrs. Carman Nix, Miss Ruth Clancy, Mrs. Arthur Beckett, Mrs. Lindsay Pollock, Mrs. Fredrick Beckett, Mrs. Douglas Clancy and Mrs. Jack Dunham. Refreshments were served and the hostess thanked the hospitality. This was missionary month and was based on "Paul as a Missionary."
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dunkley had the misfortune to sprain her ankle on Friday.
Last week a farmer sold ten hogs of 2 gallons to a merchant in town. He took in exchange 100 pounds of sugar and the storekeeper deducted 50 cents from the price and the gold top price for the potatoes. Surely this is an item for the records.
Mr. and Mrs. George Martin spent Sunday with, Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Oak Hills.
Mrs. Wesley Heath is ill in Belleville hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins and daughters visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry on Sunday.
Mrs. Sam Kirkey, Rawdon, was hostess for the June meeting of Stirling W.I. Mrs. Wesley Pollock for the year and committees appointed and which refreshments were served.
Mr. Wallace Dingman is in charge at Mr. and Mrs. Irving Newell-O-Drome in town. A number of Rawdonians are now taking advantage of the sport and spending their free evenings there.
Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Linn and Burton Sharp; Misses Ruth Linn and Ruth Sharp attended the auto races at Marysville last week.
Mrs. Ivan Sarles entertained Salem W.A. for their June meeting with over 40 ladies and several others in attendance. Mrs. Murrey Johnston prepared the program of readings and music. Refreshments were served at the close.
Mrs. John McKeown entertained Springbrook Women's Association. Mrs. A. Beare read the study lesson. Mrs. K. Thompson sang a solo and Mrs. Clayton Surkitt gave the topic. Plans were made for a tea social after which refreshments were served.
Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pollock attended the closing ceremony at Bethel United Church on the Tweed circuit. Mrs. Pollock was a member of this church at one time and her parents were baptised with its erection. Those attending Bethel have now moved over to Tweed United church for their service of worship.
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene King, Campbellford, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred King.

WRAY

Thousands of people lined Front Street and the banks of the Moira River watching firemen fight the blaze. Weakened walls on the upper storeys of the Wray building caused police to block off the street to guard against possible collapse of the wall and of falling bricks.

Well Under Way

The fire which started at the rear of the Wray store or at the rear of Reddick's bakery, was well underway before it was noticed by a beverage room customer at the City Hotel across an alleyway next door.

Customers at the hotel had smelled smoke for at least 15 to 20 minutes before the fire was discovered but nothing was thought of it.

Hotel employee Leslie Watch ran out of the hotel and into the alleyway and seeing the flames immediately turned in the alarm, while another employee Ralph Jamieson went upstairs in the hotel to rouse guests. However, the few guests who were in rooms had been alarmed by the smoke and were preparing to leave.

It was the second time in little more than a year that one family in the Diamond apartments immediately south of the Wray building had been forced out of their home.

In March, 1950 the Diamond block was completely gutted and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Boothby and family lost all their household belongings. When the building was rebuilt they again secured accommodation in the building—this time in a rear third floor apartment.

Yesterday while the Boothby family were eating supper they smelled smoke and looking out the rear window found the entire roof of a one-storey building in the rear of the Wray store ablaze. Occupants of the other apartments were alarmed and they made their way out of the building.

Firewalls on both sides of the Wray building checked the flames and the two adjoining buildings suffered only smoke and water damage.

Deputy Chief in Charge

Other families in the Diamond block forced out of their apartments were Mrs. Mort. John Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. Schryver and Mrs. Joseph Diamond.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank Orr who directed fire fighting operations in the absence of Fire Chief Gerald Vance who was away on holiday, stated that the entire rear of the Wray property was ablaze when the alarm was turned in.

"The whole building seemed to be ablaze when firemen arrived," he stated the deputy chief. "The fire started at the back but smoke was already rolling out in the front."

Firemen had a busy job as they tried to check the progress of the flames and confine them to the Wray building as well as protect the roofs of other properties from flying sparks.

All available equipment was pressed into operation by firemen and Front Street was a maze of hose as 12 lines were run to the blaze from hydrants on Front Street. Firemen taking turns poured water into the upper floors from the aerial ladder while other firemen worked from atop ladders and from the roofs of adjoining buildings.

Did Fine Job

The general opinion was that firemen did a fine job in confining the blaze to the one building although water damage was high in adjoining properties.

Blocking off of Front Street by police tied traffic up on alternate routes as motorists attracted by the smoke stopped off to watch the fire. Thousands of people witnessed the fire and police had a steady job in keeping the curious from getting too close and in the way of firemen.

Today Deputy Fire Chief Orr paid tribute to members of his department for the manner in which they fought the blaze and also to civilians who turned in and assisted in handling hose.

RIDGWAY

The Allied commander picked July 10. He said his representatives were ready to meet earlier if the communists would agree.

The U.N. commander's suggested preparatory meeting would lay the ground work for the cease-fire talk. Ridgway proposed sending three officers by helicopter or Jeep — depending on the weather — to meet with three communist officers in preliminary sessions. None would be of higher rank than colonel.

Only three people, apparently civilians, were spotted today by observers who flew over Kaesong. The rubble-strewn city is in communist-held territory, three miles south of Parallel 38 and 25 miles northwest of Seoul.

Three Far Eastern radio stations began broadcasting Ridgway's message at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday (12:30 E. S. T.). That was 39½ hours after Kim and Peng had answered the original U. N. armistice suggestion.

Ridgway's message said:

"I have received your reply to my message of 30 June.

Agreement Before Cease Fire

"I am prepared for my representatives to meet yours at Kaesong on July 10, or at an earlier date if your representatives complete their preparations before that date.

"Since agreement on armistice terms has to precede cessation of hostilities, delay in initiating the meetings and in reaching agreement will prolong the fighting and increase the losses.

"To insure efficient arrangement of the many details connected with the first meeting, I propose that not to exceed three of my liaison officers have a preliminary meeting with an equal number of yours in Kaesong on 5 July, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

"If you concur, my liaison officers, the senior of whom will not be above the rank of colonel, will depart Kimpo airfield southwest of Seoul by helicopter at 2300 GMT on 4 July (9 a.m. July 5 Tokyo time or 7 p.m., E.D.T. July 4) or at the same hour on the day agreed upon for this meeting, proceeding direct to Kaesong.

"In the event of bad weather, these officers will proceed in a convoy of three unarmed one-quarter ton trucks, commonly known as jeeps, along the main road from Seoul to Kaesong. Each vehicle will bear a large white flag. The convoy will cross the Imjin river on the Seoul-Kaesong road at about 2300 hours GMT (9 a.m. July 5, Tokyo time), or at the same hour on the day agreed upon for this meeting.

"The convoy bearing your liaison officers to and from the meeting will be granted immunity from attack by my forces, providing you advise me of its route and schedule, and the manner by which my forces may identify it.

"Your reply is requested,
"M. B. Ridgway
"General, United States Army
"Commander-in-Chief
"United Nations Command."

Hammer at Key Cities

While radios broadcast Ridgway's message, U.N. planes hammered at key cities on two sides of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Thirty-two Shooting Star jets blasted rail yards at Kyomipo, south of Pyongyang, hitting 100 rail cars.

Carrier planes strafed, rocketed and bombed Chinampo, port of Pyongyang.

On the battlefront more than 30 miles north of the 38th parallel, allied tanks blasted at stubbornly-defending reds trying to stave off U.N. forces approaching Pyongyang, the northern apex of the old communist 'iron triangle."

Chinese and Americans alike were warned they would have to look to their national defences despite cease-fire talks.

China's Peiping radio warned that China's own defences would have to be strengthened once an armistice is effected.

In Washington Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said this is no time to let down America's guard. He said plans are to keep U.S. troops in Korea until "things are settled." Marshall reported the Chinese probably will keep their troops in Korea as long as the American troops stay.

A field dispatch, delayed by military censors, said there was an unconfirmed report of a new group of 70,000 red troops have moved into position 20 miles northwest of Seoul. There have been previous reports of reds shoving new forces in this area near Kaesong.

Kaesong was deserted when an allied patrol entered it last month.

DOMINION DAY

The Informality contrasted with observances of Canada's 84th birthday by native sons abroad, particularly in London, England, where a reception was given by High Commissioner L. Dana Wilgress. Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, was chief speaker at a Canadian Club dinner, also in London.

Canadian Embassies in various world capitals celebrated the day with receptions. External Affairs Minister Pearson attended Dominion Day celebrations at the residence of the Canadian Ambassador, Pierre Dupuy, in The Hague, Netherlands.

The anniversary of Confederation was marked officially in Ottawa by the firing of a 21-gun salute from Parliament Hill. There were also special observances in provincial capitals.

But for the most part, the celebrations were spontaneous. Toronto was an example— police there reported that as a result of high-automatic accidents for the weekend, 200 persons had been jailed.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

Larry Stone dropped resignedly into a lounge chair "must we go through all this again, Marshall?"

My eyes fell on the highball glass which had a lipstick mark. I noticed the bottle and cigaret ends in the tray.

"So you've got company Stone? His eyes darted for a tell-tale split-second to a door at his right. I grinned, crossed to the door and opened it.

"Hello," said Sonya Sareeta. "If you do get around don't you?"

She inhaled on a cigaret as she carried a highball glass into the room. She wore a show costume that made her deep-V special look like Elsa Dinsmore's graduation dress.

She smiled nonchalantly. "I picked up the wrong glass, didn't I? I didn't notice my mistake until it was too late."

"The mistake was mine." I turned to Larry Stone. "I hate to interrupt but I came here for an answer."

Stone glared. "You're a fool, Marshall. I don't know the answer you want."

I took a step toward him, the pistol aimed at the second button of his smoking jacket.

His eyes widened. "You—you wouldn't dare!"

"Wouldn't I? If I took an awful rap on the head this afternoon, Star could spring me in a breeze with an insanity plea."

"Drop it, Jim." Sonya held the little .25 calibre automatic. I didn't get the switch, but I did get the business-like look in her eyes. I let my gun thud on the rug.

I kicked it as Stone belatedly reached for it. Sonya picked it up with her left hand, still training the little gun on me.

"What's your game, Sonya? Why don't you level just for once?"

I tried to duck then, but it was too late. Stone had come out of his chair like a catapult, and he had loosed a haymaker at my jaw. I moved just enough to keep him from winning by a kayo, but I decided to take a short count before I came up.

Stone wasn't waiting for me to come up. I rolled just before the toe of his shoe grazed my ribs.

"Stop it," Sonya said, turning the gun on Stone. "I'm not kidding."

"Me either" said a new voice. Al Nanabarro and Lou, his bodyguard both carrying short-barreled guns with gaping muzzles, came into the room. I got to my feet and they ignored me.

"How did you get in!" Stone demanded.

"I set the lock," Sonya told him. "I was once an escape artist, you know. But I never got out of a spot like yours.

"Well, you played me for a sucker!"

Nanabarro grinned with clenched teeth. His eyes fell on my gun in Sonya's hand. "Give that thing to me Sonya, Marshall's gun!"

Sonya nodded and held out the weapon, Nanabarro took it and pocketed his revolver. He grinned at me, "If there' any shooting, Mac, your rod'll get credit for it! It'll teach you to mind your own business." He asked Sonya: "What was he doing here!"

He barged in. I had to stall till you came."

"Well, I got here!" He faced Stone.

"I just found out something tonight, Stone. I found out from Sonya that you were with Rose Bidault the night Barney was murdered."

Stone managed to put up a front. "So she told you that! I suppose Marshall told her. He says Rose told him—but I don't think a judge would let either of them sit on a jury!"

"Maybe not, but I'm no jury. Sit down over there, Stone. You're on the witness stand. Sit down. I'm going to listen to you talk."

Stone retreated to the lounge chair indicated.

"You were with Rose that night," said Nanabarro, convinced that he had made his point. "You were the first out of the room. You're the guy that got the confession off Barney's body. I want it."

"Listen!" screamed Stone, "you got to believe me! I don't know anything about a confession!"

Nanabarro's answer was to rake the gun barrel across Stone's face. Stone screamed so loud I was sure the neighbors would hear.

"We've got all night," said Nanabarro, as Stone sat whimpering and trying to mop the blood from his nose. I figured the nose would be broken. "The building is sound proofed—they advertise that fact."

Stone screamed in sheer desperation. He appealed to me. "Do something, Marshall."

I didn't feel that I owed Stone anything—except maybe a kick in the teeth. But I said:

"Could be he's telling the truth Nanabarro. No use grinding him to hamburger if he actually didn't get the confession."

"You keep out of this!" snapped Nanabarro out of the corner of his mouth. "This is my party. One more chance, Stone! Are you going to turn it over?"

"How can I turn it over when I haven't got Lou—whom I don't even know what it is?"

This time Nanabarro knocked him completely out. While they sprayed him with seltzer water, Sonya spoke speculatively to me:

"Well!"

"Well, yourself. Pulling a gun on me like that."

"I knew Al and Lou were about dint. It wasn't a case for joint control. I knew you'd be squeamish, and there's nothing squeamish about Al. He'll get the truth out of Larry."

Larry Stone came out of it and cringed from Nanabarro in horror. "I tell you 'I don't know anything. All I saw was old Barney lying on his back with that hole in his face."

I was glad I was an innocent bystander, but I kibitized: "If you were clean, why did McNamara come here so fast after I saw you yesterday?"

"Why shouldn't I hire a lawyer when I found out you were out to do my being there?"

Nanabarro didn't like having questions answered that way and he brought the gun barrel around against the back of Stone's neck. Stone fell forward and lay groaning on the carpet. I was sure Lou had been a wrestler the way he went to work on Stone.

Stone finally fainted again and they exhausted the seltzer water. "Of course, it's none of my business, but I'm beginning to think the punk doesn't know anything," I said.

Lou moved in and kicked Stone. Bones crunched. Stone did not scream—it was an animal moan. I took the little automatic away from Sonya without finding the slightest resistance on her part. I put my two fingers around its butt and one of them tight on the trigger.

Lou's gun was in his pocket and Nanabarro was saying:

"Had enough? We've got all night."

"No, Nanabarro. It's all over." He whirled, turning my gun on me. I hated to think of competition of Sonya's pistol with that, but I said: "Did you ever win a lottery prize?" He shook his head. "Then you aren't lucky enough. Don't try it."

Lou saved face for him. "Let him win this round, boss. You know what he can do—even with a pop-gun like that. He'd make a sieve out of you before you dropped him"

With Sonya beside me in the car and my gun back in its holster, I headed for Fifth Street and reached it about 10 blocks from the Prater office. I debated with myself for a few moments and said to her:

"I wonder if you'd do me a small favor. I've got a little burglary to do. Star pulled off a job at the same spot last night and had a narrow escape. I'll need a lookout. How about it?"

She eyed me with puzzlement. "That shindig at the Prater company? Was that Star?"

I grinned, "You saw his shiner. They've probably got a new watchman on the job tonight and of course he'll probably make the office only once an hour. You sit out back and toot the horn if you see him coming. I'll duck out the front—he'll check the back door because the beat cop checks the front doors."

"Well, it seems like a chance. Is it important?"

"It is. I'm going to steal a yellow, two-piece bathing suit. By the way, it will fit you too."

I turned off two blocks short of the Prater office and turned up an alley that would run back of it. I pulled into a shadowed area about 100 yards from where I figured the rear entrance would be.

"I hope you know what you're doing," she said.

"Me, too. Well, here goes nothing."

There was a new lock on the door, but my special set of keys did the trick.

I went inside and closed the door behind me. I hadn't the slightest idea of where to look for that yellow bathing suit. I thought it altogether possible that Star had swiped it the night before. Its loss was hardly one that Carl Prater would mention to police.

I remembered, Sales Manager Wertheim saying that Miss Mayhew had changed in a dressing room. Finally I found a locker room used by all the female help, but no special dressing room for Clara Mayhew. I decided Wertheim had been putting on airs.

I didn't know which locker was Clara's so I searched Wertheim's files. No answer there. Prater's secretary might have the record. I entered his offices and I began to turn desk drawers inside out.

I found seven kinds of nail polish, three stacks of love letters, a folder on the Grand Canyon, a bottle of expensive perfume and various other feminine accountrements of an interesting nature, but not what I was looking for.

Then it occurred to me that perhaps Clara Mayhew herself might keep the record.

I went out to her desk and tried the drawers. They were locked, but all were locked with one master lock. I got out my keys again, and once more one of them worked. I found nothing of importance in the top drawer. I opened the second drawer, and actually I was still looking for the precious list for a split-second after I had clearly seen the yellow bathing suit.

It was tucked away in the back, but I had pulled the drawer all the way out and I hadn't spotted it at once because I hadn't been looking for it there. Well, it confirmed my hunch about that bathing suit. Clara Mayhew wasn't leaving it around loose. Her locker would be the obvious place for anybody to look for it, and she was hiding it in her desk.

Oil Company Plans Evacuation of Iran

Would Cap Wells And Close Down Abadan Refinery

Not Likely Iranians Could Operate Without Staff

Tehran, Iran, July 4 (CP) — British oil men prepared final plans today to get out of Iran in the next 18 days, leaving the Iranians to solve their own problems unless a compromise in the oil nationalization dispute is reached.

AP correspondent James M. Long reported Abadan, seat of the oil industry which is Iran's financial backbone, that the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company planned a complete evacuation of British personnel from the oil fields unless negotiations were resumed.

Long said if the evacuation plan is carried out, within the next 18 days wells in the Khuzistan oil field would be capped and the largest Abadan refinery—the world's largest—would shut down until the Iranian National Oil commission named to run the nationalized industry could take over operations.

Most observers doubted that the British-Iranian negotiations would be resumed, or that the Iranians could operate their oil industry without the British field staff of more than 600 experts and technicians.

Prepare Indictment

Meanwhile, the newspaper Bakhtar Emrooz said the public prosecutor's office is preparing a preliminary indictment against A.I.O.C. officials charging them with "illegal agricultural acts."

The newspaper, owned and edited by Deputy Premier Hussein Fatemi and usually considered authoritative in government matters, said the indictment would be ready prepared after examination of documents discovered in police raids on the company's information office and on the town house of Iran's former Washington representative, Richard Seddon.

The Anglo-Iranian company announced further cuts in production at the Abadan refinery to postpone exhausting filling of storage tanks. When the tanks are full, the company has said, their oil personnel will leave the country.

Refinery manager C. H. B. Ross announced production would be reduced in the next five days to one-fifth of the refinery's maximum. The Abadan installation, capable of handling 20,000,000 gallons of crude oil daily, last weekend was put on an 8,000,000 gallon rate. That production, it was believed, would fill the storage tanks in 20 days.

Board Allows 12 P. C. Increase In Freight Rates

Ottawa, July 4. - (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today awarded the railways an interim freight rate increase of 12 per cent.

The higher rates are estimated to add $54,000,000 a year to Canada's annual freight bill. The railways had asked for $89,000,000, made up of a double-barrelled boost of five and 15 per cent.

The increases were asked chiefly to meet higher wage costs resulting from the settlement of the general railway strike of last August.

It is the third major increase in freight rates since 1946.

The railways received a general increase of 21 per cent in 1946 and another 15 per cent spread over three instalments in 1949 and 1950.

Will Probe Further

The temporary award made today will stand until the board has completed a fuller examination into railways' financial needs next fall. The award was based on brief hearings held in January and last month.

The new award, while authorizing a general increase, prescribes a series of customary exceptions, which include the west's grain traffic between Canada and the United States and export rates to and from Canadian ports, which are kept on a parity with those of competing U.S. ports.

As in former also, coal and coke were excepted from the percentage increase in terms of so much per ton, 10 to 20 cents per ton, depending on the length of haul.

The board also granted the railways permission to lease to $1.50 from 75 cents the minimum charge for small less-than-carload shipments.

Body of Man Found in River Provides Mystery

Windsor, July 4 — (CP) — Police on both sides of the border tried Tuesday to unravel a mystery surrounding the body of a man found in the Detroit River Monday.

While a Ford of Canada badge and papers which belonged to Hansen Meloche, 36, Windsor, were found on the body, Howard Meloche, 47, Windsor, identified the body and said it was not his brother.

The body, now in the Wayne County morgue, was viewed Monday night by Howard Meloche and an uncle. Both told Windsor police it was not Hansen Meloche.

Hansen Meloche has been living at a Windsor hotel. He was last seen July 1, police said. He is believed to have been in the water for about 24 hours.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 4 — (CP) Synopsis: Clouds blanketed most of the province last night, and there were showers in many localities of central and southern Ontario. Cloudiness is expected to persist today, except for occasional breaks of sunshine. A disturbance centred near Lake Michigan will cause rain in central Ontario. After the disturbance passes eastward through the province, skies are expected to clear, so that Thursday will be mostly sunny.

CORRESPONDENT GIVEN 10 YEARS FOR ESPIONAGE

Good Behavior Will Cut Term in Half

Frankfurt, Germany, July 4—(AP)—Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis today was sentenced to 10 years in prison by a communist court in Czechoslovakia for "spying out State secrets" and reporting "slander and lies".

Half of Oatis' sentence can be remitted for good behavior, the chief magistrate of the five-man court said, and he will be expelled from Czechoslovakia after serving prison.

The chief magistrate said Oatis, the first western correspondent ever tried behind the iron curtain, was spared from the death penalty because of his "admission of guilt and assistance in exposing the espionage activities of western diplomats and western news agencies."

The AP statement said the prosecution's witnesses at the trial "showed only that Oatis was engaged in the legitimate pursuit of newsgathering as free people understand it."

Throughout his testimony, Oatis spoke in slow, careful phrases, pausing regularly for the benefit of interpreters, as if he had been carefully rehearsed. A distantly voiced confession of espionage by American business man Robert A. Vogeler in Hungary was obtained through systematic brutality and torture over a long period, Vogeler said later, repudiating his admissions after his release.

Howie Meeker Likely to Play Again With Leafs

Kitchener, Ont., July 4.—(CP) —Howie Meeker, recently-elected progressive conservative member of parliament for Waterloo South, said today he hasn't decided whether to retire from professional hockey.

The Toronto Maple Leaf right-winger will discuss the situation with Leaf owners George Dreer and Conn Smythe, Maple Leaf general manager, before he makes up his mind.

Meeker, who said he is "not financially independent by any means," said he understood that members of parliament have difficulty increasing their families on their government salaries alone.

(M. P.s receive a sessional indemnity of $4,000, plus a tax-free allowance, expense allowance of $2,000.)

Hints of Communism in Congregation Follow Two Threatening Notes

Toronto, July 4 — (CP) Claims that communists are stirring up trouble among the members of St. Barnabas Anglican Church here may be placed before a special commission investigating the stewardship of Rev. Harry Gabbutt, supporters of the rector said last night.

Mr. Garbutt's supporters said the R. C. M. P. and Toronto police are checking the activities of certain parishioners. They added that the results of the investigation will be presented to a four-man commission appointed by Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto.

The commission met for 4½ hours last night and heard the bishop testify for 75 minutes. Another meeting tonight will hear the testimony of Mr. Garbutt.

The rector's refusal to give Holy Communion to seven parishioners was one of the issues discussed by the bishop, it was said. Another was marriages in the congregation of divorced persons, performed by a non-Anglican minister.

Hints of communism in the congregation followed two threatening notes received by the 48-year-old rector during the week-end. One said communism "must end."

However R. M. Soward, Diocesan Chancellor, dismissed the communism angle as "red herring" being drawn across the trail."

The church dispute, which began in 1943 with the appointment of Mr. Garbutt, concerns objections by several parishioners to the firing of a curate for "improper conduct" and the resignation of another when asked to do unspecified extra church work.

Jack Guest, Toronto Oarsman, Loses by Six Feet in Bid To Bring Sculls to Canada

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 4 — (CP) — Young Jack Guest of Toronto lost by six feet in his bid today to bring the Diamond Sculls to Canada.

Eric Larsen, 24-year-old blacksmith from a small town outside Copenhagen, built up a twelve-length lead in the early stages and just held on to win in 8 minutes, 10 seconds.

Larsen's time was one of the fastest ever recorded at Henley.

The record for the race over a distance of one mile, 550 yards, is 8 minutes, 2 seconds, established by J. W. Burke, of the United States in 1938.

Larsen appeared completely exhausted as his foe melted away in the thrilling finish.

Standing in a shower after the race, 19-year-old Jack said his sensational finish took more out of him than any other race he has ever rowed.

"They said he was a fast starter, but I stuck right with him at first," the dark-haired Canadian said. "Then I said to hell with this and decided to settle down. It looks as if I took it a bit too easy."

Harry Arlett, Jack's English trainer, said it was a terrific disappointment to realize that the Canadian almost certainly could have beaten Larsen if he had kept his stroke a little higher in the early stages. Arlett estimated that at one point Jack was striking the water at only 20 strokes to the minute.

"I am sure that if Jack had won today he would have won the Diamond," Arlett said.

Jack Guest, Sr., who won the Diamond 21 years ago, said his son probably would have won if he had steered his final drive a little sooner.

"But the big disappointment," he said, "is that if Jack could have had one warm-up race, one contest against somebody just a little bit less brilliant than Larsen, it might have made all the difference."

John Coulson of Toronto, a rowing expert, said he has seen few such thrilling finishes. Coulson, who followed the race from a launch, said that Larsen was a good few lengths ahead at the mile mark—that is with just 550 yards to go.

Coulson said Larsen won the race in the first half. His time at the Canadian, the exact half-way mark was three minutes, 56 seconds only six seconds off the fastest time ever recorded for that distance.

The 18-year-old Torontonian was attempting to repeat the triumph of his father, Jack Guest, who in 1930 won the Diamonds. His opponent, a 28-year-old blacksmith from Copenhagen, is an all-powerful oarsman that he has to use extra-heavy oars.

Larsen led at the start and was a length up on the Toronto lad at the Barnes Arches.

He had increased his lead to two lengths at the 600 metre mark and hung grimly on to the advantage to the 1,500 metre post.

Here Guest spurted and drawing up steadily had reduced the Dane's lead to a length with the metres to go. They rowed blade for blade down the final stretch with the Canadian just failing to draw level.

Saw time of 8 minutes, 10 seconds, was easily the fastest of the series.

Larsen now meets the British sculley J. A. Gaze who won earlier today in 8 minutes, 39 seconds.

POLICE AND FIRE CHIEF DISMISSED AT RESORT TOWN

17 of 24 Firemen Resign After Action

Crystal Beach, Ont., July 4 — (CP)—This Lake Erie resort, where reform groups say corruption and debauchery are rife, today, is without a police chief or a fire chief. In addition, 17 of its 24 firemen have resigned.

Provincial police have been handling law enforcement since Monday. They had previously been barred from investigating into charges that the village 20 miles west of Buffalo had become a "wide-open town."

The heads of the seven-member police force and the fire brigade were dismissed last night at an open meeting called in the village hall. Police Chief Gilbert Robertson's suspension of Constable John Sandell, 33, was announced at the meeting that Sandell had been reinstated. After the session, 17 firemen quit in protest against their chief's dismissal.

But the firings and the reinstatement apparently will not satisfy the more than 150 citizens who crowded into a hot little room over the firehall for the meeting.

Said school board chairman William Nelson: "The whole thing ended:

"This has done nothing to solve our problem. I don't want a police chief fired. I want the provincial to stay in charge of this town until a nasty situation here is cleared up."

Peace Broken

In recent weeks, the peace of this popular resort community has been broken by a fatal shooting and what police described as an attempted suicide, the besting of a United States service man and an investigation which showed that the village had become a headquarters for narcotics and narcotics to youths. Reformers say prostitution and bootlegging are rampant.

Reeve Claude Brewster dismissed Chief Robertson and Fire Chief George Pietz. He said Pietz had threatened to run Chief Robertson out of town with a shotgun last Saturday when Sandell's reinstatement was announced.

The reeve's motion was carried four to one.

Asked for reasons for the suspension of Constable Sandell, reported to be a key man on bootleggers, police Chief Robertson said he had nothing against Sandell and had no fault to find with him except that the constable had not carried out instructions.

The police chief and the reeve agreed on whose duty it was to suspend Sandell. It ended with Brewster jumping to his feet and shouting:

"You're fired! You're dismissed as of now."

U.N. Allies Determined Talks Be Limited to Military Matters

Washington, July (AP)— American officials forecast today a possible armistice in Korea may be followed by efforts to reach wider agreement of deep-rooted far eastern differences between the United Nations and the Soviet bloc.

These officials noted that from Peiping the line must have come veiled hints that the communists want to reopen some questions as a United Nations seat for communist China and the future status of Korea and Formosa.

If the reds bring these issues up in the prospective armistice talks at Kaesong, officials who may not be named said, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway already has been instructed to refer them to Washington for consideration after the Korean fighting has been brought to an end.

The U. N. allies were described as determined that the talks at Kaesong must be confined to military matters. Their reported plan is to bar any "package deal" and continue fighting after formal armistice terms are agreed upon and put into effect.

Charles E. Wilson, the defence mobilization director, yesterday said the senate finance committee that the United States can't afford to allow the pace of its military build-up—no matter what happens in Korea—"until we know that there is a genuine change in the long term aims of world communism."

He said military spending will reach $4,000,000,000 a month a year from now.

Most Not Slow Program

John D. Small, chairman of the munitions board, said it would be "incredible" if the U.S. slowed its rearming program even if peace is restored in Korea.

The state department's views of Korean developments that an armistice would mean "a victory of historic proportions" for the U.N., but that it still is too early to tell if the communist proposals are sincere or merely a "diabolical hoax."

The advance of the projected truce talks, authorized administration spokesmen gave this outlook of U.N. decisions and planning:

1. Allied forces will keep their guards up at all times against any communist treachery.

2. The U.N. military reasons the U.N. cannot accept a simple agreement to cease fighting. The Communist build-up in north Korea is continuing. The Chinese reds have refused any invitation to establish overwhelming power on the ground unless kept under constant and close observation. It cannot be known at this stage whether the talks will be deliberately spun out by the communists for military reasons.

3. The plan is to negotiate military and political questions completely as possible.

4. Ridgway will insist on provision for on ground observation to make sure armistice terms are carried out.

DISCUSS MEASURES

Norway Point, Ont., July 4 — (CP) — Cottage owners and residents of this Muskoka-Parry Sound district village met Tuesday to discuss measures to deal with what they described as "disorders" between dusk and dawn, caused by groups of young people.

Some 200 persons, including many from Toronto's Kingsway and Forest Hill districts, have been visiting the village for the last three years and have been staging open drinking parties on cottagers' lawns.

WANT COST ASSUMED

Pickering, July 4 — (CP) — Township council Tuesday night urged the Ontario government to assume the full cost of education and acquisition of all new school buildings in the province. The suggestion was made in a resolution sent by East Whitby township, Ont's Ontario county council. Pickering is 10 miles west of Oshawa.

Suggest Sunday As Date to Start Cease-Fire Parley

Answer Made in Korean Language Over Radio

By GLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, July 4 — (AP) — Communist commanders agreed tonight to preliminary cease-fire talks in Korea Sunday, the United Nations command announced.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander, had proposed such a meeting for tomorrow. His spokesmen said he saw no reason why Sunday would not be acceptable.

There was no change in the previously agreed date — next Tuesday — to start actual armistice talks at the ancient Korean capital of Kaesong near the 38th Parallel.

In an unusual quiet covered the 100-mile Korean battlefront, the powerful U.S. army radio on Okinawa picked up an acceptance message from the North Korean Pyongyang radio. It said:

"General Ridgway,

"Commander of the United Nations forces:

"We have received your reply dated July 3. We agree to send three (3) liaison officers to Kaesong as you proposed. We will prepare for the preliminary conference in the Kaesong area if you agree to set the date on July eight (8).

"Kim Il Sung, supreme commander of the Korean People's Armed Forces.

"Peng Teh-Hsai, commander of the Chinese volunteers."

Reception Poor

The broadcast was made at 7 p.m., (5 a.m. E.D.T.), in the Korean language.

Reception was extremely poor. It was not heard by stations in Japan which have been listening for the latest message in the slow radio negotiations between opposing commanders.

Ridgway made the first move last Saturday. Kim and Peng accepted Sunday night, expressing a willingness to meet any time between July 10 and 15. Tuesday Ridgway agreed to start cease-fire talks the 10th and proposed a preliminary session tomorrow.

It is the preliminary session which the red commander would advance to Sunday.

Under Ridgway's proposal, each side would send three unarmed officers of rank no higher than colonel to Kaesong. They would then work out details for the important session between higher representatives of the two commanders at which the actual end of the shooting would be arranged.

The talks will continue until this session is held.

It is to be purely with military questions—although this particular point has not been settled in the radio exchanges between U.N. and red commanders. Biggest problem appeared to be setting a demarcation line for the armistice, pending subsequent peace negotiations at a higher level. The reds want the line drawn at the parallel, which divides Korea between North and South Korea. South Koreans want the line to run farther north —through red Korea.

U.N. All Set

U.N. headquarters were all set for every stage of the military talks—even to establishing huge a peace train now in Seoul, 35 miles southeast of Kaesong.

The U.S. Eighth Army announced today that press representatives would not be permitted at Kaesong during the preliminary talks, nor would correspondents be permitted to question the officers sent. Names of the officers have not been announced.

Ridgway will go from Seoul by helicopter if the weather is good; by jeep if it is bad.

Without benefit of conferences, battle action became quieter Wednesday, AP correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U.S. Eighth Army headquarters. He said the only shots heard at midafternoon across the 100-mile front were northwest of Inje on the eastern front. There artillery fire was laid down for a few minutes.

The quiet followed fierce fighting Tuesday in which U.N. troops seized dominating heights in the Kumsong area, 40 miles northeast of triangle. A grenade battle placed the Allies 24 miles north of Pyongyang. That is the northernmost point of the present line.

Supersonic Research Plane Flies Faster, Higher Than Any Other Craft

Los Angeles, July 4 — (AP) — The United States Navy announced today that its Douglas Skyrocket, a supersonic research plane, has flown faster and higher than any other known craft.

The Navy said exact speed and altitude will be withheld pending analysis of data from the flights at Muroc Air Force Base, Calif., Dec. 1, 1949, and observers said that unofficially the plane has gone between 700 and 800 miles an hour.

The Bell X-1 earlier in 1949 was reported to have reached about 1,000 miles an hour for brief periods in its excursions into the range beyond the speed of sound. It travelled at altitudes more than 10 miles high.

Navy Commander R. M. Gilbronos, Bureau of Air Representative, Douglas, told a press conference the records were set June 11 at Muroc.

Correspondents Not Permitted To Cover Talks

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 4 (AP) —War correspondents will not be permitted to cover preliminary cease-fire talks, it held, the Eighth Army announced today.

The announcement in a detailed list of rules for press coverage of the departure of three U.N. liaison officers from Kaesong, It's all based on the assumption the red commanders accept Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal for preliminary meetings tomorrow.

The regulations said:

"Correspondents will be permitted to be present" when the liaison officers leave, the army said. But only one selected correspondent will be permitted to file the story of the departure. It will be telephoned to Pyongyang for distribution to all accredited news services.

Subsequent stories," the announcement said, "build-ups, color features and so forth will be filed from the correspondents' billets in Seoul in the customary manner.

Former Bank Manager of City Has Busy Task

(Financial Post)

Ottawa's new board of trade president is Walter Scott, tough and gregarious manager of the main Ottawa office of the Dominion Bank.

Scott came to Ottawa in 1942 from Windsor, Previously he had been stationed at Belleville and Orillia. His Dominion Bank connection goes back to 1907 when he joined the bank in his native Toronto at the age of 15.

In those days Scott was a champion rower with the Toronto Argonauts. He won the world championship junior eight in 1912. He's long since been a life member of that famous club and finds it hard to know what to do when the ice in the harbor comes to Ottawa, to play the Rough Riders.

Walter Scott was badly wounded in the leg in the first war. But he's still able to do a bit of curling.

When he isn't at a meeting of the board of trade, manager Scott is happily showing customers and visitors his rebuilt bank premises at the corner of Bank and Spark Streets, Ottawa. There was an architectural problem to adapt ago to celebrate a big face-lifting job that has meant greatly improved working space for staff and customers alike.

The board of trade program for 1951 is as long as Walter Scott's arm. It reflects the tremendous expansion that has taken place in the capital city in recent years-and the bigger things in store.

Mr. Scott is well known in the Belleville district having been manager of the Dominion Bank branch in this city at one time.

48 New Picnic Tables Placed In City Parks

Picknicking in Belleville parks should be a much more enjoyable pastime this year if the availability of picnic tables has anything to do with the increase of enjoyment.

The new city parks superintendent, Mr. Gordon Nicholson, in the early this year came to Belleville from Cobourg, has proven himself something of a builder as well as a parks manager with result that 48 additional picnic tables are now gracing the various city parks. Mr. Nicholson built the tables during the fall and winter and the opening of the outdoor season they were placed in the parks.

Twelve of the new tables have been placed at the entrance to Victoria Park at the south end of Front Street; 12 have been placed at Riverside Park; four each at Exhibition Park; Firemen's Playground and Bayview Heights; eight with six in the Eastview Playground and 12 at the new park site at Zwick's Island.

Flag Condition

The flags this year are in the best condition they have been in many years and the Parks Board are giving much of the credit to their new parks superintendent who has taken a keen interest in his work. Fences at the various parks have been repaired and new gates have also been provided.

Emphasis has been placed on flowers with from eight to ten thousand plants having been set out. Shrubs, new flower beds have been added and a fountain has been placed at Corby's Park. There is an especially fine display of flowers at this park.

Setting out the flowers has been under the direction of Beverly Riddle, who is chairman of the Parks Board horticultural committee as well as publicity chairman for the Parks Board.

Parks Superintendent Nicholson was recently honored by being named vice-president of the Ontario Parks Section Development at a recent meeting held in London, Ont.

Petunia's Kits Bring $50

Trenton (Special) —It's an ill wind that blows no good.

Last week, airman Johnny Moon's pet skunk Petunia returned with a family of eight litter one, She had been missing from her cage in the Moon home for some months after making a getaway by gnawing her way to freedom.

Petunia and her batch of kittens were observed strolling across the Moon lawn early in the evening. At the time the LAC from the Trenton air station caught three of the little fellows which later escaped and hid under the house with their mother and five little brothers and sisters.

The other day airman Moon dared them all and from under the house he pulled out the entire family with the exception of Mrs. Skunk.

Today airman Moon's pocketbook is much fatter. He sold four of the babies for $50 and has nothing but the fee to reimburse.

There is no need for fretting, however. Moon has the assurance that the young skunks have been deodorized like their mother.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—The stock market had little trend progress today. Trading was at its quietest pace this year as investors hesitated to take a stand without direction from the holiday-ing New York markets.

Prices opened a little ahead but then became mixed at noon.

In industrials utilities, textiles, banks, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains. Constructions eased and papers, steels, agriculturers, foods and refining oils were about balanced. Most price changes were in small fractions and many issues were unchanged or untraded.

Base metals gave the best performance of the market as they edged higher. Noranda stood out with a $1 advance.

Western oils had almost no notable change.

Golds barely moved. Senior producers were mixed while several secondary golds eased pennies.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—Produce prices on the spot market here today: Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged.

White, Colored Cheese at New High on Exchange

With 40 per cent of the exchange offering taken by the marketing board for export the price of both white and colored cheese went to a new high on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Tuesday night with white selling for 37 1/16 and colored for 37 11/16.

Five hundred colored cheese and roughly 1,500 white cheese were taken for export, leaving 5,518 colored and 525 white to be sold for the domestic trade.

Total offering of cheese was 8,030 made up of 2,106 white and 2,930 colored. The equivalent of 3,067 large cheese was listed on the exchange in the form of smalls.

Tuesday's offering saw roughly 38 per cent of the total production in the entire area offered in the form of colored cheese. The big percentage of the specials come from the Belleville district, but four factories in the Napanee district, four in the Campbellford area and two in the Madoc area, also make specials.

Following are the factories boarding cheese and the boxes each offered:

TRENTON DENTIST WINS

Trenton (Special)—Trenton's racing dentist, Dr. J. R. Renton, brought another trophy into the town from Gananoque Monday night after winning the 17-mile marathon outboard competition for "D" class boats. Dr. Renton's boat, the C-3, covered the course in 21 minutes.

There were five boats in the race and the Trenton entry by crossing the finish line, chalked up the sixth win in seven starts.

In the latter part of July, Dr. Renton will travel to Valleyfield to match skill and power with Canada's best outboard aces.

TAXI METERS INSTALLED

More than 20 cabs have been equipped with pay-as-you-ride meters since midnight on Sunday.

The fare to ride to the airport from the town was 50 cents and now the charge has jumped to 80 cents. However, the taximen have been instructed to allow five passengers to a load instead of four when the fare was a set price. Before Sunday the charge for four to the air station was 25 cents each or $1.00 for the cab.

One of Trenton's largest taxi operators claim that business has not dropped off since the meters were installed, but looks forward to a busy day at about the same cash turnover.

WALDORF TROPHY WINNERS

The only team to win three games, the foursome of Mr. and Mrs. A. Boorne, Mr. Ambrose Smith and Mrs. C. A. McCauley carried away the Waldorf trophy, emblematic of lawn bowling competition for the Trenton club for this year. The quartet was played in good weather on Monday.

Two teams were tied for the high two games. They were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Haker and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Defoast and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fuller and Mrs. Coutts and Mr. George Cobley.

The high one game winners were Mr. Max Waldorf, Mrs. Fred Hendricks, Mr. C. Ford Hendricks and Mrs. Ambrose Smith.

NINE HOLES IN PAR

Clarence Niddery, acting captain of the Trenton golf team shot nine holes in 35 the other day for a par score. He is the first Trenton member to par the course this season.

FIREMAN IN HOSPITAL

Permanent fireman Gordon Coughlin is recovering in the Trenton Memorial Hospital following a serious abdominal operation. Fireman Coughlin was stricken some days ago and it will be a few weeks before he is fit to return to duty.

DROGUE FLIGHT BUSY

Drogue Flight, under the command of F/L. C. A. Brude, is busier than the proverbial bee these days with extra commitments to the auxiliary squadron at Deseronto and the army anti-aircraft gunners at Picton. Target-towing Dakotas and Venturas are flying from early dawn to dusk.

The pilot attack instructors course at the Trenton Command is also taxing the drogue operators.

Gross Pollution Found in Two Swimming Areas

Dr. A. M. Brcula, Medical Officer of Health, said this morning that due to "gross pollution," the Bay of Quinte swimming areas are being placarded as unfit for swimming. The action is a result of tests made by the M. O. H. to determine the degree of pollution in bay waters.

Placards are being placed in the Government dock area and at the foot of South Foster Avenue. In addition, tests were made at Victoria Park, but no placards are being erected there.

Dr. Brcula said that the present tests showed Victoria Park waters were not in as bad a condition as the others, but that the situation there could change in a very short time. "While it may be good at the moment," he said, "I would hesitate to say how long it might last." He continued to say that he couldn't even guarantee the water at Victoria Park fit for swimming even now.

Tests will be made once a week in the future at the swimming areas and the public will be kept up to date on the pollution. Specimens taken from the waters are tested for intestinal bacteria at the hospital, and Dr. Brcula said that the recent specimens were "badly polluted."

The official report from the M. O. H. said that "water samples from several Bay of Quinte bathing sites within the city show gross pollution."

$200,000 FIRE LOSS

Chatham, July 4. (CP)— At least $200,000 damage was caused by fire which burned through part of the downtown business block today.

The blaze is believed to have broken out in the basement of a men's clothing shop. From there it moved to the Dent Grill restaurant, Charlebois fur store, Tip Top tailors and four private apartments.

WIFE SILENTLY LOOKS ON

Sylvan, Ont., July 4 — (CP)— Mrs. Helen White silently stood in the parlor of her home here Tuesday to watch last rites said over her husband and four small children.

Rev. Norval Woods finished graveside prayers, looked to the pressure on the sick-wife grief and to the quiet hill 200 yards beyond her. There a thin finger of smoke reached up, the smouldering timbers into the sky to mark the pit of ashes where early Saturday the family burned to death.

Brown Bomber Signs to Meet Cesar Brion

San Francisco, July 4 (AP) — Aging Joe Louis, still plodding the comeback trail toward the world heavyweight boxing championship, will meet Argentine Cesar Brion here within a month.

The National Boxing club said today Louis signed for a match with the Latin boxer for 35 per cent of the gate.

Brion, who lost a 10-round decision to the Brown Bomber last November in Chicago, will receive 20 per cent.

The fight will be staged in the 16,000-seat Cow Palace July 30 or Aug. 1.

The Brion fight is expected to be Louis' final tuneup for a return bout with champ Ezzard Charles, probably in September.

THE TUNE IS LOUDER

The tune of deaths on a holiday weekend never changes. It only grows louder. At the last count, there had been 84 deaths in Canada as the nation celebrated its 84th birthday. Ontario, as usual, led the pack, as 42 persons met death in automobile accidents, drownings and other mishaps. The story is old, but the count is new.

Today, another annual massacre is underway. Safety officials in the United States have predicted that holiday deaths tied to Independence Day celebrations will approach the 600 mark, indeed a shocking comment on the carelessness of the public and the callous manner in which it regards human life. All the ghoulish made by officials promoting safety seem to fall on deaf ears, and the toll goes higher each year. Last year, on the long holiday weekend attending July 4th, more than 500 people were killed, with the majority of them losing their lives in traffic and boating accidents. And despite the fact that the American celebration comes in the middle of the week this year, the prediction is higher than ever.

Those of us in Canada who try to promote safety through the news media of radio and editorial columns, and by word of mouth, have little need to look across the border. When at least 84 lives are lost in this country on the first big holiday weekend of 1951, we should stop chuckling at the United States and take stock at home. And particularly in Ontario should the stock be taken, when 42 persons died as the birth of Canada as a nation was being celebrated.

We hear people who shake their heads and say that it is no wonder that so many are killed. The life we lead is so fast and so tumultuous that we are bound to have such fatalities. What these people do not realize is that the public as a whole will not, or cannot, realize the danger of its ranks with death. Until there was realization of the fact, much of the massacre portion of holidays might be eliminated.

At this time of the year, the highways are jammed with Canadians and visitors from the United States in seek of holiday enjoyment. Lakes and rivers are dotted with small craft, and beaches are crowded as relief is sought from the hot work of the day. At times such as these, it seems almost useless to condemn or to preach as the totals become greater. We can only hope that some day those totals will be enough of a shock to bring the public to its senses. Until that happens, the death lists will remain the sorry tag end of a happy holiday.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Four men sentenced to from three to five years in prison in the United States because they plotted the forcible overthrow of the government have jumped their bond. Thus it seems that the temporary end of a famous trial, in which the forces of justice were jeered at, dragged into the gutter and generally disgraced by U.S. communists, must rest in the unsatisfactory imprisonment of only seven of the eleven convicted.

Each of the four men had been freed on $20,000 bond put up by an organization listed as subversive by the Attorney-General's department. None of the four answered when their names were called in court, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation has now organized a hunt for them. It is felt that they have already left the country, for each had put in time in Soviet Russia learning the wicked wiles of communism. They may have returned to that country, and if so, and even though justice has been denied in the United States, this continent may be just as well rid of them gone.

These men are guilty of the most heinous crime on record. They plotted to kill the government of their country, and to institute a regime which would be nothing but misery for the people. When they were taken to court — a true court of justice, as contrasted with those of the communist-dominated nations — they attempted to make a farce of the proceedings. Their bailed Judge Irving Kaufman was rudely insulted almost to a nervous wreck. Their fellow-travellers marched the streets accusing Medina and his jury of persecution. But justice did prevail, and ten of the eleven men were sentenced to five years, the eleventh was given three years.

And now, not content to serve their time in prison, and showing the cowardice so often a part of the communist life when decisions, by a fair majority, go against them, they have fled the country. It is not enough to say good riddance, for these are only the top men of the American politburo. Behind them, these four men have left countless men and women who are still plotting. They leave an organization still powerful in the United States, still hoping and working for the day when the capitalistic system collapses and they can enter the picture with false promises.

THINKING AND DOING

"'Tis thinking old what makes you old,"
My grandsire used to say.
"But thinking bold will keep you bold,
So laugh your fears away."

But Grandpa, it is sad to state,
Thought he could lift a sack
Regardless of its heavy weight,
And almost broke his back.

"Think young," my grandsire said to me,
"And young you will remain."
What once you used to do, will be
What you can do again."

But failing from his horse he spoke

In much the self-same tone:
"It's not my spirit that I broke,
It's just my collar bone."

He never gave up anything
To favor Father Time.
To make the little ones a swing
A tree he'd boldly climb.

And when he fell in consequence,
And landed on his head,
"You're old enough for better sense,"
My grandma merely said.

THE PACKSAD

By GREGORY CLARK

Good-natured, happy, chatty people should never be given jobs at ticket windows, department store exchange bureaus, luxury store repair counters, or any spot where customers have to line up.

Personnel managers, no doubt, with the goodwill of their companies in mind, are the ones clined to put just such pleasant people in contact with the public. But if personnel managers would just stand in line, for a change, and listen to the curses, mutters, snorts and muffled profanity of those standing in line, while a cheery employee only inches away eagerly to all the chatty customer has to say, but actually joins in the discussion at considerable length and with goodwill exuding from every pore, a different policy might be devised.

Now, mark you, most customers are chatty. No matter how furious a customer may be while waiting his or her place in line, the minute that customer's turn comes, a marvellous transformation occurs. He cannot see those in line behind him, as he could, a few minutes before, see those ahead of him. He relaxes. He takes his time. It's his turn. And very chattily, he proceeds to deal with whatever he has in mind, in the detail it deserves.

The world is still full of crabby disgruntled, short-spoken people. Despite the costly and tremendous effort of our educational system, together with that of the entertainment industry in all its forms, a certain percentage of the human race is still not anesthed. They are sourpusses by nature.

Such people find it hard to get jobs in this personnel-managed world. They are stuffed away in the back of warehouses, or given books to keep in dim accounting departments.

But they should have a place in these public counters, where their natural propensities for being short themselves and cutting others short, would keep lines moving a lot faster than they move now.

Wellington, N. Z. — (CP) — More than 1,000,000 deer have been shot in New Zealand in the last 20 years. The government is trying to keep down the deer population and these shot, together with extensive herds that remain, sprang from 11 animals imported and liberated in the forests 83 years ago.

England--Then and Now

By Fred Hart

(Article 13)

We have come to the conclusion, as far as my old home town is concerned, that it is living example of bureaucracy gone mad. We noted the once beautiful residences of the Sutton's, Cintra Lodge. Its once lovely gardens neglected. It is now a government building housing a government department of something or other, as per the bald sign at the one-time fine entrance. In and around this town of 110,000 there are now so many government offices—where, but a few years ago, there were barely any. The following morning, accompanied by my brother, we went to Frostfield in Wiltshire where our forebears hailed from and where, as youngsters we spent our summer holidays. It was a grand drive along the old Bath Road on this perfect morning. Villages and towns slept, while we, quite recovered from the bus centre hard by the railway station, we were in what extent our home town had flung its tentacles out in an ever increasing radius. Here, once there were green meadows and pleasant fields, now there are rows upon rows of new semi-detached villas, modern, but quite pretty. Each seems to vie with the other in its display of flowers, which at this glorious time of year are banks of flowers and climbing roses. We have never seen anything quite like it anywhere, even in the south of England which we are re-discovering there are flowers and flowering shrubs, unknown to us. The villas are gone, the May is fading, the rhododendrons are finishing their show with their many colors, and now there are the dog roses growing in the old hedge-row.

Revisits Old Church

We left this urban settlement behind on through Peppard and dark and green woods—one could almost imagine Robin Hood and his band Bancroft. The road is narrow, the branches of the trees touch on both sides of our bus as we travel swiftly along the winding way and then Nettlebed. The villas are gone, the May is fading, the rhododendrons are finishing their show with their many colors, and now there are the dog roses growing in the old hedge-row.

Revisits Old Church

We left this urban settlement behind on through Peppard and dark and green woods—one could almost imagine Robin Hood and his band Bancroft. The road is narrow, the branches of the trees touch on both sides of our bus as we travel swiftly along the winding way and then Nettlebed. We had no reason to come this way except to look around the old church and its churchyard and take a hazy recollection of something we saw and noted many years ago. It was a reality, and it was merely an epitaph on a tombstone. Going through the churchyard, we met the vicar, the Rev. Mr. Bell, to whom, after a smiling "Good morning," we introduced ourselves and the reason for our visit. He immediately took us into the old stone and on it—so very clearly cut after all these years are the letters on the tomb of the Sun Inn Stranger—the Village Blacksmith—who died with his hammer and anvil lie declined. My bellows too have lost their blast

My fire's extinct, my forge decayed

And the dust my vice is laid.
My coals are spent, my iron's gone
My nails are drove; my work is done."

And with why and the wherefore was merely to verify that which I thought to be true because a few years ago I had read what I was supposed to have been written in the 1890's by a boy who lived in Ontario, Canada. This article was published in many Canadian newspapers. Now, through a medical profession, it is said that many tombs bear these lines "Gone but not forgot." "Dead and knew best—So here I rest". However, on this occasion we saw no tomb with these lines.

But in the church, the one terrible glaring error which struck us most forcibly was the following: An Old English Testimony of Judeth Harris, born Feb. 26, 1638—Decease'd July 7th, 1695. Then followed: That if Piety, Prudence, Wit, Innocence or Beauty could rescue from yes Fate, Judeth Harris had not died. Since these are ineffectual, Dust and Ashes, Read then, and Piety and prepare to follow." Another quaint one is to the memory of one John Wallis who died the 14 day of March, 1717, aged 66, that "learning and good sense which rendered him fit for any publick station induced him to retire from public life." And so he said farewell to this fine old church and its friendly vicar, who was most hospitable in his efforts to make our stay so very interesting.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Diseases, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

NO MEAT, NO EGGS, AND BE CAREFUL ABOUT GETTING TOO MUCH AIR

Primarily the old timers ascribed gout to the accumulation of uric acid in the blood and deposits of uric acid in the region or the tissues where the attack was localized. This proved so satisfactory (to the doctors) in everyday practice that they gradually widened the scope of ailments presumptively caused by uric acid, to include everything from the rheumatism to the willies and that tired feeling.

Fifty years ago precise measurement of the amount of uric acid in the blood began to throw the light of knowledge on the uric acid business. This scientific method of confirming or invalidating the diagnosis cramped the style of the old timers considerably, and in the course of the next two or three decades the diagnosis of gout declined in popularity until it became almost unheard-of. Now and then in browsing current medical literature one comes upon a bold report of an alleged case of gout and here we notice invariably that his diagnosis is correct not withstanding the absence of scientific proof of any increase in the amount of uric acid in the blood, or in the tissues. I suppose there may still be a few old timers who believe shotgun quarantine is the best way to prevent an outbreak of yellow fever.

The blood of a healthy person contains from 1 to 4 milligrams of uric acid per 100 cc. (equivalent to, say, 1/30th grain in 3½ fluid-ounces). The amount of uric acid in the blood is increased in various diseases state not at all like the familiar picture of gout or rheumatism. Normal deposits of uric acid (monosodium-urate), called "chalk" are frequently found in the joints in severe kidney disease.

So all the ponderous advice of the old time doctors about avoiding from the diet red meat and other items presumed to contain too much uric acid forming material (nitrogenous compounds known as purines), is now as quaint as horse cars now. Nevertheless a lot of poor gouty heritate to eat meat lest uric acid accumulate in their blood or joints, and there are still plenty of quacks who encourage them in their silly dieting.

All I know is what I read in the medical journals and medical books and what I gather from listening to the shop talk of real doctors. So maybe you had better not ask me about purine-free diet or a diet low in uric acid forming material, for it is my belief that the uric acid theory is untenable and that following a diet that excludes items the old timers imagined were full of uric acid is more likely to do harm than good.

If my tender-hearted bet with the stereotyped question: "If my trouble isn't due to uric acid what, then, is the cause of it?" the reader will receive no reply. I never have pretended I can read minds. Sorry, I pass.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Laundering

Which is more sanitary, sending clothes to a modern, up-to-date commercial laundry or laundering at home?—Mrs. F. (Mrs. F. C.)

Answer—No difference. Ordinary washing with hot water and soap makes the clothing or linen sanitary. Boiling, steaming and/or ironing renders clothing or linen virtually sterile.

Prunes Are Good Food

I have found that taking stewed prunes for breakfast keeps me well regulated, but I find prunes listed among acid foods. (M. H. R.)

Answer—Mixed with cranberries, eggs, white bread, white rice, peanuts, crackers, sweet corn, bacon, pork, fish, oatmeal etc.—but don't gash yourself about such half-uplifting problems. Stewed prunes are good food for everybody.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WISHFUL THINKING

I believe we are all, at times, addicted to wishful thinking — regretting past mistakes or speculating upon things in the future that are based more on fancy and imagination.

It is all very well to have hope in the immediate future that all right even though they do not, we encourage the habit our self on wishful thinking. I believe the simplest and most practical of all philosophies is to do the things in their stride, to leave all worry strictly alone, and to cultivate great faith in one's self, one's fellow man, and God.

There is a very great difference between wishful thinking and intelligent planning. The one may be encouraged but his plan and is realistic. He deals with conditions ideas. Without doing anything but wishful thinking, is it any wonder that people get unhappy over things not coming their way when they have done nothing to bring about a happy result?

The laws of success and happiness do not deviate, and it is for them essential that they be obeyed. Too many people try to circumvent them aside and make excuses, but these regrettable habits are always "Oh, if I hadn't done thus and so", or, "if things had only been different". It is a very unhelpful thinking that keeps many 'a one from his goal.

Let us have little more — if anything — beyond what we need for our daily needs. We may have our defeats, our failures, and our disappointments, but of all philosophies it is the sum total in character and earn us suggestions. Unbridled imagination of ours was given to us for better purposes than for chasing rainbows, or for dalliance in vain regrets.

Wishful thinkers usually have the equipment for success but don't think they have to use it. They think "something will turn up," as Micawber was always saying. But things do not turn up our without some effort on our part, and it is well they don't. Even the dumb beasts and the fowl of the air have a plan of life. No wishful thinking for them.

ALLIANCE TABERNACLE

Monday was an ideal day with its bright sunshine, blue skies and mild breezes for the annual picnic of the Alliance Tabernacle Sunday School. The much favoured Presqu'ile Point, Cars picked up the bus over-flow of parents, friends and children and deposited them upon the wide, free space backed by woods and fleecy clouds on the one side, and the rolling waters of Lake Ontario on the other.

Leaving the city at 10:30 a.m., gave ample time for a hard-fought baseball game before the sumptuous repast spread out on four, long tables placed end to end, which were not enough to accommodate the happy picnickers, necessitating the Japanese method of lowly tables upon the grass.

Following the dinner, the various races were run, resulting in the following winners: Miss Dorothea Atyeo's class; one to six years, Carolyn Brown, Bruce Christopher and Wayne Gray; Mrs. Embury's class, girls, seven to nine: Carolyn Potts, Leone Embury and Lenore Dixon; Mrs. C. Beattie's, boys, seven to nine years, Paul Brown, Wayne Christopher and Billy Wickett; Mr. W. Wright, boys, nine years, Jimmy Potts, Bill Wylie, and David Benn; Mrs. W. H. Gerrie's class, girls, 13-15 years, Barbara Wickett, Janet Potts and Lois Wright; Mr. Ward's boys, 13-15 years, Jay Kent, Bill Whittaker and Melbourne Fraser; Mrs. E. Mase's junior young people, Fay Rollins, Eunice Veley and Joan Shindall.

Three-legged race, Joan Shindall and Eunice Veley; Bill Whittaker and Jay Kent.

Sack race, Barbara Wickett, Dorothea Atyeo and Lois Wright; men's sack race, Russell Perkins, Gordon Brown and Ambrose Kirkpatrick.

Needle and thread race, Russell Perkins and Audrey Brown; Keith Orde and Dorothea Atyeo; Barbara Wickett and Ambrose Kirkpatrick.

During the trip to the Point and following the supper period, several gospel songs were sung, in which all joined heartily. Mr. Orde of Emmaus College, Toronto, also gave an interesting quiztalk to the little ones, which was attentively listened to by the older elders with considerable profit.

Swimming was the highlight of the day, with many enjoying this most healthful pastime amid the rolling waves, after which more baseball held the attention, followed by supper with its generous servings of ice cream. A peanut scramble, augmented by Sandy Kisser, shared by children and adults, rounded out a thoroughly enjoyable day.

Appreciative thanks are extended to the superintendent and assistant superintendent, Mr. Gordon Brown and Mr. Russell Perkins; to the pastor, the Rev. Robert Gray; and to all who co-operated in making this one of the red-letter days of the year, in which so many participated.

Bach Takes Back Seat in Korea As Canucks Hit Chinese Area

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, July 4 (CP)—John Sebastian Bach was cut off the air.

The gay, cascading passages of the Hammerklavier Suite No. 5 in G Minor gave way over the headset to a crisp command from Lieut. Strathcona Macdonald of Oakville and Yankiek Hill, Ont. "Driver, halt," he ordered.

The jerk as the Sherman tank pulled up released Macdonald's hold on the microphone switch. John Sebastian's music resumed its run momentarily in the tank crew's ears.

Then the command, "gunner, traverse left," halted Bach, piano and orchestra and kept them at bay. Fourteen miles deep in Chinese territory, Macdonald swung his Sherman into action.

With infantry from the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, Macdonald's troop of four tanks from "C" squadron of the Lord Strathcona Horse was patrolling far forward of the allied lines in the Chorwon area.

Infantry under Lieut. Wellington Hamilton of Niagara Falls, Ont., were on the backs of the last two. The remainder of the company commanded by Maj. Dick Medland of Toronto followed in armor-plated half-tracked vehicles.

Macdonald's tank was leading. He had just spotted three Chinese.

Each had been keeping company during the advance. He was travelling all the way from the Antipodes, where the Australian Broadcasting Corporation was using the same frequency as the Canadian tanks. Fantastic, incongruous background to war, the genius of musical creation marching on the battlefield.

Three Shells Fired

The turret wheeled slowly around and mars dispensed with path.

Tpr. Doug Mitchell of Toronto, his eyes glued to the gunsights, sighted the MM gun on to a hill to the west. Three shells were fired.

Only idle man was Tpr. Laurie Biutta of Sudbury, Ont., the driver, He was exploiting the respite from work that — action meant by smoking, and scanning the hill ahead through his periscope.

L.-Cpl. Jack Sargent of Owen Sound, Ont., a 25-year-old section leader with a grin that almost closes his eyes, checked his men on the tank.

The shoot over, the advance resumed to a little settlement whose pleasant inhabitants were voluble, but not intelligible. Saviour of the fantastic buddy ahead of the tanks and in full view of the Chinese) of Koreans volunteering information that Canadians unable to understand them was Lieut. Lorne Cook of North Vancouver, who had with him an English-Korean phrase book.

The engineer officer turned from section to section of the book for the key phrases. Had any Chinese been around? How many? Were they armored or infantry?

The Koreans could not understand his accent, but they could point the Korean characters alongside the phonetic pronunciations. Slowly the picture assembled.

There had been between 20 and 50 Chinese on the hill the night before they had come down this morning to loot food. They were infantry. And there were 150 of them in a village on the other side of the hill.

Macdonald had flushed them.

Slow Process

Medland ordered his infantry to ground, sent Hamilton's platoon to check the high ground to the northwest and asked Macdonald to position his tanks to support them.

Inside the battened-down Shermans the crews kept watch —with Bach.

"SERGEANT" MAJOR

Major reads the order that makes him a sergeant with Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal on the day of his enlistment. Major was persuaded to sign in Montreal with the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. (CP Photo).

It was a slow process. The Infantry spread out and swept methodically on the climb.

Hamilton's men came under machine-gun fire.

Medland got Sgt. Lennox Murray of Milan, Que., whose tank was handiest, to engage the best. The others, under Sgt. George Prokopetz of Macnutt, Sask., Cpl. Ken Reynold of Kirkland Lake, Ont., and Macdonald, watched where his shells were landing and followed suit.

Macdonald pounded four shells home, got Broderick working with the turret's machine-gun.

Meanwhile the enemy had engaged the tanks, but only with machine-gun fire, hitting Prokopets' Sherman. Only damage was a shattered periscope in front of his co-worker, Tpr. Dave Tobias of Moncton, N.B.

The demi-world of Tokyo radio resumed. A drowsy sweaty afternoon.

At eventide the foot-sloggers returned. No casualties. Two prisoners. And Pte. John Karmazinuk of Winnipeg, who "enlisted" in the R.C.R.—a scout platoon with a Bren gun, had killed a Chinese warrior in full gallop. Or more there could be only surmise, no proof.

WEDDINGS

ARMSTRONG—HOLLAND

Red roses and orange blossoms formed the setting in the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, Frankford, on Saturday, June 30, at 10 a.m., when the Rev. Father O'Meara united in marriage Miss Bernice Holland, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Turley, of Frankford, to Francis Armstrong, of Frankford, son of Mr. John Armstrong and the late Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. Ellen Kelly provided the traditional wedding music and the soloist, Mrs. Hugh Brady, of Marmora, sang before the ceremony, "Ave Maria", and "O Mother, at Your Feet is Kneeling", and during the signing of the register, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother", and "Sacred Heart, O Love Divine."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Ross Turley, wore an exquisite bridal gown of floor-length Brussels lace over white satin with matching Juliet cap headdress and full length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white gladioli flowerets.

Miss Marcella Farrell, of Stirling, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in blue taffeta with matching hat. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Hubert Armstrong, of Oshawa, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. The ushers were, Mr. Robert Armstrong, of Oshawa, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Vincent Farrell, of Stirling.

The wedding dinner was held at Trinity Hall, Frankford, where the bride's aunt, attractively gowned in pale blue sheer over taffeta, with matching navy picture hat, and corsage of pink roses, received the guests. Following the dinner, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Turley, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, red roses and orange blossoms.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Detroit, Michigan, the bride chose navy blue taffeta with white accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at Batawa, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Smiths Falls, Trenton, Goose Bay, Labrador, Marmora, Saskatchewan, Madoc, Hastings, Stirling, Belleville, Oshawa and Sudbury.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a shower at the home of Mrs. Elmer Rogers, where her town friends presented her with a lovely wool coat-of-fee table. She was also entertained at the home of Mrs. Bert Carter, to a miscellaneous shower.

Y.M.C.A. Boys Give Delightful Concert In Cannifton Town Hall

On Thursday evening, under the sponsorship of the Cannifton and Corbyville Women's Institute the Y.M.C.A. boys' choir gave a delightful concert in the newly decorated town hall.

Mr. Jay Mitchell, reeve, introduced Mr. Walter Bent, under whose direction the choir rendered the following, "How Do You Do Everybody"; "Emperor Napoleon", "Are You Sleeping", "Old MacDonald Had a Farm", and "Coming 'Round the Mountain".

Miss Meribeth Holgate, of Cannifton, gave two piano solos, which were well received. An interpretation of the Andrew Sisters singing "Quicksilver", and "Down on the Farm", was the cause of much laughter. A cackle contest was held during the evening with the audience taking part, Alex. McLeod being the winner by an egg.

The solos "It is no Secret" "Bless This House" and "Grandfather's Clock" were also well received.

Rev. W. Merrick gave an interesting talk.

The concert closed with the singing of "Whispering Hope", after which Mr. Bent outlined the plan of taking this group of boys to the Toronto exhibition. All wish them every success.

Many thanks for the pleasure of the evening go to Mr. Bent, Mrs. McBride, accompanist; Mrs. Gander, Mrs. Gramdame, Mrs. Large who takes care of the make-up and to H. Corby's Company for the transportation by bus of the choir from Belleville and return.

Pie, Favorite Of Desserts

For centuries, pie has been famous in the world of food. Even our nursery rhymes and fairy tales taught us that pastry making was an important part of every woman's life. Remember "Little Jack Horner" and "Sing a Song of Sixpence, a Pocket Full of Rye, Four and Twenty Blackbirds." We can even go back to the time of Chaucer for he mentioned pies in his writings. Pie actually originated in England as a main dish of meats and fowl baked in a deep, flaky, brown crust. Today, besides meat and vegetable pies, we have that Canadian favorite, the dessert pie.

This being the beginning of the fruit season, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have sent us information about fruit pies, those bright red cherry ones and those luscious berry pies. Everyone would like to be a perfect pastry maker and everyone can be. It does not take good luck nor years of experience. It merely takes four ingredients, flour, shortening, salt and water and care in putting them together. The home economists suggest that the usual proportion of these four ingredients for one crust pie is 1-3 cup of shortening to 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons of sifted pastry flour or 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1-3 teaspoon of salt and about 2 tablespoons of cold water. The first thing to do is to cut the fat in to combine the shortening with the dry ingredients, then moisten with just as little water as possible that is, use only enough water to hold the dough together. If possible allow the dough to chill a short time in the refrigerator before using. Roll the pastry out on a pastry board which has a piece of canvas or waxed paper placed on the lower roll the dough too much. A hot oven to bake the pastry is, of course, a necessity. If these directions are followed, anyone should have flaky, golden pastry.

Most fruit pies are very juicy and need a thickener to keep the juice from running over in the oven. Either flour, corn starch or tapioca may be used as thickeners. For berry pies the proportions are 4 tablespoons of flour or 2 tablespoons of corn starch or 2 1-2 tablespoons of tapioca for each pie. Often the juices of these pies, even though thickened, tend to bubble over in the oven. If this is the case, a small funnel of paper, a paper straw or a few long sticks of macaroni inserted into the filling will help prevent bubbling.

Pie, when properly baked, should be nicely brown and nothing extra is needed to make the crust attractive. However, for those who prefer a shiny glazed crust, the home economists suggest four ways of accomplishing this. First of all, egg white slightly beaten and brushed over the top of the crust before baking gives a beautiful glaze. A little granulated sugar sprinkled on top also makes a crust glisten. Evaporated milk brushed on the crust before baking produces a brown, shiny crust and cream, top milk, ice water or salad oil will give the same effect.

Many Crust Designs

There are many designs and types of pie crust. Two-crust pies are very common but all too often, the top crust is too plain. Fancy crusts can be made easily and are more attractive. Lattice crusts are made by merely forming a lattice work on top of the pie filling with strips of pastry. Fancy shapes of pastry cut with a cookie cutter give another interesting and attractive crust. A wheel crust is made by merely placing three strips of pastry the first thing to do is to form of the spoke of a wheel. It is more realistic if the first two strips are topped where they cross before the third strip is put in place. Whirligig crusts may be made by cutting one-inch strips of pastry and forming them in circles on top of the pie. Deep dishes pies are another favorite and homemakers will do well not to forget them. This type may be made as one large, family sized pie or as individual pies.

From these ideas, the home economists hope that homemakers will feature fruit pies in their summer menus. Pie is the season of berries and other Canadian fruits.

Club Activities

WELLMAN'S MISSION BAND

The members of Wellman's Mission Band recently convened at the church for their June meeting under the direction of Mrs. Burton Morton. The blackboards were decorated by the sponges and for special hymns and were found effective.

Miss Mildred Morton was the pianist. The scripture lesson was found in St. Matthew 6. The verses preceding the Lord's Prayer were read followed by the prayer in unison.

Gives Talk

Mrs. Burton Morton gave a short talk on Miss J. Bates, who is engaged in kindergarten work in Japan. Miss Bates is the missionary for prayer for Wellman's Mission Band. Each child will be asked to write a message to their missionary and it is hoped to have a group picture taken during vacation days.

Mrs. Morton emphasized the great need of loving the people of all nationalities and she offered special prayer for the babies and her work. Later in the program Mrs. Morton gradually told the study story entitled "A Visit to Nilkko".

Miss Betty Maybee gathered the offering of 75 cents which was dedicated to Missions by a special verse of Scripture repeated by all.

The band are delighted to have $10 to forward to presbyterial treasurer at Quarter. Their aim is to send some money every three months.

Miss Nancy Chumbley, as secretary, read the membership roll. At each name was called the leader asked a question from the Junior Catechism and the members answered from memory. This plan will be used for all roll calls this year.

Plans are being made for a special afternoon meeting during holidays.

CORRESPONDENT

Says He Was Sorry

Oatis, in a final statement last night that was strongly reminiscent of previous "confessions" in communist trials, said he was "sorry" he "committed espionage and that he "did it only because I listened to the wrong kind of orders from abroad and came under the influence of the wrong kind of people in Czechoslovakia."

In Washington, Lincoln White, State department press officer, yesterday termed the trial a "hoax" and said he hoped "the American people will understand the absolute worthlessness of any alleged 'confession' or 'revelation' beaten out of or otherwise obtained from anyone who is held incommunicado for 70 days or more."

Winner of the S. R. Wessman proficiency shield—is William Crabbe.

Grade XIII. These results will be known about the first or second week in August. A total of 41 papers were written. Five of these are in Algebra by Grade XII students. The outstanding Grade XIII students were Jean Gaylord and Ronald Stewart. The senior Oratory shield was won by Joan Church.

In the Whig Standard Oratory contest Ann McCullough (Grade VIII) won the cup and a $10.00 cash prize. Second was Joan Church who got a $5.00 prize.

Certificates will be sent to students as soon as results of departmentals are known.

Others Sentenced

The Czechs convicted with Oatis, and their sentences, were: Tomas Zvoboda, 20 years; Pavel Woldisak, 18 years, and Peter Blumir, 16 years.

Held incommunicado in Pankrac prison for 69 days, Oatis was brought into court Monday to answer "yes" when asked whether he had carried out espionage. He entered no formal plea of innocence or guilt, however.

He denied in his testimony the Czech charges that the AP's Prague Bureau was "an espionage centre" when he took charge of it on his arrival in Prague in June, 1950.

He admitted repeatedly that he had sought information for news dispatches from western missions and unofficial Czech sources, and had told them of some information which he had collected for filing to AP newspapers around the world.

Under questioning Oatis admitted that the other western correspondents who had been with him in Prague had also collected information which the prosecutor described as espionage.

The prosecutor reminded the court that the death penalty could be invoked against Oatis, but indicated that imprisonment might suffice since he was a foreigner and therefore not so guilty as the three Czech employees tried with him.

SUICIDE ENDS GIANT MAN HUNT

The body of convict-kidnapper Warren Lee Irwin, 37, is shown as it was found by Arthur Boan, who had spotted the body from his Piper Cub plane in the gigantic manhunt around Ringoes, N.J., Irwin had carried out his threat to commit suicide rather than being taken alive by police. He was wanted for crimes in two other states before he abducted Carilyn Barker, 17. He held the girl prisoner for 40 hours and allegedly assaulted her repeatedly before abandoning her when police closed in. Hundreds of armed men joined in a search for him.—Central Press Canadian.

PICTON

Rotary Round-Up Proves Popular Event on Holiday

Picton — Rotary Round-up proved a popular event here on the holiday with a crowd of 2,500 in attendance at the Fair Grounds. A bright day and a warm sun favored the event. Streets of the town were packed for the opening parade which saw Mayor H. J. McFarland, in the lead, riding a Palomino.

On arrival of the parade in front of the grandstand, the trumpet band of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA) gave a group of spirited numbers under the direction of R.S.M. B. E. Bevean. By kind permission of Lieut.-Col. R. J. Fleming, O.C., R.C.A.S., an army display was presented. Arranged by Capt. G. R. Tolson, Group Commander, 127th Battery T.C.S.A., the various items were conducted by Major A. H. Parker, the various gun crews showing preparations for firing the big anti-aircraft guns. This interesting show was topped by the arrival of four jets and six Harvards from the R.C.A.F. station at Trenton, and they offered a program of fine aerial precision flying.

Two Palomino colts, Ethel Lee owned by Murney Ferguson, and Tony, owned by Harry Paul, were heartily applauded after doing a variety of tricks.

A colorful feature was a parade of seven prize-winning Palominos from Circle M Ranch at Kleinburg. The owner, Charles Hall, put the group through a number of routines and stunts.

A half-mile bicycle race provided excitement with Ronald Walker as the winner; Laverne Moore, second; Hudson Mills, third, and Ormond Mastin, fourth. Keenly Contested

The saddle horse class was keenly contested with F. L. Ward, K.C., taking first place with his Palomino stallion; Elmer Garvey, with another Palomino, second; Mrs. Robert Jamieson, third; G. V. Ducette, Foxboro, fourth.

It took a long pull and a strong pull before the Benevolent Order of Elks, with Elberna Carson as anchor man, outpulled the Rotarians, with 'Butch'. Stacey as anchoman, in a tug-of-war.

In the class for children's saddle ponies, Ted Rabbie won first; Eleane Rabbie, second; Garry Gardiner, third and Bobby Allen, fourth.

Hackneys in Harness

Hackneys in harness was another class to win applause. Driving handsome animals owned by Peterborough Ice and Fuels Mr. and and Mrs. Georgs Atkinson won first and second places; Mrs. Elmer Garvey, Picton, was third and G. V. Ducette, Foxboro, was fourth.

The square dance contest saw three sets compete, with Clifford Storey as caller. Mrs. Storey also organized by 'Butch' Stacey, won top honors with Athol set; Frankford Constable Clifford Partington, second, and Picton set, headed by Deputy Reeve Carman Scott, third. Judges were Phil Poole, Chief of Police Bert Biddle, Reeve H. MacDonald.

A great variety of pets took part in a pet parade, all entries receiving a prize. Most of the entries were dogs, but there was a goat wearing a hat; a duck and ponies. Eleanor Rabbie's duck won first prize; Lynn Gardiner's Boston bull terrier, second; Larry Elliott's goat, third; Elizabeth Johnston's dog, fourth; Elizabeth Rabbie's dog, fifth. There were 13 starters in the class of dog shows.

A midway on the grounds was kept busy until late at night, while the Rotary club operated a booth. Two clowns provided much fun.

SOLDIERS ANXIOUSLY AWAIT CEASE - FIRE

One of the principal aims now of the individual U. N. soldier is to escape being named as the last man to be shot in the war. News of the armistice talks have spurred soldiers' hopes that they would be returning home, but field commanders have warned that more fighting may still be in store for them. Mallette Wins Fifth Straight For Montreal

(By The Associated Press)

Mal Mallette, 28-year-old left-hander of Montreal Royals, is staging one of the finest comebacks in baseball.

Mallette, drafted by Brooklyn in 1949, was of little use to the Dodgers because of arm trouble last year. He spent most of the season at Elmira, N. Y., winning six and losing one.

The Dodgers shifted Mallette to the Royals this season and of late he has been one of the top pitchers in the International League.

Mallette hung up his fifth straight victory and sixth of the season last night as the Royals edged Syracuse Chiefs 5-4 in 12 innings.

The victory increased Royals' lead to 10½ games and dumped the Chiefs out of second into third place. Buffalo Bisons took over second by five percentage points as they beat Baltimore Orioles 6-5.

Mallette scattered 10 hits and fanned 10 in beating the Chiefs' Jack Griffore. Bobby Morgan singled home the winning run with two out.

—Tom Simpson, rookie relief pitcher doubled Robin Landrith in the last of the ninth with the Bisons' winning run against Orioles. Simpson allowed only one hit in four innings to gain his seventh win in as many games and 4th of the season.

Brilliant relief pitching by lefthander Fred Hahn enabled Montreal All-Stars to defeat Ottawa Giants 6-4 and post their sixth straight victory. Hahn permitted one hit in 4 1/3 innings. A three-run homer by Charley Kress and one with the bases empty by Ed Markovics decided the issue in favor of the Wings.

Frank Marino pitched Sportsfield Cubs to a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. Pinch-hitter Emil Verban singled home the winning run in the eighth inning.

N.E. Girls Lose To Dairy Maids Of Watertown

The local Northern Electric girls' softball team journeyed to Watertown on Monday, July 2, to play the Dairy Maids team of that city and emerged on the short end of a 12-10 score.

Northerns outhit the opposition, fifteen to twelve, but succumbed to a five-run outburst in the fifth inning of the ten-inning game.

Anne McGrath started on the mound for Northerns, pitching until the fifth, when she was relieved by Sally Twigg, newly-acquired pitcher formerly of Trenton.

Mills led the hitters with three and no less than five others banged out a duo of base-knocks.

Tonight the girls play host to Baltimore at the CNRAA field.

Field of 187 Tee Off in Hunt For Golf Title

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—An international field of 187—a collection of golfers from half a dozen countries—started today in the 42nd Canadian Open golf championship.

The winner was anybody's choice but the guessing swung strongly toward the strong American entry headed by Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, one of defending champion who was born in Australia.

Canada's chances for the championship last won in 1914 by Karl Keffer of Ottawa appeared to rest in the hands of Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro and Gordie Brydson, the home professional at the host Mississauga Golf Club course.

Ferrier, who was three strokes off the Canadian Open record last year when he took the Seagram Gold Cup with his 271 at the Royal Montreal, shot a relaxed 69 in his final practice round yesterday. That was two strokes off the 67 shot by Cary Middlecoff, a highly-favored contrant from Memphis, Tenn., and five off the pre-tournament pacebreaking 65 made yesterday by Earl Stewart of Dallas, Tex. Doug Ford, the Briarcliff, N.Y., professional who fired a sensational 61 Monday, had a one-under-par 71.

South America was represented in the first bid for the Canadian title by Roberto Vincenzo of Argentina and Harold Simpson of Venezuela. Hawaii was represented by Herman Coelolo, another "first" for representation in the Canadian Open.

Of the three, Vincenzo is given the best chance of the newcomers, but he will have to contend with such strong home-country golfers as Ferrier, Ford, Middlecoff, Jimmy Demaret of Oajai, Calif., Ted Croll of New Harford, N.Y., runner-up a year ago, and a host of others in what is regarded as the strongest American entry list in many years.

Bobby Locke Looks Likely Choice to Win

Portrush, Northern Ireland, July 4 — (AP) — When Locke smiles, the word is watch out — and Bobby Locke was grinning all over today as he stepped up to the first tee in the British Open golf championship.

Bobby, the South African wizard, is out to make history by winning the Open three times in a row. It has been 59 years since anybody did it, and at that time the chase was only 36 holes. Now it's 72.

There are 88 players who qualified in the preliminary round yesterday. Another 80-odd hopefuls will watch from the sidelines.

Locke, who had a 139 for the 36 holes of qualifying play, is one of the first to get going and about half the players will know what they must do to head off the champion by the time they reach the tee. Bobby likes it that way. If he comes in with something like the 67 he shot yesterday, it makes it the target the boys nervous.

And at Portrush, besides the assorted ill-winds that play havoc with drives, there are deep, wild roses waiting on the edges of the narrow fairways to take care of any player who gets the shakes. The man with the crisp, true irons and well-behaved putter, is the best bet. They're Bobby's favorite shots.

But the only one in the field with any hope of overtaking Locke, Frank Stranahan, is not giving up. The Toledo, O., star was seven strokes behind Locke in the qualifying round, but he loafed through part of it.

League-Leaders Provide Thrills For Kinsmen Club

Glen Roy Athletic Club and Howe and Hagerman, the two league-leaders in the Belleville Commercial A League journeyed to Tweed last night for an exhibition game in aid of the Tweed Kinsmen Club.

The game played under lights went along very rapidly with the lads of Glen Roy coming out on the long end of a 3-2 score. All runs in this contest were unearned as both the batters and the fielders seemed to have difficulty seeing the ball under the Howe and Hagerman... lalled twice in the first inning on a pair of safeties and an equal number of errors. Starter Don Boyce for Glen Roy bore down from then on and did not give up another ...e blow.

Glen Roy scored all of their runs in the 4th, two of them coming on "Widge" Adams' dropped fly ball that eluded him.

Marty Halloran relieved Boyle in the 5th and held the powerful bats of the opposition off the score sheet, helped greatly by a lovely peg from right field by "Red" Culkin to nail Jack Wardrough at the plate in the 7th inning.

Al Adams hurled all the way for the loss but was only nicked for two safeties, one of which was a bunt.

The game was barely completed when a downpour of rain sent customers and players alike scurrying for their cars and to their homes.

HYBRID LILACS

The old fashioned common lilac has been grown in gardens for generations. About a century ago a French botanist named Victor Lemoine did some outstanding work in developing some of the magnificent lilac forms now available. These are in single and double flowers ranging from dark red purple through shades of blue, mauve to pure white. The illustration above shows the flower forms of some of these varieties. Nursery catalogues list many outstanding varieties. Lilacs can be grown in many types of soil, but they do best in full sun and respond quickly to applications of well rotted manure, which is somewhat more desirable than chemical fertilizers. In some places where soil is inclined to be acid, lime should be dug in around the roots.

Remove all the dead flowers after the lilac has finished blooming. This will prevent seeds developing. Lilacs should be pruned during the late winter when all weak growth is removed. Care should be taken to avoid cutting off stems which are bearing flower buds. Many of the French lilacs are grafted and it is necessary to cut off suckers which are produced below the point of union.

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight the Redmen will march out in their warpaint to waylay the Peterborough Petes who currently, are riding the crest of the Viaduct League with seven pretty lop-sided decisions over the rest of the league, with Oshawa excepted. The Petes, who by all means, just have to walk onto the field to be assured of a five run lead by the sixth inning, will be given the stiffest test the Redmen can offer. The erstwhile leaders of the OBIL have found the edge on their batting and fielding somewhat somewhat dull these last few outings, and have fallen from first place to the brink of disaster — the second division.

The horrible schedule, not to search too hard for alibis, has had the Redmen squatting in their teepees for many rainy nights while the rest of the league basks in the golden glow of twilight games and the glitter of admission money. To recoup their sagging schedule and to put a little more coin in the cashbox, the Redmen will endeavor to play at least two home games a week from here in. When the schedule doesn't permit two home games, the league will import the best outside talent they can find. The Petes are the first of such a string that likely will see Oshawa, and a few American squads in town before the snow falls.

Whipper Billy Watson, the pride of East York and a financial pillar at such reputable banking houses as Maple Leaf Gardens, the Ottawa Auditorium, the Hamilton Arena, not to mention the Belleville Palace de Luxe, has been matched for the feature wrestling attraction this Friday with none other than Yukon Eric. Last week the fans had a tough time picking a villain in the Friday chapter of the weekly drama presentation, as the two rival mat stars scratched the management wisely came up with the darkest villain they could find — Monsieur Yukon. While the burley lumber jack with the 56 inch chest can't boast a gentleman's gentleman, he can splash with the best of them, he does know how to wrestle, and things should be somewhat warm for the Whip.

In the main preliminary, Chief Sunl War-Cloud will attempt to cast a pall over the Ides of March, when the young man with a plush-Jane name like George Scott will risk life and limb against a pleasant type known as 'Gergus' Sonny Kurgis. No relation of George the Georgous.

The Montreal Alouettes in securing George Ratterman of the New York Yankees to replace Frank Filchok who will do his slinging out west, have served notice that they will again be strong contenders for a Grey Cup berth come late November. In fact the whole rugby picture in Canada is taking on the appearance of a U. S. "Who's Who in Football!" The Los Angeles Rams are so uneasy about the prospect of losing tackle Dick Huffman to Winnipeg, that the management has taken out a court injunction to prevent his departure for Portage and Main. Howie Turner and Doug. Waggoner of Ottawa are now legally Canadians, from a football point of view, having lived here four years, so the Rough-riders will be packing in more imports. The champion Argos are bringing up a crop of last year's intercollegiate stars to bolster their championship team. Included in the newcomers are Bill Furt and George Arnott of Western and Doug. Walker of Queen's, Bass, Curtis, Dekdebrun, et al will be back in the backfield. Ted Toogood, the free wheeling star of last year's Grey Cup game will be back as well. Out west, where oil and natural gas are making millionaires out of millions, and nervous wrecks of the bosses of the U. S. football leagues, you can expect the best teams that money can buy. It looks like a ferocious time all around.

GLITTER AT A GLANCE

The late Bill McGimmon, one of the city's all - time ball fans with a loyalty record that stretched from here to there, has been remembered by his son, Mac, with a trophy for the midget baseball league to be known as the C. N. "Bill" McGrimmon Memorial Trophy . . . Fred "Peggy" Green, who won the Charles Hannah Trophy for 12 foot sloops so often that they gave it to him, has put the trophy back into circulation and the first race for it is to be this afternoon . . . Yachtsmen and fishers or sportsmen afloat on the bay can get any variety of help they desire by contacting Stewart Pickering at the sea cadet base . . . Canada's hopes in the forthcoming Olympic games look brighter than at any time in her history. An amazing crop of junior runners is the reason. Don McEwen, the great Canadian two miler at Michigan, and Bill Parnell of Washington State (home is in Vancouver) are just two. A bevy of fleet - footed racers in Toronto are smashing junior marks every time out. It doesn't matter where you run, the clock ticks away at the same speed anywhere and when you start beating the clock you are bound to come in a winner anyplace. It looks good for the Maple Leaf.

Major League Baseball Hits July 4th With Experts Still InFlap on American Loop Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Major league baseball hits its traditional July 4th independence holiday today with the experts still in a flap on the American League pennant race.

This is the day when the leaders of the American and National Leagues are supposed to go on and win the pennants. But this year, the remaining 13 weeks of the regular season may see some switches.

New York Yankees—perennial American League champions—are leading the junior circuit by only one-half game. Brooklyn Dodgers, powerhouse of the National and last year's runners-up, are leading by 4½ games, a fairly-comfortable cushion but not enough to ensure a pennant.

Chicago's amazing White Sox —the team picked to remain in its usual second-division spot—cut the Yankees lead to the half-game margin by a 4-1 victory over Cleveland. Brooklyn's edge over New York Giants was trimmed when the Dodgers were stopped by Boston Braves 4-3 and the Giants took a 13-inning marathon from Philadelphia 9-8.

The Giant-Philly game was a thriller Tuesday.

The Giants were never in front except when the game was over. A single by Whitey Lockman with one out in the 13th scored pinch-runner Clint Hartung from third with the deciding run. Hartung was the 19th player used by Manager Leo Durocher.

The Giants came battling back to tie the score five times, thrice in extra innings.

Sid Gordon's bases-loaded single in the last of the ninth snapped a 3-3 tie and gave the Braves their fifth win over Brooklyn. Max Surkont went the distance to register his seventh victory for the tribe. Carl Erskine was the loser.

Allows Three Hits

Letty Billy Pierce snapped Cleveland's nine-game winning streak with a three-hit performance for the White Sox. It was his 13th triumph without a loss over the Indians. Bob Dillinger, batting for the White Sox attack of Bob Lemon with three singles. He drove in a run and scored another. It was Pierce's eighth win against six losses.

Sid Hudson ended Washington's seven-game losing string, hurling a five-hitter against the Red Sox for a 4-1 verdict. Mickey Vernon drove in three of Washington's four runs against loser Ray Scarborough. Outfielder Irv Noren of the Senators acquired three hits for the fourth straight game.

Held in check for five innings, the Reds exploded for six runs in the sixth to overcome a 4-0 St. Louis lead and take a 10-4 victory. It was Harry Brecheen's first loss of the season. He had won five. Connie Ryan hammered two home runs for the Reds and drove in three runs. Ken Raffensberger was the winner.

Vernon Law pitched a 2-0 shutout for the Pirates against Chicago Cubs. He allowed only five hits.

Ralph Kiner was banished for the first time in his career when he argued with umpire Jocko Conlan over a decision in the sixth inning.

Detroit, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis in the American League were not scheduled.

Ratterman Causes Football Uproar By Leaving N.Y.

New York, July 4 (AP) —The owner of the New York Yanks thought George Ratterman was only fooling when the former Notre Dame quarterback said he was going to do his future football playing in Canada.

Now Collins is threatening legal action against Ratterman for signing to play with the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

"If he is jumping the team to play in Canada I shall start legal action immediately to force him to fulfil his contractural obligations," said Collins.

Ratterman told at a press conference in Montreal yesterday that he feels he is legally free to play in Canada.

"I feel I am a free agent," Ratterman said. "My lawyer has confirmed that I am not legally bound to the New York Yanks. As far as I am concerned the Yanks' claim on my services expired May 1 and they made no approach to renew the contract."

Collins said Ratterman was on the second year of a three-year contract with the Yanks.

"His contract called for an increase in salary each year," Collins added. But he declined to name the amount.

No Letter Sent

"No, I didn't send George a registered letter before May 1 telling him we were picking up his option," Collins added. "I don't think it was necessary under the terms of the contract."

Collins said he didn't have anything against Ratterman personally but "I believe a contract is a contract and should be observed."

In the Montreal press conference, Ratterman emphasized that he was not jumping the National League.

"I'm coming to Canada and the Alouettes because here I believe I will have more business opportunities and a chance to keep my family with me," he said.

"I had a chance to make a business connection up here. I realize I can't go on playing football forever and I want to have a job when I'm 40 when my playing days are over.

"The pro clubs in the United States tell you they don't mind you taking another job but you train two months and play three more and a fellow isn't going to be able to hold down a responsible job under those conditions.

"In the second place, I like the idea of playing for a club which trains at home, I'm a family man. I have a wife and two children and I don't like to be away from them during the two months of pre-season training."

Executive Suspends Hurler Chalifoux

Galt, July 4.(CP) —This year's Intercounty Baseball League senior all-stars will play Indianapolis Clowns July 31 probably in Waterloo, league executives decided Tuesday night.

Proceeds from the game will go to Intercounty minor teams and the W. J. Selder Memorial Fund.

Executives also announced the suspension of Roly Chalifoux, formerly a pitcher with St. Thomas Legion and Stratford Nationals. Chalifoux will be reinstated when he settles with St. Thomas for the release they obtained from Stratford for his services. Frank Udvadi of the Kitchener juniors was suspended for two games and ordered to apologize to the league for remarks he made to the press in his case.

It was announced that no bids have been received for the 50-odd players cast off from Inter- to 16 players for the July 1 deadline. The last-place St. Thomas team, given first choice, made no selections.

So far they have had no offers Patrick said: "Lester may have had his offer."

But there is a gimmick, there is a new lease for the arena building to be negotiated.

Patrick is the former general manager of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Jim Muldoon established a new Intercounty baseball record last night but it didn't stop the league-leading Brantford Red Sox from defeating his Waterloo Tigers 3-1.

Muldoon, who hit safely in the first inning, has scored a hit in 23 games, one more than Don Bauer did for the Tigers in 1948.

At Kitchener, Galt Terriers took fourth place from the Legionnaires with a 5-3 win.

The Terriers scored four in the 3rd when Kitchener starter Gerry Creasey lost control and walked four and gave up two hits.

At Brantford, Al Gavey racked up his fifth win against one loss in pitching the Sox to a three-hit victory over the third-place Tigers. Two hits and a sacrifice in the first inning spoiled his shut-out.

In the Viaduct League, Oshawa Merchants moved within three games of the league-leading Peterborough Petes by beating Toronto Staffords 5-3 and Toronto Crofions 4-2 in a double-bill in Toronto.

During a league meeting in Galt, officials decided to hold their all-star game against the Indianapolis Clowns on July 31, probably in Waterloo. Proceeds will go to minor Intercounty teams and the W. J. Snider Memorial Fund.

Creighton Indians of the Nickel Belt senior series walloped Sudbury Shamrocks 8-0 to hold on to their league lead.

McIntyre shut out Porcupine Combines 1-0 in Timiskaming senior play. Sparky Vail pitched a one-hitter for the winners over a nine-inning route.

Oshawa Merchants continued their winning Viaduct senior way with a 5-3 win over Staffords and a 4-2 victory over Crofions in a Toronto double bill.

Intercounty action tonight will see London at Galt, St. Thomas at Waterloo and Brantford at Guelph.

Nineteen-year-old Jack Bowes of the Guelph squad will pitch before the watchful eye of no less than six major league scouts impressed with his 3-3 record with the sixth-place Maple Leafs.

Sault Ste. The Lackawanna is proceeding on her way downbound while the Hobson is returning to the Soo under her own power for a full survey of the damage.

Price of Snead's Exhibition Appearances Up

Oakmont, Pa., July 4 (AP) — The price of Sam Snead's exhibition appearances went up today.

The West Virginia hill billy, always one to pick up any stray dimes, tilted his third Professional Golfers' Association crown on the side of his sunburned brow and said:

"If Ben Hogan is worth $1,000 per exhibition, I'm worth $800. And that's the price from now on."

Sam was just a bit stuffy after whipping 32-year-old Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., 7 and 6, in yesterday's finals of the 33rd P.G.A. race over Oakmont's 6,862-yard stretch of traps, hump-backed fairways and slick greens.

He was under par for the 166 holes of match play, and strewn along his victory trail were such luminaries as Freddie Haas, Marty Furgol, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke—and two newcomers of the big-time golfing wars, Charles Bassler and Burkemo, the latter making his first bid.

The long-hitting Texan from the hills will pass up the Canadian Open in favor of a series of exhibitions, and will make his next tourney bid in the Western Open at Davenport, Ia., late this month.

Snead picked up 3,500 as first prize for winning the laurels, along with $250 guarantee for each P.G.A.-sponsored tournament in which he appears until next year's title test.

Burkemo, who picked up $1,-500 in his losing venture, said he would put it in a fund he's building up for his two youngsters' education.

Despite Snead's sensational shooting in the finals—he was four under par for the 50 holes—Burkemo's inability to match par was the deciding factor. He was over par on nine holes and Snead won eight of them—more than he needed for his 7 and 6 decision.

The P.G.A. victory boosted Snead into the fifth spot in the money-won list for the year, with a total of $1,762. He was out of play for more than six weeks with a broken hand.

Racing Boards Again Sold

London, Ont., July 4 (CP) — Another father-and-son team Tuesday became owners of the former Miss Canada III and Miss Canada IV speedboats when J. Moore, vice-president and general manager of a petroleum firm, announced their sale on behalf of the company to J. Gordon Thompson and his son, Jim Thompson.

The elder Thompson, prominent Western Ontario industrialist has been keenly interested in boating for many years. His son is a graduate of Royal Canadian Naval College, Royal Roads, B.C., and is at present associated with his father in business here.

Both boats were formerly owned by E. A. Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., and driven by his son, Harold.

The elder Thompson said he would have a statement later as to plans for racing the craft.

AMERICAN THREAT TO CANADIAN OPEN

A score that came close to a World's record was registered over the holiday weekend by Doug Ford, seen above, of New York city, in a practice round for the Canadian Open scheduled over 6,543-yard, par 72 Mississauga course at Toronto, beginning July 4. Playing in a best-ball match with three other fellow-Americans, Ford, who tied for fourth place in recent Ontario Open held at Kitchener, Ont., carded an 11-under-par 61, parring or better on 17 of the 18 holes.

When should a family borrow

A family should borrow only when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. For example, to pay old debts, medical expenses, taxes, back accounts, or at home repairs. Loans for these reasons are not inflationary, for the money is not used to buy goods in short supply or increase indebtedness.

SOLVING MONEY PROBLEMS

At HFC—Household Finance—we believe a family should borrow only when, by careful planning, the money problem can be solved, and the loan repaid in an orderly manner. When a family borrows under these circumstances, it is simply "renting" money on terms it can afford. At HFC you may borrow $25, $50, $100 or more on your signature, without bankable security.

Motormen Tie For First Place In Softball Loop

Banging out a fourteen-hit attack against two pitchers Belleville Motor Car Monday night downed the Stewart-Warner nine by a score of 12-4.

The win moved the Motormen into a tie for first place with a game in hand over Bakelite who also have 10 points. The other three teams each have six points although they vary in games played.

The Motormen knocked the lid off the game in the fifth inning when 11 men came to the plate and they scored a total of six runs. These, added to the three that they had scored in the 2nd and a single tally in the fourth, brought the score up to 10 to 2. All the damage was done after two men were out. Bo walk, singles by Callaghan, Bisland and Stone, followed by a triple by Walsh did most of the damage. Another hit sandwiched by a pair of Alexander errors finished the scoring for that inning.

Stewart-Warner tallied their first run in the third and fifth with a pair in each inning. Although getting a dozen hits they could not seem to bunch them and consequently did not get the power when needed most.

Neither Dracup nor Stone on the mound was overly effective although Stone received almost six-tight support. Bush, in relief, hurled the best job of the three giving up only two hits and a pair of runs in four and one-third innings.

Walsh and Stone led the plate-power for the winners with three hits apiece in official appearances; Walsh getting a triple and a home run to drive in five runs. Thompson and Hatfield each had a pair of safeties with the rest being evenly divided.

Hammet had three for five for the losers and Bertrim, Bush and Taylor each contributed a pair of bingles in their 12 hit attack.

A fairly good holiday crowd was in attendance at the game that was played in the fairly good time of one hour and twenty minutes.

Belleville Motor Car: Thompson 2b; Hatfield 3b; Bone c; Miller ss; Callaghan 1b; O'Brien rf; Bisland cf; Stone p; Walsh lf.

Stewart-Warner: Bertrim lf; Dracup p; Hammett 2b; Bush 2b, p; Duesberry rf, 3b; Upper c; Page 1b; Taylor cf; Tebworth rf.

Lewis replaced Tebworth in the first; Barnum to rf for Dracup in the 5th.

TO REVISIT "SCENE OF NEAR MURDER"

Sugar Ray Robinson, world middleweight titleholder, is seen as he was interviewed by Italian newsmen shortly after his arrival in Turin, Italy, for his recent bout with Cyrille Delannoit or Belgium, whom he stopped in third round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout, his fifth victory in six bouts of his European tour. Robinson told reporters that he plans to fight again in Germany despite his unpleasant experience in West Berlin last week when irate boxing fans pelted the American boxer with beer bottles following match with German light-heavyweight Gerhard Hecht.

When players in a bridge game query the rules they seldom win. With partners such as these you learn to take it on the chin.

No use kidding yourself in a bridge game. Either you have new information for partner or you have not. With nothing new to tell, keep your yap shut. The way to spell yap is n-o-u-t-h.

There is only one way you can keep your yap shut in a bridge game. The legally permitted method, it is by saying pass Thus, a pass is an admission that you have nothing new to tell partner.

When partner opens with a bid of one he expects two tricks in your hand; a bale of two high cards. So, unless you have at least three tricks with two highs among them you should pass.

This applies whether or not an opponent intervenes with a bid. The reason is obvious. If you have not more than expected when an opponent does not bid, you certainly have not if opponent does bid.

South opened with a bid of one diamond. West came in with a defensive simple overcall of one heart. North held this hand:

♣ K 9 8 7 6 4

North has three tricks; the club king high and a short in the diamond suit, a short in the heart suit. But only one of his three tricks is a high card. So, he should pass.

Some players hate to pass even with as weak a hand as this. But only the most foolish would even consider a bid with it. Especially when an opponent has kept the bidding open for partner.

Once this hand has passed he has told partner that he lacks some quality for a true response. He may enter the bidding on a later round, if necessary. Partner has already been warned.

Having been warned, south will not mistake any future bid by north. South can then use the information with caution. Or take a sacrifice. Take it or leave it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, July 4 (AP) — Ozzie Nelson can well be envied by every American father. He's got his whole family under roof.

The former band leader is the headman of the Nelson clan which includes his wife, the former singer Harriet Hilliard, and their two sons, David, 14, and Ricky, 11. For two years the entire family has been playing on the radio in "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet."

Now they are all involved in making a film, "Here Come the Nelsons." Since it is the family type of picture which is popular with film patrons, there is a strong possibility that the film will lead to a series. That would no doubt please Ozzie, who has managed to keep four shows coming in and maintain a normal, unspoiled family at the same time.

"We're a very close family," explained Harriet while the three male members of the family were in a movie scene. "We've never had any trouble with the boys getting hammy or self-conscious. For one thing, they have been around show business all their lives, so they take it naturally.

"They consider their acting as a job to be done as well as they can. They know how their father works his heart out over the scripts, and they feel terrible whenever they fluff a line.

"The boys go to public schools and fortunately their friends treat them quite normally. They don't comment about how good the boys were on the radio. They only say, 'That was a funny show' or something like that."

Big Dough

The two boys never see the money they are earning. By court rule, half of it goes into government bonds and the other half into their bank accounts. It has been estimated that the boys will have $150,000 each by the time they are 21.

Meanwhile they get by on allowances that are normal for boys their ages. David draws $1.50 a week and Ricky $1.

Capsule Review

"Alice in Wonderland" is one of Walt Disney's best efforts. He has adhered to Lewis Carrol classic, adding enough Disney humor to make it a delight for all ages. The voices, songs and imagery all combine to make a dazzling, imaginative show.

CHAMPLAIN HONORED

Quebecers gathered Sunday on Dufferin Terrace before a monument to Samuel de Champlain who founded Quebec City in 1608. While Quebec's foundation date was July 3, the celebration was held, as usual, the first Sunday in July and coincided with Dominion Day ceremonies. (CP Photo).

Man in Custody Will be Examined For Mentality

Cornwall, July 3. (CP)—Lionel Reny, 34-year-old Ottawa taxi driver who was shot in the neck last week in what police termed a "weird insurance-collection plot", was brought here Sunday. He is being held in jail on a warrant under the Mental Patients Act and police said he will be mentally examined.

Awaiting trial here on a wounding charge is Wanda Gough, 22-year-old brunette.

Police said she told them that Reny had asked her to shoot him in the shoulder so he could collect on an insurance policy. Her aim was poor, however, and the bullet struck Reny in the neck. The wound was not serious.

Thill and Funfilm in "Bunco Squad," Mad Wednesday"

Efforts of confidence men who rob a widow of her fortune through a fake fortune-telling racket are foiled in RKO Radio's "Bunco Squad," with Robert Sterling, Joan Dixon, Ricardo Cortez and Dante the Magician portray the featured roles showing at the Belle Theatre.

Sterling, a member of the police bunco squad, uncovers a phony religious cult which has been organized for the sole purpose of bilking a widow out of her $2,000,000 fortune.

The widow has been induced to will her fortune to a fake society in mysticism. How the ruthless swindlers are trapped builds up to a breath-taking climax. Other players include Douglas Fowley, Elizabeth Risdon, Marguerite Churchill and Bernadene Hayes.

"Mad Wednesday" Funfilm

Laughter is the order of the day when "Mad Wednesday," the 2nd feature attraction on the same program is exhibited.

Harold Lloyd's adventures with a lion keynote "Mad Wednesday," a hilarious new comedy starring the famous funster, which critics are acclaiming.

Claims Against Company Adds Up to $17,000,000

Cleveland, July 3 (AP) — Claims against Canada Steamship Lines in behalf of the S. S. Noronic fire at a Toronto pier Sept. 19, 1949, added up to nearly $17,000,000 at the deadline for filing passed Monday.

Only a few claims were added Monday.

Lucian Y. Ray, one of the admiralty lawyers representing C.S.L., owner of the vessel destroyed with 118 died, said his office had copies of 106 death claims and that their total was "pretty close to $17,000,000."

A committee of five lawyers is to report some time in July on claimants submitted to the federal court Monday in a separate document listing 46 alleged instances of fault on the part of the steamship line.

Their petition asked the court to make the steamship line "fully liable" to each claimant, with interest at six per cent back to Sept. 19.

The company already has asked the court to put a limit of $448,000 on its liability, an amount set by protective admiralty law.

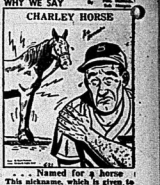
WHY WE SAY

By Fee Mallett



... Named for a horse ! This nickname, which is given to aching muscles in baseball players and other athletes, was first applied lastingly to the resemblance the ailment had to a horse (named Charley) stricken with severe and aching muscles. The name is popular today, and is even occasionally used by doctors.

RAWDON

Rev. R. R. Bonsteel Inducted By Rev. George Young

Rawdon — Wellman's United Church, on Rawdon Circuit, was a picture of loveliness on Thursday evening for the induction of the new minister, Rev. Richard R. Bonsteel, (formerly of Odessa.)

The new altar arrangement gave the edifice a more dignified setting and the beautiful vases of roses and potted gloxinia added a touch of beauty to the whole. The flowers were provided by Mrs. Russel Johnston.

Rev. Lenore Beath of Springbrook Circuit, conducted the service and opened with the hymn, "O Perfect Love," and read portions of Scripture from St. Luke and St. John. Rev. Beath also read the thought, "Feed My Sheep."

Gives Charge

Rev. George Young, Marmora, gave the message to the minister and said the great aim of the ministry is "that the common man of the world shall be led to Christ." He spoke of the preparation needed in order that a minister may meet the everyday problems and still be a living witness for Christ.

Rev. Boyd Beckett of Ivanhoe Circuit, who is so well known on Rawdon Circuit that nearly everyone calls him "Boyd," gave the message to the people. He opened with the words of the psalmist, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills," and outlined the highest aim of Christian living.

He challenged his audience to be loyal to their church and said the true foundation of the Christian faith is prayer as the poet has said, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Bible reading is very essential and by reading God's Word each individual can find out the various directions for their lives.

Value of Church Attendance

Mr. Beckett spoke of the value of regular church attendance, of the necessity of co-operating with the pastor and wished God's blessing on both pastor and people.

Wellman's choir contributed a selection, in The Service of The King," and Mrs. Frederick Beckett contributed a vocal number, "Living for Jesus."

The offering was gather by Messrs. Cecil Pauley and Frederick Beckett for presbyterial expenses. The service closed with, "Breathe on Me Breath of God," and Rev. R. R. Bonsteel pronounced the Benediction.

Following the service everyone in attendance was introduced to Rev. Bonsteel and his mother, with Messrs. B. C. Tucker, John Holmes and Frederick Beckett in charge of the introductions.

Guests Present

There were 20 people present from Mount Pleasant, five from Bethel and over 30 from Wellman's. The visitors included Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker, St. Paul's-Carmel; Mrs. George Young, Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bonsteel, Kingston, and Mrs. Carman Sine, Springbrook.

NOT DRESSED FOR THE OCCASION

Stepping back into the 18th century, British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison finds he is the one whose costume is out of place. He was visiting Brockham Green, Surrey, where Festival of Britain celebrations had the entire community dressed as villagers did over 100 years ago. So Morrison got into the spirit of things by having his palm read by a fortune-teller.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

I reached for it, felt the satiny cloth. I heard a slight sound behind me, let go of the cloth and started to duck. I didn't duck soon enough or fast enough or both—anyway I realized that I had been hit and hit hard. The top of Clara Mayhew's desk was coming up to me, and there wasn't anything I could do to keep it away from my face.

I opened my eyes. Complete darkness. Well, it wasn't morning yet and I wasn't due at the office till 9. Actually I never got there before 9.30 and Star Williams never squawked if I made it by 10. My head ached. Some day I would go on the wagon. I would feel better all the time and there wouldn't be these hangovers.

Tonight the pain was different. It was as if—the thought stirred me—it was as if someone had hit me on the head.

I came back in a flash, and was on my feet staring futilely in the darkness. There wasn't a sound around me, no one, reached into my pocket for my cigaret lighter, and it was gone. Then I remembered I had been using it when I had been looking through Clara Mayhew's desk.

Maybe it had dropped into the open drawer. I stepped on something. I reached down and found the lighter. I lit it. The yellow bathing suit was gone.

Somebody else had evidently attached a lot of importance to that bit of cloth. I turned about, warily now, half expecting someone to clout me. How long had I been out? Suppose the watchman had come and Sonya had noticed my auto horn in vain? The thing to do was to get out of here! Someone had beaten me this, round beaten me with a sock on the head. There was no point in standing around for a post mortem. I moved from the desk, moved back through the offices.

Abruptly I stopped as I saw light shining through a door crack. I listened for a sound in the room beyond and heard none. Yet I had a feeling someone was there. I remembered that door. It was the door to the room containing the big glass water tank and platform and vault.

I reached for my pistol and felt foolish as my fingers found only the emptiness of my holster. Whoever had bopped me from behind had relieved me of the gun. He would be in the room beyond. He thought I still lay unconscious beside Clara Mayhew's desk. I would have the advantage of surprise.

I gripped the doorknob and turned it slowly. It made no sound that I could hear. When I was sure that the latch was released I shoved hard, and the door burst inward. I followed it fast.

"Stand still!" said a voice behind me. It was a familiar voice. Sales Manager Wertheim stood behind the door. He looked very business like with my pistol in his hand. He said:

"I was sure you would be out longer, Marshall. I know something about anatomy—I'm a licensed embalmer. You must have a tough skull. Fortunately not mine filled with too many brains.

I wouldn't argue that point. But I did feel that he had been lucky. He must have seen the knob moving and been able to get ready for me, I noticed with some satisfaction that a bit of yellow satin peeped out of his left coat pocket. He had the bathing suit, all right. Why hadn't he carried it away?

He was waiting. Waiting for something to happen. Something in this room. I turned with unseeming foreboding. I think I must have stopped breathing when I saw that the vault was completely submerged in the water. Someone was in there!

This was no corny sales promotion demonstration. When the vault was bolted, no smiling girl would descend the ladder to take a bow from fascinated morticians. Whoever lay inside there would not move; she would be dead from suffocation!

I whirled. "Who's in there?"

Wertheim half-smiled. I knew. "Don't move, Marshall! Just stand still. You can't possibly accomplish anything. Sonya Sarpeels is in there. Yet by securing her she'll have to be more than a magician to get out!"

His use of tense gave me some faint encouragement. Evidently Sonya hadn't been in there too long. He assumed that she was not yet dead. She could still be saved.

The lever operating the hydraulic hoist was only three yards away. Yet it was so far. By the time I could reach it Wertheim could shoot me five times. There was no point in trying that. But I might be able to take Wertheim. He was closer — two yards.

I fainted a step toward the lever. It put me farther away from Wertheim, but the advantage of surprise might make the difference.

"Hold it, Marshall!" He meant it. His hand trembled as it held the gun. I made as if to take another step, then turned and threw myself at Wertheim. Even as I dove I saw his eyes staring at something beyond me. Instead of firing at me he shifted the gun and shot at the glass tank. I heard the crash of glass.

I landed with my arms around his legs. The gun roared again as he went over backwards. Then I was fighting in water—water at least a foot and a half deep. Wertheim flailed at me with the gun, I caught his wrist, twisted it, holding my head out of the water which did not seem to subside. I knew that it had come from the shattered tank. The first bullet and the water pressure behind it had released the flood.

Wertheim screamed as I kept up the pressure on his wrist. He let the pistol drop into the water. I scooped it up, got my hand on the grip, fought away from Wertheim as he tried to return the compliment and twist the gun from my hand. I brought the barrel forward and downward. There was a sharp crack as barrel met skull. Wertheim slumped back into the water. He would have drowned if I had not lifted him up.

Standing on the tank platform that I knew everything just because I knew about Frannie's bathing suit."

"Frannie's bathing suit?"

"Yes." I went over to Wertheim and pulled two pieces from his coat pocket.

"Why that's one the line girls wore this week!"

I nodded. "They also wore the same suits the week Frannie was killed. I guess Nanabarro must economize on costumes and use them over again after a few months. I realized tonight that this was Frannie's suit, the one from La Jolla Club. Remember Clara Mayhew saying Wertheim's wife had bought it?"

"I remember."

"Well, she had one fooled. Then tonight at Larry Stone's apartment I knew what Star had been talking about when he had made something of your being able to wear Clara Mayhew's clothes. Star knows, especially if they are in show business and keeping trim, can wear the same clothes. Star was telling me in his silly subtle way that Clara Mayhew could wear a bathing suit left behind by Frannie. That's why I came here for the thing."

Sonya was eying me carefully. "Then Frannie did die in the tank—as I was supposed to die?"

"No, not quite like that. Frannie was the only way he could save them from the horrible scandal of his disgrace."

"I told him I didn't know what he was talking about. He just laughed and said that if I didn't, you did, so it made no difference. It may interest you to know that after I had been suffocated, you were to get the same treatment. Then we were to be planted in your car and run off a bridge."

"Like Frannie."

"Don't keep me in suspense!" Wertheim said you knew everything. What is the truth? How did Frannie die?

"I'm not quite sure just how it happened, Sonya. Wertheim must have jumped to the conclusion

Two veterans of the RCAF were killed in this plane crash at Cobourg, Ont. F/O. G. Herieka, Toronto, and F/O. George Laing, Windsor, were piloting the plane from Deseronto when it was seen to lose altitude and plow into a swamp. Both were taking the RCAF refresher course at Deseronto.

"The heck with Star William. We want you and the girl."

"What's the beef? Why do you want us?"

"Nothing much. Just murder!" That one almost floored me. I got control of my voice and asked, "Mind telling me whom?"

"Not at all, Larry Stone's. You and this dame were the only people in his apartment and he was just found dead!"

Princess Elizabeth, Philip to Visit Canada

Coast-to-Coast Tour Will Be Made in October

Expect Couple Will Be In Canada Three Weeks

Ottawa, July 5 — (CP)—Government officials moved cautiously today into the ticklish task of arranging an itinerary for the visit to Canada this October of Princess Elizabeth, who one day will be Queen of this dominion.

Flurry of rumors arose immediately in the wake of the surprise announcement of the royal visit — reports that the Princess and her husband will make most of the trip by plane, that she will make a joint address to parliament, that they will cross the Atlantic by sea and fly back and such-and-such port.

It is just that sort of detail, so far as the Canadian segment of the tour is concerned, that will be worked out by a government interdepartmental committee set up with Charles Stein, undersecretary of state, as chairman. At the moment, the committee only is in its preliminary stages.

The question of an address to parliament is one thing that will come before the committee.

Leave In September

The Princess is expected to leave the United Kingdom late in September and to pay an official call at the capital before parliament opens Oct. 9. This rules out the possibility, which has been suggested unofficially, that she might open the fall session.

However, official sources are considering the further possibility that she might return to Ottawa — Particularly within the Atlantic Pact organization, Norway and Canada have formed a united front, he said.

Pearson Warns Against Too Much Optimism

Oslo, July 5 — (Reuters) — Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, warned Wednesday against "two-careless optimism" over the chances of peace in Korea.

At a press conference here, Pearson stressed that if fighting is stopped in Korea, there still is the political side of the problem and the problem of a peaceful solution of the whole far-east-ern problem.

Pearson also warned democratic countries against slackening their defence work.

"It would be a great mistake if we relaxed our efforts just because we have worked out a solution in the Korea problem," he said.

Pearson said his visit to Norway is unofficial, but he talked with Norwegian officials, including Foreign Minister Halvard Lange and Defence Minister Jens Hauge.

"Canadian and Norwegian relations might serve as a pattern for modern diplomacy," he said and jokingly referred to what he called the "Oslo-Ottawa axis."

However, official sources are considering the further possibility that she might return to Ottawa for the opening of parliament in January, 1952, to make a joint address to parliament.

The expectation here is that Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip will cross the Atlantic by ship, rather than by plane. That will be arranged by the United Kingdom government. It is not expected here that they will come by warship.

As for flying in Canada, it is considered likely that part of the tour will be made by plane and the remainder by train. The Princess will travel by plane a number of times.

The known facts are these, as contained in yesterday's official announcement by Prime Minister St. Laurent:

The Princess and her husband will visit Canada in October. They are expected to tour the country from coast to coast and the royal couple will open parliament.

It is estimated they will be in Canada about three weeks.

Mr. St. Laurent, announcing the royal couple have accepted a Canadian government invitation to visit Canada, said they want to make the trip "as simple as possible, having regard for the circumstances of the times."

Accident Death Toll in U.S. Over Holiday is 178

Chicago, July 5 — (AP) — The United States' July 4 traffic death toll was below the National Safety Council's estimated 130 and one of the lowest for the holiday in several years.

Cool, rainy and cloudy weather on the mid-week holiday cut highway travel in many parts of the United States.

The accidental death toll, traffic leading with 91, was 178. Two more and 11 others died from fireworks. Other accidental fatalities included 43 drownings and 36 from miscellaneous causes.

Hundreds were injured from fireworks. At least 15 suffered injuries at a fireworks display in Cheviot, O., a Cincinnati suburb, when an aerial bomb exploded among 10,000 spectators.

Last year the Independence Day holiday covered a four - day period and the accidental deaths hit a record of 762. The traffic toll was 452.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 5 — (CP) — During the night the weather shook off its sultry mood of a few last thunderstorms. By morning fresh winds began to dispel the frowning clouds giving promise of a bright afternoon. Friday is expected to be sunny too, with afternoon temperatures touching 80.

Northern Ontario escaped the rain and thunderstorms Wednesday night, but instead, suffered a frigid blast from the north. At White River, where the mercury plummeted to an official 33, frost was reported early this morning. However, rising temperatures are indicated in these areas, with continuing sunshine.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX WILL NOT SETTLE DOWN

2.1 Points Added To Index During May

Ottawa, July 5. (CP)—Bad news again from the Bureau of Statistics. The cost-of-living index won't settle down.

Because it cost a lot more to eat during May, the index used the month to climb to a new all-time high. . . for the umpteenth time.

The Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday that 2.1 points were added to the index during the month of May. So now our latest record of what it costs to live in Canada figures out to 184.1 points.

Although the index has increased 62.6 per cent from August, 1939. The index is based on 1935-59 prices equalling 100.

Two-thirds of May's general advance was caused by higher prices for food, especially butter, pork and fresh vegetables. But spurts in several other items—rents, clothing, hardware and electrical equipment, street car fares, gasoline and health care.

Wholesale prices for June, which are expected to give a clue to what retail prices will be like, declined one point to 265.6.

Prices were down for raw rubber, wool, tin, western oats, linseed and cottonseed oil, beef hides and U.S. bituminous coal. But they were up on butterfat, livestock and eggs.

The Bureau's rcnt figure— a quarterly report rather than monthly as are the other groups — increased 2.2 points to a record 139.8.

Homefurnishings and services were up 2.2 points but to a record 197.1.

Clothing advanced an even eight point to a peice 201.5. Food and light remained unchanged at 246.9 and the miscellaneous group—reflecting charges for health and personal care and recreation—declined .03 points to a record 141.0.

CANOE OVERTURNS

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 5 (CP)—Two in a canoe sounds romantic but it isn't when you have to walk home. That is what two Niagara Falls, N.Y., men did when found when he had to pull his bride out of the Welland river in nearby Chippawa early today and their canoe overturned. In addition they lost all their money plus automobile keys.

Mayors from 34 of the world's capital cities — including the mayor of Moscow — will join thousands of Parisians and foreign visitors in three days of parties and pageantry.

Truman Says It's Too Early To Tell if Red Cease-Fire Proposal is Sincere One

Washington, July 5 — (AP) — President Truman said last night it still is too early to tell whether the communists are serious business about calling off the war in Korea.

And even if they do, he warned in a fourth of July address, "we cannot ignore the danger of military outbreaks in other parts of the world."

Leading the American celebration of Independence Day, Truman joined Chief Justice Fred Vinson and defence mobilizer Charles E. Wilson in broadcasting this message to the American people:

We dare not relax.

The president told the festive crowd of around 200,000 at the Washington Monument grounds:

"The greatest threat to world peace, the tremendous armed power of the Soviet Union, will still remain, even if the Korean fighting stops . . .

"We have the hard task of increasing production and controlling inflation in order to support the strong armed forces we must have for years to come."

Truman, broadcasting from the Supreme Court building, said that "the relaxing of our preparedness program — a little more than a little—could have dire consequences."

His was an unusual address, since supreme court justices almost never speak publicly on issues affecting current legislation. The president's program of controls and defence spending now is before congress.

Program Must Continue

Defence mobilizer Wilson followed through, saying in his quarterly report to the president that the three-year defence program "must and will continue." He said it must be bolstered with vigorous price control, price rollbacks and stiff taxes.

In his speech, the president said "it may be" that the communists have decided to give up their position in Korea.

"If that is true," he said, "the road to a peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict is open.

"But we cannot yet be sure that the communist rulers have any such intention. It is still too early to say what they have in mind.

"I do not wish to speculate on the outcome of any meetings Gen. (Matthew B.) Ridgway may have with the commanders on the other side.

"I hope these meetings will be successful.

"If they are not, it will be because the communists do not really want peace.

Nonetheless, let us keep our heads, and be vigilant and ready for whatever may come."

Five Hospitalized by Crash As Transport, Four Cars Pile Up on No. 2 Highway

Five persons went to hospital, one with possible serious injuries, as result of a five-car smash which occurred this morning on the Belleville-Trenton highway, tying up traffic for the better part of an hour before the road was cleared.

In hospital with still undetermined injuries is Mrs. Beatrice Fernbury, of new York City, who was thrown out of her husband's vehicle as it crashed head-on into another car while attempting to pass a loaded auto transport.

Four others in hospital suffered only minor cuts and bruises and were expected to be released after receiving first aid.

Four in Heap

Three American cars, one from Ontario, and the auto transport were involved in the highway smash which saw the four cars end up in a heap on the north side of the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernbury were eastbound when they attempted to pass a Charlton auto transport driven by Paul Scott of Rochester. Before they could get back in line, they crashed head-on into a car bearing a Massachusetts licence. Then a car driven by W. A. Irwin of Belleville crashed into the rear of the Massachusetts car, and still a third car, occupied by honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Arenobine, from New Jersey, piled up behind.

Thrown From Car

The force of the impact spun the New York car around and Mrs. Fernburg was thrown out of the vehicle. She was flung clear from beneath the Ontario car as it was jammed against the Massachusetts vehicle. Mrs. Fernburg, with others, was taken to hospital in St. Bush's ambulance.

William Cummings, driver of the Massachusetts car, said he had seen that an accident was unavoidable as the approaching New York car swung into the path of the car transport. He said he had brought his car almost to a standstill when the oncoming car crashed into him. The two cars behind him were unable to stop and piled up behind.

Slight Clicb

Driver of the auto transport, Paul Wycott, said he first he realized anything was amiss was when he heard a slight click at the side of his transport. He saw a car in his rear view mirror and swung to the right to give him room but it crashed into the oncoming car.

Honeymooners, Mr. and Mrs. Arenobine, said this was the second accident in which they had been involved since they left New Jersey some days ago. Fortunately their car was not seriously damaged. The three other vehicles, however, were extensively damaged.

The five-vehicle smash, which created quite a mess, completed up traffic both ways for a mile or more until provincial police unsnarled the mess and let one-way traffic through. Later, wreckers removed the cars to allow normal traffic.

Texas College Student Ordered Out of Finland

Helsinki, Finland, July 5. (Reuters)—Finland today ordered a Texas college student out of the country because he sent messages from the border into Russia and swiped a Russian emblem off a guard's uniform.

He is David Russel Reeves, 21, San Antonio, Tex., a student at Oklahoma State college, on a hitchhike tour of Europe.

The interior department said that the souvenir-hunting youth has been sentenced to two weeks' "conditional" imprisonment and fined $38. Condition imprisonment means he does not go to jail unless he commits another offence within three years. Reeves is being held in jail until the fine is paid.

On a Russian frontier post he spotted a metal shield bearing the official Russian markings. The Texan swiped the shield, and Reeves removed the screws with a dime and sneaked back across the border.

SELL TO CITIZENS

Brantford, July 5 (CP)—For the first time in 25 years the city will offer debentures for sale to citizens through the treasurer's office. Council will sell $48,500 worth of bonds carrying 3½ per cent interest to finance an extension to Lansdowne School.

BRITISH TANKERS CEASE TO CALL AT ABADAN PORT

Iran Willing to Cut Price to Sell Oil

Tehran, Iran, July 5 (Reuters) —Iran, bent on taking over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, today bid for customers by claiming it would undersell other suppliers and hinting that it had a solution to the problem of transporting oil.

Anglo-Iranian Oil Company tankers have ceased to call at the oil port of Abadan, where the company's big refinery is moving toward a shutdown as storage tanks fill up, British staff still occupy and operate the refinery and its system.

Nasrgholi Ardelan, member of the government commission appointed to take over the A.I.O.C. told the Majlis (lower house of parliament) that Iran was prepared to cut three per cent from prevailing world oil prices "to attract customers."

He said the Iranian ambassador in Washington had had a "satisfactory talk" with the second largest oil tanker company in the world" in the United States, Iran's "National Oil Company."

Ardelan did not name the tanker firm.

(In London, oil experts refused to take Ardelan's claim seriously. They said the only big tanker fleets are operated by oil companies, bound to stand together in this crisis.

(Shell has the biggest fleet, followed by Esso, next, and then Anglo-Iranian, which has about 200 tankers. There are two small independent companies with about 25 craft each, but they are under charter to the big companies.)

Cut Production

He told the deputies that from next Saturday production at Abadan would be cut from 600,000 gallons a day—a little more than one-quarter production—to practically an early closedown of the plant.

Ardelan said if the deadlock with Anglo-Iranian continued, storage tanks would be filled by the end of July at the 5,000,000-gallon production rate.

He said the government was trying to work out a system by which tanker captains calling at Abadan would buy the kind of oil received from the new National Iranian Oil Co. for the captains have refused.

Meanwhile, London sources said Britain is considering a French suggestion for an interim solution to the oil stalemate, which would mean a continued flow of Iran's fuel to the west.

Details of Iran's stop-gap proposal were not disclosed, but it was understood to concern the proposed wording of a receipt which tanker captains would be asked to sign for oil loaded at the Abadan refinery.

Looks Like Grand-Daddy Longlegs, Electric Bug Subs for Vacuum Tube

By HOWARD W. BLAKSLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, July 5. (AP)— An electric bug, shaped like a grandaddy longlegs, was announced Wednesday by the Bell Telephone laboratories.

He substitutes for vacuum tubes. His body is a plastic ball the size of a marble, and his legs are three legs—all long, fine wires.

But he is the biggest bug ever invented when it comes to taking almost-unbelievably-small electrical energy and amplifying it. He uses one-millionth of a watt— 1,000,000 times less power than is used by the smallest vacuum tube.

Amplifying does not mean that the tiny current is changed into a more powerful current. The bug's little current is connected to another current, a bigger one, from a battery, and the little current regulates this big one, turning it on or off, or regulating the flow of the big current.

The bug is a kind of transistor. It is merely one tiny rod of the silvery metal, germanium, with a fine wire touching it at three places on the middle. They are hooked to the electric circuit where thne new substitute is used for a vacuum tube.

Blaze Destroys 40 Buildings In Gaspe Village

Rain Aids 300 Volunteers In Three-Hour Battle

Cap Chat, Que., July 5 — (CP) — A raging fire today destroyed about 40 buildings in this Gaspe Peninsula village leaving 200 persons homeless.

Heavy rain about 11 a.m. EDT, three hours after the fire started in the western end of the village, came to the rescue of volunteer fire-fighters.

The great blaze, driven by a fierce wind sweeping across the St. Lawrence River from the northeast, was brought under control by the 300 volunteer firemen just before noon.

No deaths or serious injuries were reported.

The fire broke out near the Boulevard Perron hotel and a store on the main street of this fishing and lumbering community of 2,500 people.

No one was sure of the exact point of origin in the confusion that resulted as flying embers rained down among the small wooden homes bunched at Cap Chat's western outskirts.

Abbe Charles Parent, curate at the Roman Catholic parish church which was threatened for a time, said the start of the blaze was about 8 a.m. E.D.T., just after he had celebrated his daily 7:30 a.m. Mass.

A northeast wind, striking at the village across a mile-wide expanse of the St. Lawrence river, blew the flames towards the western end of the village.

Carry Away Effects

People driven from the blazing houses, carrying what personal effects they could save, took refuge in unthreatened sections of Cap Chat.

Mayor Gerard Cote and village officials issued calls for help to the towns of Matane, Mont Joli and Rimouski. The arrival of Matane fire-fighters equipped with pumps turned the tide of battle against the blaze.

Hoses were run a half-mile to the St. Lawrence river and salt water was pumped onto the flames.

The major part of Cap Chat's business section, lying east of where the fire burned, escaped untouched.

PRICE OF CHERRIES SET

Hamilton, July 5 — (CP)—The 1951 price of sour cherries has been set at one and one-half cents a pound, the same as it was last year, it was announced here today.

Russell Neal, secretary of the Canned Foods Association of Canada, was informed of the price Wednesday.

POLLUTION CAUSE

Cookseville, July 5 (CP)—On a recent shopping trip 100 Girl Scouts suffered attacks of cramps and vomiting. Pollution of the Credit River is said to have been the cause and the township recreation committee is seeking steps to check on the contamination.

MORE THAN CAR WASH

Campbellford, July 5 (CP) — Anthony Dombrowski and Ernest Elly got a little more than a car wash and a soaking when their car went out of control on a curve and plunged into Trout Creek near here. The two suffered minor cuts and bruises.

70 Children Feared Killed In Explosion

Berlin, July 5 (Reuters)—More than 70 children were feared killed in an explosion on a pleasure steamer on the East Berlin Spree River today.

Eyewitnesses said the steamer was taking a party of 200 East German children to a rest between 10 and 12 to a holiday camp on the Baltic.

Fifteen children were reported taken to hospital with severe burns.

Earlier reports from the West Berlin police said the steamer's boiler had exploded.

East Berlin authorities refused an offer of help from West German police and firemen, the police said.

Eyewitnesses said: "The children waved and shouted as they passed under the bridge we were standing on. There was a loud explosion and a column of black smoke shot up in the air.

"It was difficult to see what happened then. Flames broke out and we saw some of the children jump in the water.

"The steamer was only 50 yards from the bank of the Spree but it seemed ages before any help arrived."

Most of the victims were drowned. Six were killed in the blast.

"Many of the children could not swim," the witness said.

"Eventually the steamer was towed to the bank and the remaining children jumped ashore. The flames were then put out."

an eyewitness at the scene reported DPA said a number of the bystanders jumped into the water and rescued up to 50 children.

This afternoon two East German police boats fished with nets for bodies.

The steamer, the Homeland, was burnt out.

RESTING COMFORTABLY

Tehran, Iran, July 7 (AP)—An American doctor cut out Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi's appendix today and the 32-year-old ruler was reported resting comfortably. A court official described the operation as "a simple appendectomy with no complications." The operation was performed by Dr. Frank Lahey, chief surgeon at New York hospital.

Woman's Heart Stopped for Twelve Minutes But Kept Alive by Surgeon

Boston, July 5. (AP)— Mrs. Helen Keith's heart stopped for 12 minutes on an operating table but she is alive today.

An account of the San Francisco woman's experience—how a surgeon maintained heart action for a half hour after he stopped the heart—was published today by Peter Bent Brigham hospital.

The report was written by Dr. N. A. Wilhelm, director of the hospital.

In San Francisco, Mrs. Keith today said she is feeling fine and can do some housework.

"I'm much better," she added. She identified the surgeon as Dr. Dwight Harken of Boston.

She said she is well enough to walk about the house, and even short distances outside.

Few people have been revived when the heart has been stopped as long as Mrs. Keith's, the hospital said.

"Not only had her heart stopped," Dr. Wilhelm's report said, "but it had gone into what is called 'ventricular fibrillation,' a final dying form of quivering commonly considered fatal. The period of arrest was eight minutes and the fibrillation four minutes."

Yet the 37-year-old California woman, mother of two children, was strong enough to leave hospital 12 days after the operation and make the long trip across the continent.

Weeks after the operation she lives with her family.

Farm Experts Claim Hay Crops Complete Loss Unless Rain Stops

Trenton, (Special)—Unless the heavy rains of this week stop soon, hay crops in Trenton and district will be a "complete loss", officials at the Dominion Experimental Farm said today. The farm is located between Trenton and Smithfield.

Farmers in the district are finding difficulty in drying out their red clover, and alfalfa and timothy are also being affected. The weather has been good for peas, but rain-soft ground is making the cutting and drawing of them a problem. Fall wheat acreage is expected to be down because of the rain.

Scab in apple orchards is quite prevalent, and the farm officials lay it to the rainfall, too. They say that spray coverage on the trees is being washed off as fast as it can be put on. There are good prospects for raspberries and the strawberry crop was rated as "excellent". No damage has been done as yet to tomatoes or potatoes, but low varieties in low ground may yet be affected.

One of the sweet notes in an otherwise generally sour report is that pasture land for cattle is excellent, due again to the heavy rainfall. Belleville, in three hours Wednesday, got more rain than it did in all of July last year. And it was still coming down this morning.

Three Countries May Send Forces To Middle East

London, July 5 (Reuters)—Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are considering proposals for sending token peace-time forces to the Middle East defence area, an authoritative source said today.

The Commonwealth Defence Ministers agreed in principle on the general problems of Middle East defence at last month's secret talks here but have still to make firm decisions on their respective contributions, he added.

The new Commonwealth effort when finally agreed would assist Britain to fulfil her obligations under the North Atlantic Treaty by strengthening peace-time defences of this strategic area.

Canada sent an observer only to the Defence Ministers' meeting as it is not directly interested in the Middle East because of commitments in the North Atlantic Treaty organization and elsewhere.

However; Canada is understood to be willing to help the Commonwealth effort by making essential military supplies available.

Assistant Fire Chief Will Not Accept Command

Crystal Beach, Ont., July 5, (CP)—William Gibbs, Jr., assistant fire chief of Crystal Beach, said today he would not accept command of the new Crystal Beach fire department.

Seventeen volunteer firefighters and all the town's regular firemen quit yesterday in protest against the dismissal of their chief, George Pletz, during a heated controversy over law enforcement.

Police Chief Gilbert Robertson also was dismissed by the town council pending a probe into charges that this resort a few miles west of Buffalo has become a "wide-open town", rampant with bootlegging, prostitution and dope-peddling.

Reeve Claude Brewster, meanwhile, is trying to arrange a meeting with firemen tomorrow night to get the department functioning again. At present, fire protection is being provided by the Bertie fire department in nearby Ridgeway.

Workmen Ordered To Stop Placing Glass in Store

Hamilton, July 5 (CP) —Faced with the possibility of having pickets placed in front of all its Hamilton stores informing the public that it was a party to strike-breaking tactics, officials of Loblaw Groceterias yesterday ordered workmen from Pilkington Brothers of Toronto to stop placing glass in the new store on Cannon and Emerson Streets. Employees of Pilkington's in Hamilton, members of the national union of Vitric and Ceramic Workers, CCL, have been out on strike for the last four weeks.

Oliver Hodges, local representative of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said this morning that he had telephoned A. R. Mosher, president of the CCL, and asked him to communicate with Percy Bengough to ask him to stop the strike-breaking tactics.

Yesterday, Pilkington Brothers employees in Toronto, members of the AF of L, came to Hamilton with the windows for the new store and commenced to install them. When told by Mr. Hodges that unless they were stopped he would have the local employees picket the grocery stores, Loblaw officials asked Pilkingtons to cease installation.

Ardelan said the Embassy in Washington had received a series offer from the second largest oil-tanker Company in the world."

GREATER TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE

Southampton, England, July 5 (Reuters)—Sir Charles Goodeve, British expert home from a five-week study of the American steel industry, said here today that Britain's technical knowledge was the greater.

"Americans would not know how to make steel out of the raw materials we use," he added. Sir Charles is a native of Winnipeg.

American mills work with "the most marvelous raw materials" while poorer raw materials forced British manufacturers to drive ahead in technique, he contended.

Goodeve headed a 16-man team from the British heavy iron and steel industry which had visited eight principal American plants.

PRESTON — In loving memory of a dear husband, William C. Preston, who passed away suddenly July 5, 1950.

I miss his wife's companion.

As I walk through life alone.
I miss him at a thousand turns
For what he was,
For life is not the same to me
Since he was called away.
Sadly missed by his wife Hazel.
And some things have to be,
But it fills with pain God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
Sadly missed by his wife Elizabeth. 25

TORONTO STOCKS

Following yesterday's trendless session, which was the quietest trading day this year, prices firmed at the opening and climbed ahead.

In industrials papers, steels, textiles, banks, retailer oils, liquors, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of gains. World Court Turns Down Iran's Claim

The Hague, Netherlandz, July 5 (Reuters)—The world court today ordered Iran and Britain to refrain from taking any measures in their oil dispute which would halt the flow of oil to the world.

The court was announcing its decision on Britain's plea for interim measures against Iran until the court hears the full British case against Iranian nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company later this year.

The court of 15 judges from as many countries turned down Iran's claim that it had no jurisdiction in the oil war.

It said each country must avoid any action which might prejudice the court's final ruling on Iran's oil take-over—upholding Britain's request for a freeze, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's expleitation of Iranian oil should continue under supervision of its present staff—subject to changes mutually agreed, the court ruled.

Joint Commission

A joint commission, appointed by the British and Iran governments, should guard the interests of the exploitation of oil and secure expenditure. Cash received should be paid into a bank account on by the commission.

This "board of supervision" should be composed of two members from each government and a neutral fifth member to be chosen by Britain and Iran. If they could not agree on the fifth member, the president of the court would appoint him.

Immediately after the court had pronounced judgment, Hussein Navab, Iran's minister to Holland, said he "we consider the judgment an intervention in our internal affairs. We consider it null and void."

Australian And Scot Lead Field In British Open

Portrush, Northern Ireland, July 5 — (CP) — Jimmy Adams of Scotland and Norman Von Nida of Australia today led the field for the British Open golf championship. Both had a gaudy 68.

But they will have to keep going at full blast to stay in the lead, because Bobby Locke, the South African automaton who is seeking his third straight championship got home in 71, three strokes off the pace in the first round.

That's nothing for moon - faced Bobby, and it could be that he's just warming up to his task. Max Faulkner of Britain also had a 71, while just ahead of them at 70 were Dai Rees of Wales and Peter Thomson of Australia.

Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, O., musicleman, had to shoot a subpar round today to stay in the running. One more bad round and the leaders will be too far away for him to catch in the 36-hole final grind over the treacherous Portrush course Friday. In his first 18 holes yesterday he posted a 37-38—75 — far off the pace.

Adams, who is almost as big as Tony Galento and Von Nida, who looks as though he ould fit in big Jimmy's pocket, were fortunate in that they started late yesterday when the worst of the winds had died down. The others were the victims of high breezes.

THE BITE MAY BE TOO BIG

The old saw about biting off more than one can easily chew is now applicable to oil cake. It appears as if Iran, in her haste to control the oil industry, has taken a much bigger step than she had provided for, and if new negotiations do not provide a satisfactory deal for both sides, she will find herself with a liquid gold mine from which she can obtain little, if any, production.

The latest plans and moves made by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company seem to indicate that the company is more than ever determined to evacuate Iran. If that happens, all the technicians who control the oil production will move out, and Iran will be left with an industry that she cannot work. She does not even enough native-born technicians to fill the gap, and the most of those who have the training were given all their technical knowledge by A.I.O.C.

Thus, with the exception of Russia, the world may see the shutting down of its largest refinery, at Abadan. It will remain idle until the Iranian National Oil Commission, named to administrate the nationalized industry, could make arrangements to resume production. Experts in both diplomatic and industrial fields have two doubts which seem to clearly set the issue. The first is a doubt that further negotiations between Britain and Iran are in the making. If there is little hope of an immediate change in the situation. The second is a doubt, expressed by oil experts, that Iranians would hope to operate their financial giant without the more than 600 technicians and field men of A.I.O.C.

Only when one realises that the situation is ideal for Soviet intervention does the picture become more serious. The Russians are undoubtedly sitting back quite well satisfied with the present turn of events, for they know that A.I.O.C. is past the bickering stage, and they know that Iran will lose great revenue while the industry is quiet, and that she cannot maintain any sort of standard of living if her oil resources are not utilized.

Now, the communists have two choices. They can wait until Iran, through poverty, approaches the stage of civil insurrection. They may then move in, taking over all the top posts of the government, and converting the country into another satellite. And an important satellite it would be, sitting on the cap of a great part of the world's oil. The communists may also rush into the country, without waiting for the strife, and offer technical aid. Either way, they will gain some sort of control over the resources.

The events of the next three weeks may well create part of the mold in which future peace or war will be shaped.

THE WRECKAGE THAT WAS A MAN

The mental and physical wreckage that once was a man appeared in a communist court in Czechoslovakia Wednesday, and heard himself sentenced to ten years in jail for spying. The man was William Oatis, once an Associated Press correspondent behind the iron curtain. His conviction is the latest in a series of cases concocted by communist governments, and serves only to point up the lengths to which the reds will go to degrade western citizens.

The conviction of Oatis follows trials in which other men of intelligence and character were reduced to mere machines. Even the church has not been spared. Clergymen have been broken and tossed into prison like rag dolls, their will and spirit fractured and tossed to the winds. The only man to reveal as yet the methods of torture and degradation by which the communists achieve their ends is Robert Vogeler, who was released from his sentence by diplomatic moves. Vogeler, haggard and nervous, has been recovering in hospital in the United States.

Oatis, if he had held incommunicado in Prankrac prison for 69 days before he was brought to trial. When he was brought into court, he admitted spying for the United States, but did not plead. His employers were refused permission to supply him with a proper lawyer, and western newspaperment were barred from the trial. Oatis himself was like a child on the stand, repeating that he was "sorry" for what he had done. He went through his story on the stand like a robot, and entrusted with the recital of a piece of verse in a school concert. He was well-drilled, and his once alert mind was dull.

At Washington, the trial has been labelled a "hoax" by the State Department. Beyond that, the trial is a crime because it has destroyed another fine mind. Oatis, until he is released from his imprisonment, and until he is brought back to true freedom, will go into the martyrs' list of free men broken by red domination.

JUST FOLKS

PRIDE

A barefoot boy went strutting by,
The pride of triumph in his eye;
A pole across his shoulder, and
A string of yellow perch in hand.

It may be when he's older grown,
If skill and courage he has most,
Along the street when he appears
He will be heralded with cheers.

The book of destiny is sealed.
What waits for him is not revealed.
A boy today, and none who can
Foretell his victories as a man.

It may be he will live to boast
Of glories life denies to most,
But of those fish so proud was he
That never will he prouder be.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When I was a small boy I won a reputation for self-sacrifice and generosity that has survived all my life. It was all on account of celery.

In those days, celery was not cut the way it is now. The bunch was not sliced into four quarters, each quarter consisting of both outside pieces and the heart. Nor forty years ago, when celery was fairly new you stripped each stalk of celery off the bunch, coming at last to the heart, which was supposed to be the piece de resistance. We had celery dishes on the table; some of them tall glass jugs, out of which the celery protruded; others were flat glass dishes. And all the pigs and kings at the table made a wild grab for the hearts, leaving the course outer stalks to the stoop pokes.

It must have been in about my eighth year that I discovered that the outer stalks of celery had anywhere from twice to four times the celery flavor of that woody, tender, tasteless little heart. It was upon this discovery that my reputation for unselfishness was founded. My brothers and sisters were first to observe my self-sacrifice. I would pass the celery dish to them, and permit them to seize the hearts. Then my parents began commenting on my aunts and uncles on what a modest, self effacing little boy they had. And the self-effacing little boy, with his piggy blue eyes fixed intently on the celery dish, would await his turn to accept the most beautiful, big, snapping, juicy and utterly delicious outside stalks that fairly burst with that indescribable, that inspiring, and penetrating flavor of celery of which, as I often proved by my own self-satisfaction, it is impossible to grow weary.

No doubt many of the great reputations for nobility of character are based on instances such as this. All it amounts to is a little discernment of the better qualities of some of the less prized things of life.

Then, bared nine square inches of his stomach to the pests for an hour a day almost every day in June, July and August, all in the interest of science.

Dark Colors Draw Black Flies Says Scientist

Toronto, July 5 (CP) — A man who probably has been bitten by more blackflies than anyone else in Canada has some advice on how not to get bitten.

Dr. Douglas M. Davies, a Toronto scientist now continuing 10 years study of the pests at Algonquin Park, earned his title of most fly-bitten man in 1947.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

THE NEW HENRY

There is a time just before sleep arrives when many men do their most penetrating thinking. Henry Plunge was such a man.

Lying there on the very lip of slumber, his mind purged of the trivia of the day and concerning itself only with one subject, Henry sometimes came to the thin blue heights of imagination.

Now, once more on this magic line between the mundane lands of consciousness and unconsciousness, his brain turning over like a delicate and well-oiled machine, Henry realized he had reached a turning point in his life.

In the week gone by poor Phidge had been exposed to one irritation after another. His garage had repaired his car, sent him a staggering bill and the car had promptly come down with ills old familiar trouble. His boss had selected him to handle an account famed and dreaded in his office, and the hearty insurance salesman had hounded him to the point where he was desperate. Even his wife doubted his ability to pay. He had given her a cheque for groceries that strokes a nine in a golf match, and had lost eight dollars.

One by one they flashed then off in his mind, as a general might list his defeats in battle, and then before—as if, in some sly way it had been Henry's doing. And indeed Henry felt a tug of guilt and, at the manager's suggestion, had paid for a whole new unit.

Man of Action

Now, with sleep an inch away and his brain suddenly and shifted at his slightest command, Henry Plunge thought over his trouble-last week meticulously analyzed each incident.

"My trouble is really quite simple," he told himself. "I am simply too nice to people. If I am going to establish myself I myself I would say that I am a Casper Milquetoast, that I am motivated by fear, by cowardice, a fearful man. Mild, perhaps Yes, mild. But not afraid. I am nice to people because I want to be liked and because I, in turn, like them. I have never been unable, or wanted, to put fear into them."

Henry smiled slightly to himself, admiring his own easy flow of logic.

"Now what do I get for being nice?" Pludge asked himself. "I get abused. I get no help to respond to the nice man. The meek do not inherit the earth. All that happens is that people take advantage of me, play me for a sucker, ignore me because I appear the kind of man who will accept being ignored. Now it I were like Phillips—"

Henry thought of his friend Phillips, a man in command of every situation. There was an air of truculence about Phillips, the attitude of a man who expects to get his money's worth or know the reason why.

Henry recalled with a shudder how Phillips had once sent back to the kitchen an over-done steak. The meat was, in fact, over done, but Henry would have eaten a concrete slab rather than humiliate the waitress.

Setting Up

Now Henry had one foot over the threshold of sleep and this was his finest moment. For now he had reached the turning point in his life. He would, in fact, become the kind of man he detested.

No longer would Phidge simply stand and wait for the reaction that was rightfully his. The first clerk, the first waitress who failed to jump to the customer's slightest command, he would tell the manager, "I want my money back. I'm not going to be the biggest stink this little old store ever did have."

And the account his boss had given him, which threatened to ruin his entire summer. "Chief," Henry would say, "you gave me this because I am one of the few people around here who can't be ram tired of paying the penalty for being pleasant. You and I know I'm pleasant. Anybody who I'm the best man you have. I suggest you give this account to Phillips."

The picture of the insurance salesman, of which he too heavily, came into Henry's mind. He pictured himself saying, "Mr. Jones, you've got a fine heart to say 'go away' to you at first but you are really just taking advantage of a sensitivity I have had, to this date, for the human race. Nevertheless, I believe—"

And that golf partner. What a surprise was due that golf partner. Next year, he thought, was going to haggle about strokes from now on, to bully-echo and bluster. Why he had a deal he would let him win.

And for the garage and that heavy bill they'd sent, Henry would set a fuse to some dynamite that would shake them clear back to General Motors.

"Hey, you there, you—"

But now Henry Pludge was asleep, a slight smile on his mild face showing that in his dreams he would wear the following day when trying to catch a waiter's eye.

ALL DOWN BUT ELEVEN

We Americans are an unhealthy people.

That may be astounding to you as it was to me but the United States ranks twelfth among the nations in the world in health matters. Linked to this information is the fact that of the hospital beds in the United States, one half are occupied by persons suffering from nervous disorders.

Here in America we have the largest and best hospitals in the world. Our medical schools are certainly as good as the best in any other country. We spend more on all health services than any other nation. Yet our rank twelfth among the nations of the world when it would seem that we ought to rank first.

What is the matter! We are victims of cancer, heart trouble, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever and stomach ulcers. Some of these diseases are inexplicable in their origin, but others are the result of undisciplined and irregular living. We work too hard; we play too hard; we drink too hard; and we seek after happiness as if it depended upon swiftness of foot and strength of limb.

Cleanse the mind and soul of fear, hate and envy. Health rating will certainly improve. There is no reason why the Scandinavian countries, Australia, New Zealand and others should rank higher than the United States in matters having to do with physical and mental welfare. We can rank first, and we should.

Personal Health Talks

A READER AGREES WITH OLD VINEGAR FUSS

A READER AGREES WITH ....

The latest discussion of the evil of high school football brought numerous scurrilous letters, mostly anonymous, and a few angry protests by high school boys who are evidently being exploited by the town sports and idles it. I'm an ignorant man, a dope, a small time pill peddler, but as a boy, a vinegar puss and other things we can't mention it print.

My stars, it must be wonderful to play your team as you would a platoon of robots and if you win, to be carried off the field on their shoulders. You, the coach, are the hero. They, the players, think nothing of a broken leg, a fractured skull or irremediable strain of the heart if you will put them on the shoulder and carry them good they are.

There were several letters from parents of boys who are either in high schools has now or will be next season. They didn't want their boys to play football at high school, but what can a mere parent do about it when all the other boys have that pressure and discomfort or even hearty approval?

The reader, however, wrote:

Your article arguing against the present sport of football in high schools has my wholehearted approval.

What's this? Another old vinegar puss! Maybe we two should get together and organize a Society to Encourage Timid Parents in Their Duty Regardless of What All the Other Parents Do.

I played high school football for two years and college football for three years and I believe you are right about the strain it puts on high school boys.

Personally, I was never seriously injured and I do like football as a spectacle and attend the big games whenever possible. Nevertheless, I believe football should be taken off the list of high school sports.

I write this letter to assure you that you have one supporter.

(Signed) ..... (Manufacturing Co.)

In 1950 there were only two or three fatalities among high school football players, a death rate which must be resolutely disregarded by parents whose child wants to play football.

School children—they are children until they have grown to full size and strength, not merely are very susceptible to suggestion that no who doesn't subserve the purposes of the town sports, sports writers and their representative the coach, is yellow, sissy, etc.

It is odd how outspoken some parents are in regard to military training for all boys who have reached the age of 18 years and yet how pusillanimous in regard to growing children being dragooned into service as pawns in this battle between professionalism and sport.

Another time I'll discuss the ill effects of high school football on the children who participate only in the hysterics of the sport.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Narcotic, Not Tonic

What kind of wine is best to drink, as a tonic for health, not with a meal, or bright wine?

Answer—No matter what kind, it is only a narcotic, not a tonic.

Bronchiectasis

I enclose 20c find stamped self-addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet on bronchiectasis. (W. S.)

Answer—You may find helpful information in my booklet on bronchial troubles in the booklet Cal it Cold I have nothing else about dilatation of bronchial tubes.

Virility

To our knowledge virility is not spelled with two I's as in your letter (Mrs. R. H. Intermediate Class).

My article for Jan 13 dealt with the question of removing tonsils and did not mention virility. But thank you for your polite card. It indicates that somebody takes liberties with my column.

Hay Fever

For the past three years have had severe hay fever—remains from taking calcium and D as you suggest in your hay fever pamphlet. Have tried others but I was miserable from early June until late August. Thank you for this boon. (Mrs. S. H.)

Answer—Any reader who provides a stamped self-addressed envelope may have the pamphlet on Hay Fever.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GLORY

There is a certain amount of glory attached to all triumphs, whether silently witnessed alone or by many in public. I recall two golfers coming into the club house where I was dressing after a game and overhearing one of the players say: "Well next to winning a game yourself it's nice to defeat a champion." In such a spirit any contest is a pleasure.

I occasionally view wrestlers on my television set. I enjoy fine athletic contests of almost every sort, but I cannot endorse any of those contests that resort to kicking, slapping, and the brutal use of the fist. Scientific wrestling, however, is a fine art when undertaken between two fine sportsmen such as I recently witnessed. There was a single foul committed. Both men were in wonderful physical condition, but both so good that the time limit arrived with neither man winding a fall. It was a battle fought, but a clean contest to the end. It was declared a draw by the referee, but both men stood in the middle of the ring, shook hands, patted each other on the shoulder and then each held up the hand of the other signifying that each had won! Honors were easy. That's what I call sport.

Glory is not the great thing which people should strive to attain, but it brings any one of us a certain amount of satisfaction when it is merited. It is one of those intangibles that is not to be had for the asking. It has to be earned. At its best, however, its day is short. The poet Gray well realized the contests of life when he immortal "Elegy" that "the paths of glory lead but to the grave."

How very futile, therefore, to strive even only for glory, or to put it uppermost on one's agenda! Glory should be a merited aftermath, not a goal or objective, and it should follow naturally upon any fine achievement as it usually does. Innate glory is the best—that silent, individual, self-given reward that only at the end of life and after the event has been given its applause.

Talks on Trade And Transport Are Resumed

Berlin, July 5 — (AP) —Four-power talks in Berlin on trade and transport questions resumed today after a two-year lapse.

The Russians sent their occupation economics chief, V. Bashkin, to join with American, British and French officials at British headquarters.

The core of the problem was West Berlin's need for an unhampered flow of imports and exports through the Russian zone which surrounds the city. The Russian interest in discussing the whole subject appeared to allied officials to be concentrated on stopping illegal smuggling of scarce raw materials from the east into west Berlin.

The trade talks deal only with Berlin and the east zone and do not affect commerce with west Germany.

But western officials said decisions reached at the meeting here could reanimate west Berlin's commercial link with the western world if the Russians were willing.

Only the Russians know why they came back to the four-power talks after netting west Berlin struggle along in its own way. Western sources had the idea, however the Soviet Union has been set back considerably by west German trade embargoes and the communist regime is fearful for the future of its five-year plan.

The four-power meetings, mostly on economic questions, were resumed in Berlin after the Soviet blockade was lifted May 12, 1949, but soon bogged down. There had been no signs until yesterday that the Russians wanted to renew the parleys.

PICTON

Council Sets Tax Rate of 64 Mills for Year

Picton.—Due chiefly to increased cost of education, Picton's tax rate for this year will be seven mills higher than last. At council meeting Tuesday night, a rate of 64 mills was struck.

Items uncontrollable by town council which contribute the necessity of a higher rate are those for county rate, up .33 mills; public school requisition, up 5.69 mills; Collegiate Institute requisition, up .39 mills. Other expenditures are about the same as previously.

The levy of 64 mills provides 16.18 mills for expenditure on streets as compared to 15.42 mills in 1950, namely $51,596, including grants, of which $35,644 represents street expenditures to date plus payroll at the end of the year, leaving $16,000 still to be expended at direction of council in the balance of the year.

Estimates include $42,837, for sewer debentures; $41,961 for county rate, $44,000 for the public schools; $4000 for public library; $8,222 for Collegiate Institute; $2080 for Public Utilities debentures; $4,000 for relief; $1510 for public school debentures.

Chairman of Finance L. B. Calnan stated that central governments should assume a larger share of costs of education in order to relieve the burden of taxation on real estate. The new rate will raise a total of $237,946.45.

Council decided to purchase a car for use of the police. Mayor Harvey McFarland offered to donate $300 towards the cost and to have it painted in his shop, and donate a siren.

NOT BEING ENFORCED

Toronto, July 5 (CP)—A new clause added recently to the criminal code is not being enforced in Ontario because the attorney-general's department hasn't received its copy.

Department officials said Wednesday the clause, providing for a fine of from $50 to $500 for driving while ability is impaired by alcohol or drugs or a 41-day jail term for a second conviction, will be enforced soon as the department receives a copy.

WEDDINGS

RUTHERFORD—DIAMOND

Trinity Anglican Church, Colborne, was tastefully arranged with potted flowers, while the altar and chancel were adorned with ferns, baskets of roses, peonies and delphinium, on Saturday afternoon, June 30, at 2:30 p.m., for the marriage of Aileen Laurie Marie Diamond, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Diamond, of Toronto, to John Douglas Rutherford, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rutherford, of Colborne. The rector, Rev. Mr. Lemon, was the officiating clergyman.

Mrs. Palmer, of Lakeport, organist of Trinity Anglican Church, provided the wedding music, while Mr. Harold Nash, of Toronto, was the soloist, singing before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register, "Because".

Entering the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride, who looked charming in the traditional white bridal satin, fashioned with frills lily neckline with fitted bodice, long sleeves, with lily-points over her hands and bouffant skirt ending in a circular train. She wore a full length veil of embroidered English net, which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day and a halo headdress. Her flowers were a Colonial bouquet of Sweetheart roses and baby's breath and fern.

Miss Barbara Clifford, of Toronto, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids being Miss Helen Diamond, of Seagraves, cousin of the bride, Miss Margaret Keech, of Toronto, and Miss Norma Rutherford, of Colborne, sister of the groom. All four attendants were identical gowns of lime velverey marquisette over taffeta with nylon overskirt and matching Julles cap, mitts and stoles, adorned with seed pearls. They carried Colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Mr. Lorne Pratt, of Toronto, and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Hague, of Colborne; Mr. Walter Rutherford, of Colborne, cousin of the groom; Mr. Donald Steven, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, and Mr. James R. Diamond, of Cobourg, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the wedding reception was held in the church parlors, which were decorated with baskets of pink and white cut flowers. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered pillared wedding cake, silver bowls of pink roses and pink and white tapers in silver candelabra. Eight girl friends of the bride served. The Rev. Mr. Lemon proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

Receiving with the bridal party were the bride's mother, attractively attired in bronze nylon over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Rutherford, mother of the groom, chose blue dream silk crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. Also receiving was Mrs. Louise Steven, grandmother of the bride, in navy faconne crepe over pink, with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The happy young couple left later amid showers of confetti and good wishes and following their wedding trip will reside on the groom's farm at Colborne.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Brooklyn, Toronto and Ringston.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the guest of honor at a number of shows by her friends in Toronto and at Lakeport.

MAYNARD—CALLAGHAN

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene at a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 30, at 10 a.m., when the Reverend Father Athol Murray, of Regina, Saskatchewan, uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by the Very Rev. Dean Gervin, united in marriage Kathleen Elizabeth Callaghan, of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leo Callaghan, Belleville, to George Stuart Maynard, of Richmond Hill, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Maynard. Rose-peonies, blue delphinium, Canterbury bells and white roses formed a lovely background for the ceremony. Mr. Leo Callaghan, brother of the bride, and Mr. A. R. Kahnert were acolytes for the Mass.

The Reverend Sister Mary Blanna rendered the wedding music, and the soloist, Mr. R. Brown, sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white organdy over taffeta, featuring a cuff work, form-fitting bodice, with Sabrina sleeves pointed over the wrists. The peplum skirt fell gracefully into a circular train. Her flagstaffy veil of tulle illusion was held by a band of stephanotis, and she carried a white prayer book with cascades of garnet roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. A. R. Kahnert, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of yellow, cutwork organdy over taffeta, fashioned with bouffant skirt and molded bodice with tiny cap sleeves. She wore a headdress of roses, carnations and blue cornflowers, and carried a nosegay of the same.

Miss Theresa Desmond, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, gowned in mauve organdy over taffeta made on lines similar to that of the maid of honor. She wore a headdress of roses, carnations and blue cornflowers, and carried a matching nosegay.

Little Miss Melody Maynard, niece of the bridegroom, was frocked in a floor-length dress of flounced chiffon, green organdy, with matching bonnet and carrying a basket edged with tiny roses and blue cornflowers and filled with rose petals with which she strewed the bridal path.

Mr. D'Arcy Delaplante, of Toronto, was groomsman. Mr. Murray Maynard and Mr. Alexander Maynard, brothers of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was held at Tobe's County Gardens, where the guests were received by the bride's mother who wore a gown of floor-length rose lace over satin with matching flowered hat as her text, "Blessed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, waiting at the posts of my doors." This was greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

Miss Lounsberry then presented Mrs. Hay, on behalf of the Circle, with the gift of a life membership certificate. Mrs. Hay although taken by surprise, graciously expressed her appreciation of this honor.

The report of the convention which was held in Orillia on May 29, 30, 31, and which was attended by Mrs. Wells and Miss Nurse as representatives of the Circle, was then given by Mrs. Wells. The report was most interesting and well presented and spiced with Mrs. Wells' own inimitable touches of humor.

Theme of Convention

The theme of the convention was "Today Our Opportunity; Tomorrow May Be Too Late". Members were urged to "Come-See-Go-Tell". One of the highlights was a fine address by Mrs. Jury, mother of John Jury, a former teacher at the Belleville Collegiate, telling of some of her experiences during World War II.

Mrs. Campbell reminded the members that the next meeting would be the picnic and pot-luck supper, at the home of Mrs. Cranston, Foxboro Road.

After the meeting closed, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Hetherington and her social committee.

Mrs. Goldie Talks On Mission Work

The Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held their June meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hay, Redserville Road, with a good attendance of about 25 members and friends present. The president, Mrs. Campbell, presided with Mrs. Post at the piano. Mrs. Neal read the scripture reading, and a brief, but impressive meditation was given by Miss Lounsberry, Special Guest.

Mrs. Campbell introduced a special guest, Mrs. Goldie, a returned missionary, who spent several years in Africa. Mrs. Goldie gave a short address, telling of some of her experiences, first in touched with blue; blue accessories, and corsage of Johanna Hill roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in blue crepe and lace with corsage of pink roses.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard left for a wedding trip to St. Adele, Quebec, the bride travelling in an orchid linen suit, with white accessories and gardenia corsage. They will reside in Toronto. Guests were present from Toronto, London, and Regina, Saskatchewan, England and later in Africa, using

Neglect by Parents Seen Big Factor in Youth Problem

London, (CP)—Broken homes and parental neglect are the two main causes blamed for a steady increase among delinquency among adolescent youth in Britain.

The analysis is made in a report by the joint committee on psychiatry and the law, appointed by the Magistrates' and British Medical Associations. The number of defaulting boys, convicted of indictable offences, it says, rose from 19,287 in 1938 to 45,545 in 1948.

In its exhaustive study of the problem, the committee contends that "shoddy" parents lack of privacy at home, blind alley jobs and lurid films, tell but half the story of delinquency. Too many youngsters, it adds, don't know the meaning of religion and get through their early years without learning the difference between right and wrong.

Much of the trouble is attributed to adverse influences of the last war. More married women with families had accepted wartime employment with the result that children often came home to empty houses. There was a jumbling up of human beings of all ages and sharing of everything from beds to clothing. With parental love and attention lacking the inevitable harvest was delinquency.

"Many parents set such a poor example in honesty, self-restraint and perseverance," says the report, "that the surprise is not that the boys have such low standards but that their standards run as high as they do."

The report recommends that mothers with children of school age should accept employment only during school hours. If necessary, local authorities should subsidize sitting-in services thus enabling parents to go out together more frequently.

Among other remedies, the report suggests greater encouragement in the adoption of orphans, sex education, special schools, pre-marital ad ice for engaged couples and free or assisted legal aid to parents seeking divorce.

But special stress is laid on the need for restoration of normal love and understanding between parents and children with the re-establishment of family life on its proper pedestal.

Czech Govt. Frees American Jet Fighter Pilot

Waldhaus, Germany, July 4. (AP)—The Czech government today freed an American Jet fighter pilot who made a forced landing behind the iron curtain almost four weeks ago.

Lieut. Luther G. Holand of Kilktown, Pa., was delivered to the United States authorities at the German-Czech frontier point.

Holand and Lieut. Bjoern Johansen of Bergen, Norway, have been prisoners of the Czechs since June 8, when they became lost on a routine training mission and landed their F-84 Thunderjets near Prague.

Johansen, who had been training with the U.S. Air Force, presumably will be flown back to Norway, instead of returning to West Germany. The Czechs had agreed to free him at the same time as Holand.

U.S. Air Force officials here said the two pilots will be turned over by the Czechs at the border, tomorrow.

Carrier and Destroyer Will Join British Fleet Units

Ottawa, July 5. (CP)—The aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyer Micmac will join British fleet units for late-summer training exercises in the Mediterranean — the first peacetime visit of Canadian warships to those Middle East waters.

The navy announced today the vessels will sail from Halifax Aug. 7 on the 21-day cruise.

Naval officers said there was no significance in the exercises and that they were planned months before the current Middle East tension arising from the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

There long have been reports —always denied here—that Britain has asked Canada to send military units to the Middle East.

The navy said the ships will sail directly to Gibraltar for a four-day call before going on to Malta. While in the Mediterranean, they will exercise with units of the royal navy's Mediterranean fleet. Further details of the cruise program, including ports of call, will be announced later.

The Magnificent is commanded by Commodore E. F. Adams of Victoria, and the Micmac by Lt.-Cmdr. F. C. Frewer, of Toronto.

The announcement coincided with a London report that Canada has offered to make essential military supplies available for Middle East defence. This report grows out of the recent London Commonwealth conference on Middle East defence. Canada attended the meeting as an observer.

Naval sources here said the navy wanted to put the aircraft carrier Magnificent through flying exercises with British fleet units. The Mediterranean offered the best weather conditions for flying and it was decided to send ships to that theatre.

Ontario's Top Woman Golfer at 17 Has No Time for Boy Friends

Fonthill, Ont., July 5. (CP)—Ontario's top woman golfer has no time for boy friends. She's too busy playing golf.

At 17, Marlene Stewart is the youngest person to win the Ontario ladies' golf championship. The kid with the dogging grin and freckles walked off with the trophy a couple of weeks ago. Her laconic comment: "Quite a thrill".

On the way to the title in her third season of competitive golf she trimmed a number of Ontario's leading women golfers. Among them was Ada Mackenzie, the former champion who also has held the Canadian crown three times.

Marlene now spends most of her time in various parts of the province participating in test matches. "I really don't need to compete in them, but it keeps me in form," she said in an interview after a heavy day on the course at nearby Ancaster.

Marlene, ex officio is a member of the 1951 Ontario team which will play in the interprovincial team matches in Quebec next month.

Born in Cereal, Alta., Marlene came to this Niagara peninsula town seven years ago with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart. Neither plays golf, nor does Marlene's 13-year-old sister. Trixie, the family terrier, likes to chase balls so he is kept far from the fairways.

Miss Stewart lifted her first iron at 13 when she wandered out to Fonthill's Club one day to do a little caddying. She decided that she liked the game.

"I usually work at it now from two to three hours a day," she said. Mornings, she helps around the house. But by 10:30 a.m., she's usually on the links.

Marlene has other interests besides golf. She also plays basketball, badminton "and a little skiing in the winter." She does not claim to be domestically inclined, but she does an occasional bit of sewing. She can cook, too.

The young golfer has another couple of years of high school before she must think seriously of a career. She thinks she will specialize in "Phys Ed"—physical education.

"Her immediate ambition is to make the women's golf team which will play in the Curtis Cup matches in Britain in 1953 when Canada meets the best that Britain and the United States can produce.

Boy friends! "Haven't the time."

Army Captain Never Flew Plane Before But Takes Over, Lands Craft After Pilot is Wounded

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

West Sector, Korea, July 5—(CP)—Imagine yourself a passenger in a light observation aircraft deep over enemy territory.

Imagine your aircraft being caught in heavy ack-ack, plastered and the fabric shredded from the frame under your seat.

Imagine the pilot being wounded in the back by the same ack-ack, rendered unconscious by his wounds and loss of blood.

Imagine him falling you to take over the aircraft.

And you've never flown a plane before.

That's what happened Tuesday to Capt. J. P. R. (Pat) Tremblay of Quebec City.

Tremblay returned today to headquarters of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade to take up his appointment as air liaison officer after a brief instructional course with the United States Fifth Air Force, quiet-spoken as ever after his near-shocking experience.

"The first thing I wanted to do after getting the feel of the controls was to reach friendly territory, and just about then," he said the para-trained officer.

"I thought the pilot was dead. But when I looked at him I was still living I decided to try to make an airstrip.

"Those 45 minutes seemed like 45 hours, but just the same, as I was getting the feel of the aircraft, there was something of a thrill to it. But I was in a cold sweat the time."

The pilot recovered consciousness sufficiently to direct the airstrip to lend a hand, but the landing was complicated by a fighter which didn't see the emergency flares shot by ground control and continued its take-off.

The light plane bumped on landing, tipped over to the right just in time to avoid the fighter, then headed for a group of Korean workers building the airstrip.

The plane missed the workers but struck the wall and buckled.

Tremblay was able to extricate himself and help the pilot out before the machine took flames.

Though shaken, and in a state of nervous relief after his experience, Tremblay turned to a colonel in the crowd of airmen lining him, saluted stiffly and poker-faced as usual, said "Sir, I must report. . ."

NAVY IS READY, SAYS ADMIRAL

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, chief of U.S. naval operations is shown arriving at Washington after a 10-day trip to Japan and Korea. The naval chief reported that the U.N. fleet is "in a high state of readiness. He had "no comment" on the current Korean cease-fire proposals. — Central Press Canadian.

Fireworks Shown Despite Absence Of Fire Brigade

Crystal Beach, Ont., July 5—(CP) — A mammoth fourth of July fireworks display was held here Wednesday night despite the fact that this Lake Erie summer resort was without a fire brigade.

All of the town's regular firefighters quit their jobs Wednesday joining 17 volunteer firemen in protesting the firing of their chief, George Pietz.

Dismissal of the chief was the latest development in a drive by a group of residents to clean up what they describe as widespread vice and corruption.

A community of wooden frame homes and cottages which is crammed with thousands of summer residents and visitors, most by from Buffalo, N.Y., Crystal Beach has been the scene of a sharp controversy over law enforcement.

No one appeared particularly worried Wednesday night when the Crystal Beach Park Company dedicated it would go ahead with its big fireworks display on the waterfront despite the lack of fire protection.

Both the fire chief and police chief, Gilbert Robertson, have been dismissed by the town council pending a probe into charges that the resort has become a "wide-open town" rampant with bootlegging and prostitution. There have also been charges of dope-peddling on a sizable scale.

18 WANTS HOUSING

Toronto, July 5 (CP)—About 18 Ontario communities have asked the provincial government about obtaining low-rental housing projects under the federal-provincial-municipal plan announced last month.

Planning Minister Griesinger said Wednesday:

"I think we will be able to get down to deals before very long."

He declined to name the municipalities that have made inquiries nor to say which has plans farthest advanced.

FIVE KILLED

Manila, July 5 (AP)—The defence department reported today three Philippines soldiers and two communist Huk guerrillas were killed yesterday in the only disturbance on Philippines' Independence Day. Elaborate precautions were taken to keep the Huks from spoiling the Independence celebration in Manila.

One Man Killed As Thunderstorms Sweep Province

Toronto, July 5. (CP)—A lightning and thunder storm burst across a 300-mile front in southern and central Ontario last night and early today, leaving a trail of burned cut buildings and flooded streets.

One man died as a result of the storm and a woman was burned about the face.

William Hansen, 70, died in Welland Hospital. He had collapsed while seeking shelter from the drenching rain.

Mrs. Keith Beatty of Egbert, 10 miles south of Barrie, was burned on the face when lightning struck her home.

Several fires were started by lightning. A barn owned by William Snyder north of Brampton, was destroyed by lightning and a Newmarket bank building blaze was put out by firemen.

At Pentanguishene on Georgian Bay, a $10,000 outbreak destroyed a cottage. Another cottage, at the Hungarian Camp near Oshawa, was destroyed.

Ernest Clark's barn, containing livestock and 300 bags of cement, burned at Dundalk, Ont.

Agriculture department officials said the heavy rains have delayed harvesting of the hay crop. Damage to grain and fruit in scattered hail storms and heavy rains was reported in several areas.

In Guelph, nearly a foot of water swirled along streets when drains couldn't keep up with the downpour. Kingston motorists reported vegetables from adjoining market gardens were washed along the highway into the city.

Power was cut off for periods up to an hour at Penetanguishene, Barrie, Hamilton, St. Catharines, parts of Toronto, Welland, and Campbellford.

And at Bala Lodge in the Muskoka district lightning struck a man's trousers, set them afire and welded coins in the pockets together.

The owner was safe in bed at the time.

Military Junta Takes Control Of Thailand

Bangkok, July 5 (CP)—A four-mag military junta has taken control of Thailand from Premier P. Pibulsonggram as an aftermath of an abortive navy rebellion.

The four men who actually stopped the rebellion hung on to the power they gained while the premier was a prisoner of the navy. Now they control Thailand through the figurehead of Pibulsonggram, who returned with great loss of face.

Heading the junta is a son and father-in-law team which has been consolidating power for three years.

Army is police chief Gen. Phao Sri Yanondh. His 40,000 policemen constitute the country's largest armed force. His control becomes complete Tuesday when Pibulsonggram raised him from deputy to police chief.

Navy is Phaya Sarasin, father-in-law, I.A. Gen. Phin Chunkwan, commander-in-chief of the Thai armed forces. His forces are about 35,000 soldiers in the army.

Other members of the military junta are Gen. Sarit Thannarat, commanding general of the first army division and Air Marshal Fuen Ronapakal.

There are only 60 to 75 planes in the air force, but it is big enough to sink the navy's largest ship with little Pridamgrarm aboard during the rebellion. The latter had to swim to safety.

Seventy-five per cent of the navy's 5,000 men has been mustered for six months or longer.

Casualties in the navy's attempted coup were unofficially estimated at around 3,000.

Mariners Must Pay With Lives For Ghastly Deaths

Massawa, Eritrea, July 5 — (Reuters) —Two African mariners will pay with their lives for grim ghastly deaths of 76 trusting pilgrims they cast away on a desert island in Red Sea.

Silma Muuslem, an Eritrean, and Mahmud Omar Allasi, a Sudanese, shielded stiffly under poker-faced as usual, said "Sir, I must report. . ."

Sheikh Mahmud Omar Allasi, a Sudanese, shielded stiffly under poker-faced as usual, said "Sir, I must report. . ."

Mockingham added: "Your unit has indeed brought distinguished credit to you and all soldiers who were serving in your battalion at that time."

He said Canadian army headquarters still is considering whether the Patricias will be permitted to wear the distinctive badge that goes with the citation (a blue ribbon surrounded by a gilt frame, worn on the right breast), and suggested that the men of the battalion await advice from authorities before taking steps to acquire the ribbons.

There is as yet no indication as to when the certificate of citation, normally presented by the army commander, will be presented to the Patricias.

South Korean Govt. Climbs Down On Opposition

Pusan, Korea, July 5. (Reuters) —The South Korean government today appeared to have climbed down on its flat opposition to peace talks with communists and issued a qualified statement that it "does not necessarily oppose a cease-fire".

South Korean President Syngman Rhee's advisers were reported persuading him to change his uncompromising attitude to any cease-fire which did not unite Korea.

The spokesman said the government believed Chinese troops should be withdrawn from Korea as the prime condition of the armistice.

An "acceptable line," as the basis for the cease-fire, would run from Sinanju in the west to Wonsan in the east, the spokesman said.

Sinanju is about 110 miles north of the 38th parallel and 40 miles north of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. Wonsan is 80 miles north of the parallel.

Princess Pats Learn Officially Of Citation

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

West Sector, Korea, July 5 — (CP)—The 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, officially learned today what the rest of the world has known for more than a week—that they have been awarded a presidential citation for their epic stand April 24-25.

Brig. John Rockingham, commander of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade in Korea, transmitted a copy of the citation to the battalion, adding his own congratulations for its "extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance."

(The award by the president of the United States to the unit was announced June 26. A general order issued by Lt.-Gen. James Van Fleet, U.S. Eighth Army commander, cited the Patricias, along with an Australian and American unit for "gallantry, determination, and esprit de corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions" against the enemy near Kapyong, Korea, April 24 and 25, when the communist spring offensive was held up.)

Four Ontario Police Chiefs Being Probed

Toronto, July 5 (CP) — For four Ontario police chiefs, the last few weeks have been a round of probing and being probed.

Usually the fellows who lay the charges, the officers in two cases have been accused of neglecting their duties. In two others, civic officials have asked for investigation of undisclosed complaints.

In brief, here is the picture:

Oakville, a Lake Ontario town 20 miles west of Toronto—Chief John B. Derry was accused by Mayor James Black of slackness and a lack of initiative. Attorney General Porter, at the chief's requests, ordered an inquiry. Results of the probe have not been made public.

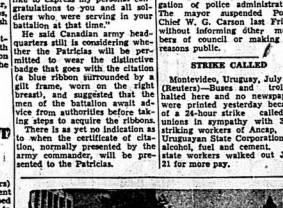
Whitby, a town 30 miles east of Toronto—Police Inspector Malcolm Tyre said there are about 25 charges—not made public— against Chief Ronald Love. The town's police commission is investigating.

Crystal Beach, Lake Erie summer resort—Chief Gilbert Robertson was dismissed this week after a murder, teen-age rowdyism and dope peddling in the village stirred council. Increased bootlegging was also reported.

Orillia, a town on Lake Simcoe —Mayor Wilbur Connell has written the attorney general for advice regarding a possible investigation of police administration. The mayor suspended Police Chief W. G. Duncan last Friday without informing other members of council or making his reasons public.

STRIKE CALLED

Montevideo, Uruguay, July 5—(Reuters)—Buses and trolleys halted here and no newspapers were printed yesterday because of a 24-hour strike called by unions in sympathy with 3,000 striking workers of Ancap, the Uruguayan State Corporation for alcohol, fuel and cement. The state workers walked out June 21 for more pay.



U. S. CAPITAL HAS A TRAFFIC PUZZLE

U. S. federal mediators can't settle the Washington, D. C. transit strike soon enough to please citizens of the capital city. With transportation facilities paralyzed, the resultant increase of private autos on the streets has created traffic snarls of monumental proportions. Parking restrictions have been relaxed to permit government workers to park in centre or Pennsylvania Ave., above, and on the car tracks.

Royal Couple Will Visit U.S. If Invited

London, July 5 (CP) —Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip will visit the United States—if they are invited—after their tour of Canada in October, responsible sources said today.

The King and Queen visited the United States during their tour of Canada in 1939 spending four days as the guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced in Ottawa yesterday that the royal couple have accepted an invitation extended to them in London by L. B. Pearson Canadian External Affairs Minister, who now is overseas.

A qualified informant said today of the possible United States visit that "if President Truman invites them, of course they'll say yes."

Neither St. Laurent nor the London announcement from Clarence House—the royal couple's home—made any mention of plans for the couple to cross the American-Canadian border.

They will travel Canada from coast to coast and are expected to visit most of the principal Canadian centres. Details will be made public later. The royal couple will leave their two children at home during the tour.

Neither the princess nor the duke has ever visited Canada or the United States in an official capacity.

Duke Visited Halifax

The duke, however, visited Halifax during the war when he was serving as a stoker on a short transport.

The duke now is on duty in the Mediterranean as commander of the Royal Navy frigate Magpie. He will return to London July 31 to assist Princess Elizabeth in keeping her official engagements while they have been mounting recently due to the illness of the King.

The King and Queen and Princess Margaret are scheduled to leave early next year for a tour of Australia and New Zealand.

There was speculation in the London Press that the visit while Margaret Truman was here, that the President's daughter had invited members of the royal family to the United States. That speculation, however, centred mostly about Princess Margaret.

SHOULD HAVE WAITED

Knoxville, Tenn., July 5 (AP)—Carl Fowler sued M. A. Walker and James Ed Cox for $15,000 for a traffic accident. While the jury was considering the defendants offered to settle for $4,000. Fowler accepted. Judge John M. Kelley told the jurors the suit had been settled and dismissed them. The jury foreman then conferred lawyers his memorandum slip showing the jury had agreed to award $10,000.

SPEEDERS PAY

Montreal — (CP) — Cases of speeding motorists in court here dropped from 400 to about 100 in less than 100 the next, when recorder Henri Monty said such offenders would expect heavy fines. The fine for first offenders was boosted to $15, with $25 for a second offence.

P.M. Says Korean Disputes May Indicate Communists Realize War Does Not Pay

Montreal, July 5 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the Korean cease-fire developments may indicate the communists realize that "aggression does not pay."

He told the corporation of agronomists of Quebec Province it is in hope of bringing home that idea that the North Atlantic nations have been building up their strength.

"It is for that reason that we and our partners have made so many sacrifices to show the aggressors in Korea that aggression does not pay," he said in an address prepared for delivery at a banquet. "Events of the last few days may be an indication that they are already realizing this."

Mr. St. Laurent told his audience of farming experts that productivity of the soil—their specialty—is necessary not only to meet Canada's needs but also to help prepare a complete defence against the threat of communism. That threat was social and economic as well as military and political.

"But our defences may be effective," he said, "we must erect them on all fronts with the help of those unseen workers who wish to remain free. It is for this reason that the democracies have adopted the plans for economic aid, the Marshall Plan, President Truman's four-point program and the Colombo Plan.

"These plans are our best weapons of defence in the ideological war . . .

"We must furnish eloquent proof of our superior capacity to win the real peace, that is, to live better than they in the economic and social problems of men.

"To that end, we must not only produce more and ensure a better distribution, but we must also do so with intelligence."

CABIN CRUISER SINKS

Peterborough, July 5 (CP) — Two Toronto men and a dog were rescued Wednesday from Buckhorn Lake, 15 miles north of here.

C. M. Mounce and a second man, unidentified, were pulled from the water after their 30-foot cabin cruiser struck a rock and sank.

The men turned to the wrong side of a channel marker in Otonabee Creek on their way from Chemong Lake to Lake Ontario when the accident occurred.

34 INJURED IN WRECK

Rhinelander, Wis, July 5 — (AP)—The Chicago and Northwestern Railway's Flambeau 400 passenger streamliner collided head-on last night with an ore train while pulling out of the station.

Nine of the train crew and 25 passengers were injured, but only one was reported seriously hurt.

REDS CHARGE HIM BOARD AND ROOM

Lt. Luther G. Roland of Hunterdon, Pa., who landed his F-84 Thunderjet plane on a Czech airfield on June 5 while on a routine training flight over the U.S. Zone in Germany, will be released and returned to the United States zone-Czech frontier. In making the announcement, the Czechs added that they will "present the bill to the U.S. embassy for the sheltering and the transport of the aircraft and other expenses."—Central Press Canadian.

Reaches Canada After 34 Years

Indian Head, Sask. (CP) — Journey's end has at last been achieved by Mrs. Katie Heipler, who took 34 years to make the journey from Russia through Germany to the Dominion.

Mrs. Heipler with her husband and five children fled Russia in 1917 during the revolution. They intended then to make their way to Canada, but got only as far as Hamburg.

In Germany life was unkind to Mrs. Heipler. Her husband died there and her children are still there. With the Germans, she suffered all the havoc of the Second World War. From 1943 on she lived with about 1,000 other homeless families in a huge air-raid shelter.

That shelter, a six-storey steel and concrete structure, had no windows. Its inhabitants were without natural light or fresh air.

Food was also a terrific problem in Hamburg in those days. People lived on a near-starvation diet. Mrs. Heipler dropped from 200 pounds to her present weight of 126.

Now she is living with her sister, whom she had not seen for 35 years until her recent arrival.

200,000 Reds Are Assembled Near Indo-China

Taipeh, Formosa, July 5—(AP)—Nationalist China's defence ministry today claimed 200,000 Chinese communist troops were assembled at the border awaiting a signal to invade Indo-China.

There was no way of determining whether this was propaganda aimed to shatter western hopes of peace in the orient or whether it actually was well-founded.

It must be pointed out, however, that the defence ministry in recent months has been more cautious in making public assertions. Usually, statements are released after being conveyed privately to U. S. authorities.

The ministry's announcement said the communist troops were massed along the borders of all three southwest Chinese provinces—Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Yunnan.

The purpose, the ministry added, was to help rebel leader Ho Chi Minh of Indo-China "spread aggressive war in southeast Asia."

No Reflection On County Judge Appointed

Hamilton, July 5 (CP) — A meeting of the Wentworth Liberal organization Wednesday night unanimously decided to forward a resolution to Prime Minister St. Laurent asking that more consideration be given to recommendation of local organizations in appointment of judges.

The meeting was held to discuss the recent appointment of John S. Latchford of Cornwall as junior judge of Wentworth.

In a statement after the meeting George Kemp, president of the Wentworth Liberal Association said that it was felt that there were many persons in Wentworth County who were well qualified for the appointment. It was regretted that the government had gone outside the county.

Mr. Kemp added that the decision to forward the recommendation to Ottawa had no reflection on Judge Latchford and that the new judge would be welcomed to the county.

DIDN'T WAIT FOR PLANE, TWO MEN LOST IN BUSH

Scene of an air search in the dense bush country south of Lake Attanapi on the Quebec-Labrador border where two prospectors, James and Michael Walsh of North York, Ont., are believed to be lost. Transported by plane to the area in the winter, they abandoned the camp, at which they were supposed to be picked up in June by plane, and set out to reach Seal Lake, 320 miles miles away. A raft was found 50 miles from their camp but no sign of the prospectors was evident.—Central Press Canadian

Oldest Canadian Papal Zouave Celebrates 101st Birthday

Valleyfield, Que., July 5 (CP)—The last survivor of a band of papal Zouaves who left Canada 81 years ago to help defend the Pope in Rome, J. Octave Cossette celebrated his 101st birthday Wednesday.

For Mr. Cossette, it was just another day spent in his home opposite the Valleyfield Seminary. Relatives and friends read him letters and telegrams of congratulations from all over the world but he refused to get excited.

In good health, although confined to his home, the centenarian said he was following his own rule for longevity: "Never worry about things, take them as they come."

Mr. Cossette was a tall youth of 20 when he joined a group of 153 Roman Catholics from Canada who answered a call for help from Pope Pius IX.

The Papal Zouaves, volunteer soldiers garbed in billowing trousers and brightly-colored shirts and tunics, went to defend the Pope against Garibaldi who wanted to abolish the papal state.

Mr. Cossette was born July 4, 1850, in Champlain, Que., near Three Rivers, the second of 11 children.

Became Cabin Boy

At the age of 11 he became a cabin boy on a St. Lawrence River schooner and was paid $2.00 monthly, a "fabulous" amount for a child his age at the time.

At 19, his father gave him the schooner "Guilvenie," making him the youngest ship-owner in Canada.

On Aug. 28, 1870, he boarded a riverboat at Three Rivers and, with 25 other Zouaves, sailed to Montreal where they joined 124 other volunteers. All sailed from New York for Rome and the Vatican, but they never saw action as the fight was over before they arrived.

Back home, Cossette returned to the life of a sailor. But, sailing did not take up all his time. Cossette built the Valleyfield city hall, the old cathedral and police department building and several churches, both Catholic and Protestant.

He founded the insurance firm of St. Jean Baptiste in 1878 and the Valleyfield brass band four years later.

The father of 11 children, 10 of them still living, Mr. Cossette lives quietly at the home of one of his sons here.

THEY WERE FINALLY CONVINCED WAR WAS LOST

At long last, 19 Japanese who have refused to believe the war is over, have surrendered the tiny mid-Pacific island of Anatahan. At top, they raise the white flag as U.S. representatives come ashore and an interpreter, Ken Akatani, (arm extended), explains the time has come for them to leave the island. With him are Lieut.-Cmdr. James B. Johnson, civil administrator for Japan, and Cmdr. W. Jerome Haterly, of the naval forces in the Marianas Islands. Below, nearly six years after the end of hostilities, the stalwart 19 wave goodby to their isle from the navy fleet boat Cocopa. They were finally convinced through messages sent by friends that Japan had lost the war and it was ended.—Central Press Canadian.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The first response to a simple overcall is an advance. It like an odd basis to work with. This basis changes with the type of reply. It changes even more if opponents keep bidding.

A simple overcall means a non-jump defensive bid. It promises five tricks, two high cards, one sure, a biddable suit of at least five cards. It relies mostly on trumps for taking tricks.

With the help of two tricks from partner, the simple overcaller expects to make his bid if his own suit is trump. At any other trump suit, three of his tricks may not be any good.

See what this tells responder. A responding takeout may find the simple overcaller with three less tricks. An assist is best for their pair if responder has support for the suit.

Responder may find game in their pair only if (1) he can assist, or (2) he has a takeout suit that partner can assist, or (3) he can takeout to an independent suit and needs only two tricks in help.

Take the east hand shown here:

♠ K-Q 8 6 3
♥ K Q 8 7
♣ Q J 2

South opened with a diamond. West stuck in a simple overcall of one heart. North passed. East has a takeout bid in spades as well as adequate support for a heart assist. Which should he do?

A takeout in spades might find west without support for such a suit. If so, the west tricks might melt down to only two. Which is something east might do well to consider.

An invisible assist in hearts would be quick assurance of more tricks in the pair. And more encouraging. But if west has no additional values to show this probably lack enough aces and kings for a game.

So, it would be practical for east to bid one spade and see if west can say any more. East can then show heart support, if needed.

There is no rush about not going anywhere.

Ken McGregor And Dick Savitt In Tennis Final

Wimbledon, England, July 5—(AP)—Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., and Ken McGregor, the Australian Davis cup-winner the big service, will give a repeat Friday in the final of the all-England tennis championship.

Sun-bronzed Dick and tall, curly-haired McGregor, fought their way to the final of the Australian championship last winter. Savitt, the former Cornell University captain, won it in four sets.

Now the pair come face-to-face again in the second of the big three of world amateur tennis tournaments. Australia, Wimbledon and the U.S. championships form the grand slam.

If Savitt can get past McGregor in this one, he will be the first player to win both the Australian and Wimbledon in the same year since Don Budge turned the trick in 1938.

Both are serious, so there is little to choose between them. McGregor admittedly has the more powerful service and perhaps can hit harder, but he lacks experience. Savitt on occasion has shown fine court generalship and can outfox just about anyone when he's right.

Savitt gained his bracket yesterday when he polished off Herbie Flam, 1-6, 15-13, 6-3, 6-2, while McGregor whipped Eric Sturgess of South Africa 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

In the semi-final of the women's singles today, Louise Brough plays Shirley Fry and Doris Hart meets Beverly Baker, all Americans.

It was the sort of race that Citation and the crowd loves — close into the stretch with a drive by the wire. There were hints [illegible] Citation's days are [illegible]

First-Place Team on July 4th Usually Wins Pennants so Chisox And Dodgers Top Candidates

By JOE REICHLER

If Brooklyn and Chicago White Sox fail to win major-league pennants, chalk one up against tradition.

Baseball history discloses that the team in first place after games of July 4 usually walks off with the flag. That is, roughly two-thirds of the time.

The White Sox joined the Dodgers as July 4 leaders yesterday by splitting an American League doubleheader in Detroit while Washington's Senators whipped the Yankees with a sweep of their twin bill in New York.

Chicago won the second game 5-1 after losing 4-3 opener in the wrest first place in the American League from the Yankees by virtue of a pair in St. Louis, 5-3 and 4-2 in a 15-inning marathon.

St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Cubs in Chicago, 10-3. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was rained out. Philadelphia moved into fourth place, beating the Braves in Boston twice, 4-1 and 5-1.

Pittsburgh moved to within three games of seventh place with a pair of wins against Cincinnati, 4-1 and 18-4.

Robinson Scores Winner

In yesterday's opener the Dodgers trailed 4-3 going into the eighth. Homers by Roy Campanella and Pee Wee Reese made it 4-3. Gil Hodges' single tied it 4-4 in the ninth and chased starter Sal Maglie.

Bobby Thomson slammed his fourth homer in as many games in the top of the 11th off Preacher Roe to give the Giants a 5-4 lead. But a single by Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson's single tied the score in the Dodgers' half. An error and Roe's groundout scored Robinson to score with the winning run.

Veteran Joe Dobson pitched the White Sox into first place with a nine-hit victory over the Tigers, but he needed help from Marv Rotblatt. Al Zarilla's two-run homer featured a four-run first-inning blast against Dizzy Trout. Detroit's Hal Newhouser, aided by Hoot Evers' three-run homer, outpitched Randy Gumpert in the opener.

Gil Coan hammered two three-run homers off Vic Raschi and Joe Ostrowski to lead the Senators to the first-game win over Yankees. Superb relief pitching by Mickey Harris enabled the Nats to make the sweep.

Ralph Kiner blasted homers no. 18 and 19—one with the bases loaded and the other with two on—to spark the Pirates to their double win. The second game was stopped by rain after 9½ innings.

The doubleheader was played under Red manager Luke Sewell's protest that Kiner was playing while under suspension for "pushing and shoving" umpire Jocko Conlan in Tuesday's game with the Chicago Cubs. Word of Kiner's three-day suspension was not received until the game had been under way. President Ford Frick said it would be effective as of today.

ABOUT TIME, TOO

Bell Island, Nfld. — (CP) — Winter dies hard in the North Atlantic. A huge iceberg off Conception Bay early in June later was reported to be breaking up, after warnings had been sent to ships approaching the area.

Delegates Will Discuss Future Of Senior Hockey

(By The Canadian Press)

Representatives of nine central and western Ontario clubs will meet in Toronto Monday to discuss the future of Ontario Hockey Association major and senior leagues.

Represented at the meeting will be Toronto Marlboros, Hamilton, Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Brantford, Owen Sound, Stratford, Chatham and Sarnia.

Included on the agenda will be a suggestion by Harold Ballard, Marlboro president, that all the teams play in the same group until the playoffs and then the first two teams fight it out to decide the major team in Alexander Cup playdowns. The rest of the teams would then play off from senior Allen Cup competition.

Decision on whether to enter the major series must be made by the OHA by July 15.

Tom Kalmanchi, speedy half-back with the Los Angeles Rams has signed a 1951 football contract with the Ottawa Rough Riders.

In making the announcement, coach Clem F. Crowe said, "Kalmanchi is a very fast man. He has a mark of 9.9 seconds for the 100 yards and that is real speed."

Members of the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club will be presented with gold cuff links and cigaret lighters bearing the city crest to mark their Stanley Cup victory last spring, board of control decided Wednesday.

Some controllers objected to giving both gifts—at a total cost of about $300—but approved the move after controller John Innes said he thought the gift of cuff links alone was "pretty small."

The big fish that an Arlington, Mass., fisherman ate Tuesday was not the biggest golden trout in the contest.

Charles Cleveland landed a 10 3-4 pound, 30-inch salmo aguabonita (golden trout) Sunday in Lake Sunapee, near Washington, N.H. Because he was not aware of its near-record proportions he ate it.

Dr. R. H. Mackay, biologist in the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, checked the records Wednesday and discovered that an 11-pound, 32 inch golden trout was caught Aug. 5, 1948 in Cooks Lake, Wyo.

There are no such fish in Canada, Dr. Mackay said.

Toronto's fifth-place Maple Leafs of the International Basebell League will have new owners within the next few days, president Don Ross announced Wednesday.

In an interview, Ross said he was selling most of his stock in the club and that two or three other club directors would also sell. He declined to name the buyers.

Arise, from the Toronto Adelaide Stable, one of the top handicap horses last season, capturing the Slat running of the seven-furlong Carter Handicap before a crowd of 34,065 at Aqueduct Wednesday.

Merrill Barber of Brattleboro, Vt., soared 116 feet in pelting rain Wednesday to capture the fourth annual Lake Placid summer ski jump tournament. Skiers use the jump coated with powdered ice.

Art Devlin of Lake Placid leaped 112 feet for second place.

Buffalo Bisons Maintain Second Place in League

(By The Associated Press)

Ed Mierkowicz' serious injury marred the July 4th program in the International League. The 27-year-old Rochester outfielder suffered a skull fracture when hit on the head by pitcher Andy Tomasic in the first game of a doubleheader.

Mierkowicz was reported in "satisfactory" condition after an emergency operation last night. He was on the operating table more than an hour.

Rochester won that first game from Ottawa on knuckle - baller Bob Tiefenauer's three-hitter for their seventh straight win.

Ottawa came back to take the second game 6-3 knocking out Kurt Krieger in a four-run third inning.

Buffalo maintained second place by winning the second game from Baltimore 6-3 after losing the opener 9-8. The split left the Bisons 10½ games behind the idle Montreal Royals whose double - header at Syracuse was rained out.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Yesterday was a lovely day to sit by the fire with your slippers on, a cup of ovaltine at one elbow, and a good book in hand. Or maybe the right time to catch up on all the sleep you have been missing these past two or three years. It definitely was a dandy day for fondling mortgages on defenceless widows, stealing pepperminds from the paper boy, or shaking vendetta in the basement against the 'screwoor.' There is one thing though that would be entirely out of the question. That is a sailboat race in an open boat twice around the Bay at Quinte. We never ask the craziest question of the week: "Where did three dozen of the city's finest spend yesterday afternoon?" Simple isn't it? Out on the bay in a boat race, of course.

What is a few thousand gallons of water more or less to a group of sailors? Even when it rain, coming down so thick and fast that at times one would be hard put to tell where the regular water level left off and the air began. Well yesterday we had an answer. To non-sailors let me say that that downpour yesterday, while inspiring water to pray for gills, didn't even dampen the enthusiasm of the skippers and crews of eight Bay or Quinte yachts who defied rain and a vagrant wind that blew from every quarter of the compass, sometimes with the intensity of a gale of cold wind, with an indifferentity at all, to revive yacht racing here after a prolonged absence.

The W. C. Millet Challenge Trophy for the fastest boat on the Bay or Quinte was up for competition and by-danged if anything was going to stop the sailing. Seven standing keel boats and the "Joka", a centreboard punt, were on hand at 3:30 p.m. yesterday afternoon to answer Dr. Harold Craig's starting gun and Bill Brewer's stirring marker for the inaugural event. It is said that dissension is brighten boating enthusiasts in the bay for the rest of the season. The course, laid out from the government dock to a buoy off Peak's Point, back to the Bay Bridge, and then down the bay again to a point off the government dock and around two buoys for a distance of more than four miles witnessed some of the most varied weather seen on the bay in a long time, as well as some excellent sailing on the part of the various skippers. Twice around is par.

Taking part in the race were J. J. Morch's "Dorian" with Mr. Morch, Bill Finkle and Bill Harvey aboard; Bob Boyce with Al Wilkerson and Hank Howe, is "Pawnee"; Harold Seldon's "Stalwren" manned by Mr. and Maurice Callaghan in "Halcyon"; Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Burrows and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pringle aboard "Viking"; Group Captain Hawirey and Squadron Leader Harvey and two RCAF cadets in "Astra"; Jack Hamilton and Frank Green in "Windrift"; and George Graham and John Martin in Mr. Graham's boat. The "Joka" with Harry and Jud Semark, Paul Haggis and Bill Sullivan sailed the course to give the big fellows company.

The blast of the starting gun seemed to touch off the cloud-burst that had been holding back all day until this point. A strong gale that seemed to blow from ENE to WNW sprang up as a chaser for the rain and before anyone could quite catch their breath a forester on Harold Seldon's "Stalwren" snapped and he was forced to put out two anchors to keep the boat on the bay. The rest of the boats managed to keep their sails to themselves and as they came around the first buoy off Peak's Point it was Morch's "Dorian" out in front by a few hundred yards. Graham's boat jibbed around the buoy in a nerve-tingling way and slipped ahead of the "Astra" which came about in an orthodox way in the heavy wind. The "Windrift", "Pawnee", and "Viking" came round in that order and squared away for the Bay Bridge.

At the bridge a tricky gust of wind caught the trailing "Viking" fouling up the jib and spoiling the turn so that it had to lose valuable time making a second approach. It did take the field and was never in contention again. At the end of the first lap the "Dorian" had a long lead which it relinquished by making two turns around the starting buoy before heading out on the second lap. As the field crossed the line on its second run down the bay, Maurice Callaghan and the Seldons came across in the opposite direction under tow by the sea cadet whaler.

And all this time there was rain. Rain came down so hard that at one stage watchers on the dock couldn't make out the boats as they beat their way up the bay. On the down leg of the second lap the "Joka" made up some distance on the field coming around the buoy in a dead heat with "Astra", about two hundred yards behind "Windrift" and "Dorian" which had made the turn together. Going up to the bridge again the wind fell off to such a point that, "Dorian", caught in the current coming through the channel, went way and washed back down the bay for a considerable distance.

Meanwhile "Astra" tacked all the way back to the harbor trying to get an angle on the bridge buoy. "Joka" worked away over to the far shore trying to catch a south wind. Eventually the calm abated enough to give the Dorian, Windrift and Astra steerage way and they finished within ten minutes of one another. The "Dorian" came in in front followed by the "Windrift", and the "Astra". The other boats, hopelessly becalmed came in under power.

Captain John Watson, chairman of the race committee, who was drenched along with your correspondent, Dr. Craig and son David, and Bill Brown, handed over the Trophy to Maurice Callaghan who presented it to Mr. Morch. "I feel guilty about taking this trophy from you Maurice", said Mr. Morch, who was promptly handed a challenge by Mr. Callaghan for another race to be held two weeks from this coming Sunday. Maurice was adamant in the face of some heavy bidding, in stating that if the wind had not blown away the forestay that the "Halcyon" would have given the rest of the field a good race. Maurice, who yesterday celebrated his 63rd birthday and his fiftieth year of boat racing is just as eager for a good race now as he ever was in the part. So look for more spirited action in two weeks.

Only one taking part in the race who did not come in for a second change of clothes was judge-of-the-course Morley Smith and his party aboard the "Tom Bar II". All the rest of the crews, judges, spectators and by-standers wound up with a thorough drenching. The biggest difficulty found by this observer was trying to write in a rainstorm with a blunt pencil on a piece of soggy newsprint that the elements were trying to blow down to Picton, Belleville, Stirling, Mamaseze, or all points at once. That is the way the wind was blowing yesterday, and you don't have to take our word for it. Go see anyone who was there. Next time we will take one of those pens that write under water. Lots of it. Only one trophy was passed out yesterday, but everyone who took part in that commonly well deserved a medal at least. We should like to suggest that it be cast in a rubber vulcanizer with two rubber boats crossed on a pool of water with SQ. emblazoned on flanking water wings. We are 'looking' of course. Here's to a grand bunch of sailors and sportsmen. Pass the towel.

Ferrier Ranked As Man to Beat In Canadian Open

Toronto, July 5 (CP) — The rain-drenched fairways of the Mississaugua Golf Club braced themselves today for another assault by some 190 competitors in the Canadian Open Golf Championship, fresh from as furious a par-shattering open day as the 42-year-old tournament has seen.

Defending champion Jim Ferrier headed the 54-man group—close to one-sixth of the field—who completed the first 18-hole round of the 72-hole classic in better than par 72.

Ferrier's smooth work on the greens gave him a dazzling 65—seven strokes under par—and ranked him as the man to beat in the four-day $18,000 tournament.

But the native of Australia, who now plays out of San Francisco faces strong threats from more than a score of challengers whose play crackled as crisply as the thunder-and-lightning accompanying heavy rain which doused the 6,543-yard course at intervals in the afternoon.

Three players challenged Ferrier with 66s, one had a 67, eight scored 68, five finished in the 69-class. Nine more had 70, and seven had 71.

Lanky Dick Borthwick from Hamilton, Ancaster added to the opening day excitement with a hole-in-one, the second in the Canadian Open. Borthwick, who carded a 72, canned his tee shot on the 155-yard 14th hole, to open the previous one was shot by Lou Cumming of Toronto Golf Club at Montreal Beaconsfield in 1946.

Tucker Heads Canadians

Murray Tucker, pro from London Sunningdale, headed the Canadian challenge with a 68 in an eight-way tie for sixth place—three strokes off the leader's pace.

Another Canadian, Henry Martin from Edmonton, was right behind with 69. The former Canadian amateur champion played consistent golf all game to fit into a five-way tie for 14th place.

A Canadian led the amateurs—Nick Weiskos of Windsor Essex, runner-up to Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver for the Canadian amateur title last year. He came around in 70.

Ferrier's closest challengers were Texans—Chuck Klein, San Antonio, Jack Burke, Jr., Houston and Fred Hawkins, El Paso. Each produced a 66. Behind them came Ed Furgol, Wilson, N.Y., who shot a 67 in a practice round over Mississaugua Saturday; and Smiley Quick, Pasadena, Calif., winner of Ontario Open championship play.

Ferrier's 65 equalled the competitive record for the Mississaugua course—set by Ben Hogan in 1942. Among many of the players, there was a feeling that even the Canadian Open record of 286 set South African Bobby Locke in 1949 might fall by the end of the week.

The field for today's 18-hole round is unchanged from yesterday—barring withdrawals. Tomorrow it is cut to 100 and ties for the third round. Saturday it is cut to 60 and ties for the last 18.

Good Time Picked to Win $25,000 Stake

Westbury, N.Y., July 5 (CP)—Good Time, the smart little black pacer from the Goshen, N.Y., stable of Bill Cane, hopes to snap a Roosevelt Raceway jinx tonight by winning the $25,000 National Pacing Derby for a second time.

Ten of the best sidewheelers in the business are scheduled to start in the one-mile race, an exclusive "by invitation" affair. Good Time, listed as the 2-to-1 favorite, beat Scottish Fence in the 1950 race, but no winner ever has come close to repeat.

Scottish Fence, from the Castleton Farm, Lexington, Ky., is back again, and is probable third choice at 4 to 1, starting from the No. 8 post. Good Time, to be driven by Frank Ervin, has the No. 1 spot. Scottish Fence beat Good Time in the Downing Memorial recently when the Cane flyer broke stride at the start.

Second choice and starting from the No. 2 slot, is Royal Blackstone, at 3 to 1. Royal Blackstone, owned by the Brown Stables, Detroit, also defeated Good Time last year.

Lindy Fraser of Forest, Ont., and his aged gelding, Dr. Dentist, drew seventh post position. Dr. Stanton, once the "wonder horse" of the Grand Circuit was quoted at 20 to 1.

BACK IN FORM AGAIN

Veteran righthander of the Cleveland Indians, Bob Feller, centre, is seen as he was congratulated by Sam Chapman left, and Luke Easter after he had pitched his third no-hit game in Cleveland, setting a modern major league record. Feller beat the Detroit Tigers 2 to 1 in first contest of a doubleheader that Cleveland swept, giving up one run which resulted in two errors. Just a few months ago the famous fireballer was cast aside as "has beer" and left off the American league all-star team which will play on July 10 in Detroit.

Teams Request Loop Meeting

Albany, N.Y., July 5 (AP) — Two teams that debated during the weekend whether to leave the trimmed-down Border loop have asked for a meeting of the Class-C Baseball League to draft a four-team schedule.

Watertown and Auburn asked League President John G. Ward of Ogdensburg to call the league meeting.

Both teams rejected Ward's order that they play each other starting Wednesday and running through July .

Watertown and Auburn had hoped to withdraw from the Border League and join the six-team Canadian-American loop, also Class C.

But the switch was ruled out Tuesday by George Trautman, President of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

The Border went to four clubs last month when Cornwall, Ont., and Geneva withdrew.

In rejecting Ward's temporary schedule of games with Watertown, President Frank J. Sikors of the Auburn Club said schedules must be approved by all teams in the league.

The Auburn directors met Tuesday night and again Wednesday afternoon.

After a meeting of the Watertown club's executive committee last night, Wrestler Clyde Graves said the team would stay in the Border League, though reluctantly.

Graves said Watertown will play under a new schedule, if the other three teams do.

MORE INTERESTED IN RACING

New York, July 5 — (AP) — If attendance and betting returns for July 4, 1951, can be used as a criterion, more Americans are interested in horse racing this year than last — and fewer in baseball.

Fourteen race tracks this year drew 306,496 persons who wagered $14,460,265. In 1950 368,652 turf fans pouring $13,021,794 through the mutual machines. Fourteen tracks also were operating then.

Baseball was played in seven parks last year with the average crowd 28,531. This year eight fields had an average of 25,278 fans.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Pittsburgh, July 5 (AP)—Pittsburgh's next big sporting event, now that the professional Golfers Association tournament is over, will be the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Walcott affair, first heavyweight championship fight ever held in this city...And, surprisingly, it seems to be ancient Joe who is bringing in the customers... Matchmaker Jack McGinley, who optimistically estimates that 35,000 or more people will pay at least $200,000 to see the affair, made that discovery and can't quite figure it out... "Charles is kinda a home-town boy here," Jack says. "But listening to the people who come in to buy tickets I hear a lot of them talking about Walcott...Maybe they've read about his hard life and family; they've seen him on television and they figure it's his last chance for the title."

Leaving 'Em Buz Eyed

The 33rd P.G.A. championship probably will go down as the first golf tournament ever decided on the fly...Remember last week's flurry of excitement when Marty Furgol started to protest because Sam Snead blew an insect off his ball on the putting green?...If that protest had been upheld, Marty would have won in 8 holes instead of losing in 37...He was playing well enough to give Lloyd Mangrum a real tussle and chances are neither would have rattled off Jackie Burke the way Snead did...So it might have been two persons able, curly-haired young guys named Burke and Burkemo in the final-which would have been danged confusing to radio listeners.

Bill Shaver, the retired hockey referee who ran the press scoreboard at the tournament, claims his toughest night in sports was when he worked a two game set between the Rangers and Americans in New York and had to swallow two goals that night...ve won for the humble Amerks because Eddie Wiseman was in the crease interfering with the goalie...The fact that Bill's scalp still is intact proved the boys never caught him...One of the visiting golf writers left here with a low opinion of golf fans. Seems he was standing near the eighth green waiting for the Ryerson Vines—Walter Burkemo match to come home when a spectator asked: "How's Vines?"...Two up, was the answer...The spectator mulled it over for a moment, then queried: "How's Burkemo?"

Jim Ferrier Calls Course A Fine One

Toronto, July 5 (CP) — If you listen to the boys doing the club work in this 1951 Canadian Open golf championship you'll get a complete run-down of opinions about the 6,543 yard layout. And take your choice.

There's Jim Ferrier of San Francisco who ruined par 72 yesterday with a 65 in the opening 18-hole round. Jim was happy to call it "a very nice course, very nice." He led the field...

Then there's Skee Riegel, the powerful armed ex-amateur from Tulsa, Okla., who can hold his own in any company.

"Why, this course should be done in nothing, plain nothing," said Riegel. "With a few breaks I could have been way under my 69."

But little Murray Tucker, the London, Ont., Sunningdale pro, said "it isn't easy; if you don't get those putts down, the ones that really count, you're just getting by with par." Tucker shot a 68, and was low Canadian for the first 18.

Then you have the first-hand low-down from curly haired Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston Texas, who shot a 66 and missed a 20-foot putt at the home hole for a tie with Ferrier.

"Yes it isn't the putting. Mine wasn't so hot, but here I am with 66. The course calls for long hitting and I got in some on this round."

U. S. SEIZES $250,000 "REEFER" CACHE

Largest cache of marijuana ever to be recovered in the U.S. was the 193-pound load which Washington police found hidden in a secret compartment in the auto of John Weatherbee, 28, of New York City. Weatherbee, who brought the drug from Mexico, is being held under $10,000 bond for violation of Marijuana Tax Act. Photo shows a Washington detective recording the load, estimated to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

MORE THAN A 'PRUDENT ADMINISTRATOR'

'En bon pere de famille' (as a good father of the family) is a phrase often used in the Civil Law of the Province of Quebec. It means a 'Prudent Administrator' and, as applied to Executors and Trustees, requires them to act with care and skill.

In addition,it suggests that an Executor and Trustee must feel a deep sense of responsibility for the personal welfare and comfort of dependants.

It is the aim of the Officers of The Royal Trust Company to live up to this high ideal with sympathy and understanding, and to ensure efficient and economical administration of every Estate entrusted to our care.

Trust and Estate Officers are always available when needed for consultation.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Writers, advertisers, all journalistic interests; research in chemistry, science; music and art make new strides under Mercury and other favorable planets now. Good day be thankful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You are surrounded by benefic vibrations but may not find all personal desires satisfied. It's a day for good work, sound judgment, unexpected gains that should please. Be happy.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Fortunate influences but your Mars may hold emotions under sensible control that you can make all advancement possible. Aim to achieve; really try and you will.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Should not be difficult to make real headway in your usual occupation or in any line in which you are truly interested and that has worthy purpose. New undertaking encouraged. Try!

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You industrious folks also have high favor with fate today and should enjoy gain ground. Familiar routine, added obligations, broadening your scope of endeavor among honored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — All private interests, unless purposeful and helpful in a general way are less favored than wholesome day than activities, work to aid government, the public, your family, charities.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Top rate vibrations for your interests, to aid sincere efforts and bring fresh benefits and blessings for your kindliness, charity, and the good work you are expected to do, and do.

You born today: Much talent, ingenuity, determination and a wonderfully retentive memory highlight this character. Living true to your fine God-given gifts and praying daily for guidance, you are indeed fortunate, for you are likeable, interesting and capable of winning success and a host of worthy friends. Strive sensibly to curb restlessness that could halt accomplishment, defeat high objectives. It is well to be ambitious, to seek travel and gather greater knowledge. But such must be done with intelligent planning and execution. Birthdate: John Paul Jones, Amer. naval officer, adventurer.

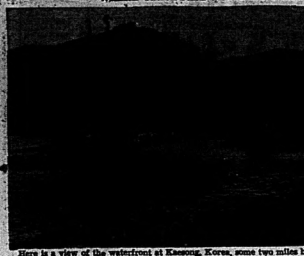
WHERE CEASE-FIRE TALKS WILL BE HELD



Here is a view of the waterfront at Kaesong, Korea, some two miles below the 38th Parallel, which the Chinese communists have reportedly suggested as the setting for the forthcoming cease-fire talks. Gen. Matthew Ridgway had chosen Wonsan as the meeting place, but the reds named Kaesong, to which Ridgway agreed. — Central Press Canadian.

THOMASBURG

Slides, Florida Talk Feature Last Meeting Of Women's Assoc.

Thomasburg—The Women's Association of Thomasburg United Church held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brenegan. As this was the last meeting until September, the husbands, families and friends were invited and a full house was in attendance. Slides were an interesting feature on the program, also a talk given by Mrs. Albert Martin, assisted by Donald and Eva Martin, of her trip to Florida during the month of February.

During the evening, Mrs. Ernest Morton was honored with a gift from the ladies of the Women's Association, as it had been learned with regret that Mrs. Morton and her husband and family, will soon be moving from this community to make their new home in Belleville. Mrs. Morton has been a valued member and a tireless worker since the organization of the association, having served as president and also holding various other offices.

At the conclusion of this meeting, delicious refreshments were served, topped off with ice cream and strawberries.

Thomasburg Public School has closed for the summer vacation and six Thursday evenings of teachers and pupils put on a music festival as a fitting climax to a full year's work and achievements. Mrs. Harrison, the principal, provided piano accompaniment for the entire program, while Mrs. Montgomery did the directing. At the conclusion of the program, the teachers presented the winning pupils with their prizes, for conduct, attendance, advancements, note-book work and neatness. Mrs. Harrison presented Nellie Keller and Donald Robbs with their high school entrance diplomas and congratulated them. She also presented Mrs. Montgomery with a personal gift, and the pupils honored her with an address and a gift of an electric table lamp upon her resignation as assistant teacher at Thomasburg school. Mrs. Montgomery has taught for several years and endeared herself to both pupils and parents.

Mrs. Montgomery, although completely surprised, expressed her appreciation and said her continued interest would still be with the pupils of Thomasburg school.

Mr. Moorcroft of Madoc has been engaged as assistant teacher for Thomasburg school for the coming season, while Mrs. Harrison of Plainfield will return as principal.

Pains In Stomach; Gas Indigestion, Dizzy Spells Tells of Grand Relief

"Suffered for Years," Says This Man, Felt Tired and Wornout. Tells How After Many Things Failed, Syntona Helped Him.

London, Ontario, who says:

"Having suffered for several years with stomach disorders and finding nothing to really help me I read so much about Syntona Herbal Compound. Decided that it was in this way I, too, found relief.

"Since I began taking Syntona it wasn't long before I noticed it was helping my stomach. The gas, indigestion, and pains that I had in the pit of my stomach eased up and then left entirely. Now I eat well, enjoy my meals without distress afterwards, and the rest of the disorders are also gone, and that I had before. Whereas I formerly felt tired, wornout and was not sleeping well, today that is all changed and I feel so much better that I can highly recommend Syntona to anyone suffering in this same way."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN CLEMAS, 43 Evergreen Avenue, THE DRUGGIST.

SCORES SEVEN HITS

Tokyo, July 5 — (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Huron scored seven direct hits on a railroad bridge and three on a highway span in the Songjin area of Northern Korea, the United Nations naval summary said Wednesday.

The Huron has been operating off the east coast up near the Korea-Manchurian border.

The eight-inch guns of two heavy United States cruisers, Toledo and Los Angeles, were trained at communist targets in the area of the east-coast battleline in close support to ground forces.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

"I refuse to talk until I have my lawyer and a dry suit of clothes."

Merica scowled across his desk. Sergeant Cole sat on a corner of the desk. He wasn't scowling, or even gloating. He was sure he knew me, and he could afford the luxury of being civil.

"You're free to call your lawyer if you think you know where to find him" said Merica. "As for a dry suit of clothes, I can't oblige. You asked for it, breaking into the Prater offices and busting up that water tank. Wetherim says you acted like a lunatic."

"You fool! Wetherim tried to kill Sonya!"

Cost gave me an almost pitying smirk. Merica laughed dryly. "That rap on the head really fixed you up, Marshall. Why would anybody want to tie a girl up and put her in a steel vault to suffocate her? There are lots of easier ways to kill people. And what motive could Wetherim possibly have for killing Madam Sonya Sarests, the famous lady magician?"

"I told you about the yellow bathing suit. We even had it when your cops took over."

"Let's talk about one thing at a time. I'm interested in what happened in Larry Stone's apartment."

I told what had happened at Larry Stone's apartment. Inspector Merica made a disgusting face. "Now you've insulted my intelligence, Marshall! Even a guy that's been creamed on the head would be able to spot the skull fracture Stone died of."

I half-rose out of my chair.

"Stone had no skull fracture when Sonya and I left him! If he did have one when he was found, neither Nanabarro nor Lou is responsible for his death! Somebody else got in there, deliberately took advantage of his condition and murdered him!"

"There you go again, talking about people getting in and out of the Brentwood Arms without the desk seeing them."

"There's a service entrance to the place."

"And it's kept locked at night. Try again, Marshall!"

"Well, that's the way Nanabarro and his lieutenant got in! Ask Sonya. Ask them!"

"I will. I've already sent for Nanabarro and Lou Brisso."

I knew they weren't the type to admit even assault and battery. Sonya's testimony and mine would sound sour in view of the fact that nobody had seen the night club manager and his lieutenant enter the Brentwood Arms.

"Mind telling me who found Stone?" I asked.

"Not at all. Your friend Smiley Wetherim found him. Does that answer your question?"

"Not quite. I saw Wetherim and a girl enter La Jolla Club earlier in the evening. The girl was Clara Mayhew, receptionist at the Prater offices."

"Sure. She was with Smiley when he decided to call on Larry Stone. They were pals. He and the girl are in the next room signing statements now."

Merica frowned his impatience. His phone rang. He answered it, listened and said: "Send them right up." He put down the phone and looked at me. "Now we'll get the hear what Nanabarro and Brisso have to say about it."

A few minutes later a patrolman ushered in the night club boss and his aide. Both regarded me with fleeting glances; neither betrayed a sign of recognition. They addressed everything of course, to Merica.

"I've never been in Stone's apartment in my life! As a matter of fact, I don't even know where he lives!" Nanabarro said.

"Yes, Sonya is here!" I told Merica, "She'll back me up."

Merica grinned. "Maybe she would at that. You two have been pretty cozy lately, haven't you, Marshall?" He turned to Nanabarro. "Got an alibi for tonight?"

Nanabarro nodded. "Ask any of the help at my place. They'll tell you Lou and I have been in the office all evening."

"A fat alibi," I scoffed. "Any of those punks out there would back up Nanabarro for an extra ten in his pay check!"

Merica gave me coldly. "Tell that to the jury that tries you for the murder of Larry Stone. That's what I'm holding you for. That and falsifying and tampering with the evidence in the murder of Rose Bidault. It may interest you to know that Carl Prater is ready to sign a complaint on an affidavit for Andy Tanner at this moment!"

"You're kidding Merica. Prater's in the hospital."

"He was, but he has been released. He had only a mild heart attack after your assault on him. Tanner's filing on an assault and battery charge and an assault with a deadly weapon charge for that little session. Add breaking and entering the Prater offices and assault upon Wetherim, and you have quite a package, Star. Williams will certainly have his hands full defending you—if he has any time off from defending himself!"

Somebody mention my name? We all turned at the sound of the voice from the doorway. Star stood there.

The patrolman at the door stood docile as Star shoved open the door wider to permit the entry of two other men. They were the two Valleyville funeticians, Esplin and Brayton. They entered sheepishly, giving me barely any recognition.

"What's the idea!" Merica thundered. "Who are these men, anyway?"

Star produced a folded paper from his inside coat pocket with a flourish.

"These gentlemen have just signed this affidavit. I think it would profit you to read it before proceeding further with charges against my valued assistant."

Merica picked up the paper, unfolded it and began to read. His expression tightened progressively; when he had finished he eyed Brayton and Esplin and demanded:

"Did you men sign this affidavit?"

They nodded. "Yes sir, we did."

Merica placed the affidavit on his desk and eyed Star, who regarded him amusedly.

"I'll concede that this places an entirely different light on what has happened. I'll get Wetherim in here, also Prater. Prater is with Andy Tanner. Any objections if I bring in Tanner, too?"

"As a matter of fact, while you're at it, I suggest that you bring in all the parties concerned. Including Madam Sonya Sarcets." All the while, Star didn't give me a look at the affidavit.

Merica started to say he didn't mind a bit; then he saw the grin on my face and demanded: "Why do you want that magician dame in here?"

"So I can complete my case against the murderer of Barney Bidault," said Star Williams.

Iran Turns Down 'Freeze' in Oil Dispute

Will Not Abide By Suggestion Of World Court

Evacuation of All British Oil Men Likely Next Move

Tehran, Iran, July 6. (CP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh today turned down flatly the world court's suggestion for a "freeze" in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

He made his statement just after a British embassy spokesman had warned that the British oil men will quit Iran if he refuses to abide by yesterday's court proposal at The Hague.

The ailing premier told reporters who visited his bedside:

"We shall go ahead with nationalization, Iran is not prepared to recognize the jurisdiction of the world court to make a ruling on a matter which is not within its competence."

(In London, the British Cabinet called an emergency session for this afternoon as the oil conflict moved toward a new crisis.)

Mossadegh said the court "made recommendations exactly as required by the British government. It is a pity that strong nations are able to use international organizations to impose their will on small weak nations."

The British embassy spokesman said, evacuation of all British oil men from the country was inevitable if the Iranians rejected the court's proposals.

Court Suggests Interim Plan

The International Court of Justice sitting at The Hague proposed yesterday that Britain and Iran agree on an interim plan for keeping Iran's oil flowing until the court could go ahead with its long bitter dispute. Much of Iran's oil production goes into Europe's defence efforts.

Iran rejected the court proposals while British officials termed the court's proposals "very welcome to us."

An embassy spokesman said that evacuation of all British personnel of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company was inevitable if Iran stuck by its decision not to accept the court's proposal to go ahead and seize full control of the A.I.O.C.'s giant holdings.

Withdrawal of British technicians would mean a virtual closedown of Abadan, largest refinery. There is little hope that Iran could run the refinery and operations if the Britons pulled out. Will Have to Be Made

The spokesman said the evacuation would have to be made "on the grounds of humanity." It would be inhumane to leave technicians sweltering in the heat of the Persian Gulf with no work to do, he said.

Hussein V. Navab, Iranian minister in The Hague, said last night, immediately after the judges' decision there, that Iran considers the dispute outside the court's jurisdiction.

In the southern oil town of Abadan, 30,000 cheering Iranians watched as hundreds of the new Iranian troops, sailors and mechanized units to mark "Id Eitter"—feast day of Mohammed's birthday.

Their loudest cheers went to a dozen American-made tanks, driven by Iranians.

(The Anglo-Iranian Company of Australia left Nicosia, Cyprus, today for the Persian Gulf, at the head of the Suez Canal which leads through to the Red Sea and Persian Gulf. Some 200 British oil drillers, who had been due to sail in her in July, were told they would not be going immediately. (Officials refused to confirm or deny the ship might go to Abadan to evacuate the British oil men, if necessary.)

WHY THE ARMISTICE

Tokyo, July 6. (AP)—Feiping radio said today an armistice in Korea has become possible because of "the heavy blows dealt by the American troops and their accomplices by the Chinese People's Volunteers and the Korean People's army which put the enemy in dilemma."

3-Way Battle Appears Likely For Vacant Seat

Calgary, July 6. (CP)—The possibility was seen last night of a three-way battle in the forthcoming Calgary West federal by-election caused by the resignation of A. L. Smith, Progressive Conservative. No date has yet been set for the voting.

Dr. Ernest Gill, president of the Calgary Social Credit constituency Association, has announced that Arthur J. Dixon, an unsuccessful candidate in the 1949 general election, has consented to allow his name to go before a nominating meeting.

Mossadegh said the court "made recommendations exactly as required by the British government. It is a pity that strong nations are able to use international organizations to impose their will on small weak nations."

The British embassy spokesman said, evacuation of all British oil men from the country was inevitable if the Iranians rejected the court's proposals.

Another possible candidate appeared when Dr. F. G. Buchanan said he has been approached by the Calgary West Liberal Association to permit his name to go before a convention.

Aussies Announce Three-Point Defence Program

Canberra, July 6. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced a three-point program of Australian defence preparedness today in a speech in the House of Representatives during the second reading of the Defence Preparations Bill.

He repeated earlier warnings that Australia must be ready for war by the end of 1953.

The three-point program:

1. An increase in the trained strength of the armed forces "so that effective forces are available at instant use in event of war and training and other facilities are ready to expand those forces."

2. Equipping these forces.

3. Strengthening the whole economy to meet wartime and war-preparation plans.

Trail, Once Jackpot in Fabulous Poker Game, Celebrates Jubilee

Trail, B.C., July 5 (CP) —This smelter city, once the jackpot in a fabulous game of stud poker, this week is celebrating its golden jubilee of incorporation as a city.

Trail, heart of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations, was known until last year as "Smoky City." The chamber of commerce, after Hercules of the ancients, finally got the 11,500 residents to refer to their home town as the "Silver City" but the name seems to have stuck.

"Silver City" is appropriate enough, for Consolidated now supplies eight percent of the world's silver, plus 10 percent of the world's zinc and lead; 100 percent of Canada's refined lead, 76 percent of Canada's zinc, 55 percent of her silver, 100 percent of her tin, indium and antimony, 97 percent of her bismuth and ammonium sulphate, 84 percent of her cadmium.

The world's largest combined lead-zinc refinery, producing Consolidated now has under way or planned projects totalling more than $65,000,000.

The first white man to set foot on what is now the site of Trail was David Thompson, who mapped the Columbia River in 1808.

In 1890, gold was found on Red Mountain, seven miles from trail. Trail became a docking point for Columbia River steamers taking ore from the mining boom camps of Rossland. In 1894, it was swept away by a Columbia River flood. Only after that, in 1896, Trail survived another onslaught by the river.

Trail brings up that famous, game of stud poker.

The "discovery" of Trail then was owned by a syndicate of three men—E. S. (Colonel) Topping, F. Augustus Heinze, a well-to-do old poker faced youth from Butte, Mont., and A. B. (Humphreys. They finally decided to divide the lots. They became tired of pulling slips of paper out of a hat and produced a deck of cards. Humphreys won the pot —most of the city of Trail.

It was about that time the Trail smelter was built and in 1901 Trail was incorporated as a city.

FINAL TERMS AGREED UPON FOR PEACE TALKS

Commanders Arrange For Safety of Emissaries

Tokyo, July 6 (AP) —Allied planes today were ordered to keep away from the highway down which communist negotiators will travel for cease - fire preliminary talks in Kaesong.

Lt.-Gen. D. Wigland, Far East air forces commander, issued the order a few hours after opposing commanders completed arrangements by radio for a Sunday meeting and guaranteed safe conduct to the emissaries.

The communist delegation from Pyongyang, the red Korean capital at 5 a.m. Saturday (3 p.m. EDT today).

The communist convoy will fly white flags as it travels down the bomb-pocked Pyongyang-Sariwon-Namchongjom highway to Kaesong, three miles south of parallel 38.

Weyland ordered his planes to make no attacks along the route after 8 a.m. Saturday (3 p.m. EDT today).

Bombers Banned

The order carried out the pledge of safe conduct made earlier in the day by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander. And it banned allied bombers from one of their favorite targets on the highway is a main red supply artery to the western front.

Bombers and fighters also were ordered to make no attacks within a five mile radius of Kaesong once the red delegation reaches it. This carried out another pledge Ridgway made when he completed final arrangements for a meeting of three U.N. officers with three communists in the no-man's land city.

The two delegations meet Sunday to arrange for a cease-fire session scheduled to start in Kaesong Monday.

The shooting will continue until an agreement is reached at the second meeting, and approved.

A single communist plane unidentified in Friday's radio broadcast dropped a few small bombs near Allied positions on the western front, about 30 miles from Kaesong. U.N. planes were back in the air on rocketing and fighter strikes after flying only 470 missions Thursday.

"No significant action" developed on the ground, the U.S. Eighth army reported in its Friday communique, indicating that the front remained relatively quiet."

Elizabeth and Philip Will Make Part of Their Canadian Tour in October by Plane

London, July 6 (CP) —Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh probably will sail for Canada in the last week of September, a spokesman for the Princess said today.

Arrangements are still in the elementary stage, the informant said, but it seems likely that the Royal couple will cross the Atlantic in a Canadian Pacific liner, possibly the Empress of France or the Empress of Canada.

The Empress of France sails from Liverpool Tuesday, Sept. 25, and the Empress of Canada leaves a week later.

It was also learned that Elizabeth and Philip are considering a suggestion, understood to have been made by External Affairs Minister Pearson, that part of the Royal tour in Canada should be made by plane.

"The idea is that an aircraft should be used to cover some of the vast distances that would be encountered in Canada," the spokesman said. "Then, when it came to a section of particular scenic or historic interest, the party would travel by train.

"We are considering the idea, but no decision has been reached. It is far too early to say."

From a Canadian source in touch with the Princess, it was learned that Elizabeth always has been "very keen on the Canadian West coast—perhaps because of the glowing accounts brought back from British Columbia by the King and the King's former assistant private secretary, Sir Alan Lascelles. The King and Queen visited Canada in 1939.

It was also suggested here that Elizabeth will be especially interested in French Canada, as she speaks French fluently and has a special interest in French culture.

Sure to See Princess

Two Canadian Highland regiments, the 48th Highlanders and the Argyll Sutherlands, are sure to see the Princess, who is their honorary colonel-in-chief. She is also honorary colonel-in-chief of Britain's Grenadier Guards, and thus has an indirect connection with Canada's grenadiers.

"The Princess has a direct personal link with the two Highland regiments, and it's safe to say she will be seeing them at some point in the tour," an informant said.

It is understood there was a "keen interest in Canada" before the Royal couple decided to accept the invitation to visit Canada. There is no "master plan" for the Royal visits and a spokesman said it seemed natural that Canada as the oldest of the Dominions would have a prior claim.

The only other Dominion princess Elizabeth has visited is South Africa. Early in 1947, she accompanied the King and Queen and Princess Margaret on the first visit ever paid by a reigning sovereign to the union and to the adjoining British territories.

Canada received the first royal visit of the reign in 1939, and it is likely that if Princess Elizabeth and Philip visit Canada the King and Queen some other Dominion would have been chosen.

At Buckingham Palace today, spokesmen said: "Nothing—absolutely nothing" has been arranged regarding the Royal tour. The spokesman said the Queen is waiting for a program to be submitted by Canada, after which some information might be available.

Three Boys Rescued at Trenton After Bay Trip in Leaky Punt

Trenton (Special) — Parents of three young children rested easier last night after a thrilling waterair search conducted by officers of Gary Reid, 12, Ronald Ferguson, 5, and Robert Sourbourne, 5, all of Bayside, east of Trenton.

The three boys playing off shore from Glenora Park Inn, in a leaky old punt drifted across the mile and a quarter stretch of choppy water of the Bay of Quinte and lodged in tall reeds along the swampy shoreline on the Prince Edward side.

Little Denny Reid, brother of Gary, who had been paddling with the other boys, watched the boat being carried out by the wind bay, ran home and told his mother, Bill Salusbury, a cousin of the Fergusons, and a few on way to work at the air station, rushed to the water's edge where the trio of girls drifting helplessly in rough water off the east tip of Snake Island. They called to the air Search rescue centre at the south station, but assistance could not be sent, since the rescue was involved with an air crash which involved two victims north of Wooler earlier.

Launch Unable to Help

Frantically, Mr. Salusbury sought aid from an American launch tied up at the docks at Trenton. The launch, unable to operate in less than two feet of water, was unable to join in the rescue.

Trenton police put Mr. Salusbury in touch with town foreman Bill Gidman who, with Salusbury sped to the area in his fast powerboat.

As darkness was falling and the rescue searchers spread out across the roughening waters, three planes and a crash boat and tender from the air search Rescue centre joined the hunt.

Power Boat Falls

Bill Gidman was the first to sight the stranded trio in the tall reeds. In steering his launch into the swamp for the pickup the propeller fouled and the flying Norseman overhead was waved down to take the boys aboard and bring them to safety.

First remark of chilled Ronald Ferguson, as he was lifted to safety from an earlier accident was: "Boy, are we going to have a ride in that big airplane?"

Makeshift Paddle

Tying two oars in the punt, The boys had been using s'makshift paddle about four feet long for a rudder, Gidman and the U.S.A.F. water search boat towed the punt back to the harbor at the south station.

Aboard the Air Search Rescue launch were: F/L. Bob Gilmour, pilot, F/O. Air Search Rescue, Fellow and A. Piper, pilot F/O. Don Walkey, observer.

Parents of the rescued children are residing at Bayside are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reid, Mr. and Mrs. R. Ferguson and Sgt. and Mrs. R. Bourdeau.

SITUATION WORSENING

Belgrade, July 6. (AP)—The official Yugoslav communist newspaper Borba charged today the food situation in Czechoslovakia is "worsening rapidly." Without naming the source of its information, the newspaper said a number of foods, including meat, have disappeared suddenly from sale on the free market. It said some shops closed on the pretext of having to take inventory.

PILOT DENIES REPORT

Oslo, July 6. (Reuters)—A Norwegian pilot, freed by the Czechoslovak government after a year in prison, said here today he did not report anything to the U.S.A.F. Lt. Bjoern Johansen, released Wednesday with his American interpreter Lt. Luther G. Roland, after a month's detention, accused the Czechs of distortion.

2 RCAF PILOTS INSTANTLY KILLED NEAR WOOLER

Plane Wreckage Over Wide Area

Two R.C.A.F. pilots were instantly killed late Thursday afternoon when on a routine training flight out of Trenton Air Station their Harvard type plane crashed into a field north of Wooler scattering wreckage over a wide area.

The two airmen were identified by R.C.A.F. officials as being F/O. Bruce H. Hugdins, 20, of Winnipeg, and Toronto, an instructor, and F/O. James H. Brown, of Sudbury and Peace River district, Alberta.

Hoggins' wife and daughter, Caroline, age 1, live at Exeter, while Mrs. Brown, and daughter, Barbara Kaley, 15 months, reside at 72 Wilkins Street, Trenton.

Crashes in Field

The crash of the American Texan training plane, which is a Harvard type on loan from the United States to the R.C.A.F., took place about 4:30 in the afternoon. It crashed into a wheat-field about one mile north of Wooler, the plane being witnessed by local farmers who saw the aircraft plow into the ground.

Flying at about 1000 feet the plane was doing a steep bank over the field, and Bill Johnson who was one of the wings sheared off at the fuselage. The plane then turned over and plummetted to earth, while the detached wing followed to the ground landing 150 yards away.

Irranian Police Cordon Off Temporary Office

Abadan, Iran, July 6 (Reuters)—Iranian police today cordoned off Anglo-Iranian's temporary office at Oborombahr, on Abadan Island, Persian Gulf oil island, refusing to allow anyone to enter the office.

Michael Keely, personal assistant to A. E. Mason, the company's chief representative, was inside the office.

Five hours after the cordon was thrown around he said: "I intend to stay here unless I am forcibly removed. I have not been permitted McGregor to win the first three games of the second set.

He also defeated McGregor in the fourth round last January, which went to four sets.

Trade Deficit For Five Months Near $300,000,000

Security Sales Well Above Same Period of Last Year

Ottawa, July 6 — (CP) — Canada's official reserves of United States dollars and gold climbed to $1,683,000,000 on June 30, the highest quarterly figure this year and a gain of more than $400,000,000 from last year, the Finance Department announced today.

These comparatively high reserves held by the Foreign Exchange Control Board just about $100,000,000 below the all-time quarterly high of $1,789,000,000 on Sept. 30 last year, were gained in spite of a five-month deficit in foreign trade.

The trade deficit for the five months totalled about $300,000,000. Bank of Canada officials said an offsetting factor would be the net flow of capital to Canada. No accurate estimate of the amount of capital coming to Canada in 1951 was available, but security sales in the first four months this year were well above sales for the same period a year ago.

The official reserves on June 30 were $30,000,000 higher than the $1,653,000,000 on March 31; $19,000,000 higher than the $1,664,000,000 on April 30 and 1,000,000 above the $1,682,000,000 on May 31.

On June 30 a year ago, the reserves stood at $1,255,000,000. All figures are in terms of United States dollars.

No break-down was immediately available as to how much of the Canadian total is known only as "U.S. dollars.

American Wins Tennis Title At Wimbledon

Wimbledon, England, July 6— (Special)—Frank Sawtell of Orange, N. J., defeated Australia's Ken McGregor 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 today to win the Wimbledon men's singles tennis title.

In trouncing the big Aussie in straight sets before 15,000 spectators on the centre court, Sawtell became the first player since 1933 to win both the Wimbledon and Australian titles. Budge won all three major crowns, including the American, in that year.

Sawtell, a lieutenant with the Cornell University tennis team, displayed a brilliant all-court game today. He was in almost complete charge all the way except for the first period when he permitted McGregor to win the first three games of the second set.

He also defeated McGregor in the fourth round last January, which went to four sets.

Argentine Hydrogen Bomb Scientist Again Claims Great Discoveries

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, July 6 (AP)—Argentina's H-bomb scientist yesterday replied to critics in a magazine article, expressing surprise at the criticism and urging western atomic scientists to cooperate in developing studies. Other scientists had said the claims were impossible.

The article, by Ronald Richter, was published in the United Nations World magazine, a private publication not officially connected with the United Nations.

Richter emphasized in the article that his claims are scientifically significant." It did not mention any application of thermonuclear reactions.

The claims were that great heat (possibly millions of degrees) to start atoms to fuse together. This fusion produces a new, different and heavier atom. It also releases of straining them.

a vast store of heat over and above the heat used to do the fusing.

Plan No Bomb

Because this fusion is the secret of the H-bomb, the Argentine announcement was credited as a possible H-bomb step. Because Richter said Argentine knows how to make an A-bomb, the announcement also was credited as a possible A-bomb development. Richter said, however, that the Argentine does not plan to make any bombs.

As in his March announcement Richter today did not tell enough for other scientists to be found either right or wrong.

He says the Argentine process uses materials that, by country can monopolize by controlling its raw materials.

Ritcher says also he is working in high-temperature physics and lots of producing "streams" of tremendous heat. Such zones are not theoretically impossible, but no one else has published claims in these fields.

Girl is Killed 15 Minutes After Leaving Fiance

Brampton, July 6 — (CP) — Patricia Watkins of Guelph kissed her fiance good-bye today and started home to pick up her mother to go shopping for a trousseau. She was killed 15 minutes later when the automobile she was driving was struck by a fast passenger train at a crossing near here.

Miss Watkins, 20, was the daughter of Jack C. W. Watkins, chairman of the Guelph Board of Education. She was to have been married Aug. 18 to Jack Lindsay, er, 23, of Chicago, a student at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph.

A Canadian National Railways commuter train struck the car in the outskirts of Brampton. She was trapped in the wreckage for three hours, was freed by workmen who cut away the chassis with a welding torch.

Miss Watkins left the T. and L. farms at Meadowvale, owned by her uncle and brother-in-law, about 7 a. m. for Guelph to pick up her mother and shop in Hamilton. The car was about three miles from the farm when struck. The train engineer said he was travelling at 60 miles an hour.

The car was carried a half mile on the locomotive and its motor thrown about 50 feet to the side of the right-of-way. The train was brought to a stop 1,000 feet from the point where the car was struck.

Miss Watkins was pinned in the wreckage when she was struck by the front of the train until the train was reversed.

Council also protested an $18,000 surcharge first applied several years ago when the company began manufacturing an oil gas to mix with natural gas. Council protested the rate increasary for only a few months of the year.

THREE COLONELS NAMED

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 6 (AP)—A reliable source said Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has appointed three colonels—from the United States Marines and Air Force and the South Korean army—to conduct preliminary cease-fire discussions with the communists at Kaesong.

THE WEATHER

Belleville, Wis. Holding Centennial Rites in September

Robert Gibson, son of Dr. Gibson, George Street, recently received a letter from Charles P. Smith, postmaster of Belleville, Wisconsin, in which it is revealed that that community, too, prides are holding their centennial celebration, September 1.

Mr. Smith points out in his letter the similar spelling used by the two towns when so many other places dispense with the 'e' to spell it Bellville, and asks if possible their community could have been named after Belleville, Ontario. He goes on to write that that village was named by John Fredericks whose 85-year-old grandson and granddaughter are still living. He would like to know if anyone here could confirm or deny the suspicion.

Items of interest in the promotion of the centennial celebration include a beard growing contest for the men which started May 15. Little cards are carried by all beard-growers for the edification of strangers, and on the cards is written, "I am growing this beard for the Belleville Centennial Celebration and fair, September 1, 2, 3, 4. No—it doesn't bother me! You're right — My wife doesn't like it! Yes—I know it's hot like it... But so what!"

"Wooden "nickels" have also been passed out and are redeemed by any of the local merchants. Many citizens of the Wisconsin village have passed through your city on their Canadian vacations and have promised to come back to that Belleville, Ontario has lots of cheese and milk too! How about that?

U. S. GENERALS VIEW BOMB PRACTICE

While U. N. and Communist officials complete details of the peace talks to be held in Kaesong shortly, Lieut.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet (right), U. S. Eighth Army commander, and Lieut.-Gen. William M. Hoge relax in directors' chairs in Hwachon, Korea, and watch a napalm bombing practice demonstration by a U. S. Air Force unit.—Central Press Canadian.

Two Accidents At Same Turn, Heavy Damage

Two separate accidents resulting in considerable property damage occurred at the intersection of Bridge St., West and Coleman Street as drivers got their signals confused.

Kenneth Sodden was driving on Bridge Street in the centre lane and attempted to make a right hand turn as the following vehicle driven by Francis Douglas, 14 Burton St., tried to pass on the right. The cars were swung in to the curb with damage to both vehicles amounting to a total of close to $400.

At the same intersection vehicles driven by Ronald Giles of Ameliasburg Township and Fred Smith of Toronto collided. Mrs. Smith suffered a wrenched arm and received medical attention.

Fire Destroys Camifton Shed

Catching fire from a gasoline torch being used to loosen paint on the woodwork, a small two-roomed frame backshed owned by Thomas Planes of Cannifton was almost completely destroyed Thursday evening.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm but the structure was enveloped in flames on their arrival and little could be done to save the small building. No estimate of the loss was given but it was stated not to be great.

A bonfire which got out of control at the fairground threatened the grandstand and caused a second run for the department.

Refuse from the demolition of the roof of the grandstand had been set afire and the blaze got out of control. Firemen put out the blaze before damage was caused to the grandstand.

ANAF Veterans' Dart Team Loses Ontario Title

Belleville ANAF Veterans darts team lost the Ontario Provincial championship to Hamilton by three points in the final round of a 42 team match in Toronto this week.

Post 11 of the Canadian Legion of Hamilton took first place in one of the highest scores seen in the competition. Each member of the local team received a silver medal and a certificate.

Bill Ford and Joe Semain went to the final round in the singles competition but were downed by Hamilton players.

The Hamilton squad has been invited to Belleville for a turnament to be arranged some time next month, when the team of Joe Semain, Bill Ford, Dick Burns, Al LeGrieve, Charles Featherston, Stan Whitmell will have a chance to gain sweet revenge.

The local branch of the ANAF Veterans recently created a scholarship fund to aid children of veterans irrespective of their veteran affiliation.

Now the Ontario Provincial Command announces that they are starting a scholarship fund for the same purpose. Jim Lacey, who was one of the initial committee to work out the local plan has been named to the provincial body's advisory committee.

Sappers, Everywhere in Korea, Build Airfield in 47 Minutes

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, July 6 — (CP) — Lifted in the breeze at the top of the 70-foot mast, the windsock stretched over the field as though to boast:

"Now here is an airstrip worthy of a theatre commander."

Twelve aircraft were drawn up on either side of the 1,350-foot runway, many with the silver-starred plaques that indicated their users to be officers of general's ranks.

One, with four stars, was that of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Commander in the Far East, one of his frequent factfinding trips to the Korean front. Ridgway has chosen the Canadian sector for his rendezvous with commanders in the area.

Another, with three stars, belonged to Lt.-Gen. James Van Fleet, commander of the United Nations' Eighth Army. Others belonged to the "smaller fry," ranging from a corps commander down to divisional and regimental brigade in the Canadian army's chiefs.

Off on one side was the plane for which the strip originally had been built, the observer aircraft flown by Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade Group.

When the aircraft arrived the brigade was operating in the Chorwon area and its airstrip, under Maj. Don Rochester of Toronto, had to produce an airstrip.

Chose Barley Field

"The Rochester General Construction Company," as the outfit now is known, chose a likely-looking barley field, leased to a bulldozer, a self-propelled grader and a heavy truck as a roller, and in four hours produced an airfield 60 feet wide, by 1,350 feet long.

Barely an hour before Ridgway's party was to arrive — a later — Rockham's headquarters was told to have a runway ready capable of accommodating 10 aircraft.

Rochester was called in.

The bulldozer, manned by Sprs. Edward Rollheiser of Goodsoil, Sask., and Hector Gravel of Ottawa, levelled off more of the barley field. Crews cleared the surface of stones by hand. L.-Cpl. Glyn Nott of Timagami, Ont., subbed as roller with his heavy truck and water-trailer. Driven by Sprs. F. A. W. Jones of Montreal and William Milson of Guelph, Ont., sprinkled water onto the surface.

The job was completed in 47 minutes.

The sappers were the first troops in the new brigade to be committed when it moved north from Pusan. While the rest of the formation concentrated south of the Han the engineers were given an infantry role and told to defend the Han River bridge east of Seoul.

They did, and took three prisoners — suspected Korean saboteurs who floated into the Canadians' position in a boat. Cpl. James Ryan of Preston, N.S., took them into custody.

Since then they have, Rochester, your major job has always been on roads — they take up 75 per cent of their effort."

Go Out on Patrols

The Engineer troops working with the infantry battalions are under Lieut.-Lorne Cook of North Vancouver, Arthur MacDonald, of Halifax and John H. Keating of Ottawa.

Such sappers even go out on patrols with the riflemen, especially when taking along so that they can improvise bridge and fords at different tank crossings.

On one patrol a team comprising cook, Cpl. Walter Bebie of Peterborough, and Spr. Howard Hutton of Owen Sound, Ont., had a field day outwitting booby-traps for the Chinese. They lifted Chinese-laid mines from the road and booby-trapped them.

Another engineer responsibility is the operation of a water-point. Spr. Patrick Legary, of Kingston and Englehart, Ont., is in charge of the installation which has purified and pumped as much as 70,000 gallons of water in 24 hours into the tankers of Canadian, British and American units in the area.

Maj. H. W. Batt, of Santa Monica, Calif., and Vancouver, is second-in-command of the unit.

Now that gunfire has all but ceased on the Korean front, Cpl. Ronald Gillogby of Findlay, Ohio, has time to smoke a cigarette and relax after a year of hard going in Korea. He is typical of majority of U.N. soldiers who welcome the prospect of an end to the fighting in Korea, but who are not completely convinced of the good faith of the enemy.—Central Press Canadian.

Jack K. Cooke, Super-Salesman Buys Ball Club

Toronto, July 6 — (CP)—Jack Kent Cooke, 38-year-old supersalesman who pyramided a door-to-door bookseller's job into ownership of a radio station and one of Canada's largest-selling magazines, has bought himself a baseball team.

Cooke, in typical fashion, promised the long-suffering Toronto ball fans "a new deal" and a winning team by September. At present his new-by-acquired club, the Toronto Maple Leafs, is fifth in the eight-team International League.

Commenting on Leafs, who have lost 43 of their 80 games this season, Cooke said:

"We have a team that definitely belongs in the first division (low four of the eight-team league) and we'll get them there — if we have to buy out the entire Chicago White Sox roster."

Cooke, who takes over as club president, said he bought his stock from retiring president Donald G. Ross and directors Max Haas and John K. McCausland.

The price? "It was plenty," Cooke said.

The transfer got him a franchise in the International League; a lease on Maple Leaf Stadium; contracts of 25 ball players; general manager Joe Zeigler and team manager Joe Becker.

And the club's working agreement with the American League St. Louis Browns is being used to full advantage already.

"What we need right now, is a player that can be counted on to bust up a ball game consistently — not just a spurt," stated Cooke.

Cooke, a native of Hamilton, Ont., started his career selling encyclopaedias. Later he went into broadcasting and now is owner of Toronto's radio station CKEY. He also is publisher of New Liberty magazine.

TRENTON

Find Man Dead On Trenton Street

Trenton. (Special) — Shortly after midnight today, the body of H. G. Enright, believed to be of Toronto, was found lying face down on the shoulder of the roadway on North Murray Street near Leonard Street. Coroner Dr. E. A. McQuade reported that the man had been dead for at least an hour. There were no apparent bruises on the body except a bloody nose, in all probability sustained in the fall.

Two young women on alighting from a car driven by Blaine E. Webber of 38 Ponton Street, Belleville, came upon the body as they walked down the street.

Two empty envelopes, one addressed R. G. Enright, 857 Richmond Street West, Toronto, the other R. G. Enright, care of Dominion Catering, Vimy Barracks, Fort Henry, Kingston, found in the dead man's pocket, provided the information for police to contact the next-of-kin, Evelyn Enright, of Toronto, a daughter. A suicide note was the only other article found on the dead person.

It was decided that death was due to natural causes and an inquest was not necessary.

The body was shipped to a Toronto burial home today.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 6 (CP) —Prices held steady at their higher levels as the session progressed on the stock market today.

Industrials posted increases ranging from fractions to more than a point. Papers led the way with a solid list of issues ahead and agricultures, foods, utilities, textiles, liquors and retail stores followed. Steels, refining oils and manufacturing companies were mixed. Constructions and banks eased.

Consolidated Smelters headed the otherwise fractionally ahead base metal section with a jump of $1.25.

Western oils were up pennies in early trading but then became fairly mixed.

Senior golds were mixed with little change while a handful of secondary golds edged upward.

Garbutt Says He Won't Resign

Toronto, July 6. (CP)—Rev. Henry Garbutt said today that, no matter what happens in his stricken east-end parish, he won't resign.

Hearings conducted by a commission appointed by the Anglican Bishop of Toronto into a congregational dispute ended last night. Mr. Garbutt then issued a statement in which he said:

"We have not yet received the Bishop's decision, but I feel that it is going to call for my resignation. Whatever happens, I'm going to stay with my congregation, who have stood loyally with me."

He added in an interview that if Bishop A. R. Beverley had sent "the troublemakers" home when they first went to him with complaints, all the confusion and publicity would have been avoided "and we could have been at peace and harmony."

Critics of Mr. Garbutt objected to his dismissal of a curate over what Mr. Garbutt termed "improper conduct", his reprimanding of eight parishioners for creating dissension and to his alleged interference with young groups' Saturday night dances.

Iran Not Worried About Big British Cruiser

Khorramshahr Naval Base, Iran July 6 (AP) —"The man who rides the tiger" says he isn't worried about the big British cruiser Mauritius.

For over a week she's anchored on the Iraqi side of the Shatt-el-Arab River, directly opposite the Abadan refineries which Iran is intent upon seizing from the British. She's there to "protect British interests."

Commodore Morteza Dafieri, newly-assigned commander of the Iranian navy in the Persian Gulf, told the Associated Press yesterday:

"I have enough force here to prevent any attempt to make a landing on Iranian soil."

His naval force is five little ships with guns that look like peashooters alongside the eight-inch batteries of the Mauritius.

"They are not here for a friendly visit," the commander said. "But there will be no trouble. Neither side wishes any."

Dafieri flies his commodore's flag from the mast of the 2 1-2 inch gun sloop Badr (Tiger).

THE INDEX JUMPS AGAIN

People who are fond of casting their minds backward to the "good old days" when living was a little easier, do not have to have a long memory these days. It is no longer necessary to think of the plushy days of 1939 or 1940 to envision cheaper food, light, heat, and hundreds of other commodities. It is now possible to get part of that feeling by looking back only to the first of this year.

Since January 1, the official cost-of-living index has increased by 11.8 points, a 6.7 per cent jump. In other words, if we interpret government statistics correctly, it now takes $106.70 to purchase commodities that cost only $100 in January. Brought down to dollars and cents, the cost-of-living makes a little more sense to the housewife and the breadwinner.

It is said in Ottawa that the figures for May, which showed the index to be at an all-time peak of 184.1, were a disappointment to the government circles. They are most certainly more than a mere disappointment to the householder. They constitute a tragedy, and a further imposition on an already strained pocketbook. The latest jump in the index, coming in conjunction with the imposition at July 1 of further income taxes, draws the line a little finer for many workers in the middle class. The battle to keep heads above water is becoming more fierce all the time, and if further rises in the index follow, the battle will soon become a rout.

The total jump for May was 2.1 points, 1.3 of which was contributed by food prices. This was in part due to the employed than usual last summer. Then the meat increases in commodities other than meats, the index rise is due, to a great degree, to high markets, the result of U.S. prices. That pressure is expected to last, and to show again when June cost-of-living figures are released.

There seemed to be some hope earlier this year that the index had reached a "levelling-off" stage. That belief has now been dispelled, and will have been relegated to the stage of a mere hope. Without some drastic action, little can be expected but a reproduction becomes a reality in many fields. That mere fact does not, however, justify the imposition of price controls, because a bound economy has never been proved entirely satisfactory in the long run. The United States has learned that within recent times. Their plan for price stabilization has led them to much grief, and seems destined to bring nothing more than that in the future.

The only solution to Canada's cost-of-living problem still rests with the consumer. When a stiffened buyer resistance hits the market, the cost-of-living will level off and eventually be decreased. While present buying habits remain, little can be expected in the way of a decrease.

A ROYAL VISIT

The visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Canada will provide this country with an opportunity last experienced in 1939, when the King and Queen visited our shores. The visit of royalty has long been regarded a special privilege by commonwealth nations, and Canada has been peculiarly fortunate in this respect.

The trip, according to sources close to both Buckingham Palace and the Canadian government, will be of four weeks' duration, and will carry an intensely human tone. Thus, the Royal Visit will have an opportunity of seeing much of Canada that they might not otherwise view. In addition, the Canadian government will be relieved of many tedious plans which might accompany a visit of a great political figure, or statesman. The simple truth is that the Canadian people will have the greatest share in the welcome to be extended to the visitors, and that is as it should be.

The last visit of royalty to Canada came at a time when the world was balanced on the edge of a great war. Not long after Their Majesties left this country, Britain pledged herself to the protection of minority peoples in Europe, and in her promises, and soon the whole free world rallied to set Germany, Italy and Japan in line again.

If Canadians feel a great deal of pride because Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are coming to Canada, it is typical. The new royal couple is coming to this country for an informal tour is an honor to Canada and all Canadians. Although four weeks will hardly give them time to see all of Canada that they might wish to see, Canadians will be partial of the country that Canadians will be sorry they did not see, the trip should still be more than worthwhile.

One month is little enough to have the royal couple for a visit. But since Princess Elizabeth has assumed more state duties, due to the uncertain health of King George VI, and since Prince Philip is serving his country in the naval forces, four weeks may be considered a goodly amount of time. For those few days, they will be welcome.

OFF TO CAMP

I said not a word when the news was had.
I've learned that a grandpa his feelings should hide,
Her mother went to one years ago
And I must be right, for she ought to know.
But I decided to hear that "Good bye, gramp!"
As Ellen Elizabeth left for camp.

They bought her the specified uniform
And jacket and sweater to keep her warm;
A suit for swimming and riding too,
Boots and slippers and wooden clogs.
She had everything down to a postage stamp
When Ellen Elizabeth left for

I'm a bit old-fashioned, I must confess,
And I haven't much courage for loneliness.
It's none of my business, but still I say
I'm never quite happy with one away.
I'd a lumpy throat and my cheek was damp
When Ellen Elizabeth left for camp.

"It's the thing to do," said her doting dad.
"It's just like that she wants," but still I'm sad.
She'll make new friends and will stronger grow
And she'll learn things every day she knows.
But I thought it like blowing out a lamp

By GREGORY CLARK

All over Canada, a great many people have sold their houses at a remarkable mark-up. Homes they bought for $8,000, and lived in for fifteen years, they have sold for $20,000. Then they spent $32,000 on a house worth about $9,000. Obviously they are moving up in the world.

Worth about $9,000, of course, people have sold their houses for fifteen years ago, when their other house was worth $4,000. The new houses are not worth more. Dollars are worth less. Where we say—"Isn't it awful how dear houses are now?" we should say—"Isn't it awful how cheap dollars are now?" It would only persist in this attitude of distrust for a dollar, if people place the emphasis where it belongs. A good house is a good house, even if everybody tries to humiliate it by saying it is worth 25,000 of these measly dollars we have now.

A great many people who have not sold their houses for fantastic prices have at least toyed with the idea. Many of them have gone so far as to get an agent's opinion of what they could get, and a few have even offered their houses — tentatively — for sale just to have the satisfaction of imagining so many thousand dollars safe in their pockets. It is nice to be able to remark, over the bridge table, or at lunch in the cafeteria, that you had an offer of twenty thousand for your house.

You don't like to think that these twenty thousand are Chiang Kai-shek or Mexican dollars. To create the illusion of wealth, you have to imagine these dollars to be the same kind you bought the house with, fifteen years ago.

And some day, if and when the price of houses comes down, and you are kicking yourself for not having sold for twenty grand, you will forget that they were Chinese dollars. But you will still have the good old house over your head.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BUT STILL WE ARE SURE

St. Augustine in his writings makes the statement that if one asks him the nature of time, he is pretty well convinced in his mind as to what time is, but if one asks him to explain it; and then he is baffled and confused.

What Augustine says of time we can say of most of the great principles by which our lives are guided. We all know what honor is but if we try to explain it, we become baffled and confused. Likewise happiness and true love makes romance glorious but these things defy understand through experience, but we cannot explain them. To try to explain them is like trying to explain the color of the sky. Even as Augustine felt that he knew what time was but was thrown into confusion when he tried to explain it, so we know the nature of many things very precious to us which we cannot explain.

Many people today are so materialistic in outlook that they are constantly saying that the things which cannot be explained are unreal. But they are not unreal. Love is not unreal, nor is religious faith, nor fidelity, nor honor. Yet these things can never be adequately defined nor explained.

Put your faith in them whether you understand them or not. The greatest value in life are often apprehended only by the emotions. But they are real. It is not through the emotions as well as through the mind.

OUR TOWN

NO EASY MONEY

The ponies are running again, but it is no easy money for them and, indeed, I may never bet again. Ever since my system failed last year and all those dreams of easy money blew away in the still summer air I have been kind of disenchanted with the horses.

I was one of those poor boobs who thought he had them licked. At the time it seemed too painful to write about. Now retrospect has healed the wounds and maybe you'd like to hear about it. This may not be the best column I ever wrote. It is sure enough the most expensive.

Brown Eyes and I used to go to the races quite a bit. As a newspaperman I got passes to the clubhouse. We liked to sit up there in the sun with the rich people and to study the "form" (which neither of us ever fully understood) and to absorb the excitement and tension of the crowd.

It was our practice to allow ourselves $20 dollars a race. We would go to the track with $16 in the clubhouse, $4 for drinks and pop. Sometimes we lost the whole works. Sometimes we won a few bucks. Sometimes the three times we came out well ahead.

Even when we lost it always seemed like pretty good fun. We'd get a bottle of Scotch, gate for each race and I never tired of the kick in it, with the bright sun on the grass and the oughbreds projecting themselves from the gate, the sudden rush of dust and then watching them go away rumps working.

We'd bet on the usual ways of betting. The hunches. The tips. The rest. I bet a horse named Jack and Chet every time it ran. That wasn't good. Usually there were bet on grey horses. One day we bet all of Sport's horses. Sometimes my wife would bet on a horse due to a horse because it looked her in the eye. You know. The usual thing. Sometimes it worked out. But not very often.

Betting was fatal day when I worked out my system.

Best to Place

We had decided one day to bet all the favorites on the races we went to. That won, but it the others the favorites ran second in four races. So I figured it would happen if you bet the favorite to place in every race. We went to the track a week of results and found that, at two bucks a race, I'd have $90 or more.

I mentioned this to my wife. We talked about it on the street as we were down to the newspaper morgue and went through a whole newspaper. I forget what year it was. 1945 or 1946, I think. You could check it. But it was after three o'clock in the morning when we'd finished tabulating. We were so excited to feel tired. If we'd made two-dollar place bets on every favorite that week we would have won more than $600. If they'd won $10 bets we'd have would have been $3,000. If they'd been $100 bets we'd have made a cool $30,000.

I tried to be skeptical about it. I recalled all the wise old racetrack sayings. How the odds are by government and the bookies make money from horses. I recollected reading a magazine article about a university which had undertaken a year's study of betting. Every possible system was subjected to mathematical experts and actual test. None worked.

And yet... and yet. There was our own proof that in one season, at least, we had it licked. We began to dream of a life following the ponies and the sun. We fancied ourselves leaning on the rail at all the famous tracks —Belmont, Hialheah, Tropical Park, Santa Anita, Agua Caliente. Somehow I always pictured myself in a Palm Beach suit and a straw hat, one being pulled out as a mystery man of turfdom.

After dawn would come the tracks of Europe for sorry the system would work there but would gradually, by degrees, I was increasing my bets to a thousand each race and wouldn't be satisfied. It would be like to a man with $300,000 coming in each season.

To the Track

As the racing season approached last year we talked a lot about the system and we got together $160 in cash, put in a special envelope marked, in my wife's whimsical way, "Experiment."

We'd told nobody about the system. We'd been cautioned not to tell it to ourselves if it worked, but mostly, I suspect, because we didn't want to be subject to facetiousness or logic.

We listened to one writer of racing news that I'd doped out a way of betting that looked interesting and we got that, too, checked it against a whole season with good results.

We finally said, said, "That's the curse of any system. It may work for you but take a horse. In the end it never works."

He looked at me quizically. "Something else with playing the favorites" he asked. I shrugged enigmatically. He persisted. "Oh," he said. "All the old ladies work out some system involving favorites." I shrugged, either.

The night before the racing season opened we let our imagination run loose and I remember my thinking, that if I were to bet $10,000 on each race we might be clearing over $3,000,— $4,000 a week.

Oh, it was a perfect day that day. The sun shone down on a cloudless sky on the track and a light breeze fluttered the pennants on the top of the stands and there was a kind of electric feeling in the air. The first horses came out for the parade. The favorite was a horse named Jack Compass and we thrilled as she tossed her head our way just before she stepped daintily, into the starting gate.

It wasn't the year for Box Compass, as it turned out, and it wasn't the year for a lot of other favorites, either. Instead I be sitting here with my memories if it were?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TWO SMALL WORDS

Perhaps those two little words, No and Yes, are about the most used words in use from day to day. But how important that use! One little word can make all the difference in the world with one. The fate of nations sometimes is often revealed upon the decision whether to use a No or a Yes.

Take the newly - organized United Nations. Perhaps its success or failure in the organization shall finally rest upon the successful use of either the No or the Yes. It is a question in her use of the No, who can predict the future peace and happiness of the world.

Love's answer is always Yes or No. There is no difference either one can make! From youth to advanced age these two words perhaps have more influence upon life, character, and one's happiness than any other two. According to circumstances it may take just as much courage to say Yes as to say No.

I believe this No, however, has a greater use than the word Yes. Life is a struggle. Temptations to wander from the straight and narrow path are legion. That little No can come in mighty handy to one alone, and perhaps a true friend. Many times it is so easy to say Yes, more difficult to say No.

The ability to say in life we learn to place the No and the Yes in their proper places. There are the many uses of the No in health, were many a Yes might mean the difference in life or happiness to one's health. It's the judicial use and practice, given to these two important words that give them significance. Both enter into the building of character in one way or another.

Every day in our business life we put both words to the two words to test. It's Yes, do this, or No, do not do it. Constantly we have to suggest which one of these words may serve one best. The successful life, and the happiest one, can always be traced to a decisive use of one or the other of these two words, counted most.

Caesar made a wise use of the No when he refused to cross the Rubicon, and so outstanding was this decision that the occurrence has become historic. Many of our decisions amount to the crossing of a Rubicon!

Personal Health Talks

SHALL WE GO TO THE MAT ON THE PORES?

Once upon a time in the early part of the 19th century the report caused a child to be completely covered with gold leaf, to represent a wealth in some peasant—according to Prof. J. Dorman Steele, whose text book on Physiology was used in the grade schools when I was a little boy in Canadaigua. A few hours after the gilding the child died of suffocation, from stopping the exhalation of the skin, Prof. Steele asserted.

Now in ithunder stopping exhalation would suffocate, is more than I can conceive. If inhalation had been stopped, that might account for suffocation.

Prof. Steele asserts that painters absorb so much lead through the pores of their hands that they are attacked with colic. Painters absorb lead, all right, but they are careless about eating or chewing without first carefully washing their hands, or if they don't, some eldersble lead in the dust produced by scraping or sanding colored old paint. Even physician of standing imagines that painters absorb lead through the pores of sweat or sebaceous glands or directly through the skin.

Dr. Steele does not reveal how he learned what caused the death of the gilded child. Maybe it was a bird told him. But numerous other authors with resourceful imaginations have taken out from or a similar yarn and they have all agreed that the gilding killed the child just as Dr. Steele described. Sebum (skin oil), water and sweat do come out of the common orifices of sebaceous and sweat gland ducts, but those are no calling these orifices "pores." That is all. Traces of this and that are present in the sebum and perspiration, but the sebum is not absorbed, practically, in health or illness, nothing but water, salt and urea is extruded, excreted or exhaled through the skin.

Adipose tissue people — added by boose or intemperate eating—"fail to believe that the pores of the boose, poisons, waste matter, acids "out of the system" quickly by taking one or another of the salts of lemon, orange or grapefruit you can confirm the statement of the correspondent who provided herself with a self-addressed envelope may have the pamphlet. CAMPBELLFORD

Electrical Storm Laces District

Campbellford—A severe electrical storm lashed the Campbellford district with driving rain on Wednesday afternoon, and caused considerable damage in and around the town.

A two-and-a-half year old Jersey cow and a Holstein bull, seeking refuge under a large elm tree, were instantly killed when a bolt of lightning struck them, ripped a wide swath of bark from the tree for a distance of some 20 feet, and dug a hole in the ground. The two animals valued at more than $500, were owned by Mrs. Charles Cochrane, and were in a field at the rear of the home of Tom Peake on Kent Street. The animals were not insured.

A transformer at Parr's Corners, near Meyersburg, five miles south of Campbellford, was struck by lightning, causing a surge of power through the lines, blowing fuses in many homes. The surge than backed up on the lines and destroyed a number of hydro meters in the homes.

A local dairy was without power for a short period, when a transformer outside the building was recently struck.

Limbs from trees littered many streets, but no personal injuries were reported. The storm started in mid-morning and alternately grew and diminished in intensity until late in the afternoon, when it abated, only to resume its fury for a short period about 10 p.m.

Many standing crops were reported to be flattened on farms near Healey Falls, north of the town.

FINAL TERMS

U.N. naval forces carried the bombardment of Wonsan, east coast port and communications centre, into the 141st day. The U.S. destroyers Blue and Evans silenced communist shore batteries in a 75-minute artillery duel. The navy said no hits were scored by the red guns.

War at Standstill

In general the roaring, killing war — that has cost the communists more than 1,000,000 casualties by U.N. estimates, and the allies one-fourth that number — was at a virtual standstill.

Sunday's meeting in Kaesong is only a preliminary step toward getting it to an end.

The communist delegation will leave the Pyongyang area at 5 a.m. Saturday (5 p.m. EDT Friday). It will travel in five jeeps and five trucks, each bearing a white flag.

The red route is down the main highway linking the red Korean capital with Seoul, old South Korean capital and starting point of the U.N. delegation.

Kaesong, ancient capital of Korea, is 85 miles southeast of Pyongyang and 35 miles northwest of Seoul.

Allied emissaries will make the trip Sunday morning. They will travel by helicopter or jeep, depending on the weather.

Gen. Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai of Chinese forces suggested the allies travel by jeep regardless of weather — "for their more certain safety and to cut down the possibility of misunderstanding."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander, promptly replied:

"My delegates will proceed by helicopter or jeep as dictated by the weather."

The communist suggestion they travel by road may have been an admission of their poor communications. Red prisoners taken in recent days on some sectors had not heard about the armistice talks. Red radios have said poor communication was the reason Kim and Peng didn't agree to holding the meetings earlier as Ridgway had suggested.

2 RCAF PILOTS

The two fliers apparently had no chance to parachute to safety. The plane, crashing at a slight angle, exploded on impact with the ground scattering debris over 500 yards. An opened parachute with parts of the plane wreckage was found 50 yards from where the plane struck the ground. A deep crater was plowed into the ground where the plane struck.

Plane Making Turn

"The plane was making a turn when one of the wings came off," stated Bill Jamieson, on whose farm the plane crashed. He said the plane made a hissing sound as it plummetted to the ground.

"When it hit it sounded just like a bomb," he said.

Carman Richards, owner of the next farm north to that of Jamieson, said he also saw the plane lose one of its wings. As the plane fell he said the pilot gunned his motor in an effort to bring the crippled craft out of its dive. Just before the plane struck the ground it passed out of Richards' view but a big cloud of dust and smoke rose after the explosion.

Others to see the crash were John Jamieson and Ed. H. Sharpe. None of the four saw any attempt to bail out.

Veteran Fliers

Bob Brown and Hoggins were veterans of the last war with Brown having re-enlisted with the R.C.A.F. last April. He was taking an instructor's course at Trenton. During the last war he was with a fighter squadron and was taken prisoner of war after being shot down over enemy territory.

The scene of the plane wreckage on the Jamieson farm attracted large crowds of spectators following the crash but were kept at a distance by guards.

The crash was the second in the Trenton area within the past few days. On Sunday a Harvard trainer of the No. 600 City of Toronto Squadron crashed at Grafton killing its two occupants FO/P Garth Horricks and Dewar Laing.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Chowder— from the French "chaudiere," meaning cauldron, or heavy pot on leg.

The heavy iron pot was used along the French seacoast for simmering seafood soups in all seasons. In many European countries, the soup was both the beginning and the end of the meal, a hearty main course bedded in broth.

American chowders are thick vegetable soups with fish or seafood as the principal ingredient. Almost every recipe for chowder includes cubed potatoes, the only consistent note in a variety of chowders from abalone to salmon.

Salmon chowder may be made with fish stock, vegetable stock, chicken broth or hot water and instant bouillon. It must be steaming hot and creamy. A few hard pilot crackers or oyster crackers is a good accompaniment. Equally good are cracker rolls split and browned under a broiler flame.

Fresh Salmon Chowder—Serves four to five

1-4 cup diced onions
1-4 cup diced celery
1-4 cup diced green peppers
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1-3 teaspoon chopped dried thyme
3 tablespoons flour
4 ounce fresh salmon steak
1 cup potatoes cubed
6 cups soup stock
1-2 cup cooked green peas
1-2 cup hot light cream or milk
1-4 cup diced canned pimiento
Salt—pepper

Put the onions, celery, green peppers and butter in a soup pot. Heat over a slow flame, stirring frequently until onions are yellow.

Add the thyme and flour, stirring well.

Add the soup stock or water to which six bouillon cubes have been added.

Cut the skin off the salmon. Cut the bone away from fish. Cut the fish into 1-2 inch cubes. Add the fish to the pot.

Bring the liquid to a boil. Remove scum. Reduce flame and simmer slowly until vegetables are almost tender, about one hour. Add potatoes. Cook until potatoes are soft.

Skim any excess fat from surface.

Add peas, cream and pimientos. Add salt and pepper to taste.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Safeguarding the child's beauty.

There are some good-looks problems that must be treated during early childhood, and it is for these that wise mothers will be on the lookout, to give them attention. Most mothers take the family cherub to the baby doctor for a periodic check-up, but there are small matters that require her individual consideration. No doubt this child-attention will have a few good-looks troubles, since the cultivation of loveliness of appearance begins early.

Children's feet should be carefully fitted with the right kind of shoes. Stockings that are too short send the little pink toes into a huddle, are almost as unhygienic and harmful as pinching shoes. Fresh hosiery should be put on every day. Toe nails must be cut straight across, never slipped down at the sides. If a child isn't interested in playing or romping, have the feet examined by a specialist. Some defect may be forming of which the child is unconscious.

Bow legs can be corrected before the child is four or five years old; after that the bones are too hardened to be altered, except by surgery. Faulty diet and incorrect posture are the chief cause of bow legs. A quart of milk a day, rich in calcium, is necessary for normal bone development.

A child's hair should be shampooed once a week, and the shampoo should be done properly. To hold a child's head over a washbowl and rub soap over the infant's head, and to rinse with a washcloth dipped in clear water is the formula of some careless mothers who try to get through the job quickly.

Put the little girl in the bathtub. Place a shampoo halo on her head so the soap won't get in her eyes. Use a milled soap or a cream compounded for this purpose. Friction it in well and then turn on the spray. Use more shampoo; give a second rinsing. If the child protests, make a game of it. A mother we know tells her child that she is a little flower and the rain is coming to make her grow into a big, lovely girl. It works. Better than threatening or fussing.

If the child holds bowl and plaything closer than ten inches from her eyes, have them examined; she may need glasses.

Protect the delicate complexion. Only the blandest soap should be used; all suds should be rinsed away; towels should be soft. After exposure to strong sunlight, apply a baby oil or any good creamy cosmetic.

Keep nail eaves clean, using a white pencil for the purpose. Bacteria can lurk in these little crevices, and the child who puts her fingers in her mouth can pick up an infection.

BUSY BEES MISSION BAND

The June meeting of the Busy Bees Mission Band of Bethel-Zion was held at Zion Hill School with 25 members and seven visitors present.

The meeting opened with a new president and secretary, Gerald Kelly and Ronald Denyes respectively in charge.

Maureen Kennedy recited "The Lord is My Shepherd", for the Scripture lesson. The Juniors sang "Jesus Loves Me".

Mrs. E. Tufts welcomed the visitors and read a story about the "Three Little Monkeys, Hear-no-Evil, See-no-Evil, and Speak-no-Evil".

The Rev. A. Campbell then spoke to the children, holding them spellbound with the story of his father's life as an early missionary to the Indian tribes of Bleachcet and Shoshone. This interesting message left the children with a clearer thought of the great work of missionaries than ever before.

Mr. Campbell closed the meeting. The offering amounted to 82 cents.

Summer Menu Has Salads And Ice Cream

By KAY KEX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Nothing can beat ice cream as an ideal summer-time dessert. It's easy to name and a freezer-full will keep for days in the family refrigerator. Any number of variations may be tried with the standard recipe.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, offer the following basic vanilla ice cream recipe:

Ingredients: two tablespoons flour; one-half cup sugar; few grains salt; one cup milk; one egg; 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla; one-half pint (1-1-4 cups) whipping cream; chilled.

Combine flour, sugar and salt. Mix to a smooth paste with one-quarter cup of the milk. Add remaining milk. Cook in top of double-boiler, stirring constantly until thick. (about 15 minutes). Add a little of the hot mixture to the beaten egg and stir into the mixture in double-boiler. Add vanilla. Cook two minutes stirring constantly. Chill. Whip cream and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm (about two hours).

Variations

Fruit ice cream: one cup sweetened strawberry, raspberry or crushed peach pulp and juice.

Butterscotch ice cream: melt two tablespoons butter add three-quarter cup brown sugar. Cook one minute. Omit other sugar in basic recipe.

Chocolate ice cream: Melt 1 1-2 ounces unsweetened chocolate over hot water. Add three tablespoons hot water and stir until smooth. Add to basic recipe.

Hot Weather Meals

At least one hot dish is necessary to provide balance when hot weather makes a cold-cut dinner a matter of course.

Potatoes just naturally go with cold meat and the Agriculture department's home economists suggest creole fried potatoes as the necessary "hot dish".

Ingredients: Five medium potatoes; two medium onions; two tablespoons bacon fat; three tablespoons tomato catsup; one-half teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Peel potatoes and slice thinly. Peel onion and slice thinly. Melt fat in heavy pan, add potatoes and onion. Cover and cook until tender. (About 40 minutes.) Stir often to prevent scorching. Remove cover. Add catsup, salt and pepper. Stir well and continue cooking, uncovered, for ten minutes. Yield: six servings.

Salad Days

The Health Department reminds that salads can be glamorous as well as healthful. On a hot day, cool and vegetable can be appetizing with salmon, eggs, cheese or cold meat. Fruit, added too, with cottage cheese or peanut butter balls, will supply vitamins and minerals.

Incidentally ice cream with fruit salad and crisp hot buttered toast is an excellent dish for a light luncheon.

The Eternal Triangle

By ROY L. SMITH

A famous preacher of a generation ago once said, "There is only one triangle that is eternal. That is the family—father, mother, and child. About that combination all of Christian civilization must be organized.

The Nation and Its Homes

It can be said with confidence that the strength of a nation depends upon the character of the homes which produces its citizens.

Inside the home the child learns the first principles of law, of obedience, of co-operation, and of responsibility. No citizen is a good citizen who has not learned these lessons. If he has not learned them by the time he starts attending the school which the state provides, the chances are he will never learn them.

The home can be the greatest school of citizenship, or the greatest school of crime, within the bounds of the nation.

Religion and the Home

This week's Sunday school lesson points out the important place of the scriptures in the home life of any family. That family which displays the Bible in a prominent place has increased its chances of survival.

A far-sighted Roman Catholic priest has popularized a radio program whose motto is, "The family that prays together stays together." There is no substitute for a family altar, and any father who allows another man to become a priest to his family has missed the greatest privilege of his life.

Basis of Agreement

Very little is known of the father of the young man Timothy, beyond the fact that he was "a Greek." This probably meant that he was a Gentile who had never accepted the Christian faith. The entire responsibility for the religious education of the boy had fallen, as in the case of many moderns, upon the mother. That she had done a fine job of it is something to be admired, but that she had to do it alone is something to be deplored.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 8: "Living Together in the Family." Luke 2:51 - 52; 10:38 - 42; Ephesians 5:22-26; 6:1-4; II Timothy 1:1-6; 3:14-15.

Almost equally tragic, however, is the case of the home in which religion has become a divisive factor rather than a unifying force.

The Roman Catholic Church, as well as Protestantism, advises strongly against "mixed marriages," in which two young people with irreconcilable religious convictions undertake to build a home together. The very thing which should unify becomes the thing which divides. Tragedies uncounted have resulted.

Home a Co-operative

On the walls of the homes of two or three generations ago we found beautifully embroidered mottoes which read, "What is Home Without a Mother?" Although a mother, alone, could build a home.

A true home is a co-operative institution out of which every individual draws certain advantages, and into which each individual must pour some investment.

One rebellious spirit, one selfish soul, one sullen heart, one malicious mind, can ruin the life of any home, no matter how much may have been expended on the house.

No one ever takes out of his home more than he puts in, any more than he can take out of a bank that which he has not deposited. The greater the spirit of co-operation inside a home, the greater the dividends declares for all members of the home.

Uninvited Guests

Radio and television owe a responsibility to the modern home which it will not ignore. Entertainment has been ignored.

The actor who appears on the television screen cannot escape responsibility for the fact that his acting and antics are a part of the home life of hundreds of thousands of citizens. It is impossible for a father or a mother of good taste and high morals to stand guard over the dials 24 hours per day. There come times when the parent must trust the actor to treat his child with the artistic mind with respect. He is a guest in that home and must conduct himself as such.

Mrs. George Butcher Gives Vivid Word Picture of Life in India

RAWDON

Rawdon—On Wednesday afternoon despite the inclement weather, over 70 people gathered at Mount Pleasant Rawdon church hall for the annual "Feast of Berry." Fifteen members of the W.M.S. were in attendance and 34 adult visitors. These included the new minister, Rev. H. Sanford and his mother, Mrs. George Butcher, Mrs. Herb David, Miss Lenora Williams, Stirling, Mrs. Archie Bailey, Carmel and Mr. B. C. Tucker, Bethel. Over 30 children, members of the Baby Band and Mission Band enjoyed the delightful party in their honor.

Worthy Objectives

The church hall was tastefully decorated with baskets of roses, lilies and Sweet Williams. A side table contained the 25 cent parcels which were sold at the luncheon hour to help along Baby Band work. Their special objectives are: $2,000 each for babies home, Neemuch, Central India, and a home for orphan children in Trinidady $1,000 each for kindergartens in China and Japan, and $1,500 for a village school to serve African children and $4,000 to hospitals in British Columbia serving Canadian Indians at Bella-Bella, Bella Coola, Burns Lake and Hazelton.

Mrs. Ross Hoard, president of the Women's Missionary Society read a poem found in an old copy of "World Friends" entitled, "I Often Wonder What I'd Do Without My Mother."

Mrs. Burton Sharp presided at the piano. Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report. Plans will be made later for a home cooking sale in town and a quilting to do four plain quilts for supply work.

Little Gift Boxes

Mrs. Frank Spencer Jr., Baby Band leader, gave the call to worship and read a story entitled "Our Heavenly Father's Love." She told what had been accomplished through the little gift boxes which each child received along with their membership card. The 15 mothers of small children read a prayer and the Mission Band members gave another in unison under the assistant leader Mrs. Ross Jeffs.

Mount Pleasant Rawdon Baby Band has 37 names on the roll with five new in 1951. Eight are life members and three have moved away.

Graduation Service

A graduation service followed when Carol Sharp, Howard Jeffs and Pauline Johnson were promoted from Baby Band to Mission Band and Miss Betty McConnell read a welcome to these three children who are now eligible to attend Mission Band.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mission Band teacher, presided over her program as several officers of the Mission Band are entertaining the measles.

A musical violin-piano number "The Song of Tomorrow" was given by Mrs. Will Hubble and Miss Betty McConnell. A worship service, "Mountains of the Bible" as found in "World Friends" was given by Mrs. Smith and six Mission Band children. Marie Simpson, Ina Scott, David Potts, Roger Smith, Malcolm Reid and Raeburn Scott.

A vocal trio, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old", was rendered by David Potts, Roger Smith and Raeburn Scott. Gail Jeffs sang "Jesus Wants Me For a Sunbeam" with her mother Mrs. Will Jeffs as accompanist, followed by a piano solo by Ina Scott.

Guest Speaker

The leader introduced Mrs. George Butcher, Stirling, who spent several years in Africa as a missionary. She gave the children a word picture of that land and said, "little black boys and girls are taught a full chapter of the Bible as a school lesson. The climate is six months full sunshine and then six months of rainy weather.

She discussed the one room mud huts, demonstrated straw mattresses and other articles from Africa. Hot sand is used to cure wounds, clothing is very scarce but civilization here in Canada is well blessed with clothes. God and nature has provided a special tree bark that can be manufactured into clothing and blankets for cool weather. A sample shown was much like heather blankets made from old wool.

Mother Love

The speaker gave a descriptive account of the mother of an African family who travels miles to hoe the legion—next it pound it and manufacture it into meal. Later it is cooked with meat and served as mush, the staple food. One meal each day is served and mother's love is the same the world over and often in Africa there is not sufficient food for all and the mother goes to bed hungry.

Mrs. Butcher vividly pictured her trip inland 250 miles, then the long silence followed by a simultaneous greeting from the assembled natives. She told of her first church service in Africa and sang a well known hymn in the native language. She said the Africans know all about God but they do not know about the Lord Jesus Christ." In speaking of idols, she said, in Canada, a farm could be an idol or building houses on Sunday.

Tropical Fruits

Tropical fruits are abundant in Africa but much food for the missionaries is imported. They went without butter three months and found it a hardship but she said, "You don't mind sacrificing if you love the work."

The Mission Band leader extended words of appreciation and Kalvin Sharp presented Mrs. Butcher with a lovely bouquet of red roses.

The W.M.S. used their envelopes and the loose collection of $4.30 was equally divided between the two Bands and will be applied to their allocation.

Mrs. Ross Hoard and Mrs. Roy Thrasher expressed thanks for program and address.

Rev. R. Bousfield expressed appreciation and closed the service.

The ladies of the "mother" group served sandwiches, cookies and lemonade, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Toronto Leafs Lose Another By One Run

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Kent Cooke is the new owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs today, but he'll have to look far down in the International League second division to find his team.

The Leafs dropped another one last night, losing 6-5 to the last-place Springfield Cubs. Statistically, here is what Cooke, a publisher and radio-station operator, finds as he takes over:

The Leafs are 18 games out of first place and 6 1-2 games behind the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings.

Montreal is making a runaway of the race, 10 games ahead of the runner-up Buffalo, 10 1-2 ahead of Syracuse and 11 1-2 up on Rochester.

Cooke predicted his team will be in the first division by the season's end.

"Even if Joe Seigler (general manager) and I have to pitch and catch, we're going to make Maple Leaf Stadium the most pleasant and interesting place to visit in Toronto."

In the only other game last night Buffalo swamped Baltimore 10-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Rudy Minarcin who chalked up his seventh straight victory.

In the Toronto - Springfield game, the Leafs were ahead 5-2 until Springfield came up with all its runs in the eighth inning. Mike Peterson, who relieved Irv Medlinger in the big inning, was charged with the defeat.

The Montreal-Syracuse and Ottawa-Rochester games were rained out.

MOVING UP AGAIN - - By Alan Mayer

Pro Hockey May Return to Prairies After 15 Years

Edmonton, July 6 (CP) —Professional hockey may return to the prairies after 15 years.

Two amateur western Canada senior hockey league clubs have asked the professional Pacific Coast League to consider amalgamation.

For some time, the prairie circuit has been opposed to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's major series which grouped the country's five top loops one step ahead of the senior league. Apparently the CAHA plans continuing the major series.

Al Leader of Seattle, president of the five team PCL, attended a Calgary meeting on the invitation of the Edmonton and Calgary clubs of the prairie loop.

The Alberta clubs expressed themselves as being in favor of joining the PCL which has teams in Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, B.C., Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.

The Saskatoon club, although not represented at the Calgary meeting, reported it is "100 per cent" behind the two Alberta clubs.

Regina Caps quit the W.C.S.-H.L. this month and it is questionable whether the Moose Jaw club, accepted as a new entry this fall in the prairie loop, will be able to finance a professional team.

Frank Currie, manager-coach of Edmonton Flyers who attended the Calgary meeting, reported Leader was interested in the merger proposal and will confer with PCL club heads.

Currie said another meeting with Leader likely will be held in Edmonton July 15.

A merger would be a "real shot-in-the-arm" for the prairie clubs, Currie said.

"If it materializes," he added, "I think it would form a solid hockey foundation in the west for some time to come."

POPULAR VEGETABLE

Toronto, July 6 — (CP) — The lowly turnip is becoming Ontario's million dollar vegetable. The Ontario Agriculture Department says more than 2,100,000 bushels of turnips were exported from Western Ontario during the 1950-51 season, 190 per cent more than during the previous year, bringing in nearly $1,000,000 in United States funds.

Burke Twelve Under Par In First Two Rounds

Toronto, July 6 (CP) —A field of 101-crack golfers set out today in pursuit of a boyish Texan and his 12-under-par score of 132 in the first 36 holes of the 72-holes Canadian Open golf championship.

But 23-year-old Jack Burke, Jr., from Houston will take a lot of chasing. Making his first bid for the title which eluded his golfing father 32 years ago, he shot an electrifying 66 yesterday to put alongside another 66 he carded in Wednesday's opening 18-hole round.

That put him three strokes in front of his closest competitor, another Texan, at the halfway point in the $15,000 classic.

Soggy greens and a fierce, gusty wind offered no handicap to the curly-headed Burke whose long drives, accurate approach shots and accurate putting gave him six birdies and 12 par holes against a par, 72 in both rounds.

Chasing him by second place was Fred Hawkins from El Paso who slipped to a 69 from his opening 68. A third Texan, Chuck Klein from San Antonio, was a stroke behind with the 70 he put alongside his starting 68.

Hopes for the first Canadian victory since 1914 rested with slight Stan Leonard five strokes off the pace with a 137 he owes to the perfect nine-hole round of the tournament.

Suddenly Caught Fire

The Vancouver pro, with 70 Wednesday, toured yesterday's first nine in 37. Then he suddenly caught fire and reeled off a string of six consecutive birdies on the second nine for a six-under-par 30 and an 18-hole figure of 67.

Leonard stood in a three - way, fourth-place tie with Ed Furgol PO Royal Oak, Mich., and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who slipped from his opening-day pace-setting 65 to an even par 72.

Behind them came Jimmy Demaret from Otal, Calif., with 70-66—136. Two Canadians held down eighth place — professional Murray Hacker won Lucky Lindingdale with 68-71 and Nick Weslock of Windsor Beach who headed the amateur brigade with his 70-69.

Canadians in Money

Other Canadians came close behind, grouped with competitors from the American tournament circuit. Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener finished with 69 for 140 and Henry Martell of Edmonton had 73 for 143. Thought Canadians were in a group of eight with an even-par 144 — Bob Cunningham, Jr., Montreal Alouettes football star who rebounded from a 75 opening round to shoot a 69; and brothers Jules and Rodolphe Huot, Jules, from Montreal Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, had a 74 yesterday. Rodolphe, from the Royal Quebec Club, carded a 74.

For today's third 18-hole round, the field was cut to 100 and ties with 155 the qualifying score. It worked out to 102 — Canadians and Americans plus an Argentinian and a Hawaiian.

The 60 low scorers and ties today advance into tomorrow's 4th and final round and a chance at the $15,000 in prize money to be divided among the 25 low pros with $2,250 going to the first - place finisher.

KNOWS ONLY WELSH

Toronto, July 6 — (CP) — A British emigrant who speaks no English stepped off a plane yesterday at nearby Malton airport. Christella Ellis from Doddelsty, North Wales, knows only Welsh.

Max Faulkner Leading Field In British Open

Portrush, Northern Ireland, July 6 (AP) —The British Open golf tournament shaped up today as a battle against the elements. The players who can get on the course either before or after the winds and drizzle are the ones most likely to break or match par.

Max Faulkner, of British held a two-stroke lead as the competition entered the home stretch—and has a good chance of holding his margin. Faulkner, in the past three British Opens, never has gone more than two over par in any one round. He's that steady.

But he still lost the title to Bobby Locke, the South African wizard by four strokes both last year and in 1949. This time, though, Max has a four-stroke margin over Locke after 36 holes 141 to 145.

Faulkner got out yesterday before the drizzle and came home with a two-under-par 70. Locke's 148 was good for no better than a five-way tie for fifth. Locke played in the rain and complained that it caused the grass around the cups to rise, making some of his putts curl away.

Frank Stranahan and Chuck Rotar, two of the four Americans in the tourney, still were in the running, but far out of the pace. Stranahan had a 150 total and Rotar, a former Canton, O., pro now in the army in Germany, a 152.

In second place behind Faulkner was Norman Sutton of England at 143, while tied for third were Fred Daly of Ireland and Harry Weetman of England with 144.

NO COMPLETE BLACKOUT

Los Angeles, July 6 (AP) — Modern radar has precluded the necessity of complete blackouts in case of attack, Rear-Admiral R. H. Berry said yesterday. Berry, Los Angeles civil defence director, said in an interview that radar-equipped bombers do not need lights to find their targets in the dark. But there undoubtedly will be "brown outs" and "dim outs" of street lights and blackouts of bright advertising signs.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

There will be sounds of revelry tonight. Up in the Fair Grounds kitchen crack Dutch will take part in the second annual band concert and fireworks display sponsored by the Canadian Legion and the Belleville Recreation Committee. This will come as a fitting climax to a week which has beautifully summed Recreation Week, long before it could be known what the weather had in store for Central Ontario.

What the week has lacked in recreation so far, will be amply compensated for this evening when the largest fireworks display ever seen in the city, or eastern Ontario for that matter, will be touched off following the band concert. The Central Command Band, RCAF, Ottawa; Royal Canadian Regiment Band, Petawawa; RCAF Trumpet Band, Trenton; RCAF Trumpet Band, 6RB; the Havelock Pipe Band; the Belleville Municipal Band, and the Belleville Kinsmen Boys' Band will be on hand to supply the music. The cost to you, dear customer, will be just twenty-five cents, or five tickets for a dollar in the large economy size. And for your money you are entitled to free parking at the Fair Grounds, (parking will be supervised to prevent chaos) and a chance on more than two dozen outstanding prizes, including radios, golf clubs, bicycles, travelling bags, coffee tables and so on. The biggest entertainment buy of this, or any other week, starts with a parade from the Collegiate Grounds on Church Street, at 7:15.

The Belleville Redmen, who are losing their rosy hue as green dye monopolies in the humidity, will trek to Napanee this evening to do battle with the lowly Neps. The men from Gibbardville are currently buried in the league cellar with only two wins in 10 starts. The fire-eaters from the Locks are not much better, being dredged in fifth place due to the resounding lack of ability shown by Smiths Falls and Napanee. The local prides have won four and lost five.

Tomorrow night the Batawa Shoemen come to town to engage the Redmen under the lights. The Shoemen are currently playing .600 ball with six victories in 10 starts and would consider it an evening well spent to bury their Belleville rivals in the deep gloom of the second division. The Batawas have shown plenty of vim this year and have not been losing a third of their games by one run. Gord Moffitt is back on the team for the Shoemakers after a lackadaisical ride last year, and Art Wright still has enough magic to make things interesting for any team in the league. The writhing Redmen would climb out of the basement with two wins this weekend but woe to the Indians if they missfire both nights.

Tonight in Memorial Arena; at the customary hour, the patrons will be confronted with two of the best matmen in the business, when Yukon Eric, the man with enough chest for two, meets Whipper Billy Watson in the main bout. The Whip, current holder of the British Empire Championship!!, insists that to preserve his title a grappler must be speed and science, it says here. The Yukon man, on the other hand, will no doubt resort to nothing more scientific than sheer brute strength, a rather valuable asset when it comes in the quantities possessed by Eric. More than one wrath-overwrought fan has gone home with his ribs straightened by the simple process of being playfully hugged against the huge Yukon's chest brittle the Alaska lumberjack inhaled.

While all this bodes no good for either party it does sound like a solid night for the fans. In addition to the luminaries in the feature presentation, the faithful will witness Sunil War George and Sonny Kurgis will tangle with George Scott.

Here and There: Phil Hughes, goalie with Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs in the last campaign will definitely not be wearing Belleville colors next winter. He has been signed to a contract by the Saskatoon Quakers, Western Canada Major Hockey League champions. "It rumored that at least one other St. Mike's stars may journey west, as it is well known that the Leafs will not operate two major league clubs in Toronto next winter. What about it Pat? . . . Ramsays meet Glen Rae at the Kemble Field tonight at 7:30 in a game promising . . . Lawn bowling activity shifts to Colborne tomorrow for mixed doubles . . . Rain has piled up a heap of postponed games in the Commercial Softball League to the point where the playoffs will be delayed for a week at least . . . Look at Boston Red Sox closing on the field in the AL race. They are closer this July 4th than they have been in the last ten years. The Bostons have been called a fine pitching team and in the past few seasons have picked up better than a dozen games on the fourth of July frostrunners over the sweltering second half of the pennant race, only to be beaten on the last day of the season by the Yankees, a few years. This may be their turn, despite the White Sox. And why? Because this year they have shown they can lick the Yankees, a deficiency that has been their undoing before. Hitch-ho for another famous race in Boston.

MAN WITH "REPUTATION"

Brooklyn Dodgers' rugged Gil Hodges, whose powerful frame has earned him the reputation as the strongest man in baseball, is also equipped with the largest hands ever to clutch a bat or cuddle a ball on any baseball diamond. Currently leading both leagues in home runs—21 at this writing—the six-foot one of Gil's mitts which give pitchers ulcers runs deep. Gil's team-mates insist the only reason he wears a glove is because it is expected equipment of a first baseman. Central Press Canadian.

$50,000 FIRE LOSS

Windsor, July 5 — (CP) — A fireman was overcome with smoke and a woman slightly injured in a $50,000 fire in an industrial building on the south side of the city Thursday.

The fireman, Gilbert Dupuis, collapsed while fighting the fire and had to be removed to the fire station for oxygen treatment before reviving.

Mrs. Jessie McLeod, 30, a secretary, jumped from the window of her second storey office, slid along an awning and fell on a pile of dirt near the building. She escaped with minor scratches and bruises.

DROWNED IN LAKE

Smiths Falls, July 6 — (CP) — Charles Ingram, 45, of Hyde Park, O., was drowned Thursday when his skiff capsized in the choppy waters of Cross Lake, 40 miles west of here.

His two sons, Buddy, 15, and Paul, 10, were saved by two other Ohio boys, Jim Moberly boat, Walter Violett, 16, and Dick Swagler, 13, both of Wadsworth, O., rescued the two Ryles boys but lost their grip on the father.

Maybe It's Time to Take Hodges Seriously, With 27 Homers is 5 Games Ahead of Ruth's Mark

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Maybe it's time to take Gil Hodges seriously.

With 27 home runs in Brooklyn's first 73 games, the Dodger first baseman is running five games ahead of Babe Ruth's all-time record pace of 1927.

The Babe didn't hit No. 27 until July 8 in the Yanks' 78th game. Brooklyn won't play its 78th until after the all-star game break.

No wonder the Brooks are 7 1-2 games in front of the second-place New York Giants and pulling away fast. Their recovery from a mid-summer slump coincided with Hodges' latest burst of homers.

Gil ripped into Larry Jansen for his 27th last night at Ebbetts Field, a few seconds after Andy Pafko also rifled a Jansen pitch into the stands.

Although the Giants wobbled but Don Newcombe's four-run eighth inning, the Brooks clawed back with three and went on to win 5-4 in the Newcombes' 13th victory.

If Hodges and the Dodgers are running away from the National field, the American four-way race can provide any kind of thrills.

New York climbed back into first place a half game ahead of Chicago by bopping Washington 9-2 in night games while Chicago had been shut out for the first time 8-0 by Detroit's Freddie Hutchinson.

Boston Closes In

Boston closed in on the leaders by mashandling Philadelphia 8-3 with Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr hitting homers to back up Walt Masterson's brilliant relief pitching. The Red Sox are only two games back and Cleveland, rained out of its night game at St. Louis, is only 4 1-2 away.

The Giants' third straight loss at Brooklyn not only dampened their pennant hopes but left them less miserable to attack from the rear.

St. Louis chewed up Chicago 10-2 to begin what will be a game of New York. The Cards trail Brooklyn by eight. Cliff Chambers knocked off his third win in a row with a five hitter. Ward Schoendienst led the Cards' 14-hit attack on Johnny Klippstein and a host of Cub pitchers.

Boston edged the Phillies 7-6 in 11 innings but lost two starting pitchers — Vern Bickford and Johnny Sain — with injuries. Bickford pulled up with a sore shoulder after four innings and Sain's pitching hand was injured by deflecting Granny Hamner's grounder in the eighth. Both will be out a week.

With Ralph Kiner sitting out a three-day suspension, Pittsburg succumbed to Howie Fox's pitching in a 4-0 Cincinnati win. Lloyd Merriman and Dinie Pearson all hit homers in the Howie Pollet's bid for his 100th major league victory.

Future of Loop Back in Hands Of President

Auburn, N.Y., July 6 (AP) — The future of the Class-C Border Baseball League Thursday night was back in the hands of George T. Trautman, President of the National Association of minor leagues.

Frank J. Sikora, Auburn club president, asked Trautman to approve the disbanding of the Border League.

Trautman told Sikora he will issue a statement today after getting in touch with League President John G. Ward of Ogdensburg.

Ward Thursday called a meeting of officials of the league's four teams for Sunday at Kingston, Ont. The Auburn Cayugas and Watertown Athletics, both of whom have voted to withdraw from the Border circuit and applied for franchises in the Class-C Canadian-American League, asked Ward Wednesday to call the meeting.

Ward had ordered the two clubs to play each other a series of games beginning Wednesday night through July 9. Auburn refused.

The temporary schedule was intended to even the two clubs in games with the other two teams, the Kingston Ponies and the Ogdensburg Maples. Kingston and Ogdensburg have been playing each other since Watertown and Auburn withdrew.

Trautman disapproved on Tuesday the requests by Watertown and Auburn to shift to the six-team Can-Am circuit.

President Clyde Graves of the Watertown team said Wednesday night that the Athletics will remain in the league—but reluctantly.

Graves said Watertown will play, under a new schedule, if the other teams do. He claimed the teams lost money when the league had six clubs, and predicted greater losses if it continued with only four games.

The league was cut to four clubs last month when the Cornwall, Ont., Canadians and the Geneva Robins withdrew because of financial difficulties.

In calling the Sunday meeting at Kingston, Ward said a new schedule would be drafted and that "any other business" that club officials might bring up would be discussed.

Britain's Atomic Energy Controller Resigns Post

London, July 6 (AP) —Resignation of Lord Portal, Britain's atomic energy controller, was announced in the House of Lords Thursday as the government was criticized for allowing its atom bomb program to fall behind Russia's.

A spokesman for the ministry of supply said Lord Portal, wartime commander of the Royal Air Force, now "has work of his own that he would like to do."

But Lord Cherwell, wartime scientific adviser to Winston Churchill, told the Lords that Lord Portal was displeased by the maze of red tape and lack of progress under the government's present atomic energy organization.

Lord Cherwell said Britain not only failed to keep pace with the United States but fell far behind the Soviet Union in the development of an atom bomb of their own.

Lord Alexander, replying for the government, said there had been minor troubles but that no case of action or inaction by the ministry of supply was impeding the progress of the country's atomic energy program.

FOR $100,000 HE SHOULD BE GOOD!

George Ratterman, star quarterback of the New York football Yankees signed up by Montreal Alouettes of Big Four Football union, is seen displaying form which made him a triple threat in U. S. last year. His entry into the Ale' lineup, which cost club an estimated $100,000, has answered the question of who would fill the shoes of Flinging Filchok, now that Frankie, rated as one of the best passers in Canada, is playing for Edmonton Eskimos this season.

Brown Bomber Logical Contender For Heavy Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Louis, old and tired though he may be, still is rated as the only logical contender for Ezzard Charles' heavyweight title by the National Boxing Association which released its quarterly ratings, Thursday.

In the light heavyweight division the N.B.A. named no less than six boxers as logical contenders for the championship now held by Joey Maxim.

Ike Williams ,longtime king of the lightweights who lost his title to Jimmy Carter, listed as a welterweight, was rated no higher than seventh. Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines, Ont., was ranked 10th in the welterweight class.

Sugar Ray Robinson, considered by many of the finest fighting machine in the business today, got an indirect vote of approval from the N.B.A. who said they could find no logical contender for his middleweight title.

At Henley, England, Eric Larsen of Denmark, conqueror of Toronto's John Ward, Guest Wednesday reached the semi-finals of the diamond sculls by defeating John Gaze, of Britain.

He will meet another Briton—Ronnie Lutz who Thursday beat Hussein El Alfy of Egypt.

The other semi-final will be between the Cambridge University sculler, Tony Fox—who eliminated the Belgian veteran Willi Collet—and Demoulin of Belgium who upset the Dutch champion, Tom Neumeir, by one-half length.

An option to purchase the majority stock of the Boston Bruins' National Hockey League Club was obtained Thursday by the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation. The latter's president, Walter A. Brown, said the option will expire August 1.

Brown has been negotiating with President Weston Adams of the Bruins for several weeks. Adams owns 60 per cent of the stock in the hockey club, organized in 1924 by his late father, C. F. Adams.

All 14 former college basketball stars, accused of rigging games at Madison Square Garden, Thursday pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges. Judge Saul S. Streit fined each $2 for entering.

The charge to which they pleaded guilty carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail.

The 14 were accused of conspiring with four alleged fixers to rig the scores of games to the fixers could cash in on "sure things".

Owner Lou Perini says he has no intention of selling the Boston Braves.

His comment came in reply to a report a group of Milwaukee businessmen went to buy the club and move it to that mid-western city.

"No one has talked to me about buying the Braves," Perini said. "I have no inte-est in selling".

Some 200 athletes are expected to compete in the Ontario men's and women's track and field championship at Hamilton Saturday.

Held in connection with the Ontario events will be the Canadian Marathon championship which has attracted some top-flight distance runners. Paul Collins, school teacher from Wolfville, N.S., is favored to win. Walter Fedorick of Hamilton, running for the Canadian Legion in nearby Dundas, also is highly rated.

Capt. R. Misener, president of Colonial Steamships, owners of the vessel, in making the announcement felt that when deeper draft was available at unloading ports, the ship will be able to carry some 840,000 bushels of grain.

Ontario Baseball

(By The Canadian Press)

Jackie Bowes, a 19-year-old lefthander, pitched Guelph Maple Leafs into a tie for fifth place last night with a 3-1 victory over the mighty Brantford Red Sox of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

Bowes, who has pitched four of the 10 Guelph wins this year, gave up only two hits to the league leaders.

At Waterloo, Tigers clawed their way from behind to edge Kitchener Legionnaires 3-1. London Majors romped to Aklin over the cellar-dwelling St. Thomas Legion at St. Thomas.

At Guelph, Leafs scored in the seventh and eighth innings to give their young hurler his win.

Brantford ace Wiley Fields was charged with the loss, his first in five games. Both pitchers struck out eight men and gave up two walks.

Another pitcher's battle highlighted the Waterloo-Kitchener contest.

Bobby Schnurr, a former Kitchener player, was supreme in the clutches to scatter 11 Kitchener hits. He stranded 11 men on base along the way.

Kitchener southpaw Hal Johnston scattered four Waterloo hits but walked five to be charged with the loss. One of the four hits was by Waterloo's Jim Muldoon who now has hit in 24 consecutive games, a league record.

Veteran Tommy White toned a three hitter to gain the win for London. The win moves Majors closer to the leading Brantford squad, 2 1-2 games in front of the league.

In Intercounty statistics issued today, Wilmer Fields of Brantford was still top regular batter with a solid .389 average. Don Butler, St. Thomas infielder has scored 21 hits in 52 times at bat for a .404 average but has not been in 1-2 the games played this season.

Dale Markert of Galt was third with a .350 total ahead of Alex Kvasnak of Waterloo with .326.

London led the league in batting with a .280 team average, .004 ahead of Brantford. Fielding averages were reversed with Brantford averaging .966, .001 ahead of London.

Games tonight see Waterloo at Guelph, St. Thomas at Kitchener and Galt at Brantford.

EXPORTS CLIMB

Ottawa, July 6. (CP)—Canada's exports to the United States climbed by almost $200,000,000 in the first five months of 1951, to bring total domestic shipments to all countries to a record $1,427,700,000.

Virtually every kind of Canadian commodity normally exported to the U.S. shared in the boost, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

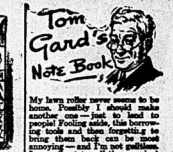
AROUND THE HOME



My lawn roller never seems to be home. Possibly I should make another one. How is best to lend to people? Fooling aside, this borrowing looks and then forgetting is to bring them back can be most frustrating and I've an unwilling I was all set to roll the area just spaded for late vetsebles when I discovered it was missing. Subsequently it was finally settled by borrowing Herb's short lawn job. It gave me the idea of looking for a short, fat hot water tank and fixing up a handle attachment from inch water pipe. Its weight can be regulated by the amount of water used in the tank—quite an amount based on my roller as filled with heavy concrete. Possibly that will be my first job when holidays are over.

Chic's Canopy

Here is a simple way to perk up your kitchen window, painted white in the Mr. Thomas area. A light canopy was constructed from building board and fastened on the inside to the edge of the window frame. Bright chints was sewn in the form of an awning to fit the frame and shrunk tacked in place, with the tacks out of sight. It was most attractive. After repeated attempts to describe its construction in my usually bright "bottle ball", I finally took the hint and drew one. Now she wants to get busy and cover it.

While I am writing of the canopy, maybe I can talk her into covering the guest book I made out of a hot water tank last spring. It's quite attractive in its natural finish but it will be even better covered with some of the drapery material that was left over.

Knick-Knack Shelf

If you want a small shelf for light necessities try your hand at making one from coat hangers. It will take a bit of patience to form the wire into the desired pattern but it can be done.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

To win at bridge you must suffer a little, too. Times are when you must bid your hand to the limit or beyond. Or take a deliberate sacrifice loss. Else opponents play too many cinch contracts.

Look again at this deal:

NORTH
♠10 9 5
♥9 6 4
♣K 8 6 5 4 3 2

WEST	EAST
♠J 7 4 3	♠K Q 8 6 2
♥J 10 9 3 2	♥Q 8 7
♦K Q J	♦5 4
♣3	♣Q J 2

♥A K 5
♦A 10 8 7 3 2
♣A 10 9

The bidding in the first round would be correct like this:

South	West	North	East
1 D	1 H	Pass	1 S

South now bids two diamonds. He can do this with a rebiddable suit and a sixth trick. Even with spade support for east, a pass by west is in order. His five tricks were shown in his simple overcall.

North could pass again and be right. Or he could back in with a bid of three clubs. His first pass already warned partner that he lacks something for a true response. So, what would three clubs show?

It could mean only one thing. It says: "Partner, I lacked some quality or quantity for a true response. But I have a long club suit. We are better off playing it in my suit than in yours."

Say north bids three clubs. East should now show his support for the west hearts. East has enough tricks. In fact, he has tricks enough to keep assisting hearts several times.

So, east bids three hearts. This bid may make, so far as south can see. South should bid four clubs. It may well make with the weakness admitted by north. If so, it would be a practical sacrifice.

When west and north pass four clubs, east bids four hearts. He has the tricks for it. His pair may lack the tops for a game is why he did not go that far originally.

South will double the four heart bid. West will then bid four spades. He can thus show his spade support without an increase in their partnership number. South will double that, too.

Anything can happen in the best of bridge.

AT THE McCARTHY — Gregory Peck and Gig Young seem both to be enamored of Barbara Payton in Warner Bros. latest release, "Only the Valiant," currently the Odeon McCarthy theatre's attraction. Ward Bond also stars, with Lon Chaney, Jeff Corey and Terry Kilburn featured.

AT THE BELLE — Blushing bride meets girl friend. Irene Dunne, center, recently arrived at a ranch house, is really embarrassed when husband Fred MacMurray trots out erstwhile girl friend, Ann Dorn, at the scene is from "Never a Dull Moment," a rip-roaring comedy romance of the wild, wide open spaces of the West.

AT THE CAPITOL — "Santa Fe", new Columbia drama in color by Technicolor at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday, stars Randolph Scott as one of those who built an iron road to empire. On the same program is "Joe Palooka in the Squared Circle." Both hits are first Belleville showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m. Doors open at 12.30.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, July 6—(AP)—You probably never thought it would happen, but James Cagney is muscling out of the mob.

"Yes, I'm going straight," grinned the actor, without an ounce of menace. He admitted that he'll probably never do another gangster picture.

This marks the end of an era. Cagney was perhaps the screen's best-known mobster. His preeminence in the field dated back to "Public Enemy", which made him a star just 20 years ago. Although he made many non-criminal pictures, he was still firmly identified as a mug. In two of his last three pictures he portrayed a gunman.

The gangster pictures were representative of an era," he observed, "But that era is over now. The Kefauver hearings on television helped end it. Nowadays if you did a picture about gangsters, you'd have to show the nation-wide aspects of the racket."

Also, today's crime pictures might reasonably show the traffic in dope and its sale to teenagers.

Cagney is making the transition from gangsterism with a newspaper role in "Come Fill the Cup."

After the film is over, the actor will return to his farm at Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

Comic Review

In a hilarious moment of "Here Comes the Groom," a character exclaims, "this is better than television." The remark is apt. If Hollywood had more pictures like this, it would have less worries about the upstart industry. This film is one of Bing Crosby's best combining enough elements of entertainment to please the most jaded movie goer. The plot is a romantic mix-up with the groaner, Jane Wyman, Alexis Smith and Franchot Tone. Illogical? Yes, but still lots of fun, a needed assist to Crosby's film career.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1951

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Favorable rays through day. Don't try to do more than you can reasonably handle rightly. Concentrate on essentials, matters relative to your business, work and home.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Fortunate rays. Stars indicate generous outlook in business, professional and personal affairs. Direct your attention to cover top matters first. Romance, marriage, social affairs sponsored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Day urges planning early, getting in work to take full advantage of stimulating aspects. News from unexpected sources can further honest effort. Pray for guidance.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Fine outlook for lasting gains in important matters, expansion, sound investments. Do save as you earn and enjoy some of the fruits of your efforts. Life is indeed worth giving your best.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Splendid indications for most matters, especially purposeful activities. Get down to cases, weed out non-essentials and you can bring in profit. Personal affairs duly favored.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Be ambitious, soundly acquisitive; do more than just prescribed duties today and reap extra fine harvest. Your specific ability and talents just right for this day. Save some.

September 23 to October 23 (Libra)—Tendency to be overconservative now and lose chance to make appreciable headway. A benefic day. Unctious! Work a little harder and extra hours. Be keen on matters around you.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Liven up business and personal interests this prosperous day. Don't be satisfied to jog along, taking offers here or there. Concentrate on important issues and achieve your best.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You can turn in a bang-up credit-sheet if you follow through in your innate practical style. Auto, leather, electrical, medical, construction workers highly sponsored. News good.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be ready, eager for changes during day that will better possibilities. These opportunities are open to you who co-operate and do an honestly good job. Investigate each lead thoroughly.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You are within the orb of very favorable rays, so start early, be open to wise suggestions, heed your conscience. Discuss special problems for better results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Top-grade performance will bring topnotch results. Study the trend of outside activities, why certain things click, what effort was enlisted. Know your subject matter for true gains.

YOU BORN TODAY: At times tenacious, forceful; again retiring, mild, industrious, will work hard to achieve a successful end. You yearn for sympathy, do best under harmonious surroundings, among real friends, loved ones (your best companions). May tend to make sudden changes in business or affairs because you like changes. Be not discouraged at setbacks, but go forward determined to do better next time, and you will. Excellent mental powers. Be patient, don't mistrust or worry foolishly. Birthdate: Felicien Rops, Belgian painter; Geo. Cukor, actor, director.

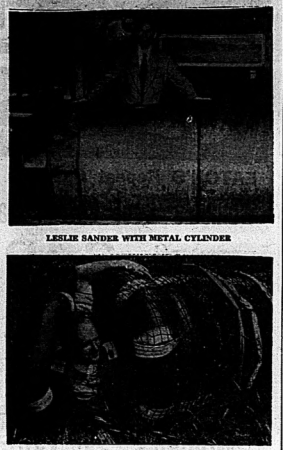
ARTIST TO "SHOOT" RAPIDS WITH "RED" HILL



LESLIE SANDER WITH METAL CYLINDER

"RED" HILL, COMPLETE WITH TIRES

—Central Press Canadian.

A newcomer, Leslie Sander of New York, will provide competition for William "Red" Hill, veteran of two attempts to "shoot" the Horseshoe Rapids of Niagara River, when they both attempt this perilous project on Aug. 5. Hill will be strapped inside a cylinder of puncture-proof inner tire tubes, while "dare-devil" Sander, a 36-year-old decorator and artist, will take to the rapids in a cigar-shaped metal cylinder. The New Yorker, who has already made news with his 16-foot model of Eiffel tower and bond-button portraits, is planning the plunge to publicize his art work.

CANADIANS DELIGHTED AT PROPOSED ROYAL VISIT

Canadians who recall with nostalgia the charm and graciousness exhibited by the King and Queen during their cross-Canada tour in 1939, are overjoyed at the proposed plans for their eldest daughter, Princess Elizabeth, and her husband, Philip, to visit Canada in October. The three-week coast-to-coast tour will be the princess' first visit to Canada, although in the past few years she has visited South Africa, Greece and Italy, for since the illness of her father, the King, more state duties have fallen on her. Family portrait shows the young royal couple with their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, neither of whom will accompany their parents to Canada.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

Sonya Saroska was the first to in water upon dolls. But Wertheim went one better by putting on a life-size show with a real vault. Miss Clara Mayhew the company receptionist, doubled as the doll.

When Mr. Brayton and Mr. Esplin came for a demonstration they arrived so late that Miss Mayhew had been excused. Prater and Wertheim made the best of the situation and took their customers out to dinner at the La Jolla Club."

Al Nanabarro was a greenish white as Star went on. "Prater suggested that Frannie substitute for Clara as the doll in the vault and, she said she'd make it to the offices between shows. Prater probably told her to bring the yellow bathing suit she happened to be wearing in one of her numbers. This she did, borrowing Al Nanabarro's car.

"The girl took her place and the vault was lowered into the water. Brayton and Esplin were favorably impressed when Wertheim suddenly became excited. Too late he reached for the lever causing the vault to rise. When it was at last lifted, the doll was wet, instead of dry as it had been in the past. In short Frannie Martin had drowned."

The gazes of Sonya and Nanabaro turned to Carl Prater, who breathed heavily. Wertheim then broke.

"It wasn't my fault!" he screamed. "It was Prater's! The metal was cracked when it was stamped out."

Al Nanabarro reached Prater before anybody could stop him. Merica and Nanabarro's merchant, Lou Brisco, pulled him off. The night club man continued to stare across the room at Prater with hatred.

"When the horrible accident was discovered," Star went on, "all present were frantic. Mr. Brayton and Mr. Esplin saw ruin of publicity about this episode reached their home town, as it inevitably would if something drastic were not done. Mr. Prater and Mr. Wertheim also saw ruin.

"It was Mr. Wertheim who came up with what seemed a brilliant suggestion. No one else, he assured the others, knew of Miss Martin's visit to the Prater offices. Why not drive her car to some spot along the river, bend the car into the river with Miss Martin's body inside and pass off her lamentable death as a traffic accident?

"The idea seemed perfect at the time. Wertheim sent his employer and his prospective customers packing back to La Jolla Club, where they were to establish their alibi. He himself managed the manipulation of the accident, dressing Miss Martin in her street clothes. Bidault probably learned of the tragedy from Wertheim.

"What happened afterward is open to transparent conjecture. Armed with this deadly information, Barney Bidault confronted Carl Prater late one night in his office. He was also armed with his wife's small automatic pistol. He had borrowed the pistol with the pretext that he needed it for protection on a trip.

"Barney had been quick to see his opportunity to freeze Prater out of his highly successful company. With threat of exposure and threat of the little pistol, he extracted a complete confession from Carl Prater. He left Prater with the adjuration that the confession would be refirmed — if Prater assigned his shares of stock for a ridiculously low figure and abandoned his office as president.

"But he reckoned without reprisal. He was followed home, attacked from behind on his wife's own threshold and struck down. The little gun was taken from his person and used to murder him. That was why the bullet appeared to have been fired from the floor—actually Bidault was lying on the floor, and the bullet was fired downward at an angle through his mouth and through his brain.

"The killer left the pistol behind but took the confession from Bidault's pocket. Naturally —

"I didn't do it!" We all jumped. Carl Prater had screamed.

More Bad News Awaits Red-Head Virginia Hill

Denver, Colo., July 7—(AP)—More bad news awaited red-headed Virginia Hill today as she flew homeward after a day of alternately cooling punches at reporters and tearfully telling the mithat all she want is "ordinary life."

For good measure, investigators for the Denver district attorney detained the one-time girl friend of gangsters briefly for questioning.

At Spokane, her home was seized by the federal government for alleged non-payment of $101,000 in back income taxes.

She plans to visit friends in El Paso, Tex., were rained when reporters learned of her presence in the border city. She paused a shoe at one, slapped another and boarded a plane for Denver, en route to Spokane.

Ever since mobster Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel was found slain in her Hollywood home three years ago, she said, "I haven't had a minute's peace."

She told a reporter she wanted to be left alone and allowed to join her husband, Elmo Haumer, and her child in South America.

Sale of New Motor Vehicles Declines in May

Ottawa, July 7 — (CP) Sale of new motor vehicles declined during May, the second full month in which new credit restrictions were in force, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

Financing of new car sales also declined during the month, but financing of used vehicles went up.

The bureau reported that new motor vehicles sold in May totalled 9,9646 units against 40,645 a year ago. Dollar value of the retail value of the sales was higher at $92,572,330 against $81,113,607.

There were $11,314 new motor vehicles financed to the extent of $18,717,611, compared with 13,503 financed for $18,502,861 in May, 1950. The number of used vehicles financed rose to 29,023 from 25,173 while their financed value increased to $17,073,855 from $16,532,217.

The credit restrictions were first imposed Nov. 1 and have required one-third down on motor vehicles, with the remainder to be paid in 18 months. Effective March 19, the down-payment was increased to one-half and the instalment period reduced to 12 months.

ARMY DESERTER SHOT

Windsor, July 7 — (CP) — An 18-year-old youth, termed by police a Canadian Army deserter, was shot and wounded seriously today in a scuffle following an early morning break-in in mid-town Windsor.

Detective Ted LePage grappled with Mike Wachoski of Fort William when he tried to escape. Page fired two warning shots, then fired the shot which wounded Wachoski.

The fleeing man was dressed in the uniform of a private of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Tehran, Iran, July 7 (AP)—Iran's Premier Mossadegh today with plans to take over the billion-dollar properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, following violent street demonstrations against a compromise suggested by the international court.

Shouting "death to Anglo-American imperialism" and "death to the Hague Court," a pro-British mob of 10,000 young pro-communists rode through the city last night protesting the court's ruling that Iran suspend its nationalization laws. About 100 persons were injured.

The court recommended that a five man board of two Britons, two Iranians and one neutral supervise activities until a compromise could be worked out.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's government denounced the court's decision and said it had no jurisdiction over the dispute between Iran and the British-controlled company.

British ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd delivered a note to foreign minister Hussein Fatemi today asking Iran to abide by the court's ruling.

Iran then issued a statement saying the court's decision was not "valid." It did not formally reject the British suggestion but left the door slightly open for negotiations.

Withdrawal Inevitable

A government spokesman said Iranian oil commissioners hope to reach agreement on the giant oil refinery at Abadan in two weeks and then move into the Khuzistan oil field. Dr. Hurtig, embassy spokesman said Iranian rejection of the court proposal would make withdrawal of British technicians inevitable. Observers feel such a withdrawal would bring about a collapse of the oil industry.

The bicycle brigade ran into opposition from youthful members of the Tudeh party, an official shoot of Mossadegh's national front. Tudeh favors the oil nationalization but are otherwise opposed.

Mobsters started in various parts of the capital as two groups of Persians clashed with police sticks, knives and tree branches. There were many broken arms and heads but no deaths were reported.

The youths were in high spirits, celebrating the end of Ramadan, the Moslem month of fasting.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Air Transport mission was made the occasion for a parade of 2,500 government employees. Premier Mossadegh, Nearly the whole division which guards the Khuzistan oil fields paraded, refusing off their American, British and Italian equipment.

Holy Relics of Aachen Cathedral To Attract Thousands of Pilgrims

Aachen, Germany, July 7. (AP) —The devout are turning their footsteps to this ancient German city on the first pilgrimage in 14 years to the holy relics of Aachen Cathedral.

From July 8 to 22 thousands are expected to come to this cathedral where the Emperor Charlemagne is buried. Some will see four major relics: a cloak said to have been worn by the Virgin Mary; swaddling clothes and a loin cloth of Jesus and the decapitation hood of John the Baptist.

There are several lesser relics, among them bells of the Virgin Mary.

The most important relics are kept in a silver shrine embossed with figures of saints and scenes in the life of Jesus.

All the relics were carefully stored away during the war although the cathedral itself was damaged.

The relics of Charlemagne include an arm bone and a portion of skull. In one niche is a standing dress given the cathedral in 1475 by Prince Margaret of York, wife of King Charles the Courageous. A century and a half later, a Spanish princess donated a cloak on which 40,000 pearls were embroidered.

The cathedral's collection also includes one notable for the Lothar Cross, given by the German Emperor Otto the Great in the 10th century. In 1873 the British National Museum reportedly offered £3,500,000 for it.

Each afternoon the holy relics will be displayed.

The octagon corner of the cathedral—its oldest section—will be reopened in a special ceremony. New windows have been fitted in the octagon, built about 800, which was damaged in the Second World War.

RADIO SAYS REDS 'BLACKMAILING' CHINESE ABROAD

Threaten Families If Money Withheld

Washington, July 7 — (AP) — The State Department radio said today that communist China is demanding money abroad with threats to torture or kill their families at home.

An estimated 10,000,000 Chinese live in the Philippines, Burma, Thailand, Malaya and elsewhere in southeast Asia.

Within the past weeks, Chinese (Swatow) merchants and manufacturers in Hong Kong have been receiving urgent telegrams from the families on the Chinese mainland, the broadcast by the Voice of America said. "These telegrams demand large sums to meet communist land reform obligations. "And these overseas Chinese have been informed, that if the money is not forthcoming their aged mothers or other members of their families in China will be tortured or killed," the voice said. It added:

"They have also been informed that among the milder forms of torture that would fall to their families in the event of non-payment are the following: crawling on broken glass; being forced barking like dogs; and the so-called water torture.

Similar letters and telegrams have been received by the leaders of the Overseas Chinese communists in Singapore, Saigon, Djakarta and in Burma and Thailand.

"And other, less healthy overseas Chinese heard that the Peiping regime had ordered overseas communist agents to use force to return to the mainland. Otherwise the regime will force their wives to murder their children."

The voice said that Chinese leaders in Hong Kong and Singapore have decided to ignore the demands, in the belief that communists would be unlikely to further demands and threats.

11 Believed Killed as B-29 Tanker Crashes and Burns Near Prestwick, Scotland

Prestwick, Scotland, July 7 (AP) — A United States Air Force B-29 aerial tanker crashed and burned in a mist-shrouded valley of hills here today, apparently killing the 11 crew members aboard.

(Reuters news agency said five of the 11 crew members were reported to have escaped death but were badly burned.)

Nine bodies have been recovered from the wreck of the huge four-engined plane, which had been converted into a tanker used for in-flight refuelling.

The big plane spun out of the clouds with smoke trailing from it and crashed in flames in a wooded area near Carsphairn, Kirkcudbrightshire. Firemen had to pump water from a river 200 yards away to fight the blaze which roared through the wreckage for more than two hours.

Headquarters of the U. S. Third Air Force at Sulsalp, on the outskirts of Salzburg, said the crashed plane was based at Lakenheath, England, and assigned to the Second Bomb Wing.

The plane and its crew were in the United Kingdom for 90-day training under the strategic air command's rotation training plan.

At the time of the crash the plane was on a navigational training flight from Lakenheath, officers said.

Villagers living near the crash scene said they heard the plane's engines laboring as it in difficulty before they spotted the huge ball of flame.

Miss Moll Campbell, on whose farm the crash occurred, said:

"We saw the plane dive out of a cloud. Smoke was trailing from it. It circled in the mist as though trying to find a place to land. Then it spun seven times before nosediving into the glen."

Miss Campbell and two farmhands ran to the scene to help.

"We tried to get near it," she said, "but the flames were so intense with the gasoline exploding that it was hopeless. We had to go back." Provost Bruce Blyth (one of the farmhands) who wanted to run into the flames to help the airmen."

Crashes Into Sea

London, July 7. (Reuters)—A privately-owned Swiss plane carrying four persons crashed into the English Channel today on a flight from Switzerland, to Lympne, England.

Ships and aircraft, including a United States Air Force C-47, were searching for the plane's single-engined plane from bases in Britain.

The plane was piloted by its owner, Ernst Mueller, a stamp dealer. He and two other Swiss were the passengers.

Lympne reports had incorrectly described the plane as an airliner.

Allied Planes Avoid Travel Route of Reds in Carrying Envoys for Peace Talks

Tokyo, July 7 (AP) — United Nations planes gave a wide berth to the eastern Kaesong-Seoul highway today to permit a communist Iliuison team safe passage to Kaesong.

There the reds will meet a United Nations group Sunday to set the stage for armistice negotiations Tuesday that may end the bloody Korean war.

The communists, riding in five trucks and five jeeps bearing white flags, said they would leave Pyongyang, North Korean capital, at 5 a.m. today (3 p.m. E.D.T. Friday) for the 100-mile journey to Kaesong. They expected to reach the 38th parallel.

The red route was announced that they actually left. Presumably they have. The U.N. liaison team will join them at Kaesong tomorrow. It will travel by either helicopter or jeep.

Regardless of how they travel, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Allied Supreme Commander, ordered the communists, they will cross the front clear, about 12 miles south of Kaesong, at 9 a.m. Sunday (7 p.m. E.D.T. Saturday).

For tomorrow's meeting the Chinese and North Korean commanders, Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-Huai, have named their liaison officers, including a colonel, two interpreters and "reception and personnel and assistants."

The United Nations team is composed of two colonels and two interpreters. Their names have not been announced. It is expected the officers will be a United States marine officer, an Australian, a New Zealander and a South Korean army officer.

AP Correspondent Peter Pollowetzky with the U.S. Eighth Army said the headquarters was swept by an air of excitement and hope as the time neared for the talks to be opened.

Observers at headquarters, he added, felt that tomorrow's meeting will probably be routine; they did not rule out the possibility representatives might agree to a temporary truce in the fighting during main negotiations.

Partly-Secret Voyage Will Soon Start to Arctic

New Westminster, B. C., July 7 (CP)—The ice breaking HMCS Athabaskan will sail from here shortly on a partly-secret voyage to the Arctic.

Capt. Tom Manning, skipper of the converted frigate and R.C.N.V.R. is a zoologist. Mate Fred Barber is a hydrographer and engineer Cdr. Merrell of Gananoque, Ont., is a geographer. The deckhands include two oceanographers, a biologist and a glaciologist.

The voyage is a project of Canada's defence research board.

Capt. Manning, an Englishman who built fishing boats for the Canadian Navy during the war, said basic research is the main object of the trip. Secondings, weather observations, investigations of navigation charts. He declined to say what else is involved.

The vessel will remain in the western Arctic after her summer's work ends in September. The crew of 26 will be kept at the Kimo village of Tuk-Tuk near the mouth of the Mackenzie river and fly home to work on completing the data gathered.

Special clothing will have been strengthened with big beams of Douglas fir so they can withstand the pressures of Arctic ice. Sails have been rigged fore and aft for use in emergencies.

The deckhouse was lengthened to include a complete laboratory. Where the rich once relaxed in deck chairs there now is a cluster of scientific gear housed under canvas.

The Cancolim has been sheathed in a special skin of Douglas fir ironbark an inch thick. For ice work, it is tougher than steel.

MILLIONAIRE DUE TO LEAVE JAIL ON $10,000 BAIL

Field Still Silent On Fugitive Bail

New York, July 7—(AP)—Millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, bail fund trustee for 11 Communist Party leaders, faces his own bail problem today as he languished in a jail cell.

Field was sentenced Thursday to 90 days when he refused to tell a jury who put up $50,000 bail for four fugitive communist leaders.

His application for bond was granted too late yesterday for papers for signing his release, and he spent last night in the federal detention quarters here. The weekend holiday may cause new delays.

The 54-year-old Field was ordered jailed for contempt of court. Field's detention prevented him from attending the appeal later in the day before appeals Judge Thomas W. Swain in New York Federal Court.

Judge Swain ordered Field freed, on $10,000 bail pending formal appeal of contempt sentence. The government described the bond amount as "extraordinary and said it may be changed after further consideration.

Meanwhile, seven of the convicted communists arrived at Manhattan Federal House of Detention to serve their five-year prison sentences. They and convicted leader Jay David Gregg-glass, who is under a 15-year sentence, were taken to Lewisburg from New York in an armored bus.

Object of Search

The other four convicted communist leaders are the object of a nationwide search by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. They have been hunted since they failed to surrender to federal officials last Monday with their fellow reds.

When the court jumped bail, Judge Sylvester called Field and other trustees of the party's defence congress bail fund into his court room. The congress, which is listed by the U.S. Attorney-General as subversive, posted bond for the 11 convicted communists and for 17 others indicted on similar charges.

Judge Swan has stipulated the bail fund must not be forfeited nished by the civil rights congress and that it must be "in the hands of the court" by the attorney's office."

Testimony throughout the bail hearings that to name the fund contributors might incriminate them. Judge Swan ruled that the identity of the bail "angels" might provide a clue to the fugitives.

The government says Field has refused to give the name of contributing red Chinese financial interest.

Field is married to the former wife of Dr. Raymond Boyer, Montreal chemist, convicted in the Canadian atomic spy case. He was released from prison last year after serving two years.

Husband Charged By Police With Slaying

Mother of Three, 28, Stabbed With Sharp Screwdriver

Whitby, Ont., July 7 (CP) — 28-year-old mother of three children was found stabbed to death beside a newly-developed street here today. Police said a sharp screwdriver was the death weapon and charged the woman's husband with murder.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Anna Slobodian, her husband as Roy Slobodian, 39, of Oshawa.

Police found the body in a ditch in a sparsely-settled "forest lane," concealed by an automobile robe, leaves and tree branches when Slobodian entered the Oshawa police station and surrendered. Slobodian guided officers to the sideroad where the body of the 280-pound woman lay in a pool of blood.

Argument On Roadside

That was about 2 a.m. Police said the slaying occurred about 10 o'clock last night during an argument. They said a long screwdriver found nearby, had been driven into the woman's brain.

Officers said Slobodian and his wife had driven in their automobile to a dead-end road and started to argue. The woman jumped from the car and was stabbed by the husband. The body bore a number of stab wounds.

Recounting Slobodian's movements, police said he drove to Toronto, 33 miles west of Whitby, to the home of a brother. The two returned to the church scene and the brother persuaded Slobodian to give himself up.

Slobodian walked into Oshawa police station and announced: "I've just murdered my wife."

Twelve Seamen Picked up Safely After Collision

The Hague, Netherlands, July 7 (Reuters) — Twelve British seamen who took to the boats when their ship sank after a night collision, were picked up safely today, radio reports said.

Child Stars in Britain Technically 'Criminals' But Get Around Law

London, July 7—(AP)—A half-dozen young "criminals" in Britain are free to earn a living on the stage.

The offenders of these youngsters are planned well in advance and are known to hundreds, even several hours out in the public until the deeds have been done.

Under British law, local authorities are given power to regulate the employment of children. Most prohibit employment of children under 16.

But the legislation is made for the movie industry, so the child actors of Britain work semi-surreptitiously. The conspiracy of silence while a film is being made keeps busybodies from seeking a court order to stop the shooting.

As soon as the film is completed the companies issue a statement of regret and concern about the youngsters. The usual practice then is for the company to pay a token fine, usually about $1.

"Lawbreakers" in the last two years include Bobby Henrey in "The Fallen Idol;" John Howard Davies in "Oliver Twist" and "Broadway;" Jeremy Spencer in "Prelude to Fame;" Janette Scott in "No Place for Jennifer" and Peter Ray in "The Mudlark" and William Fox in "Tom Brown's School Days."

Mature actors who appear with these kids often level a much more caustic appraisal against them. They accuse the youngsters of stealing scenes from them.

Expert Flying Credited With Saving 3 Lives

Centralia, Ont., July 7 (CP)—Expert flying by three RCAF pilots was credited today with saving their lives when four Harvard training planes collided high in the air over Dashwood.

The fourth pilot, FO. W. B. Pollin, 29, of Westmount, Que., was killed in the collision yesterday.

FO. E. D. G. Price 28, of Exeter Ont., guided his plane, which had a crippled tail assembly, to a crash landing in a wheat field. FO. D. E. Donaldson, of Lethbridge, Alta., and FO. D. T. Bilvoire of Ottawa nursed their planes, with damaged wings and propellers, back to their base here.

All the fliers, instructors at this Western Ontario air station, were taking part in a 13-plane formation practice flight. Each was alone in his two-seater training plane.

Witnesses said the planes were flying in "V" formation of three. The four planes at the rear of the formation looked wing tips and went out of control. The aircraft flown by Pollin crashed and plunged eastward, while those with Donaldson and Bilvoire pilots went only temporarily out of hand.

Pollin was a Second world War veteran who joined the RCAF last February. He was graduated from the instructors' school at Trenton, Ont., after a refresher course and went to Centralia in May.

Fellow pilots at the air station said three of the survivors showed great skill in bringing their battered machines safely to earth.

Dr. J. B. Collip Given Squibb Award by Assoc.

The weather was perfect and from a blue cloudless sky the sun beamed down upon crowded streets in which cars were lined bumper to bumper as they sat parked and their occupants waited expectantly for the parade to begin. And along the route of march thousands of people hulked in groups both large and small and listening anxiously for the first distant sounds of the marching bands as they came into sight. What was all this excitement that puzzled amongst the scores of onlookers and also sent them walking and driving by the thousands to the Fair Grounds. It was the second annual Spring Band Show and Giant Fireworks display that was being sponsored by the Joint Services of the Belleville Recreation Commission and Branch 99 of the Canadian Legion.

Last year this new venture had drawn unexpected thousands and the question now was if this year the response of the public would be bigger and better than ever. And it was. More than 10,000 attended.

Also participating bands gathered on the Collegiate campus shortly after seven o'clock and with Lieut. Harry Sea Cadets, Army vehicles and Belleville Fire Department cars in their respective intervals the bands marched from the campus to the Fair Grounds with the crowds of cheering onlookers stood in lines along the streets and applauded them on Pinnacle Street Given

At the same time that the parade was forming, the Belleville Municipal Band was already in front of the grand stand playing a short concert to entertain the multitudes packing the grand stand and seats and bleachers. Meanwhile continuous hundreds were entering the Fair Grounds for this big evening's entertainment by hordes.

By the bands entered upon the track they marched past the grand stand before taking their respective places and waited to march for the concert to follow. The first band to arrive was that of the R.C.D. of Petawawa under the leadership of Lieutenant William Hamerton (appearing through the kind permission of Lieutenant-Colonel P. R. Bingham, Commanding Officer of the R.C.R.). Then followed a corps of the Sea Cadets.

R.C.A.F. Force Band Heard

Shortly after came the Central Band of the Royal Canadian Air Force of Air Force headquarters, Ottawa. This band was under the leadership of Flying Officer Carl Friburg, and was appearing here through the kind permission of the Chief of the Air Staff, Vice Admiral W. A. Curtis. Another Air Force Band was third to appear, this being the Trenton band of the R.C.A.F. Trenton, conducted by L.AC. Gaugh, of Belleville, and led by Flight Sergeant Coe, as drum major. The Kilties, the third of the bands to put in an appearance in the person of the Havelock Pipe Band, made up of fourteen girls of Havelock and lassies in their colorful Scottish tartans and plaids. Major Harry Anderson was in charge of this band. And, finally, the Princess Royal Band, of Belleville, with Bandmaster Lloyd Coopler in command, marched on the field lastly in their eye-catching blue uniforms trimmed with gold.

As the track was still a bit treacherous and mucky towards the western end of the grand stand the bands could not give full sway to their marching abilities, but had to curtail their activities in this capacity. The three bands that were to take place in the concert proper assembled on the three specially constructed stages directly in front of the grand stand, those bands being the R.C.R. Band, the Central Band of the R.C.A.F. and the Belleville Municipal Band.

Last Post Heard

Following the Last Post, one minute silence and Reveille, the massed bands played the National Anthem and then the concert began. For the next two hours the thousands in attendance heard all kinds of music from the classics to the latest jazz up to the minute swing as interpreted by the excellent musical groups on the three stages. The Belleville Municipal Band led forth with two arrangements of popular tunes while the R.C.A.F. Band featured selections from the literature of serious classics, familiar marches and entertaining novelty numbers for their contributions to the program.

Interspersed with these numbers were the reappearance of the Trumpet Band from No. 6 R.D. (appearing through the kind permission of Group Captain Greene and No. 6 Repair Depot) playing their version for trumpets and drums of "Buckets of Gore" and familiarly known as "The Old Oaken Bucket." The Havelock Pipe Band came back on the track and to the tumultuous applause and loud cheers of the audience they went through their paces doing both slow and quick marches, playing "Scotland the Brave." Marches that held the attention of the vast crowd from beginning to end. The Belleville band to be proud of and one that would be welcome back to Belleville as was attested by the ovations received by them.

Popular Music

The numbers played by both the visiting bands and the Belleville Band, the R.C.A.F. were given with a surety of approach and sincere knowledge of their respective possibilities. The numbers that both bands rendered in the more popular vein were the ones that brought forth the greatest cheers and yells from the listeners, especially the number "Got a Date with an Old Bunch of Coconuts" as played by the R.C.A.F. Band, and the Belleville Band's rendition by Glenn Miller as performed by the R.C.R. Band. As in the last year's Spring Show, the big hit Horn Solos played by Lance Corporal A. Lee of the R.C.A.F. Band was again very effective, this being the only solo number of the entire concert, in the Belleville Municipal Band's stand leader Ted Robbins of the Belleville Municipal band kindly handed over the baton for the conducting of the numbers to Lieut. Wm. Armstrong of the R.C.R. and Flying Officer Carl Friburg of the R.C.A.F. Bands.

Following the well-played and planned concert, the fireworks display filled the back of a large truck, were drawn by His Worship Mayor Richard Hyde, Hank Follwell, M.P., and W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P., some thirty minutes after the concert when the many fine articles drawn for

A Real Thrill

Then, the long-awaited thrill of the evening — the fireworks display proper. And as the Canadian hour the dark July sky was ablaze with the most vivid of colorful patterns of light as one after another burst into kaleidoscopic splendor. More realism was added by the thunderous noises that emitted from some of the high projecting rockets as they exploded open and in which they gorgeous color patterns planned down in cascades of fiery hues to the onlookers below.

The whole affair was one of great and grand success in every sense by the thousands of people who came to see as well as hear, and those responsible for the bands are due all those who so unstintingly gave their time and efforts to see that this was a success. Belleville will look forward to a third annual event of this nature next year. The committee for the entire program was Eugene Lang.

Eight Hens Cost Gunners $19.70 Each

Theft of eight hens and enjoyment of a subsequent chicken dinner cost seven young gunners from the Artillery Station at Picton a total of $137.90. They appeared in Picton police court this week and after pleading guilty to the theft charge were given suspended sentence on payment of $19.70 each to cover court costs and restitution.

It was brought out that the boys had entered the henhouse of Jack Chapman, Hallowell Township, and made off with eight birds. Later the same night they had plucked them and the following night enjoyed a shore dinner of fried chicken.

An Army belt left behind was the clue which aided in the identification of the men responsible. Mr. Chapman valued his hens at $3 each.

Market Gardens Suffer in District

Lots or rain may be welcomed by farmers in general, but too much moisture only spells grief for market gardeners with low lying land.

At least that is the grief of one gardener attending the Belleville market who says that too much rain will cost him plenty of money this year.

Black muck land, which ordinarily is well suited for garden produce, is now under inches of water and a big percentage of cabbage and other garden produce has been ruined. One gardener said that he expected to sell 1,000 cabbage out of more than 8,000 plants set out.

But he did not look at it entirely from the loss angle. "It will be just that much less work," he said.

Officer Thwarts Threatened Leap Of Woman

New York, July 7 — (AP) — A patrolman, lowered in a life belt from the floor above, thwarted the threatened leap of a woman from Brooklyn's Hotel St. George of a 55-year-old woman.

Police identified her as Mrs. Bessie Adelman of Queens, She was under the hospital for observation.

Police said she telephoned a son, whose name they did not know, and told him she intended committing suicide.

He called the hotel manager, who summoned police.

Officers found her barricaded in her 10th floor room and threatening to jump from the window if they entered.

A policeman was lowered to the sill of a window of her room from the floor above, entered and held her until he could open the door for other officers.

BOYS ENJOYING A SWIM

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

O Sacred Head, Now Wounded

O Sacred Head, now wounded,
With grief and shame weighed down,
Now scornfully surrounded
With thorns, thine only crown;
O sacred Head, what glory,
What bliss, till now was thine!
Yet, though despised and gory,
I joy to call thee mine.

What language shall I borrow
To thank thee, dearest Friend,
For this, thy dying sorrow,
Thy pity without end?
O make me thine forever,
And should I fainting be,
Lord, let me never, never,
Outlive my love to thee.

Be near me when I'm dying,
O show thy cross to me;
And, for my succor flying,
Come, Lord, and set me free.
These eyes, new faith receiving,
From Jesus shall not move;
For he who dies believing,
Dies safely, through thy love.

St. Bernard, a twelfth century monk whose name is usually associated with the monastery of Clairvaux, which he founded and made famous, wrote this beautiful hymn in its original Latin form.

It was translated into German five centuries later by the Rev. Paul Gerhardt, a Lutheran clergyman who for some years was one of Germany's best-known hymnists. Later, a Presbyterian churchman in our own land, the Rev. James W. Alexander, gave us the familiar English version which appears above.

The English verses must have been written while the Rev. Mr. Alexander was attending Princeton College, or soon after his graduation, for he was only 26 when they made their first public appearance in 1830 in "The Christian Lyre," a magazine published in New York by Josiah Leavitt. A little later it bobbed up again in a booklet entitled "Christ In Song," compiled by Dr. Philip Schaff. In a preface which he wrote for the hymn, Dr. Schaff said:

"This classical hymn has shown an imperishable vitality in passing from the Latin into the German and from the German into the English and proclaiming in three tongues and in the name of three confessions — the Catholic, the Lutheran, and the Reformed —with equal effect, the dying love of our Saviour and the boundless indebtedness to Him."

St. Bernard, who was born at Fontaine in Burgundy, France, in 1091, was a prominent theologian and poet. He died in 1153.

U.S. Wants Jap Treaty Signed This Summer

Washington, July 7 — (AP) — The proposed text of a Japanese peace treaty reached the final crossing stage Friday in the wake of reports that the United States is determined to see it signed this summer.

The State Department began distributing a revised draft to 19 other countries which fought Japan in the Pacific war. All but one — the Soviet Union — have indicated they are ready to accept it. Only minor changes in wording are expected.

If, as is expected, Russia refuses to sign, the announced plan of the other countries is to go ahead without delay.

Informed officials here said yesterday that the United States is determined to get a final settlement this summer regardless of the outcome of cease-fire talks in Korea.

However, the Japanese treaty won't go into effect until ratified, and for the United States, ratification may be delayed until after the next session of Congress opens in January.

Two separate pacts, expected to be signed at the same time, are about ready. One is a treaty with Tokyo authorizing the United States to retain troops in and near Japan. The other is a three-power security arrangement among the U. S., Australia and New Zealand was sent to enforce this regulation, and another Piedmontese Easter took place. For not only after Interpretation by Switzerland that the survivors were allowed to immigrate, but most of them went to Germany.

Italians at Heart

These people were still Italian at heart, and became so homesick for their native land that they resolved to return. About one thousand of them gathered on the shores of the Lake of Geneva, and went across in boats to the Italian shore. Although they were again attacked they managed to hold out, and later were welcomed by the Duke of Savoy in his war against France. The Waldesians responded by giving him faithfully in his armies.

In 1643 the Waldesians were granted freedom of worship, as well as freedom of movement, and were able to establish churches in all the main cities of Italy. They have now about a hundred churches throughout the country and as many Sunday schools. They maintain their own college and have founded a theological college at Naples. They also entered social work and maintain five orphanages and three hospitals. Besides the 50,000 members in Italy, they have over 25,000 in Uruguay and have established churches in such places as Zurich, New York and Chicago.

Services Alike

I was able to attend their services in several cities and found them remarkably like our own. The order of service is parallel to our own; they use the same hymns sung to the same tunes. Services are well attended, and I found a pride in their church that is sometimes lacking in other countries. With such a history behind them, the Waldesians, with their motto "The light shineth in darkness," well realize what it is to adhere to their Christian faith.

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

THE WALDESIANS
(Article 27)

St. Gallen, Switzerland — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — When Martin Luther nailed his ninety-five propositions to the church door in Wittenberg, Germany, the Protestant Reformation began in earnest. The movement was not entirely spontaneous, however, as in various parts of Europe, forerunners had been preparing the way, and many of them had suffered, died, for their beliefs before Luther's time. This is most evident in northern Europe, for one has only to read German literature from the 15th century on, to realize that a new interpretation of Christianity was on the way. Perhaps the best known martyrs of pre-Lutheran days is John Huss, who was burned at the stake for refusing to recant.

Three hundred and fifty years before Luther, Peter Waldus of Lyons, France, translated part of the Bible into the vernacular, and went about preaching to the people of northern France, his teaching was similar, in all its essential aspects, to the later Protestant beliefs.

Flight Into Italy

Originally he had been a rich merchant, but, following the teaching of Jesus, he gave all he had to the poor, and travelled the countryside. He was forbidden to continue by the Archbishop of Lyons. After a futile appeal to the Pope, he and most of his followers fled to Italy. Those who remained were persecuted along with the more radical Albigenses. Those who managed to escape followed Peter Waldus into the Alps where they founded the Waldesian Church.

Today, seven centuries later, this church still exists, and its members constitute about half of the 100,000 Protestants living in Italy today.

Although this church still exists, it is only because of the tenacity with which they clung to their beliefs. At first they were only a very small group, and remained in the valleys of the Alps, where they lived with comparative freedom. Whenever attacked, they retired farther into the mountains, and managed to escape without too great losses.

Contacted the Swiss

At the time of the Reformation, the Waldesians made contact with the Swiss Protestants and from the meetings which took place, a Confession of Faith was drawn up, and a new translation of the Bible was arranged. It was also during these times that their teachings spread to other parts of Italy, and at Turin a large community was established.

This period of expansion was soon brought to a halt when the Duke of Savoy forbid them to assemble for worship. This was backed up by military force, but they resisted so strongly that a truce was arranged in 1561 at Cavour, which granted them a certain amount of liberty. This treaty, although often broken, remained for three centuries, the legal basis of the church.

In 1630 a plague swept the valleys, and all the ministers but two fell victim to it. However, Huguenots from France and Switzerland came and took over until the settlement were able to regain their former strength.

Persecution Recommenced

Soon afterwards the Duke of Savoy decided to commence persecutions once more. An army of 16,000 men entered the valleys, promising not to do any harm to the population. But suddenly, one morning, the soldiers fell upon the inhabitants and slaughtered over 4,000 of them. A few were able to escape, and took shelter in the mountains.

The news of the crime, known as "Piedmontese Easter," raised the indignation and horror of all Protestant countries. Oliver Cromwell proclaimed a day of fast on behalf of the Waldesians and collected a large amount of money for their relief. He also took the Duke of Savoy to task for it, and John Milton, who was his secretary at the time, wrote on this occasion, his well known sonnet, "Avenge, O Lord, Thy Slaughtered Saints."

When Louis XIV of France revoked the Edict of Nantes, which in fact, forbid the Protestant religion in France, a similar decree was proclaimed against the Waldesians. Again an armed force

THE CEASE-FIRE

As you read these words it is Sunday in Korea. One year and two weeks after the communist invasion of South Korea, the warring sides are sitting down to discuss negotiations for a cease-fire. For Christians, Sunday is the ideal day for negotiating a peace; but for the communists it is just another day in the week. The difference is prophetic. It not only highlights the basic differences between two ideologies, but it looms as a real warning of the danger in any negotiations which may take place.

Athletic communism cannot be reconciled with Christianity. Its basically materialistic theology is contrary to all that Christianity stands for, and its determination to rule unopposed has produced the present Korean conflict. Korea is but one phase of a communist plan for world domination. It has attempted again to gain control of lesser nations by armed might. Unlike its other conflicts, the Korean war has ended in failure.

Indeed, only the United Nations, and the men of their record since 1917 has proven. The loss of a million lives, more or less, while a slaughter from our point of view, is as nothing in their over-all scheme. They have sacrified millions of their own countrymen for less. And they will again.

Trust in the good will of both parties entering into any agreement is the first requisite of success or there can be no contract. While the United Nations has made mistakes, no doubt about their goodwill can be entertained. The same cannot be said for the communists. Terror and violence have marked their seizure of power in eastern European countries. Their treachery and double-dealing is manifest in the fact of communists in the United States who were plotting the overthrow of the government of that country by violence. Canada had traitors in the midst of her atomic projects whose work was the betrayal of secrets to the communist state. Innocent clerics of many faiths have suffered martyrdom in Europe and red China for their steadfast adherence to Christian principles. Newspapermen are not exempt from communist infamy.

Indeed, only the United Nations has made an "enemies of the state" when the state is communistic. And they have no choice because communism has drawn the lines, and is playing with her own set of rules.

It is thus with a great deal of foreboding that United Nations leaders regard today's talks in Korea. For while our side was suffering severely in the first few months of battle, outnumbered and outgunned by superior forces from North Korea and red China, attempts at a peaceful settlement in Korea were noticeable by their absence. Today, with the balance of power shifted to a rugged United Nations army from twelve countries, and with trouble increasing on the Chinese mainland, the communists would like nothing better than to call off an expensive campaign with a face-saving cease-fire, while they transferred their grisly police forces to the maintenance of slavery in China.

The Korean war cannot be ended with that same lie to double. The communists must be beaten, and a united Korea formed with sufficient protection against further aggression. To do less would be dishonor to the gallant men who have already died for a certain settlement. A peace is greatly to be desired. But an uncertain armistice would be more disastrous than a continuation of the fighting.

The United Nations, as it embarks on a settlement of the Korean war, must have absolute guarantee from the communists that their aggression in that quarter of the world is ended. Experience has taught us that nothing else is practical. It is not up to the United Nations to make concessions to the communists this time. They have already paid the price of a satisfactory settlement. How the communists can guarantee Korean security is the problem facing us now. And their record is against them. Their word or pledge is no longer good enough.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

The personnel of the Belleville fire department, in view of the fine job they did in controlling the downtown fire at the first of this week, deserve credit from store owners and citizens alike. The blaze might easily have assumed greater proportions, and although the damage was not slight by any stretch of the imagination, it might have been much worse.

Firemen everywhere are often the butt of unkind jokes. They are accused of being checker players and equipment shiners, but not workers. It is only when a city suffers a bad fire, such as Belleville did this past week, that their true worth is apparent. They take their lives in their hands every time they move from the fire station, and too much credit can never be extended to them for their work.

MUST BOOST POPULATION

"For every acre of arable land cultivated in Canada, there are five acres that are capable of cultivation," declares Hon. William Griesinger, Ontario Development Minister. Wars have been caused for much less than that and, looking to the future, Canada must surely increase population. — (St. Catharines Standard.)

TOMORROW

A man who had just returned from a trip to Alaska was telling recently how he spoke of the airplane said to him, "Would you like to take a flight into tomorrow?" He meant, of course, "Let's fly across the International Date Line."

Many of us fall into lazy habits of day dreaming, that unprofitable and frivolous practice of living back into yesterday. Some people have carried grudges for a half century. Some people are so jealous of certain of their acquaintances that whatever souls they had to start with have been burned into a cinder. The person who can always remember yesterday's slight, who interprets this statement or that as a slap at him personally, is indulging in the sensuous and unprofitable practice of flying back into yesterday.

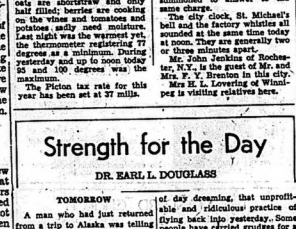
Let's fly forward tomorrow. This, too, can become fantasy if we allow it to become so. But it can also be a thing of hope, of anticipation, of the renewing of our faith.

There is a tomorrow. If we are growing as God intends we should it should be better than today. Let us forget the past. Let us take a flight into tomorrow. Forgetting the things that are behind, let us press forward—as did St. Paul—into the things that are before. . .

BULLET IN BRAIN

Port Dover, July 6 — (CP) — George Gollan, 19-year-old shooting victim, died here Thursday night held a .22-calibre rifle with the barrel pointed at his head and invited nine boys touring the resorts boardwalk to pull the trigger.

At first, the boys, although apparently believing the rifle to be unloaded, refused. Then, police said, a 13-year-old Hamilton boy stepped forward and pressed the trigger. The rifle discharged. Gollan, a resident of River St. John, N.B., who started here a three weeks ago, fell to the ground with a blast in his brain. He died in hospital 3½ hours later.



England--Then and Now

By Fred Hart

(Article 14)

On the bus we conversed with a charming chap — a typical specimen of the average English schoolboy. He was extremely intelligent and cheerful although we noted that his right arm was in a sling and his face, too. He told us he was born in the village and we gathered that he really loved the old place, but he went on to tell us that his one ambition was to enter the Forestry Service. As we found ourselves wondering about that poor right arm of his. He told us that he was in the Scouts and that the open spaces appealed to him, how he and his chum had trapped the old rabbit, cleaned, cooked and eaten it, and he went on that nothing exciting ever happened in Nettlebed, except once a year when the Scouts held their rally, the high-light being a pram race.

Each contestant dresses up in old or funny costume, each wheels a pram (in which is a grown chap or girl dressed as a baby, bottle and all. These pairs start from the Manor House, then gallop as fast as possible to the first inn, "The White Hart," where "mum" and "baby" must drink a half-pint of ale. Then they race to the next change inn and the dose is duplicated. On to the village club where another half-pint is drunk, and to the Bull where a final draft is swallowed, then it is a mad gallop back to the Manor House. The first couple back wins the prize. Where "mum" and "baby" must drink a lot of fun in a race such as this is the fact that the course as the event has been going on for many years. We left this bright young chap at the bus terminal, with a hearty shake of the hand, sure that he was going to be successful in his chosen job and the tragedy of it — he with his left hand.

Good Day in Oxford

Yes, it was a good day up in the Cotswolds, probably the best in rural England at its best. The day following we went along to the Witney and Eton and Runnymede. We were quite fortunate to have with us a very charming girl, our niece, who was stationed at Windsor during the war years, and therefore very conversant with the district. It was another beautiful day, the sun was very bright and early. We passed through Beerwood, home of "Tom Brown of the Times" — "the Thunderer." Many Canadians were hospitalized there during the 1914-1918. war. Melville Clarke of Belleville Customs and Excise was stationed there at one time here for he has mentioned the place many times in casual conversation. And on through Wokingham and Bracknell and Ascot, famous for its race. It has a setting all its own for it stands on the high ground and can be seen from miles away. Then we designate the rise as a natural hill. We made straight for St. Michael's Chapel in the courtyard of the Knights of the Garter.

Here we had our first sight of it with an official guide with a very small group. Many of the kings and queens of England lie in the vault or the chapel, with the notable exception of the seven Tudors who lie in state at Fromore, in a mausoleum within view of the castle. Among those in the vault or tombs noted in the chapel. King George V., his wife Queen Mary — and be it noted, her effigy is already on display. But the children at the feet of all British sovereigns, is not in evidence on the tomb to the first wife of King Queen Alexandra, instead, his dog Caesar takes the place of the lion. The magnificent carving in the chancel and the stalls cannot be adequately described. The scenery of the knights hang over their respective stalls. It is understood that on the death of a knight his banner is removed within 40 hours of his decease.

Another Masterpiece.

The chapel of the Duke of Clarence is another masterpiece. The wrought iron gates with intricate effect is a grand example of the artistry of the old workmen centuries ago. They are as lace in design and execution. Then we went up into the main tower from whose battlements can be viewed a stretch of country which is truly England. The Thames — winding like a silver ribbon through the lush and green countryside — Eton College, and the famous playing fields — all lovely and inviting. James Agate said in song. The gardens in the castle grounds are well kept and beautiful, everything in order, neat and tidy and very clean. We noted, too, that nobody smoked, although we saw no sign prohibiting it.

We went up on to the Bread Walk which is the very place to view the playing fields — the real beauty for it seemed to us, looking down from the Bread Walk or Horse, as if the castle was on a cloud for the effect was quite startling. And then we came to Eton, which King Edward the Sixth founded in 1440, where boys that date the most famous of England's sons have had their early education, and military training as Empire builders and soldiers. We sat in the old cloisters and gazed at the old desks and penned these notes in the rough. Many of the desks are covered with names of initials and names hacked upon them. The holes to put the inkwells in are still there but were cut at will by boys in the long ago. And the wicked boys of Eton, who was named in his time as the "Bad Boy of Eton," Lord Mayo. And there is the birching block, still for one to see. Yes, this old Eton is a place where one can just whispers for the atmosphere breathes wisdom.

Playing Fields of Eton

We walked across the "Playing Fields of Eton" where someone had said "The battles of British Empire are won." And the ministers of England were educated in Eton, and the Marshall and field brothers of America were also in residence. And Captain Scott of the South Pole Expedition, he was a boy at Eton. He was the one who left the camp in the wastes on the Antarctic to conserve food and supplies for his brother adventurers. He was a brave fellow who went out with the words, "I may be some time." He never returned. During the last war 500-pound bombs were dropped in the countryside where 70 boys were in residence and not one boy was injured for the thick old walls took the shock and are still standing practically unscathed. The chapel is at 7.15 and ends at 6.30 p.m., somewhat different from the hour for study in the average school in Canada and elsewhere. We stopped in the countryside the junior boys sit on forms during Divine Service, and the seniors in their pews face the forms. There can be seen deep grooves in the woodwork where the toes of their boots have worn through the years. And then the river Thames — as beautiful as a picture — as lovely as only the Valley of the Thames can show.

Personal Health Talks

ALL THE QUACKS IN THE CLINICS

A correspondent purporting to be a physician (his name is not listed in the 1943 blue book) writes:

Dear Dr. Brady:

I am one of the medical specialists whose honesty and competence you question in your column of Feb. 17, '51.

I am sure there are medical "clinics" in the country which are made up of quacks. However, you include all doctors in a pay clinic in this category and say you are prepared to substantiate this statement "if any physician of standing questions it."

I question it, and would be pleased to see your substantiation.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) ——

No, no, Doctor, if you will calm yourself and re-read the article again you'll find I said this:

". . . The doctor or doctors who hold forth as a 'clinic' on a fee and do get away with many tricks which are just too dishonest or discreditable for a doctor who practises under his own name . . ."

I took pains to except "bona fide institutions where medical care is given the indigent at the expense of a charitable organization," the examples I gave.

The very meaning of the word "clinic" has been perverted by the ethical quacks in the past few decades. The term clinic formerly signified a place where students are learned in the professionals and treatment by teachers and graduates of higher learning in the presence of the students.

But American quackery—has put that to shame. Today a "bona fide clinic" is associated in the popular mind with a place where certified outfit primarily, or if the customers can't afford to be treated in a clinic, then one was named in his time as the "Bad Boy of Eton," Lord Mayo. And there is the birching block, still for one to see. Yes, this old Eton is a place where one just whispers for the atmosphere breathes wisdom.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LITTLE THINGS

We are apt to place small importance upon little things, but little things are children of the big things. Little things grow up. I thought of this a few days ago when in Michigan I looked out upon the vast plant of the Ford Motor Company and recalled a visit there when Mr. Henry Ford showed my his tiny invention of an automobile that was later to revolutionize automobile production.

There is no study so interesting and inspiring as to read of the little things that have become big things. The first $ and 10 cent store in upper New York was a failure but the idea, though concerning little things, later became a national institution.

Elbert Hubbard once wrote a simple line that had a great deal of meaning to it. He said: "Do the best you can and be kind." And his suggestion could be universally followed out, there wouldn't be so many unhappy people in the world. Little kindnesses, and deeds inspired by thoughtfulness do so much to put a pleasant and happy cast upon the face of the world.

Under the microscope little things are so revealed that their importance has led to many a discovery that has meant much to the world. It is millions, and the saving of so any lives as well. Dangerous germs are taught to like to hide. The piccolo is a small instrument, but, in an orchestra, it is the one that is the wrong key it is instantly noted by the watchful conductor.

That famous sentence "Trifles make perfection, but perfection is a trifle" is inspiring as it can well give long thought to. It's the little beginnings, gradually summed, that later blossom out in great manufacturing plants, great business blocks, and world-wide commerce. Small beginnings have always been the key to later greatness.

We cannot afford to neglect the little things. Big men were nourished by them in their youth, but never do they forget to recognize their value throughout life.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is pitiful to see some of the prosperous areas becoming so built up and subdivided as to amount to nothing more than city suburbs. The first consequence is that sylvan retreats had in mind the average purchaser of a home in most summer resorts are now probably nolster than any comfortable area of the city proper.

Every summer resort boasts its aristocracy, and it is usually better back when there weren't more than ten cabins on the lake, most of them out of sight and sound of each other, around which the boys played and fished. The chief enjoyment of these old-timers is in the bewilding the—intrusion of strangers, who want to take-over the place to death.

One of my friends is a born trouble-maker. We were driving through a well-known summer resort region last summer when we saw a comfortable old cottage, obviously of long standing, and doubtless belonging to one of those summer resort aristocrats. It was surrounded by a modern wire fence. On the gate was a sign reading, "Keep Out." A little farther along with another sign, reading, "Keep Off." A mile from near the one end of the property was nailed a board, "Private Property." And on the other end on another tree, "Private Property."

My friend bade me halt the car. He got out, walked back to the gate and opened it. No dog assailed him. He strode up to the cottage door and finding it unlocked, entered. An indignant citizen opened to him.

"I just wanted you to know," said my friend, loudly, "that under no circumstances would I exchange your premises for a mortality will keep out! Nothing in the world would induce me to visit such a place as this."

And we whirled and marched down and back to the car, leaving an utterly speechless aristocrat slowly closing his door.

Glen Roy Club Overcomes Early Lead of Painters

A four-run fifth inning was all Glen Roy Athletic Club needed to overcome an early Ramsay Paint lead as they went on with a late drive to down the Painters 10-8 in a scheduled Commercial League A game at the Alemite Field.

Errors highlighted the game with both teams scoring unearned runs. Don Boyle's long fly to left field, which Ed Donovan dropped for two runs in the fifth inning was the most costly as it put Glen Roy out of reach of the Painters who had struck from behind in the third inning to take a 3-2 lead. Donovan's subsequent strike to the plate to nail Doug Sword, who was trying to come in from first, was too late to shut off the big inning.

Desperation base running by Glen Roy in the sixth and seventh innings added three more tallies to wipe out a three run inning by Ramsays in the seventh.

Four singles in the second inning were good for two runs as Glen Roy opened the scoring. Ramsays came back with five singles in the top of the third as they pounded Don Boyle with the heaviest single inning assault this season, to score three runs. They held the lead until the fifth, when Glen Roy counted four times. The Glen used two singles, a fielder's choice and a double to net two more runs in the sixth.

Swarm to Attack

Ramsays swarmed to the attack in the seventh taking advantage of two errors and Glen Young's triple to score three runs. With a man in, and Carl Wood on third, Scanlan who walked, stole second. Wood slid in from third to beat the relay back from Ed and Scanlan promptly stole third for the first triple steal play in the league this year. It wasn't enough however and Scanlan, died at third on a fly to short left field and an infield out.

Don Boyle started on the hill for Glen Roy and was relieved by Bob Hunter in the sixth. Boyle walked one, struck out nine and gave up six hits for three runs. Hunter went the rest of the way in relief, walking one, striking out one, and surrendering two hits for three runs.

Trenton Young took the loss for Ramsays in a route going job in which he walked six, struck out one, and gave up 18 hits.

Corner Shots

There was no activity on the soccer front this week-end as last weekend was a holiday weekend no Eastern Ontario Soccer League games were scheduled. In the Bay of Quinte loop last Wednesday's game at 6 R.D. between the repainters and Belleville AN'AF Veterans was rained out and the game on Thursday was postponed owing to the Picton grounds being under water.

This afternoon will see only one of the local entries in the Eastern Ontario League in action. In this game 6 R.D. are at home to Brockville and will doubtless try to win back the two points lost earlier in the season to the Brockville club. Batawa are on vacation and Belleville have a free afternoon.

In the other two games scheduled Peterboro UEW play host to Viney Signals of Kingston, and O'Hallorn's visit Kingston United.

In the Bay of Quinte loop three games are called for next week. On Monday evening Belleville Vets and Picton Legion will clash one of their previously postponed games at Beaver Park. The kick-off has been slated for 7.30 p.m. This will be the first showing of the newly formed Picton club in the city and should prove a good attraction. These two teams are currently leading the league.

On Tuesday evening Trenton Merchants visit the airport to take on 6 R.D. and on Wednesday evening the Vets and Picton play a return engagement in Picton.

Arrangements are going forward for the exhibition tilt between a combined Picton-Consecon-Trenton Merchants team and the team of Toronto Referees' Association, called for July 31st, at Picton. Eric Belyea of Trenton, a member of the Bay of Quinte Football Association, continues to be been appointed chairman of the Royal Couple Asked to Visit United States

Camp Pickett, Va., July 7 — (AP) — Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip have a definite invitation to visit the United States in Baltimore.

Brig.-Gen. William C. Purnell, president of the St. George's Society of Baltimore, said last night he had sent the invitation through Prime Minister St. Laurent. The general is on national guard summer training manoeuvres here.

The Royal Couple are to tour Canada in October.

After that, a responsible London source said, they would visit the United States — if they were invited.

The St. George's Society is an old and distinguished group of Englishmen and Americans of English descent.

Tennis Notes

Very little tennis was played this week due to adverse climatic conditions. The Quinte Club, which has clay courts, really took a beating with the rain on Wednesday. As the Bata Shoe Company commenced their vacation last weekend their players will not be seen in league play for the next two weeks.

In the senior division of the league next week, two games are scheduled. Tomorrow afternoon Trenton will be performing at the Quinte Club courts and on Tuesday evening Point Anne pay a visit to Trenton. The Trenton club have quite a substantial lead in the league up to now.

Trenton and Batawa have each played six times while Quinte and Point Anne have only had five matches, Trenton leads the league with 20 points followed by Quinte with 13, Batawa 11 and Trenton 10.

In the Intermediate loop, Halloway took the points from Trenton on Tuesday evening, but the other game between Quinte and Point Anne was rained out.

This week sees Holloway street visiting St. Andrew's Church club on Tuesday evening and on Thursday evening Quinte travel to Trenton.

There is still no further word from Toronto on the forthcoming junior tournament which will be run in the district shortly. This tournament as announced last week, will be open to any junior in the district who was under 18 on the first of January 1951. There will be an opportunity for the winners to compete in the Ontario junior championships in Toronto and then possibly the Dominion championships to be held at the Rideau Club in Ottawa.

N.E. Ladies Lose To Kingston By 10-5 Score

Belleville Northern Electric ladies softball team paid a return visit to Kingston Provincial Tire on Friday night and suffered a 10-5 setback.

According to all reports, the Northerns outplayed their opposition in all but one inning, the fateful fourth, when Provincial Tire scored nine of their ten runs. The loss was the second in a row for the local team and gave the Kingston misses a clean sweep of the two-game series.

Sally Twigg, latest acquisition to Northern's pitching staff, started on the mound and hurled three innings of hitless ball. In the fourth however, she weakened, not having the benefit of much practice, and the opposition gang-ed up on her for nine runs on six hits, a pair of walks and a couple of errors.

She was relieved by Ann McGrath who held off Provincial Tire with a single tally in the sixth.

Northerns scored a brace of markers in the first, one in the third and their final duo in the seventh inning.

Dorothy Taylor led the hitting attack with three in four attempts while Hinds also got a pair. Sullivan was the only Kingston player to get more than one safety, coming up with three safe blows.

Two UN 'Copters On First Stage Of Their Flight

Seoul, Korea, July 7—(Reuters)—Two United Nations helicopters left Seoul tonight for a point just south of the Imjin River, the first stage in their flight to the preliminary cease-fire talks at Kaesong tomorrow.

Weather permitting, they will pick up Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's delegates at the forward base tomorrow and take them on the last 50 miles to historic meeting with the communist emissaries. If the weather is bad, the representatives will go by road.

The huge H-19 Sikorsky helicopter which can carry five passengers, joined a smaller H-5 already hovering above the airfield and the pair wheeled away to the north.

A minor fault in the Sikorsky's engine had delayed the start for an hour.

Fort Erie, July 7 — (CP) The Canadian National Railways will help clear the weeds from banks abutting the International railway bridge over the Niagara River. The line advised town officials yesterday that it is prepared to co-operate with the town in the beautification job.

APPROVE TRADE PACT

Berlin, July 7 — (AP) — Western Germany and the Soviet zone last night approved a $100,000,000 trade agreement. They left it to the four occupying powers to work out a guarantee for unhampered movement of goods between the Russian zone.

The new agreement means that east-west trade probably will be resumed shortly authoritative sources said. The old trade pact expired Tuesday, halting the daily exchange of $250,000 worth of goods between the western and eastern zones.

Tunisia and Algeria

By Lavonia Stockelback

Editor's Note: Mrs. Stockleback continues her interesting description of Arabian family and religious life in the article which follows.

Algiers, Algeria — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — Another memory will stay with us when Roman ruins, cathedrals and castles will have faded.

On the way from Bau Saada to Algiers, as we approached Algiers, I noticed a field of beautiful flowers and stopped to enjoy them. There were masses of the most gorgeous blooms of every description, though none of them recognizable to me. In two minutes the chauffeur had gathered a huge bouquet. It was overwhelming but the odors of some flowers were not all of them pleasant.

Some distance away I saw a couple who had apparently driven out from Aumale in a light dog cart painted black and yellow. The horse was freed and was nearby. It is a section noted for its fine horses and mules, as I was to learn.

A bright rug had been placed on the grass and the couple settled in the shade, immediately upright. One could tell by her erect figure that she was young. No costume has been devised yet that could hide a woman's age.

Choice Selection

Husband was picking a bouquet for her, not grabbing them by the armful, but choosing each one and looked down, considered them, and chose the one he thought most worthy of his lady fair, then he and so unhurriedly gathered what must have been the most perfect bouquet in all North Africa. Whenever, in later years, dull moments come, the memory of that scene will change them to brightness.

Another lasting memory will be a visit to the White Sisters of the order of Blidah. We were led to them was a hospital clinic at the gate of which a motherless woman squatted, awaiting their turn inside.

Primitive? Yes, but better than they had ever known. The sister who greeted me by the door walk was beautiful, her spirituality enhanced by the spotless white habit of her order. Nevertheless her dainty white hands were digging into the soil as she taught a little girl to plant and weed.

Class Work Observed

Inside, where I had come to watch the teaching of Mohammedan girls I was greeted by a plump and rosy sister who had come from Quebec. Two rows in the room were hung with rugs in the making and, on benches in front of them, the youngsters were working with nimble fingers. Their tongues were working quite as fast. Never had I seen jollity and real work so happily combined. One was chosen to teach me the tied stitch and given time for practice. I am quite sure I could make three of the stitches to her ten.

In buying a mat the sister gave me strands of the yarn of which it was made.

In the north mountains a Scottish missionary was wisely teaching the knitting of wool jersey so much needed on those cold hills. All praise to the women and the missionaries.

In thinking of their patient work one wonders how much of it is undone by the manners, or lack of manners of some tourists.

Rude Visitor

Coming from Rome to Tunis there was on the plane a young woman, not clean, neatly dressed in sun suit clothes, and chewing gum. I carefully avoided her in Palermo, Sicily, and in Tunis and again when we came down on the way between Tunis and Algiers, for she was still unwashed, unscathed and still chewing gum. Then she turned up in a party visiting the Casbah here in Algiers. She could not understand the Arabs' dislike for the best to put it in English for her. She was rude. When it came time to give him his fee, she gave him some worthless Italian coins explaining that she had only one cent money for her night in Algiers although she had a big parcel that she had just bought. She could not make out the directions for the train so I offered to take her in my car.

She explained she found Russian music easier than French or Arab children. The French they were said have a good education that will lead to a greater understanding and perhaps friendship between the conqueror and the conquered. They are meeting the same difficulty as in many other countries. That is, a lack of interest.

Here the situation is worse for they are handicapped not only by a thorough knowledge of both French and not only Arabic but their own, the many dialects. Their teachers are rare and would cost more money than most states care to pay.

Higher Salaries Suggested

It is a pity that states cannot be brought to realize the importance of education for the masses so that they can develop in every possible way. Let us suggest one humbly suggest doubling the present salaries.

Let us also urge to share with others what you have learned in a right direction. Not to be proud but it does not pay for house, heat, food and clothes. A country's progress is the honor in itself by the teaching of book-learning, handicrafts, trade and commerce.

In the devastated cathedral in Coventry there are plaques fastened to the rifled walls asking God's blessing on all of these churches. "Hallow Even" Name in Commerce — God be at my desk and in my business." "Hallowed be Thy Name in Education — God be in my mind and in my growing." is also displayed. Also carved in the stone back of where the altar was are the two words, "Father forgive."

Education Based on Koran

And in the Moslem teaching it is difficult to separate the teaching as we know it from the religion for so much is based on the study of their Bible, the Koran. Every phase of life is governed to Mohammed about the year 600 of our era. Rules and regulations of conversations and sayings. It gives minute rules and regulations for the details of daily life and the most complicated points of law.

Each man is his own priest, as all believers are equal, and can put themselves into direct communication with God. It was difficult for me to understand the difference between a preacher and their monitors who explain the more confusing points. But there are no preachers with paid salaries. The upkeep of the churches and mosques is paid by a tax levied on each family and called 'purification of one's wealth.'

There are among others, regulations about bathing before prayer. The body must be washed and hands and arms up to the elbows.

At the mosque in Algiers open to the Christians, even to women, you do not even have to take off your shoes if you are careful not to step on the rugs. I watched with interest the ablutions at the fountain in the walled court in the entrance. Water was splashed generously with a dipper on arms and feet and the face dipped in and water with much noisy splashing. It was a hot, sunny day, dusty and I should like to have done the same except for my great distaste for risks, and the unsettled state of affairs in North Africa one is very cautious.

Thoughts for Mothers

What I should like to have done even more, having just come from the smelly native quarters with its tired-looking women (a pedigree after the droop of their shoulders) and its tireless myriads of dirty children, would be to have these mothers free to come to this cool white mosque to bathe and sit in peace and quiet for a few minutes. But that is not yet to be. And one sadly remembers that in the C.N.E. Aquatic we have no such Christian basilica.

After the bathing, some of the men sat in the outer court open to the . . . on the mats, and read the Koran. Others entered the mosque and bent their white foreheads to the floor and either meditated or read. One man, all huddled up in clean white burnous and with a beautiful coverlet on his head, had rolled up himself out full length on the floor over in a corner. Very early I guessed that he was neither meditating nor praying, but was sound asleep in the House of God. But this mosque as in some others, was an ancient pre-Islamic chair dating from the year 1,000.

For lack of comparison with our own Christian faith it is right to understand the duties of the cadi, who is influential both as magistrate and explaining the higher points of doctrine, and the higher-up muftis who decide on the points of law and of beliefs. This is the highest religious office in Algeria. Their duties are in the street just outside the mosque.

Where and how they get their religious training I did not learn but they are said to have an active belief in sorcerers, in the evil eye, fortune tellers and other superstitions. How could it be

Fashion Flashes

NEAT AND CLOSE to the head is the line taken by nice little travel hats now in the shops and the smart heads. Fallie ribbon, done in layers, makes a magnificent and exciting hat with crisp chicken-wire veiling placed at the edge, visor fashion. Bandeau frame clips are used at either side.

WHILE IN FLIGHT, a crease-resistant linen suit, of smart Continental Cartagehal linen, in a delicate coral color, makes a charming outfit. A narrow collar and lapels into curved tabs that are buttoned down with coral and contrasting buttons. Similar buttons fasten the slim jacket, which has pockets on the rounded hips.

TWO-FACED fabrics again appear on many garments being readied for next season. Charcoal gray on one side and navy blue on the other is the plot of glove two-faced woollen coat. The soft, rippled collar, the oversized mitten revers, and the insets behind the notched cuffs and hinge pocketed pockets all show the pastel plaid.

SUMPTUOUS fur coats are on their way for the traditional summer sale. Grey Persian lamb makes a handsome coat cut on princess lines, with the pointed petal hemline, broad cuffs, arm bands and border of the matching stole all of silver blue mink.

SISTERS ALL

WINNERS WANTED

In the women's prize list for the Canadian National Exhibition this year, there are four new competitions which look as though they would attract people who will be attending the big Fair from far and near, as well as those who live near Toronto . . . One of these contests takes the form of a back-to-glamour-in-the-kitchen movement. It is open to every woman who believes she has a novel idea for an outfit to work in. Women have been working in kitchens for centuries, yet it is strange that no one has yet improved on the cotton housedress which is a bug-bear to launder and most unsuitable for any kind of kneeling or crawling around.

The C.N.E. is giving women a chance this year to create a set of working clothes for the modern housewife which will prove suitable and practical in every way for housework. Prizes are $25, $25, $15 and $10. Contestants are to model their own creations at the C.N.E. August 24, 25.

For the men, there is a Dagwood Sandwich competition the night of August 28. All the ingredients will be provided by the C.N.E. The judging will depend on the speed of assembling the sandwich, the variety and combination of ingredients, and the eye appeal of the finished product. Prizes are $50, $40, $30 and $20.

Footnote to this Dagwood contest is the following, "Any competitor will be forced to eat his own sandwich." For our money, we will bet there will be many of those Dagwood sandwiches left to waste after the contest.

Can You Tie That?

Another competition called, "Your Tie and Personality," is listed as open to all men with a flair for tying ties. It is said that you can tell a man's personality by the tie he wears . . . Of course this "ain't necessarily so" if the man wears gift ties. Certainly men are notoriously restrained in their personal choice of ties, and individuality to be revealed at this contest where each man chooses his own tie from a wide selection supplied by the C.N.E.

Tie contestants are asked to "supply their own necks" only. They will be judged on suitability of the tie chosen, and the neatness of knot. Prizes are $25, $20, $15 and $10.

Any woman who could use an extra $100 in cold cash, can attend the Dressing cake contest competition. All she has to do is to bake a layer cake and decorate it for a christening ceremony. Sounds like one way of making a special cake for every need

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

No secrets from each other?—She was mistaken.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About five weeks ago, I met a very nice fellow whom I grew to like very much. He told me he felt the same towards me. He told me about all his other girls, and I told him about the fellows I had since left. We had no secrets from each other. That is, I thought we didn't.

Then two weeks ago, he went on a trip to another city, and when he came back, he told me he had been married while he was there. Ever since then, he has been longing and very remorseful. He still comes down to my house about every other night, and I try to act as though I don't care that he got married. I am sure people know that I do, though, because it is hard to hide the way I feel about him.

Please help me try to understand why he didn't tell me about the girl he married. I can't understand it.

G. R.

Dear G. R.:

If this chap went on his trip two weeks ago, and it is only five weeks since that you met him, that leaves only three weeks in which you knew him before this incident. I am afraid it is highly unlikely that, in those few short weeks, he told you everything about himself and kept no secrets from you.

It seems to me he has told you a very strange story. If he really was married while he was with you, why isn't he with his wife, and why does he continue to come to see you so constantly? .I may be all wrong, but my guess would be that he is in trouble with some girl out of town, and was either forced to marry her against his wishes, or has the jitters because he is afraid he will have to do so.

Whether he is actually married or not, however, I advise you to accept his statement that he is, and tell him that since this is the case, you obviously cannot have him coming to see you any more. He doesn't sound to me like a boy who will make a very reliable friend.

Experience says "no" to this proposition

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I love a boy very much and want to marry him and he wants to marry me. I know my mother would never consent to our marriage because she thinks we are too young. I am 18.

Please put yourself in my place and help me to decide whether to elope or wait to marry until I am a little older.

J. V.

Dear J.V.:

If I could put myself in your place, I would probably feel just as you do. But if I stay in my own place, as a much older and more experienced person, whose mail is filled with stories of unhappy girls who married too young and bitterly regretted it shortly afterwards, I can only advise you to do as you suggest yourself, and wait until you are older to consider marriage.

ROYAL COUPLE

Announcement that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will visit Canada this fall has created interest throughout the Dominion. The United Kingdom Information Office photo of the royal couple was taken as they watched the illumination of the Thames River during recent jubilee celebrations of the London County Council. (CP Photo).

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Not many people know the diameter of a prune.

But the bigger the diameter, the bigger the price. And when you make prune whip it doesn't matter whether the diameter is 28-32 inch or 42-32 inch.

Prune whip is a velvety, luscious dessert that can be made in a few minutes and at a comparatively small cost. It consists simply of strained prunes into which are folded beaten egg whites or whipped cream or both.

Strained prunes are now put up already prepared for a variety of prune whip dishes. Any other strained cooked fruit such as apricots or peaches may be used to make a fruit whip. But prunes because of their dark, fruity flavor are the best combination with whipped cream.

Try a prune whip spooned in big gobs over sliced sweetened fresh peaches. Be sure the peaches are ice cold and that the dessert is served in cold frosty dessert dishes.

Prune Whip and Peaches
Serves 6.

4 cups sliced fresh peaches
Granulated sugar
1 cup strained cooked prunes or prepared prune whip
2-3 cup heavy cream
1 egg white
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 teaspoon vanilla

Peel peaches. Cut into slices. Put in a bowl with 1-4 cup sugar. Mix well. Add more sugar if necessary. Let peaches remain in bowl in refrigerator at least one hour.

If whole cooked prunes are used remove pits and force pulp through sieve or food mill.

Beat cream until thick. Add 2 tablespoons sugar .Fold in prunes.

Beat egg white until stiff. Add salt. Add 2 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating until glossy. Fold egg white into prune mixture.

Add lemon juice, vanilla, and salt.

Put peaches into serving dishes. Spoon prunes whip over peaches.

Sliced canned peaches, apricot halves or sliced sweetened strawberries may be substituted for peaches if desired.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Redmen's late inning surge against Napanee last evening not only gave them a 6-4 win but gave them a 5-5 split on their first 16 games to boost them out of the clutches of the second division. The way they did it in the late innings after Napanee had erected a 4-0 lead that looked as though it might be insurmountable that possibly the Redmen are regaining their punch after an enforced layoff. Whether this is true, or whether it is just that the cellar-dwelling Napanees are unable to hold a lead will be proved one way or another tonight when the Redmen take on the Batawa Sheemen at the Fair Grounds. The Batawas are currently in third place in the league standings, if the Redmen want to climb they are going to have to beat the front runners and tonight is as good a time as any to start. A win tonight would leave them tied with the Sheemen for third place. With a full crew ready to go it should prove to be an interesting struggle.

The fresh water saga, reported at such length in this pillar last Thursday, had the "Dorian", "Windrift", and "Astra" as the only boats finishing the race. They came in in that order. However, there was two boats in the race called "Windrift". George Graham, whose 30 footer was known as "Windrift" before Jack Sills' boat was built and christened "Windrift", was a boat without a name last Wednesday. Two racers with the same name in the same race is rather confusing so Mr. Graham was sailing in a nameless craft. And it was this nameless craft, formerly known as "Windrift" that came in second a few minutes behind the "Dorian". Jack Sills and his "Windrift" came in under power. Our heart-felt apologies The harassed Mr. Graham, who has had to explain all this at some length to several heavy jokers who complimented him on his sailing and asked him to explain, finished fifth. Gentlemen he did finish second at that. Two weeks from tomorrow the racers go at it again on the same course, with the "Windrift" Actual, and the "Windrift" Nameless, included in the entries. Good luck to you both.

How come the submerged base of the old lighthouse in the harbor is not decked with a warning flag or a buoy? Several American boats refueling at the sea cadet base have headed out for the bar ledge taking a shortcut that leads right over the old lighthouse. The Department of Lands and Forests office in Tweed publish a bulletin every few weeks containing news of the district, conservation hints, and items of interest to the armchair specialist in the great outdoors. In their latest release they talk about the commercial possibilities of the average woodlot, a subject that should be of interest to many of our rural readers. It is not a new idea but one which needs an airing. Too often good ideas are wasted simply because insufficient information and guidance are available. If you are interested keep reading and let the Department of Lands and Forests tll you all about it.

Is Your Woodlot a Money-Maker? "Far from it" say a lot of folks; others never gave it much thought and a few more enjoy pricing farmers without happily when asked if the woodlot pays.

Knowing how to manage the farm woodlot to take care of all the local domestic needs, and yield a nice return besides, isn't a particularly easy job. At the same time it isn't a very difficult one either if you go at it the right way, benefit by some free advice and expend a little extra effort. The results in a few years will surpsise you.

First of all say the Department's foresters and successful woodlot owners, you have to consider the trees as a crop, — to be protected, harvested when ripe, and replaced for the next return. You have to know how to keep the woodlot fully stocked with the right kind of trees, how to improve it by selective cutting and how and when to remove the saleable material. Like any other business, proper marketing of what you produce means profits.

Not all owners by any means, realize that the extension service offered by the Department of Lands and Forests is available without charge and will help as much as anything in getting the farm woodlot on a paying basis. Zone Forester W. E. (Bill) Edwards attached to the Quinte District staff, can be reached by phone at 25 Napanee or if writing, at P.O. Box 299. . . . . .

To deal with the different phases of woodlot management in a little more detail, a series of short articles has been prepared by Mr. Edwards. Further inquiries will be welcomed at any time.

Garver of Browns, Winner of 11 With Last Place Club Would Be Good Starter in All-Star Game

How about Ned Garver for the American League starter in Tuesday's all-star game?

If St. Louis Brownie ace isn't all-star, nobody is. With 11 wins for a last place club he registers 52 per cent of St. Louis' 22-victories. Furthermore he beats the contenders.

Garver's 4-1 nod over Chicago in the second half of a twi-night doubleheader last night was his third over the White Sotx this season. It was the second time inside a week he barred the Sox from the American League lead.

Bill Veeck celebrated the occasion of the Browns' first home game under his ownership with free beer and soda and Garver. Ned saved the day for Bill after his Browns had lost the opener to Chicago, 4-3.

Of course, manager Casey Stengel of the American All-Stars may be pretty impressed by Boston's Mel Parnell after last night's doings at Fenway Park. Lefty Mel shut down the Yanks with nine hits 6-3, while the Red Sox routed Eddie Lopat, New No. 23 in a 6-3 win over the Phillies. Hodges now is four games in front of Rizzuto's 1227 pace.

Giants Trip Boston

New York, reeling from three straight losses at Brooklyn, came up with four runs in the eighth inning to trip Boston, 13-10 in a wild battle. The teams had five home runs in the third inning to tie a major-league record. Each club hit three homers in the game. As a result of Brooklyn's night win, the Giants still trail the Dodgers by 7½ games. St. Louis Cards, 9-3 winners over Pittsburgh, are close behind, only one-half game back of New York.

Wally Westlake, the former Pirate, hit a triple and single to drive in two runs and scored the other one off Murray Dickson.

Feller needed relief help from Lou Brissie in the eighth to tuck away the Indians' 11th straight over the Tigers.

The Indians broke up a pitching duel with three in the seventh to dumpoint Detroit's largest crowd of the year—34,562 fans.

Washington cut loose with five runs after two were out in the eighth to rip Philadelphia 6-3. Sam Mele's single tied the score and a double by Sam Dente and single by Gene Verble clinched it.

Mercurys Want No Part Of Toronto Marlies

(By The Canadian Press)

Owen Sound Mercurys, 1951 Allan Cup hockey champions, say they want no part of a group-ing for a Toronto Marlboros are admitted. However, they would play against Marlboros in a major team—in exhibition contests which would not count in the standing.

This is the policy their representatives will put forward Monday night at a Toronto meeting that will decide the future of the Ontario Hockey Association major and Senior A series. Hamilton, Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Brantford, Stratford, Chatham, Toronto and Owen Sound are expected to be represented.

It was suggested recently that the Marlboros, part of the Toronto Maple Leafs organization of the National Hockey League might enter the senior O.H.A. league and that the two top teams would play off for the right to enter the major playoffs, while the rest of the clubs would battle for the right to go into the Allan Cup playoffs.

Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League will hold their annual "Pirate Party" next week, from Tuesday to Thursday, for scouts John Haddock, Frankie Pytlak, Bob Medline, Gardner Debo and Max Kaminsky will assist camp director Dick Fischer.

Fischer said youths from western New York State would take part in the tryouts as well as Pittsburgh. He said he has sent 23 Canadian players into organized ball from Welland camp in the past two years.

The president of the minor leagues Friday said Bill Veeck, new owner of the St. Louis Browns, must sell either San Antonio or Oklahoma City of the Texas League before the two teams next meet.

President George Trautman of the National Association of Professional Baseball League said Veeck owned Oklahoma City of the Texas League before he acquired the Browns Thursday. Trautman said Veeck also gets the San Antonio Club as a farm.

At Long Beach, N.Y., Cesar Brion, 194¾, Argentine heavyweight, won a unanimous eight-round decision over Keen Simmons, 203¾, Bayonne, N.J., in the eight-round feature bout Friday night.

Ony three horses of 43,000 tested on member tracks in the United States this year were found to have been stimulated, the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau said Friday.

"Advanced methods of testing for stimulation may soon put this nuisance in a class with the ringer as a thing of the past," said Spencer Drayton, head of the T.R.P.A.

Drayton said that for the first six months of 1951 some 4,776 rrces were run at Thoroughbred Racing Associations tracks and only three positive reactions were discovered.

Warren Wright, financier and owner of Ace Reserve, left an estate of more than $12,572,452 when he died last Dec. 28 at Miami Beach.

The appraisal of holdings filed Friday did not include the famed Calumet Farm at Lexington, Ky., nor his thoroughbreds topped by C'tation, Coaltown and Bull Lea.

Nor was his palatial ocean-front estate listed. It was held in the name of his widow, Mrs. Lucille Parker Wright.

Lawrence J. Skiddy, 59, sports editor of the Syracuse Herald-Journal, died Friday night in hospital after a four-weeks illness.

A native of Glens Falls, Skiddy began his newspaper career there as a reporter in 1908. After 10 years with the Times and the Glens Falls Post-Star he joined the Syracuse Herald.

The last year was president of the International League Baseball Writers Association.

Belleville Redmen Defeat Napanee Athletics by 6-4 By Rally in Last Two Frames

Coming from behind in the seventh and eighth innings, Belleville Redmen Friday night pulled out a 6-4 win over the lapless Napanee Athletics in Intermediate Field in Napanee.

The victory broke a four-game losing streak by the locals and moved them into a fourth-place tie with Picton, while in-losing Napanee entrenched themselves further into the cellar. Tonight the Redmen play host to our neighboring Bata Shoemen and a win for the boys would move them up another notch in the standings.

The Redmen started things off early with lead-off man Sammy Mulholland hitting the first pitched ball into right field for a hit. On the next pitched ball, he took off for second and was safe stealing, on a close play. Holding second while Fitzpatrick struck out, he advanced to third minute later on a passed ball and came in on Geary's infield out.

Napanee roared back with a vengeance, however, in the bottom of the first on a pair of walks and three hits, all of the safeties being singles, to register a total of three runs. After Huffman had struck out, Murphy drew the first base advancement on base on Munroe's drive to centre field fell in when the fielder misjudged the ball. Murphy filed out to left for the second out with bobo Bonnick advancing. Murphy scored on a passed ball before Joe Jocko got the second drive to short which Dennison batted both runners in with his single to right field. Dean followed with the same type of blow but both were left stranded as Morrow struck out and made Roscoe Turner hit one on the ground for an infield out.

Pitcher Out of Role

A big-city tally in the second by the Redmen set the pattern for the Athletics set the stage for the upcoming Redmen in the latter innings. Until the seventh, when our boys tied it up, they had managed only four widely-separated hits of Hooper and had left only one man on base. A single by Mac. Carson after Reeves had walked and Dean received a life on Dennison's error drove in the tying runs and it was a new ball game. The next three went down in order and as the Redmen took the field they seemed to have had an injection of some kind, the change in their play was that apparent.

Mowat pitched himself out of a hole in the bottom of the 7th after he had hit a batsman and allowed a hit and as the men of Wilson came to bat, it was apparent to sense that this was going to be it or else.

Mulholland went out, second to first but Dick Fitzpatrick drew the second walk of the night for the Redmen and was followed by three consecutive singles by Geary, Reeves and Dean. "Buck" Reeves blow drove in the tieshaker and Johnny Deane's blazer was the clincher.

Both teams blingled in the ninth but neither scored and the game finished just before dark with the Redmen victorious.

Mulholland, Dean and Carson for the Redmen and Jocko, Hooper and Dennison of the Athletics all had a pair of hits with Hooper and Dennison getting the only extra-base knocks of the night.

It might be said that Belleville pitchers hurled eighteen innings or ball as "Cuffer" Noakes spent the full evening in the bull-pen. Every time that Johnny Mowat went to the mound the "Cuffer" went to the pen. This is the second straight game that Noakes has been kept as busy as the regular chucker.

A fair crowd was in attendance and very creditably cheered good plays by either team.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

The last-place Fergus Thistles upset Peterborough Petes, who share top spot with St. Catharines in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior circuit last night by edging them 11-10.

In Mimico, the Mountaineers, led by high-scoring Denny Peterson, came from behind to take Toronto West York 16-11.

At Fergus, Thistles opened the second and never looked back. They took a 4-3 lead in the first made it 8-4 in the second and beat back a Peterborough spurt in the third to come up with a 10-9 lead.

Outstanding in the game were the goaltenders, Ralph Speck of Mimico and Moon Wooton of Peterborough. High scorers for Fergus were: Jay Hill with four goals and Bob Dolbey and Bob Gear with two each. Peterborough's Rich Bowen got three and Ike Hildebrande got two apiece.

In Mimico, Mountaineers took the first period 3-2 but couldn't hold their lead against the snappy Mounties. They were slowed by the loss of starry Frank Facto who suffered a gashed forehead when cheeked by Lorne's Don McPhail and sat out the rest of the game. McPhail was given a major penalty.

Top scorers for Mimico were: Denny Peterson, five goals and five and Don McPhail with three. For Toronto Leo McNulty led teammates with four goals and Leo Teatro tallied three.

Tonight's schedule calls for Mimico to play at St. Catharines and Hamilton at Brampton. In addition Fergus plays Peterborough for a game postponed from June 13.

Fergus is due to meet Toronto West Yorks in Toronto in a Sunday game.

Athletics Intend To Remain In Border League

Watertown, N.Y., July 7 (AP) —The Watertown Athletics of the Border League disposed of six players Friday but the club said it intends to remain in the four-team circuit.

Meanwhile, the four clubs awaited a ruling by George Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors), on a request to disband the financially-troubled league.

The request came from Frank J. Sikora, president of the Auburn Canucks. He made it in a telegram call to Trautman last night.

Sikora, Watertown club announced it had sold two players, give an outright release to two and transferred two to other clubs in Detroit Tigers' farm system.

Manager Clyde W. Graves, president of the Athletics, said it had been necessary to dispose of the players for financial reasons and that it did not constitute the first steps in dissolution of the team.

He said if the Border League continues in operation his team would try to acquire less expensive players. He said nine players remain on the roster.

Meanwhile, at Columbus, O., Trautman said he has not yet made a decision on Sikora's request for discontinuance of the league.

The Border League was cut to four clubs last month when Cornwall, and Geneva withdrew because of financial difficulties. Kingston, Canada, Watertown have been playing each other and Watertown and Auburn have been idle.

The latter two sought franchises in the six-team Canadian-American League but Trautman vetoed that move last week.

Veeck Gives Fans Beer and Music In First Game

St. Louis, July 7 — (AP) After their first sample of Bill Veeck's flamboyant method of running a ball club, fans here are convinced the owner must be something to those stories they've heard about the new owner of the Browns.

The Browns' first action under their new owner, a twi-night doubleheader against the Chicago White Sox last night, drew 10,-324 paying customers. That's a fair-sized crowd for the Browns, and Veeck didn't disappoint the fans.

There was a fireworks display, band music and free beer and soft drinks for all. Veeck helped personally to pass out the free drinks and tossed a bucket full of them to the bleachers.

This brought the customers to their feet, and they gave Veeck a noisy cheer. He was stopped time after time by autograph seekers as he passed out the drinks, and he signed for them all.

The Browns swept the first game 4-3 but came back to win the second game 4-1 behind the pitching of Ned Garver.

Shortly after the second contest opened, an announcement from Veeck was broadcast over the public address system.

"As a tribute to the Browns' future success, let's all have a drink on the house," he said.

Immediately after the doubleheader, the Shriners' clown band from nearby Springfield, Ill., toured the park in a truck blaring music.

Then the park lights were turned off for the big fireworks display.

It was the end of a busy day for Veeck, who took over ownership of the last-place American League club Thursday. He spent most of the day on long-distance telephone, trying to round up some player help for the Browns.

What Price Guides

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

They say that it takes all kinds of people to make a world, I wouldn't know about that; I haven't seen all of the world. However, the rule applies to guides as a group. Believe me, you will find all kinds among their ranks. Not only all kinds of people but all kinds of guide fees.

In the natural course of my work as an outdoor writer, it is inevitable that I see a great many guides. The more I see of them, the more I am convinced that it pays to go slowly when you hire a guide.

Last June we went to Quebec and then drove up into the north-eastern corner of the Laurentide Park. We were after large trout and that is the place to get them.

Choose Guides Carefully

The guides had been rather carefully chosen but there was one youngster who surely would have been more useful in some other line of endeavor. My sympathies went out to him that day as I never saw anybody try harder to please.

He had attained Class A status and that takes much hard work. However, he was lacking in absolute genius for knowing how to do everything wrong. When corrected he was almost tearfully acquiescent, but he couldn't seem to remember.

As I say, I felt sorry for the boy. He did his best. The fact remains, however, that when you plan for months ahead, drive several hundred miles, and pay out 25 iron men per diem to visit some of the world's finest trout country, you surely don't want to have your fishing hampered by a bumble-footed guide, regardless of how well-meaning and willing he may be.

Another type to look out for is the wise-guy; the fellow who knows all the short cuts. That sort can go through all the motions and put up every show of turning on the juice but still manage to give you the absolute minimum of return for your money.

Push Wanted in 'Pushers'

Each September we go down to Maryland to do some rail shooting. When high tide floods the marshes, professional "pushers" pole light skiffs through the high marsh growth, each skiff carrying a single gunner.

Pushing a rail skiff through the rank marsh growth is a strenuous piece of business, particularly if other boats have not been through the marsh on previous days to flatten the tough weeds.

Most of the pushers are colored boys, not noted for devotion to extreme physical exertion. There are a few good ones, not afraid to put out some real work to find shooting for their gunners, but all too many of them tend to skimp a bit if they can get away with it.

One day I saw one of these boys pushing his gunner, obviously a newcomer, over a section of marsh that had been flattened by so many boats that all weed growth was submerged, leaving no cover to hold birds. The guide knew this, but the going was easy so that was where he took his boat.

I remarked on his choice of territory, saying that he surely wouldn't expect to find rail in such open marsh. "No suh," my guide replied. "He jus' pushin'." In other words, he was simply putting in his time with the absolute minimum of effort until the receding waters drove the skiff out of the marsh.

Wise Guys Everywhere

The wise-guy type is not peculiar to the rail marshes however. I have found them from Canada to the Florida Keys. They tend to skimp their jobs, taking their anglers to the places that are easily reached and having little or no interest in the success, or lack of it, of their employers.

Fortunately all of us, a high percentage of the fishing guides, are honest, hard-working boys who take their jobs seriously. The others don't last very long at guiding and soon gravitate to other less tiring forms of endeavor.

In the matter of guide fees the law of supply and demand seems to be the deciding factor. I have had excellent guides in Canada whose fees amounted to six dollars per day. The same amount of skilled guiding, regrettably, would command rates of 25 dollars and upward in the waters around the Florida Keys.

Probably the most exacting and technical job of guiding fisherman falls to the lot of the Florida bonefish guide. To be able to do his daily task well, he possibly well he must learn bonefishing through several years of hard work and experience.

For three winters I have spent a month in the Florida Keys in the company of top-flight bonefish guides and I know my way around in the odd-fairly well but I know full well that I couldn't begin to qualify even as a fair bonefish guide.

Fees Are High

Guide fees in Florida are high —and rightly so since these people are specialists — but here, also, you must choose your guide with care. Rates are well established and any guide who manages to get a job guiding out of a fishing camp commands the respect of his fellows.

Johnny Hetki Leafs' Hurler Top Winner

(By The Associated Press)

With Montreal Royals running away with the pennant, interest in the International League has centered on the hot fight for the remaining playoff positions.

The Royals are roaring along 11 games in front of the runner - up Buffalo Bisons but Buffalo are only a half-game in front of Syracuse Chiefs and Rochester Red Wings.

Jim Hughes, with help from Bill Voiselle last night pitched the Royals to their 13th straight victory over Springfield Cubs 7-5. Butsy Flais sparked the Royal drive, knocking in three runs on a pair of singles. The triumph was Hughes' seventh without a loss.

The Wings nipped the Bisons 2-1 behind the four - hit pitching of Hank Borowski. Rochester scored all its runs in the second inning on a home run by Steve Bilko and Lou Ortiz' run-scoring single. The victory moved the 4th-place Wings to within one percentage point of Syracuse.

Syracuse cropped a 3-2 decision to Ottawa Giants. George Baumberger, slated to a 3-0 lead, faltered in the seventh and saved the game for him.

Johnny Hetki, the league's top winner, climbed his 12th victory as Toronto Maple Leafs edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2. Home runs by Bobby Rhawn and John Ostrowski and Les Fleming's run-scoring single accounted for Toronto's runs. Marv Rickert poled a home run for the Orioles.

Whip, People's Choice, Retains Wrestling Title as Referee Awards Bout Over Yukon Eric

Whipper Billy Watson, the people's choice, retained his British Empire wrestling title last evening even though he finished the fight at the feet of Yukon Eric, as horizontal and as immobile as a felled Alaskan pine.

The Whip, whose "strength is as the strength of ten because his heart is pure" had plenty of tough sledding against the mastodonic Yukon who is about as hard to move as the territory of Alaska itself. He was beset by the foulest kinds of trouble all through the bout and was not weathering the last storm any too well when referee Cliff Fox helped him to his feet and awarded him the bout to the accompaniment of Yukon and his trifling minority of rooters.

The whole thing was a ghastly mistake, of course, from Yukon's point of view, but he had other more immediate previously deposited his own 264 pounds and the unenlightened portion of the Whipper on the squirming carcass of referee Cliff Fox, who immediately lost his composure and mitfed.

Yukon finally escaped, rather shoddy for the wear and tear, and was about to deliver a lecture to the postmaster Yukon on the finer points of influencing referees when his friends of the customers who had come to kindly pinned him in the corner with blankets and the Whipper barring escape.

Used as Sounding Board

Yukon, who had been using his 56-inch chest as a sounding board for the Whip during the early part of the bout, decided to play the NBC chimes again, when the Whipper clicked. Referee Fox, fearing a referee, understandably was somewhat slower with his reflexes. As a result he was rammed amidships and deposited with a wet towel in the corner.

Yukon, unhampered by the referee, who rather monotonously insisted that the bout be fought according to the Marquis of Tunney rules, proceeded to elbow-smash and generally devastate the already battle-weary Whipper. He was just in the process of spreading the Whip thinly over the canvas when Fox recovered.

By this time he was in no frame of mind to brook more villainy so he waved off the powerful Yukon and awarded the fight to the Whip, by screaming delight of the fans.

Yukon Takes First Fall

Yukon took the first fall at the end of seven minutes when he picked Watson up, flipped him over his shoulder until the Whipper had the investment on track, and then dumped the flaccid remains on the canvas.

Watson retaliated in the second fall by tossing Yukon out of the ring and then helping him back again through the ropes by a flying scissors hold that almost put Yukon through the bottom of the ring.

In the main preliminary Chief Don Wood appeared to have survived a vicious assault from the Zebra and seemed to be on his way to victory when the dastardly Zebra repulsed a running end leaping attack by the Chief in such a way that the Chief wound up on his head after he had been knocked cataleptic down. It took 21 minutes.

In the opener Scamp Kurgo and George Wood wrestled to a 30-minute draw.

After some years of misfortune Bill and his father, Ralph Morgan, enter their horse, Blue Grass of Kentucky, in the derby, while Jane and her father, Russell Hicks, enter Tarzana, Blue Grass wins but Ted Hecht, trainer for Jane and Hicks, protests that the horse was falsely registered as a thoroughbred. But Jane submits proof that Hecht is wrong, the stewards accept the error in registration as an honest mistake and Jane finally gets her man.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, July 7. (AP)—Looking at the week's news:

Henry Fonda gave out with some interesting observations of United States play audiences gained from his tour with "Mister Roberts" this year:

"It has been a great experience; I wouldn't have missed it for anything. One thing that has amazed me is how audiences will differ in various parts of the country.

"We were prepared for San Francisco. Everybody has told us what a great show town it was. But we didn't really expect it to be quite so great. The laughs for the show were as big as anything we ever got in New York.

"But then we came to Los Angeles. What a change! Usually we have a few moments to look at the other characters between laughs. But on opening night in L.A. the laughs were too short for that."

Korean Treaties

The impending Korean truce would catch a number of movie producers with their plots down. The peace would destroy the timeliness of the war films now being rushed to the cameras. But the projects will no doubt continue, since war pictures are generally big box office attractions.

On his return from his European tour, Bob Hope expressed amazement at his reception in Germany. When he was over there in 1946, few natives recognized him. On the last trip, he was followed by crowds. After a 20-min appearance, he was surrounded by 2s German newspaper reporters. Hope foresees a big future for Hollywood products in Germany.

A worker on "Warbonnet" claims it actually happened, but he doesn't expect anybody to believe him. During locations on an Indian reservations, he asked a little Indian boy what he wanted to be when he grew up.

The young redskin replied: "A cowboy."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The tricks you count in a hand are there. Before you can cash them, however, opponents may take enough to defeat you. This could be when your side lacks enough immediate control in suits.

That such will happen does not mean that your system of count is wrong. Nor is it something you are unable to realize before the hand goes down. The bids in different positions warn you.

A simple overcall does not promise more than one sure trick. Nor does his responding partner. So, such a pair is usually on the short end of immediate suit control in that deal.

In such case, the tricks they count may not develop fast enough. When such a pair goes to game, they need an extra trick or two as a compensation for lack of top cards.

We are concluding the discussion in this deal:

NORTH
♠10 9 5
♣K 9 8 7 6 4

WEST
♠A 7 4
♥J 10 9 3 2
♦K Q 7

EAST
♠K Q 8 6 2
♥Q 8 7
♦4 3
♣Q J 2

SOUTH
♥A K 5
♦A J 10 8 5 2
♣A 10 5

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 D	1 H	Pass	1 S
2 D	Pass	3 C	3 H
4 C	Pass	Pass	4 H
Dbl.	4 S	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	All Pass

The doubled four spades went down two tricks when south took four tops and north ruffed a heart. Although they hoped it would be down less, the loss did not catch west and east by surprise.

Their bids warned of a lack of fast controls in their pair. It not quashed they would have preferred a lower contract. With a bid of four clubs able to make they hoped the sacrifice would be worth it.

Here and there in this bidding you may not agree with me. This is what makes bridge interesting. But let's not quarrel about it.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Again a pleasant, promising period for worthwhile matters, family and social gatherings, church and charity affairs; also for urgent tasks, conferences. In free time, relax, enjoy a hobby.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Full, generous month for Cancer folks, today is no exception. To gain inner contentment, trust happiness start with religious services. Enjoy family, friends in due relaxation.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Take care seeking favors, employment, doing extraordinary work not sponsored. It is the most benefic period for pertinent Sunday interests, healthy activities. Read, enjoy music, rest.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Another strongly favorable day but not for work that should wait till a week day. Pay heed to spiritual needs, health and interests you enjoy but for which you don't always have time. Relax, too.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Encouraging Sunday for you and the things you like to do. Yes, — be inspiring, helpful to others. Necessary work need not be drudgery, smile, keep good humor.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—The unusual and unique as well as everyday familiar affairs honored this healthful day. Be thankful to God for His blessings, enjoy privileges as you also accept responsibilities.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Money interests, unnecessary business and work are taboo but due work and usual Sunday activities can make new strides. Grand day to serve God and your better self, for wholesome fun.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Neither very favorable nor unfavorable for difficult tasks, hard propositions, but personal affairs, church and family interests and healthy sports will show fine advancement.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A happy, progressive outlook for all interesting, worthy, useful activities. Day's schedule can be a full, energetic one, or just restful, quieting, as you see fit. Do attend your church.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Your Neptune now stresses need for caution in travel, shipping, etc., also in strictly confidential matters. A splendid day on the whole, for all sound interests. Pray, be happy.

YOU BORN TODAY: Balance of year important to your future interests. Have faith, keep patiently at your obligations, duties, but do not fret or nurse frustration. You have varied talents, unusual capability, an ingratiating personality plus retentive memory. Could one ask more? Up to you then how much you accomplish, how well you meet obstacles. Prayer: deserful honors also, associates top side lawyers. Birthdate: John D. Rockefeller.

To us it means that we have heavily originality was a compliment. It means that the product we make is pure and hence loving. Later when people cultivated leisure and wealth, they used the word refined as a symbol for plainness and a lack of refinement and ingenuity.

DESERONTO

Departing Canon, Family, Honored By Congregation

Deseronto — On Wednesday evening, the Sunday School room of St. Mark's Church was the scene of a well planned farewell party for Canon W. E. Kidd and Mrs. Kidd.

At the close a short business meeting of the garden party conveners, Canon and Mrs. Kidd were surprised to see a large number of parishioners both young and old appear on the scene to spend the evening with them.

Tables were quickly set up and soon everyone was enjoying games which ranged from bridge, euchre, and cribbage for the adults to checkers for the youngsters.

Mr. Bob Bell, president of St. Mark's Men's Club, expressed the regret of all at the departure of the Canon and Mrs. Kidd.

Presentations Made

Mr. Tom Scott presented the Canon with a purse from the members of St. Mark's. Mrs. Knight presented Mrs. Kidd with a lovely bouquet of flowers from the congregation for which Canon Kidd and Mrs. Kidd expressed their sincere appreciation not only the gifts, but of the good will and friendship which prompted them.

ENEMIES OF THE GARDEN

In general, insects are numerous wherever plants grow and can be very destructive. However, no one needs to refrain from growing flowers and vegetables on nearly all insects can be safely and cheaply controlled. The method by which insects obtain their food generally determines the kind of insecticide that should be used to combat them. There are two principal ways in which insects obtain their food. The first is by sucking the sap from the plant tissues in which case the insect pierces the plant tissue and sucks the juice and causes the plant to wilt and perhaps to die. The second type of insect is the chewing, or biting kind. These chew and swallow solid particles of the leaves and the plant stems. In general, the sucking insect group includes scales, aphis, leaf hopper, squash bugs, thrips and many plant bugs. These are controlled by a poison that kills them upon contact with the body. The biting and chewing insects include the worm or caterpillar and many insects such as canker worms, cut worms, tent caterpillars, blister beetles, Japanese beetles, cankerworms, etc. These are controlled by stomach poisons.

The protective equipment necessary for the garden depends upon its size and the kind of labor that is available. Every gardener should have a dust gun and a hand, or atomizer spray. Accompanying the popular types of insecticides are detailed instructions which could be followed. No gardener who loves his plants should neglect to keep pests under control.

Mr. Delbert Harvey, president of the Deseronto Lions Club took the opportunity to present Canon Kidd with a set of pipes and a humidor from the club.

Canon Kidd thanked Mr. Harvey to this useful gift.

Delicious refreshments provided by the ladies were served and enjoyed by all, bringing the evening to a close.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

Carl Prater looked around wildly, imploring someone to believe him. Yes, I was there when Frannie was drowned, and Bidault made me sign a confession! But I didn't kill him! I swear I didn't."

"I believe you" said Star gently. "As first I was sure Wertheim followed old Barney home. He was respectably married and his contract with the firm was genuine. But I was convinced after awhile, I wonder, Inspector, if I might call in a private detective I engaged?"

Merica nodded and Star coned the door. Paul Waltz stepped in.

At Star's request, Waltz began. "This is confidential, but naturally my agency has pipe lines into financial institutions. This morning a bank, I'll say Bank X, reported Mr. Wertheim in there and drawn $1,000 in twenties, and this afternoon Bank Y reported that Miss Clara Mayhew deposited $1,000 in twenties."

Waltz folded his notebook as Star turned to Merica.

"It's obvious Miss Mayhew collected Wertheim's money from Mr Wertheim—by the not very subtle strategy of wearing the very yellow bathing suit that Wertheim, through a lamentable oversight had left in the dressing room when he removed it to dress Frannie's dead body in street clothes."

"When Mr. Marshall pay assistant, told me that Miss Mayhew had worn a bathing suit identical to those worn by the La Jolla Inn. I knew that I had come from Le Jolla Club."

"I realized the truth. She had found it the morning after Frannie Martin's murder; perhaps she identified it at once and put two and two together."

Clara Mayhew was very pale despite her make-up. She aimed an accusing finger at her.

"Wertheim was only small fry to you, Clara Mayhew, yet you were shrewd enough to collect blackmail from him! Admit it! You know Jim Marshall and Shirley Wellauffer were there for no casual business reason yesterday, and that Wertheim knew it. So you chose the opportunity to don the tell-tale bathing suit and scare the stuffing out of him."

"But Carl Prater was to be your big chance. You knew that he had been with Wertheim; you probably snooped till you pieced together the whole story. You had more than enough pressure to put on him—you could bring him with arrest. You didn't have to be afraid of him either, for he's not the killer type.

"But you are, Clara Mayhew! And you had the opportunity to kill Barney Bidault after he threatened Prater with a gun and obtained his confession the night of the murder." Star looked at Prater.

"Don't talk till your lawyer gets here!" screamed Clara.

Prater eyed her dully, then ignored her. "I thought she was in my car outside, but could have followed Barney in. She was gone when I came out to my car and the next morning she bawled me out for making her wait so long. I never noticed."

"There it is Merica. The answer to Barney Bidault's murder! Clara Mayhew saw Bidault get her big marital hope if she didn't take quick action. She followed old Barney home in Prater's car. She finally caught up with him in Rose Bidault's private sitting room. She slugged him from behind, took the gun and killed him. Also she took the confession.

"She knew when she read Rose Bidault's statement in the newspapers that Rose had been in the room during all the time. She didn't think it possible that Rose would connect the truth if she knew it, but she got to brooding over it and decided to play it safe. She went her lunch hour yesterday to sneak into the Bidault house and stab Rose with a pair of scissors while she slept. That use of scissors was my first clue that a woman was the killer. I can hardly imagine a man using such a weapon.

"After my assistant revealed to Larry Stone that Rose had admitted that he had been with her, Stone became frightened and summoned McNamara for legal advice. McNamara packed the information to an earlier client, Carl Prater, who had hired him after old Bidault obtained his signed confession. Miss Mayhew, his receptionist, probably listened in on the conversation via the inter-office communication unit on her desk.

"She had to commit still another murder to preserve the good thing she had. She couldn't afford risking the possibility that Larry Stone had seen her." Star turned on the now completely sober Smiley Wetlauffer. "Mr. Wetlauffer, did you go to Stone's apartment tonight at your suggestion or Miss Mayhew's?"

Smiley swallowed. "The truth is I'd been drinking too much. I don't really remember much about how we got there."

"Exactly!" Star grinned his ugliest mug. "And you don't remember much that happened after you got there do you?"

"Well, no. We went in—I guess the latch must have been unlocked, and I sat down. I think I poured myself a drink from Stone's bar. We—now I remember—Clara said she wanted to powder her nose! Anyway, I didn't see her for a while, and then she said I should look for Stone."

Star nodded. "So you looked into the nearest bedroom and found him dead! Clara Mayhew knew you would find him dead, for she had taken advantage of his condition and killed him with a blow from the phone receiver she'd stuffed into handy!"

Stunned, poor Smiley Wetlauffer looked at Clara Mayhew as if he had never seen her before. She was wraith like now in her pallor. She looked Star straight in the eye and said evenly.

"You concoct a swell yarn, Mac, but you can't prove a line of it!"

Star's brows lifted. "Can't I thought!" He turned to Paul Waltz. "Give the inspector the number, Paul."

Paul put out his notebook again.

"The number is 72391," he read. "That's the number of the safety deposit box Clara Mayhew rented at the bank this morning after Barney Bidault's murder."

Clara Mayhew instantly at Merica and turned over the palms of his hands.

"Inspector, you are, Inspector! What do you want to bet that you won't find Carl Prater's confession about Frannie Martin's death in that box?"

Quietly but with a wealth of variety, Miss Clara Mayhew began to tell Star Williams exactly what she thought of him. She was still getting him told when a matron came and took her out.

"There's one thing more," Star told Inspector Merica, nodding toward Wertheim. "Tender this gentleman a formal apology for his performance of faking the drowning of my auto accident. Also my friends, Sonya Sareeta and Jim Marshall."

Merica nodded woodenly. "I'll take care of Wertheim—and Prater too." He shifted his gaze to Smiley Wetlauffer who thus far had been without a word to say.

"There's one other charge, Merica. Against Mr. Williams and Mr. Marshall. What are your wishes about the other three charges?"

Tanner looked as if the words would choke him, but he managed to grind them out. "Under the circumstances, I believe that public policy requires the withdrawal of the charges."

He turned on his heel and stalked out with an eye to neither Star nor myself. Tanner had scarcely departed when McNamara burst in, fat and puffing.

"What's going on here? What are you doing to my client?"

Prater mopped his face. "So you finally got here! A lot of good you can do me now!"

McNamara looked around in alarm, and his eyes grew suspicious as he beheld Star. He turned to his client.

"You didn't talk did you?"

Prater laughed almost hysterically. "No, I didn't talk! Wertheim didn't talk! Clara didn't talk! Nobody but Star Williams talked! That's right, nobody but Star Williams."

He continued to laugh on the hysteria borderline as McNamara tried to get some sense out of him. Finally there was an order for McNamara to be in such a hurry. There would be plenty of time.

Sonya, Star and I were out in the corridor when Nick Ricardo showed up, complete with candid camera.

"Say what's going on around here?"

"Star just worked another killer magic. Too bad you weren't here with your cute little camera!"

Ricardo brushed by us and in to see Merica. I chuckled. Merica would not be easy to deal with this night, and I wouldn't have wanted my worst enemy to have to get a story out of Andy Tanner.

Star set up steaks later, and I felt like eating two. Even with the benzedrine I'd absorbed, I was hungry as a bear. Smiley and Paul Waltz joined us, and the steak did Smiley some good, too. Only Sonya didn't partake. She sat quietly; I knew she was having a bad time. She had wanted to see Frannie's killer delivered up, but it had been a painful process to her.

"You weren't so far ahead of me," I told Star. "I finally tumbled to the fact that Frannie had been drowned in the tank. I figured Wertheim and Prater in on that, and even guessed why you sent me to Valleyville to ask if he had ever seen Mr. Esplin and Brayton. When you broke into the Prater office last night you got their names off the calendar and figured a special demonstration had been put on for them. You knew that if I asked whether they'd known Frannie Martin they'd realize you knew the truth. Naturally they'd try to bribe me to shut them. After that it was easy for you to sell them the idea they should sign an affidavit telling the truth. They were innocent bystanders, and a little scandal was better than being made accomplices. But how did they find you tonight? You didn't drop in at the office."

"I told Kitty where I could be located. She had instructions to send them to me."

"Well, it was close timing. I'll grant that I couldn't have produced Frannie's killer by the deadline, I was built enough to get, even if I had guessed all the answers."

Star cackled. "That's your trouble, Jim. You guess all the answers, but a theory isn't worth a hoot till you can back it up with proof. Give Paul here credit for getting the proof."

Paul shrugged. "And without your directions as to what in formation I was to get, I'd have been powerless to get it, Jim and I both have good legs, but you've got the brains."

Star made no argument on this point. I suggested we go out to phone the story to Max Feldstein for his final.

Star yawned. "Oh, I phoned him the story before I went over to Merica's. I suppose he will have to check some minor details with Merica, though it did turn out as I gave it to him."

Paul looked at me, grinned and shook his head. I looked at Sonya. She sighed, "Hello Sonya. How's tricks!"

THE END

Summer-Camp Time for Many School Children

(By The Canadian Press)

It's summer-camp time and Canada's kids are heading for the hills. But if lakes or river almost anywhere, it the hills are too far away, will do.

Through with schoolbooks until September, most of Canada's 2,200,000 boys and girls under the age of 16 years face a change of scene.

Not all of them will get it, but for those who do, a supervised summer camp is a popular outlet for their restlessness.

The kids have a wide choice, a Canadian Press survey showed today. The padding in father's pocketbook apparently will be the deciding factor in the choice. Rates range from $1 a week to $60—and in Montreal, the young'sters can spend a day on Mount Royal for 10 cents.

Camp names vary as widely as the activities listed on their programs. There is Camp Chief Hector near Banff, Alta., and Camp De-De-Wake in Ontario. A camp in Manitoba offers an economical course in addition to the customary summer's activities of swimming, boating, fishing and all-around lazing.

There is fun and sports at a summer camp, be it in the mountains of the east and west, the woodlands of Northern Ontario, on the shores of innumerable lakes across the country or by the sea. But all camps have a serious objective, too: to turn out young Canadians proud of their country and fit to play a part in its building.

Many summer Bible camps are operated bychurches. The sea, army and air cadets hold summer training camps. The Salvation Army and Service Clubs sponsor free camps for underprivileged children.

Organizations such as the Young Men's Christian Association, the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides have permanent sites in every province. Like most camps, they teach handicrafts, woodcraft and related subjects in between swimming perfiods, canoe trips and other sports activities.

Of the more than 100 camps in Ontario, the Young Women's Christian Association operates 20 day camps. The largest is in Hamilton on Lake Ontario and can accommodate 3,440 children.

TRUMAN PROPOSES MEDIATOR IN OIL DISPUTE

Two Drownings in City, District, Sunday

Frank Hazzard, 20, Plainfield, Seized With Cramp in Bay

Suffering a cramp, when he dived into the water to recover a lost oar, Frank Hazzard, 20, of Plainfield, was drowned in the Bay of Quinte here, Sunday afternoon before the eyes of his girl friend, who was powerless to aid him.

The accident occurred in the middle of the Bay about half a mile off shore and dragging operations to recover the body have thus far proved fruitless.

Hazzard, and Betty Babcock, 17, St Paul Street, had gone for a boat ride early in the afternoon and when in the middle of the bay one of the oars jumped out of the oar lock and floated away in the heavy waves. A strong swimmer, Hazzard discarded some of his clothing and dived after the oar. He had just reached it when he suffered the cramp.

He called for help and was escorted by the girl who called "Billy, help me, help me, get the boat over here quick."

"I did my best with the one oar but he sank before I could reach him," the girl said later.

Andy and Oscar Baumhour were just starting out for a boat trip from their home near South Foster Avenue, when they saw a girl standing in a boat far out in the bay waving and calling for help. They went out and brought the hysterical girl to shore but saw no sign of Hazzard.

Police and firemen were notified and although dragging was commenced the body was not found.

Hazzard worked at Bataws and played ball with the Bataws club in the C.O.B.L. as well as with Plainfield. Some months ago he worked in the job printing department a; the Ontario Intelligencer.

Topples Into Pit

Toppling into a water-filled sand pit while visiting at the home of relatives, five-year-old George Zebedee, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zebedee, Sidney concession Sidney township, was drowned late Sunday afternoon.

The accident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McDonell, Modest Lane, east of Foxboro.

The little lad, with his sister, Doris, age six, and Bernadett McDonell, five years, had gone down the lane to play and apparently the boy tumbled into the sand pit which was filled with water as a result of recent rains.

His body was recovered 20 minutes later and artificial respiration was given as well as oxygen from an inhalator rushed to the scene by Budd's Ambulance of Belleville, but efforts to revive the lad were fruitless.

Three Countries End State of War With Germany

Sydney, Australia, July 9 (AP) — Australia, South Africa and New Zealand formally ended their state of war with Germany today. A New Zealand also announced the end of a state of war with Austria.

The United States, Canada, Britain and France are expected to take similar action shortly.

The Australian decision was announced in a statement by External Affairs Minister Richard G. Casey. External Affairs Minister Frederick W. Doidge announced New Zealand's action at Wellington.

New zaland reserved the right to retain any money or property controlled by regulations passed in 1939 and also the right to seek his satisfaction for its claims and those of New Zealand citizens arising out of the war.

Casey said Australia's main intention was to restore normal relations with the (west) German Federal Republic.

Trailer Truck Crashes Into 11 Cars, 4 Dead

Wurtsboro, N.Y., July 9—(AP)— A steep Catskill mountain road yesterday became a mile-long bowling alley in a chain-reaction smashup, breaksdown, 30-ton trailer truck crashed into 11 automobiles.

Four persons died and 16 were hurt, two critically, in the flaming wreckage.

The driver of the truck, Marsden H. Beach, 28, of Hackensack, N.J., miraculously escaped injury.

Five hours after the accident he was charged with criminal negligence and held in $5,000 bail.

Police said many of the deaths and injuries were due to flames that enveloped the truck and at least four of the cars.

The truck was loaded with highly-flammable propane gas cylinders. But it was the big vehicle's fuel supply, and not the propane, that caught fire as it sideswiped the first of a long line of passenger cars.

Most of the traffic was New York-bound from the Monticello-Liberty resort area. Wurtsboro is about 85 miles from New York City.

STUNG BY HORNET

Webster, Mass., July 9—(AP)— A woman and two men were stung by a hornet yesterday and she and two of the lady-fitted passengers landed in hospital with minor injuries, Mrs. Doris Crockett told police she lost control of the car after the hornet stung her on the cheek and the vehicle crashed against a guard rail and overturned.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 9 (CP) Synopsis: The humid weather of yesterday is edging out of southern Ontario, leaving drier and partly cloudy weather behind it. However, the moist air lying a little west of the Great Lakes may bring showers and thunderstorms to southern Ontario tonight and Tuesday.

The clearing skies in the Kirkland Lake and White River areas are temporary only. Colder air with cloudy skies and some showers is pushing southward and is expected to reach southern Ontario by Tuesday night.

Young Inventor Hopes Waterscope Will Bring Him Untold Wealth

Windsor, Ont., July 9 (CP)— Windsor Inventor, Peter J. McLean, 33, yesterday tested his new "waterscope" in the Detroit River, preparatory to starting what he said a hunt for a hoped-for millions of dollars worth of sunken treasure.

His invention is a long tube equipped pith a 3,000 watt light and reflecting surfaces at the base and a revolving eye piece at the lip. Using it, says McLean, it is possible to see for at least 6060 feet in any direction underwater.

He plans to locate sunken ships in Lake Erie by a radar device and by "water-scope." If the proper ship is located a salvage company will take over actual salvage work.

McLean spent more than four years on research and figures his final outlay before operatings begin will be in the neighborhood of $10,000. Later he said he discovered the location of some 35 ships lost in Lake Erie alone in storms among whose value is estimated in the tullions of dollars.

"If I can hit just one of them," said the young inventor, "I can forget all the waterscope has cost me."

Included in the sunken cargoes is a load of 110 barrels of whisky and $300,000 in gold bullion. Another ship we loaded with 16-tons of tea and 40-tons of rice long with an original value of $173,000.

NO GUARANTEE PEACE WILL COME BY NEGOTIATION

- - - Ridgway

Cease-Fire Talks Start on Tuesday

By NATE POLOWETZKY

Seoul, Korea, July ——(AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned tonight there is no real guarantee that peace in Korea will come from the armistice negotiations opening tomorrow in Kaesong.

"With the start of cease-fire talks only four hours away, Ridgway said:

"Whether there is to be good faith or not is only to be judged by performance, and we haven't a basis for any confidence at this stage. Agreement of an armistice must precede a permanent hostilities."

The supreme commander was addressing correspondents on new coverage of the full east-west negotiations. The correspondents have demanded western press representation at the historic event.

Ridgway indicated there would be no western correspondents at tomorrow's session — but that there might be a later session.

He disclosed that he personally selected the five United Nations peace conferees and that reserved the right "to change the delegates at any time."

Earlier today Ridgway gave his representatives their final instructions.

Undisclosed Rendezvous

The Allied delegation then flew to an undisclosed rendezvous point, described only as "as close as possible to Kaesong". It is presumed to be the Allied "peace camp" at Munsan, 15 road minutes by air from the ancient capital of Kaesong. An exact map be found for the 55-mile-old Korean war.

The talks probably will begin about 10 a.m. Tuesday (8 p.m. Monday, E.D.T.).

Ridgway, Allied supreme commander, flew in from Tokyo Monday afternoon with his senior representatives. The other two already were in the area.

The supreme commander will keep himself available during the talks.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief allied delegate, will confer with Ridgway at the end of each day's session. Joy is commander, U.S. naval forces in Korean waters.

Other Allied representatives are Maj.-Gen. C. Stanley Wilke, U.S. Air Force; Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes, deputy chief of staff, U.S. Eighth Army; Rear-Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, U.S. Navy, and Maj.-Gen. Paik Sun Yup, South Korean army.

Joy, Wilke and Burke accompanied Ridgway from Tokyo to Seoul in the supreme command-er's plane.

Paik, commanding general of the South Korean 1st Army Corps, arrived yesterday. He conferred with Hodes, then went on to Munsan.

India's Five-Year Plan to Give Econonic and Social Stability - Announced by Premier Nehru

New Delhi, July 9 (AP)—A special commission headed by Prime Minister Nehru announced today its recommendations for a five-year plan to give India economic and social stability. It includes proposals for birth control to cut India's vast population growth and to ease recurring food shortages.

The commission, which worked since March, 1950, to produce the 344-page report, proposes the spending of 1,200,000,000 rupees ($3,763,300,000) to spur India's advance toward betterment of her agricultural and industrial position and her national standard of living. The report says it be thrown open to discussion before preparation of the final framework on which the economic structure will be based for the next five years.

The report recommended, as a means of curbing the population growth—the increase is estimated at 5,000,000 a year—that the state provide facilities for sterilization or the giving of contraceptive advice on medical grounds.

"India's food problem is not a temporary disequilibrium between supply and demand—it is a manifestation of the continually growing pressure of the population on the food supply," the report said, "it has therefore to be resolved not through short-term expedients but through careful and sustained application of relatively long-term measures."

India's population in 1941 was nearly 350,000,000. The report estimates that it will be 383,000,000 in 1956 at the present rate of growth.

Neither the Hindu nor the Moslem religion prohibit birth control but many of India's people oppose it, for superstitious or other reason.

London, July 9. (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will sail Sept. 25 for a visit to Canada, it was announced today.

The royal couple will sail from Liverpool aboard the Empress of France for Quebec.

The Canadian Pacific Railways Empress of France was formerly named the Duchess of Bedford.

The Princess and the Duke will tour principal centres of Canada from coast to coast during October, it was announced this week.

The Duke of Edinburgh, at present commanding the frigate Magpie in the Mediterranean, is due shortly to hand over the command. He will fly back to England July 21.

Several organizations have invited the couple to visit the United States but it is not yet known whether they can accept.

Start Tour at Quebec

Ottawa, July 9 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth and her husband are expected to start their three-weeks fall tour of Canada at Quebec about Oct. 1, it was indicated today.

Officials said this could be ascertained from London announcement today which said the royal couple will sail from Liverpool Sept. 25 aboard the Empress of France for Quebec.

The royal pair will start their tour at the same historic old port where the King and Queen ended their 1939 royal visit to Canada in May of 1939.

Officials here are now engaged in drafting a tentative itinerary for the visit of the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh and expect to hand it to the cabinet shortly for approval. Once approved here, it will be sent to the United Kingdom for consideration by the royal travellers.

The original announcement of the visit said the royal couple will visit the capitals of the principal Canadian centres.

Dutch Immigrant Given Permission To Erect House

Kitchener, July 9 — (CP) — A Dutch immigrant with a prefabricated home posed quite a problem for nearby Waterloo township council Saturday.

The man, Jack De Bruyn, came from Holland with his wife about a month ago and found the housing scarcity here quite a problem. They couldn't find much money for a home with them, but they could bring a prefabricated home which they obtained from Mrs. De Bruyn's father, who operates a "prefab" business in Holland.

However, township building bylaws restrict size and position of homes and where they may be built.

F. C. Heffron, building inspector, asked council for a ruling on the matter. Council asked if De Bruyn is training at a Kitchener department store to be the manager of a similar shop. After nine months here he will be transferred to another city as manager and plans to take his prefabricated home with him.

Councillor Arthur Eagle suggested that since the family had brought their own prefabricated facilities, permission should be granted for them to erect it. This was granted.

CONGRESS ASKED TO END STATE OF WAR WITH NAZIS

Truman Sends Letter To House, Vice President

Washington, July 9 —(AP)— President Truman asked Congress today to end the state of war between the United States and Germany.

The action would not affect the allied occupation of Germany.

The chief purpose would be psychological. Germans would no longer be considered enemy aliens and would regain such normal rights as the right to sue in American courts.

Truman's request was made in identical letters to Vice-president Alben Barkley and House of Representatives Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Truman said that ending the state of war "will give the German people a clear demonstration of our desire to help bring them back to membership among the nations of the free world."

"It will represent another and logical step on the road which leads towards the eventual restoration of German independence," Truman added.

Discussions began last year among most of the western allies on the question of ending the state of war.

Russia Prevents Growth

In today's letters, Truman said Russia "has actively prevented the growth of a representative democratic government in a unified Germany, and has thus made impossible for the time being the arrangement of a final peace settlement.

"The Soviet effort has been, indeed, to cut the eastern third of Germany away from the rest of the country and develop it as a province of the new Soviet empire," Truman added.

"As it became plain that we could not expect Soviet co-operation in rebuilding all of Germany on self-supporting democratic and peaceful nation, we were forced to change our attitude and we joined in our efforts by the British and French governments.

"Together with them ,we gave the German people under our jurisdiction the opportunity for their own government.

"Elections held in September, 1949, this German government has shown steadily increasing responsibility and has already taken its place in the community of free nations and to do its share toward building peaceful and cooperative relationships with its neighbors of the west."

Press Order-in-Council

Ottawa, July 9 — (CP) — Canada will formally end the state of war between itself and Germany tomorrow or shortly after, authorities said today.

Govt. Research Scientists Can See What Goes on Inside Solid Objects

Ottawa, July 9—(CP)—Government scientists say they can see inside solid objects, including iron, brass or lead, in much the same way that X-rays show the inside of the human body.

The National Research Council announced today that for the first time the physics division has used the Gamma ray method in its radio-active element to show what goes on inside solid objects.

The development marks up another point for the Chalk River Atomic Energy Project which is using the radio-active elements in the atomic reactor or nucleas furnace to make them radioactive, or able to give off the rays.

The rays are then used to show on a fluorescent screen what goes on inside a solid body.

Until now this process was all done with X-rays which only they could produce the intense degree of radiation needed. Now the same sort of results can be obtained by the very strong source of Gamma rays that lies in the radioactive iridium.

The Gamma rays also have a big advantage in that they are more penetrating than X-rays. They can pass through steel and flesh and what goes on inside the body.

They produce sharp and easily-seen images on the screen and N.R.C. scientists have seen such things as hidden flaws inside castings, nails going through wood, and metal parts in plastic telephone receivers.

The machine that does all this is compact, portable and doesn't need to be connected to a power line as an X-ray machine does.

Iran Not Likely To Accept Offer Says Spokesman

Premier Tells Ambassador Grady Offer Made too Late

Tehran, Iran, July 9—(CP)— President Truman has proposed to Iran that he send Averell Harriman, Ambassador at Large, to Iran to act as mediator in the oil dispute, it was learned today.

Truman's proposal was contained in a note delivered to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today by United States Ambassador Henry Grady.

But high Iranian sources said Mossadegh indicated Truman's offer will not be accepted because it came too late.

Mossadegh told Grady he would have to refer it to his cabinet.

The Truman note came in answer to an Iranian plea last month for American support in the squabble with Britain.

Hafriman, Truman's special adviser on foreign affairs, has handled some of the biggest U.S. diplomatic assignments during and since the Second World War.

(Reuters News Agency reported, meanwhile, that Iranian s today cut the telephone line between the oil capital of Abadan in southern Iran and Basra, Iraq, where the manager of the British Oil Concessions has been operating from since he left Iran.

(And the company, Anglo-Iranian, announced in Abadan that 150 British technicians would be evacuated from the huge refinery there in the next 10 days —the first large-scale cut in the refinery staff. But officials said there will still be 1,000 Britons left in Abadan after the 150 leave.)

Grady declined to disclose the contents of the note, but other sources described it as another appeal for calm in the dispute which threatens to close down the world's largest refinery and industry.

May Go to U.N. Council

London, July 9—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said today Britain is "considering" action by the United Nations Security Council to order Iran to keep her hands off the British-run oil industry.

Morrison told the House of Commons the government might be followed if Iran positively rejected the recommendation of the International Court of Justice to allow the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to continue oil producing operations pending a negotiated settlement of the British-Iranian dispute.

Iran announced today she was rejecting the ruling of the court, and apparently any other rulings the international body might make, However, Morrison told the house the Iranian attitude on the ruling "is still obscure."

Britain has formally accepted the ruling.

Kinsmen's Entry In Softball Loop Has Second Win

Kinsmen's entry in the Belleville Pee Wee Softball League cracked up its second win with a 17-12 victory over Gourley's in a game played last week at Fireman's Park.

Kinsmen struck for 10 runs in the first inning for an insurmountable lead and then staved off a four-run Gourley rally in the last inning to take an easy win.

McClarin did the pitching for the winners. He received some solid offensive support with Joyce leading the way with four hits in four official appearances.

All teams in the Pee Wee League are squaring off for a round robin tournament that will decide the group's OASA representative in the provincial playoffs.

Boys Descend On 'Y' Camp For Holiday

An army of boys descended on Moira Lake Y.M.C.A. camp over the weekend filling every available space and anticipating weeks of profitable enjoyment ahead. In spite of the holding up of the previous week and with the generous support of the Rotary club of Belleville a staff of a dozen men, women and boys worked from morning till night to get the place in readiness for the first arrivals. Rotarians directed a program of improvements to the buildings which included paint, new roofing and renewal of screens to insure a pleasant and comfortable environment for the campers. This work was directed by Rotary president Court Miller and camp property chairman Douglas Williams assisted by Al. J. Davis the Y.M.C.A. general secretary.

On the camp grounds to greet the campers and their parents on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hazzel the camp director and camp mother respectively, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davis the Y.M.C.A. program director. Enrollment was completed when each boy visited Miss Mary Williams Reg. N., for medical check ups. It was a hungry group of campers which sat down to the supper meal ably prepared by Miss Margaret Tuck and Arthur H. Mitchell, after a try in the inviting water for the first swim of the season.

An interesting evening's program was organized by Dr. Mark and the counsellors including sports and camp fire. Appointed as counsellors are Doug Reid, Tom Lynch, Barry Kells, Bill Schillinger, and Bill Gault.

Two Stolen Cars Found Abandoned On Parking Lot

Out-of-town automobile thieves using stolen cars as a means of transportation find the Belleville Hotel parking lot a convenient place of exchange, it is the opinion of local police.

During the weekend two cars stolen in Toronto and Oshawa were found abandoned on the parking lot, while at the same time a Toronto resident reported to police that his car had been stolen from the same lot.

On at least one or two previous occasions stolen cars have been found abandoned on the same parking lot.

Police explained that the parties responsible have apparently figured it out that the local hotel parking lot is a good place to work from as it is private property and the cars left there could be assumed to be owned by hotel guests. By leaving the cars there their disposal by police would naturally be delayed some time.

The operators apparently steal the cars solely as a means of transportation and not with any intention of selling.

Air Commodore 'Laurie' Wray, City, Promoted

Ottawa, July 9 (CP)— A Canadian was named today to one of the top posts in the Atlantic Pact Air Force in Europe.

To the R.C.A.F.'s Air Vice-Marshal J. L. Plant, C.B.E., A.F.C., 41, a native of Wales who was educated in British Columbia, goes the biggest job yet given a Canadian in the drive to build up western Europe's defences.

The defence department announced he will go to Paris to become assistant chief of staff for personnel and logistics at the headquarters of American Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of the Allied Air Forces in Central Europe.

Gen. Norstad is building up under command of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's integrated force and will control all U.S., Canadian and Air Division of 11 Fighter squadrons under his command.

The appointment, effective Aug. 15, is a recognition of that fact.

Canadian Army and Air Force officers have been posted to the Eisenhower command in the last few months but they were well below the rank of air vice marshal, equivalent to the army's major-general.

The take over Air Vice-Marshal Plant's job as director of personnel at R.C.A.F. headquarters, Air Commodore Laurie E. Wray, C.B.E., 44, a native of Belleville, whose job as commandant of the R.C.A.F. Staff college in Toronto will be taken over by Air Commodore J. L. Hurley, C.B.E., 44, a native of Fredericton, who has been serving in London.

It is expected here then when Canada finally does get an Air Division in Europe a second air vice marshal will be posted there to command it. The forerunner of the division, one Fighter squadron, now is in Britain.

A. V. M. Plant graduated in mechanical engineering from the University of British Columbia and joined the R.C.A.F. in 1931. He commanded a coastal command squadron in Britain and Ceylon as well as two R.C.A.F. Bomber stations in Britain during the war.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, July 9 — (CP) — The price spread was raised today on the cattle market at the Ontario stockyards. Lambs were $1 higher at $37 for ewes and wethers. Bucks sold at $36. Good light sheep brought $18-$22; common down to $10.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 9 (CP)—Base metals climbed higher in an otherwise mixed and dull stock market as the session progressed today.

In base metals Hudson Bay jumped $1.25 and Consolidated Smelters added $1. Steep Rock, Quebec Manitou, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, New Calumet, Normetal, United Asbestos and East Sullivan all posted moderate increases. Noranda went against the trend for a 1-2 loss.

Industrials stayed in a fairly mixed and narrow path with little feature. Refining oils, retail stores and utilities showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Papers, steels, agriculturals, foods, liquors and manufacturing companies were about balanced while banks and textiles eased.

Western oils weakened at the opening but then turned mixed. Senior golds were irregular with little change. A few secondary golds were up pennies.

Cheaper Dollar Is Predicted By Johnson

Washington, July 9 (AP)—Eric Johnston told the United States today to look for "a much cheaper dollar"—worth perhaps 30 to 40 cents in 1959 terms—if economic controls are scrapped.

Declaring that the dollar now is worth about 53 to 54 cents in 1939 value, Johnston said "my guess is that it might be worth between 30 and 40 cents in 1959 purchasing power. In 10 years, if you don't do something about inflation."

Johnston, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report, predicted a government deficit this year of from $5,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000.

And under the present defence program he estimated the cash deficit in the budget would be "up to 20,000,000,000 or 25,000,000,000" for the next fiscal year beginning July 1 1952.

Dragging for Body Of Frank Hazzard Is Continuing

Dragging operations in an attempt to recover the body of Frank Hazzard of Plainfield, drowned in the Bay or Quinte Sunday afternoon, were halted although choppy waves made the going rather difficult.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank Orr and Captain Gerald O'Brien, assisted by Police Inspector Clair Hayes are directing dragging operations. Several citizens with larger inboard motor boats have offered their use while other citizens have also turned out to help.

If the body is not recovered this afternoon, dragging operations will be intensified this evening after the waves go down, it was stated. The approximate spot in the bay where the drowning took place has been determined and the spot marked with a buoy.

Sift Twisted, Scorched Rubble For Fire Cause

Newark, N.J., July 9—(AP)—Authorities sifted the twisted, scorched rubble of a sprawling propane gas storage plant today for a clue to the cause of a series of rocket-like explosions Saturday.

Six separate federal, state and local agencies sent investigators to the 93-acre tank farm, still too hot to explore thoroughly more than 24 hours after the initial blast.

Meanwhile fire officials estimated damage to the Warren Petroleum Sales Corporation, and adjacent plants at $5,000,000 and said it may go even higher.

Of the 11 men injured in the holocaust, only one, remained on the danger list today.

One lone tank blazed stubbornly yesterday despite a constant stream of water played into a gaping hole in its side by one of 11 fire companies kept at the scene.

All told 75 of 135 tanks filled with highly-combustible cooking gas were blown in a series of awesome explosions that sent tongues of orange flame 2,500 feet in the air and were heard 20 miles away. Each of the tanks held 500,000 cubic feet of propane gas.

Mrs. Amy Foot, 93, To Receive Medal

Perry Sound, Ont., July 9—(CP)—For 40 years Mrs. Amy Foot, 93, or her husband, reported the state of the weather to meteorological headquarters at Toronto three times daily. They never missed a day.

Tomorrow at a ceremony at Parry Sound town hall Mrs. Foot will be presented with an Imperial Service Medal for "devoted service" in the meteorological reporting.

Her husband handled the job for 12 years and she took over when he died 28 years ago. It was "an outstanding feat" in that she never missed a day.

Usually awarded for faithful service to railwaymen and lighthousekeepers, this is the first time an Imperial Service Medal has been awarded to a meteorologist.

The presentation will be made by Andrew Thomson, controller of meteorology for Canada.

All-Out Fight Over Suspension Is Promised

Atlanta, July 9. (AP)—An all-out fight over the 90-day suspension of manager Dixie Walker of the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern Association was promised from a statement made by club president Earl Mann.

Mann, commenting for the first time since the suspension, said: "I want you to know . . . that we are going to use every weapon we have to fight this thing to the very end. We will go to the very limit in Dixie's defense."

Walker was barred for the remainder of this season and 18 days of the next by Southern Association President Charlie Hurth after a dispute with Umpire Paul Roy at Mobile, June 29.

At the time Roy forfeited the second game of a doubleheader Atlanta was playing against Mobile.

"As I see it," said Mann, "Roy lost control of the game in Mobile. He let the situation get out of hand and could think of nothing else to do but forfeit.

"Dixie never intended a forfeiture. He was never given proper warning."

The club president has been in a hospital for a serious operation.

Chief Scorer: F/L N. N. Young, Toronto; chief judge: F/O. E. W. Warrick, Toronto; announcer: F/L E. A. French, Toronto.

Earlier the 18 and 19 year olds have locked over by Group Captain G. P. Dunlop who voiced favorable comment with the progress of the novices. "The boys were here to have the air force sold to them and the majority were solidly sold in two weeks time," the Commanding Officer said.

The corps will return to Toronto to specialize in administration and trade training enabling the novices to play a more effective role in Toronto's ever-growing reserve wing.

Severe Storms Cause 6 Deaths In U.S. Midwest

Chicago, July 9 — (AP) — Wind-whipped rain and hail hit the American midwest Sunday, causing six deaths and heavy property damage.

Severe storms hit parts of Iowa, Minnesota, Michican, Missouri and Kansas, but Illinois was practically the whole state felt the blows of wild weather.

Five deaths occurred in Michigan. A sudden gust upset a boat in Crystal Lake, near Greenville, drowning three persons. At Grand Rapids, a man was crushed when a tractor overturned as he tried to clear his boat channel of a windfelled tree. Near Muskegon, a motorist swerved to avoid a large tree limb blown into the road and crashed into a ditch, killing his wife.

An 83-year-old man died of a heart attack as he watched from below over a barn on the Rockfield, Wis., farm where he lived.

In Wisconsin, Winds, lightning, rain and hail caused damage exceeding $1,000,000. Winds of hurricane intensity downed power lines, ripped roofs off buildings and blocked roads with felled trees.

CONGRESS

The cabinet is expected to pass an Order-in-Council authorizing publication in the official Canada Gazette of a proclamation formally ending a war which began on September 1939, took 42,000 Canadian lives and cost this country billions of dollars.

Soon after that action Canada and the west German republic will move to establish full diplomatic relations. Hon. T. C. Davis, Saskatchewan Liberal judge who now is head of the Canadian mission at Bonn, will assume the title of ambassador.

In Ottawa, Dr. Werner Dankwort, new consul-general, is expected to become the first postwar German ambassador to Canada. He has been here for some weeks.

Canada's action in ending the state of war will roughly coincide with similar steps by her wartime allies, the United States, United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand and others.

The way is expected to be left open for stationing of Canadian troops in Germany in peacetime because indications are it is western Germany where the 27th brigade will be posted this year or next.

RECORDS SHARP QUAKE

New York, July 9 —(AP) — Fordham University's seismograph last night recorded a fairly sharp earthquake about 2,100 miles southwest of here.

The first tremor was felt at 8.10.45 p.m. EDT and the second at 8.13.56 p.m.

The university located the earthquake about 1,900 miles southwest of Cleveland, O. That would place the quake in West Guatemala, the school said.

The quake was "unusually deep" and could have caused considerable damage, the report added.

THE SHAME OF A FREE COUNTRY

We find it rather incongruous in this day and age to read a United States magazine trumpeting the advance of white-negro relationships. In a tone which fully indicates that it thinks that Atlanta, Georgia, relaxed its segregation laws in a dignified and worthy manner, Time magazine announces the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The convention was the first held in that city since 1920, when there were 65 lynchings. In 1950, the magazine reveals in a burst of joy, there were only two.

Theme of the convention was "End Segregation Now," which is undoubtedly a worthy ideal for such an organization. The real issue of course, and the shame of a country as large and free as is the United States, is that segregation still exists in 1951. Persons with dark skins are still refused accommodation in hotels in Atlanta and many other cities. Pious men have objected that they themselves do not condone segregation, but are forced to employ it because of others. That is a puny excuse, and worthy only of a snort of derision from Canadians.

It is a curious thing that negroes are allowed to fight in the U.S. armed forces, and yet are made to sit alone on streetcars and buses. It is also a curious circumstance when men such as Dr. George Washington Carver and Dr. Ralph Bunche, both negroes, can make such sterling contributions to the world, and still their fellow-men are looked down upon.

Atlanta, one of the great cities of the south, was good enough to relax some of its discriminatory laws during the summer so that the United Nations, with a negro civil servant as its chief, could ride on buses, buy refreshments at lunch counters, and obtain hotel accommodation badges, was allowed to remain with her companion. At the same time, however, a famous French negro singer was turned away from a first-class hotel.

Dr. Bunche, one of the speakers at the convention, made one of the most pertinent points. He emphasized that while communists and traitors, deserters and conspirators walked the streets of the segregated cities without fear of persecution, negroes could not. The lack of equality is a farce indeed.

We do not deny that discrimination is present in Canada. In a few isolated instances, there has been evidence that negroes have been refused their rights in Ontario and other provinces. But there are no wide segregation belts, and there never shall be, as long as Canadians retain their appreciation of the basic rights of man.

The members of the N.A.A.C.P. deserve credit. They did not demonstrate, nor did they become hotheaded. They just continued their plea for equality, in the face of those two lynchings in 1950. They deserve much more credit than does a society which allows their plight to be of sufficient general clearance to take up a full column in a national magazine.

THE DAMAGE WEATHER HAS DONE

The rainstorms of the last two weeks have not only made the lives of a few vacationers miserable. They have seriously damaged agriculture in Ontario to the extent of at least $10,000,000, with the majority of the loss being registered in the hay crops. At that, the above estimate is only a preliminary one, and the general feeling among farmers is that when an accurate count could be made, the damage would be much higher.

A report from the Dominion Experimental Farm between Trenton and Smithfield on this newspaper last week told of grain and hay fields. Tomatoes and potatoes have not been affected as yet, but if heavy rains do not stay off during the next few weeks, there is a chance that they will yet suffer. Apple orchards are looking well and heavily spotted with scab, because rain washes off the spray coverage almost as fast as it can be applied.

On the pleasure side of the picture, the weather has been anything but encouraging for vacationers. Yet the still waiting for summer to come as it should. Such thoughts, however, are irrevelant when one considers the damage done to agriculture, and thus to the economy, by inclement weather.

The agricultural damage has already been mentioned. One other form of destruction is that done by erosion of land along the Moira watershed. Two hours after the heavy torrents started last Wednesday, the part of the Moira running through the city of Belleville was a deep red. It was that color because it was eating away the land along its banks farther up the stream, and was carrying the lands with it.

The one consolation that the farmers have is that the rain could possibly have been worse, and that if relatively dry weather prevails in the next few weeks, crops will still be good.

DESTINY

When I was just a druggist's lad
Three ways to shape my life I had.
I had
One friend a banker was, and he
"A banker," said "he'd make of me
The second dealt in socks and ties.
He liked the twinkle in my eyes
And one day gave the chance to me
To master haberdashery.
Was it by destiny or guess
I chose, through life, to serve the press?
And would, if cause the chance
Decided as I decided then.

Today I know that had not
Been happy with the banker's lot.
And, doomed to selling socks
and ties,
Had lost that twinkle in my eyes.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are: 'It might have been'."
But not the saddest now to me,
For when what I've been glad to be,
Our president sold ties and hose
And to our highest office
rose,
But, English born, I couldn't be
So high by selling socks and ties.

Mrs. Raymond Carr and two daughters have returned home after visiting friends in Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Miss Claudia Wallace is visiting her son, Dr. Austin Walters, in Montreal.

Mr. Harry McConnell is home from Kingston for a few days on his vacation at his home on South Foster Avenue.

30 YEARS AGO

July 9th., 1921

Six hundred and seventy-five persons attended the annual Sunday School picnic of the Tabernacle Church at Lake O'Clock Point.

Places adjacent to the city had the benefit of a good shower of rain yesterday afternoon, but in Belleville only a few drops fell. The thunder storms which have been quite general during the past twenty-four hours have had the effect of changing the atmosphere to some extent. For the twenty-four hours ending at ten o'clock this morning the maximum temperature was 91 degrees and the lowest 71 degrees. At eleven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 82 degrees. It sure has been hot.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beamish of Birmingham, Alabama, are visiting for a month with Mr. Vandervoort, Church Street.

Mr. Albert Ling has returned to Toronto after visiting his mother and sister at their home here.

TODAY'S TALK

STRANGERS

We should always view a stranger as a prospective eye for every stranger is a potential friend. Most of our present friends were once strangers to us. Some of them may even still be strangers. For a journey into the human heart is not the easiest of adventures. Rightly arranged, however, it can be one of the finest and most exciting adventures, because it often results in a lifetime adventure of inspired happiness.

I never go into a crowded gathering, a restaurant, or a theatre, without looking over the many strange faces and wondering if there isn't at least one among the lot that I would like to change from a stranger to a friend. And I am sure that I am not alone in thus speculating.

Each one of us is a stranger. No better, no worse, than the other strangers about us. There is the same human feeling experienced by the stranger as is experienced by each one of us. I have often looked into the face of a stranger and thought to myself that it would be wonderful if all conventions could be set aside and we could walk up to such a person and tell him we would like to know him. Object? Friendship.

On my first visit to San Francisco, many years ago, I left my hotel early and as I came out of the door a stranger greeted me with a smile and wished me Good Morning. That simple act made a deep impression on me and I soon felt friendly to the entire town. I have since learned that it is characteristic of San Francisco this fine city to be courteous and hospitable in their relation to strangers who come to their city. I am glad to say that many strangers who have left me a good word about its guests, exampled to me many a time.

My father was a minister, and I recall that every time a stranger came into his church, everyone tried to be extra kind and considerate in their welcome. Dr. A. J. Gordon, who was a great author later in Boston many years ago, wrote a little book called "How Christ came to Church". The story is of a stranger who came in, quietly, just before the service and took a seat in the centre of the room. That stranger's face was radiant and the minister felt later that the stranger proved to be the Christ!

Letter to the Editor

Makes Comment On Indian History

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer,

The "Intelligencer" editorial of June 29, entitled "Indian Names Should Be Retained", was noteworthy, mentioning as it did, the melodious, flowing tones of the words, Massassga, Deseronto, Skootamatta, Kazabazua and Saguenay, (former Algonquin name for the Moira River). The place-name, Napanee, is poetic-sounding and the Mohawk designation —"O-No-Ke-No-Ga" meaning", "Lake-of-the-gods", is more picturesque than the present term, "Lake-on-the-Mountain". Be that as it may, it is interesting to inquire into the traditionally vague field; at least vague to us, of Indian lore, of ancient Redman-history.

Of course, all the Indian appellations were oral, except certain pictographic symbols, and upon the fine retival of the memory of the Indian legends (history) and traditions hinged, and still rest the influence of white-civilization, so that if the student turns to early historical journals of the explorers or of the first serious historians, he will be more apt to learn of the white man's own native beliefs and customs, not forgetting that he will have to take into account the European bias of the early outsider's statements.

Of these, the most interesting into English are the American poet, Longfellow's, "The Song of Hiawatha", His material was gathered from several sources, but the resulting narrative-poem highlighted by a delightful rhythm and "Hiawatha", who was Dekanaweda's spokesman, "Hiawatha's Wooing" plans" and spokesman extraordinary! In Longfellow's time, the name Dekanaweda was rarely mentioned or brought forward, as his memory was held in awe as the great peace-maker to the public, especially to the "white" public, through whose aid the formation of the League largely fell upon his spokesman. In the longer edition of Hiawatha, however, it had always been common knowledge that Hiawatha was only the progenitor and Hiawatha his main assistant.

It appears as if many different tribes had as many different "localized" versions or oral reports of the life of Hiawatha. Longfellow followed the Ojibway version, but he has actually had, "misled by the tail" so to speak! if he had settled on or discovered the legend wherein Hiawatha is the hero, he would have arrived at the original of the Iroquois version of the stories. After all, it was only human nature, that at that time, finding a white audience, every such Indian tribe or nation would seek to claim the hero as one of their own, under their own dialect, especially as the legend was handed down by word of mouth but respective tongues over a long period of years in order to impress the Pale-faces with their lore.

From the dim mists of antiquity it has become clear to historians that Hiawatha was indeed the man who, "taught the arts of peace" to the Iroquois nations to organize and promote the original League of Peace, which was in operation in 1390, but, that the Bay of Quinte (Kente)—Dekanaweda area was the birthplace of the League is beyond dispute.

From the dim mists of antiquity it has become clear to historians that Hiawatha was indeed the man who, "taught the arts of peace" to the Iroquois nations to organize and promote the original League of Peace, which was in operation in 1390, but, that the Bay of Quinte (Kente)—Dekanaweda area was the birthplace of the League is beyond dispute. He it was who primarily conceived the idea, and who went to Hiawatha, a plan that succeeded in maintaining the peace for many years!

Hiawatha, (also spelt "Hayontwatha" — approximately the same sound, but changing the sound into a written language, a combination must be made and sought, preferably the simplest) yes, Hiawatha was the natural orator; he was a thinker, too, than Dekanaweda, but he had the ability to put the ideas into an unconquerable resilience, he set forth from the Kente-district with Dekanaweda on the trail east and southwards to Onondaga (Central New York State, to) persuade the other Red-Indian nations to enter the League. Hiawatha was of the type that lived and one can well imagine what impressive, fine-sounding "incantations" there must have occurred as they visited each of the five nations, to get the consent of territory.

And then, before the ceremonial fires, Hiawatha held forth with unrestrained eloquence to the spell-bound audiences of North America's primitive man. Because of a speech impediment Dekanaweda, the less impediment! In statesman-like vision, there stood always by his side Dekanaweda, the elder chief, Dekanaweda, impassive, yet attentive and ready to nod assent or confirm the statements. Thus "the power behind the throne" of Hiawatha, Dekanaweda, born a few miles east of Belleville, near Eagle Hill in 1370 and the reason this legendary history should prove of more than passing interest to residents of this district.

Reputable historians such as Hale, Beauchamp, Horatio, Parker, Gov. C. C. Colden; Dr. Wm. B. Newell,—General E. S. Parker, Earnest Thompson Seton, School-craft, have all recognized the excellent qualities of political and statesman-like wisdom exemplified by this League and early American statesmen like Franklin and Jefferson studied the League's constitution to learn the secrets of its success.

Great significance of the League, the result and outward, visible growth of Dekanaweda's philosophy, made such a dent in Indian reaction all down through the process of the centuries known as the Iroquois of North America. Dekanaweda's advice and leadership was heeded and followed, and even in the 1800's, various self-appointed Indian "prophets" such as Wovoka (1885 in Nevada) preached peace, but the genesis of their teachings lay identified with Dekanaweda several hundred years before and they were merely echoes.

A recent book, "A Study of History" (617 pages) by Arnold J. Toynbee is a comparative study of world-civilizations and is the greatest book, the smallest book of all such, so far produced by historians. This book outlines and studies all the twenty-one world-civilizations including the Egyptian, Greek and Roman contributions to progress and I must confess that it was with a mild sense of scepticism that I opened the cover to wade through the voluminous material, but the spell of illumination could be found on the North American continent. Suddenly, after reading two hours later", so to speak, on page 417, paragraphs 4 to 8 inclusive, were unwittingly arrested in my half-hearted search; here was a man who knew of independent stature and reputation, who, to be sure, "had the cat by the tail", but who had the uncanny sense that he did have it by the tail, but in the magnitude of his historic analysis, had no further time to manoeuvre around to see "just where and where it ought to be handled!"

Nonetheless, Toynbee states in part, "It is remarkable that the North American Indians should have been capable of making such creative religious response at all to the challenge of the post-neolithic world to which they were almost continuously on the run from the moment when the first English settlers down to the crushing of the last Indian armed resistance, resistance in the Sioux War of 1890, two hundred and fifty years later. It is still more remarkable that this Indian response should have been of a high character."

The origin of this "gentle religion" of the Iroquois League can be traced back through its different prophets and teachers, through Hiawatha to Dekanaweda of the Bay of Quinte. Hiawatha's role as "gentle response" or "influence for peace" had been lacking in emphasis, the passive resistance to white-influx would have been much more effective had developed the philosophy or friendship and brotherhood and tolerance of the white people within the new white-man's expanding world. Hiawatha is the great Indian statesman as to which race of whites men to be friendly to, whether the French, the English or to the Dutch, was their own peculiar problem, but the Indian was gradually worked itself out as history's pages of the inter-white-man's wars are built up and the New World were turned one by one.

A group of Mohawk Indians of today, in New York State, known as the Mohawk Workers, have begun organization, has now come to a realization of the worth of Dekanaweda and Hiawatha and Dekanaweda who so ably founded their forefather's Confederacy of Peace.

They propose to erect a fitting memorial and the monument will have a 150 foot base and will weigh eight and a half tons. Originally they had intended to choose a spot at Niagara Falls, but have gradually come to see the aptness of erecting it on the present-day Bay of Quinte, the district where the Iroquois Peace Council met, at "A League for Peace" first dawned in the mind of Dekanaweda and where he was born and in which countryside he spent his youth.

In a mind's survey of this surrounding area, many spots of natural beauty might suggest a suitable site for the location of such a memorial. One such would be the crest of Eagle Hill (west of Deseronto) but as Belleville is the nearest city to the birthplace of Dekanaweda and as the city is contemplating the development of a park on Zwicky's Island, it would be fitting for the city to invite representatives of the Iroquois to discuss the proposed location at Zwicky's and to get their approval for locating their new monument there. Costing in the neighborhood of $10,000, this monument, if erected there, would become a great tourist attraction for the founder of the first world-league of Nations, "Confederations" at "Dekanaweda Park".

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

CANCER OF THE SKIN IS HIGHLY CURABLE

Whereas deep lying cancers may progress to a point where cure is quite difficult, before the presence of the cancer is known, is a very little reason for this to occur in cancer of the skin. Once the diagnosis of skin cancer is made, there are several methods of treatment available which are curative. Perhaps the simplest of these methods is to remove the cancerous area with a knife—making the incision well into the healthy skin surrounding the cancer. However, this method often leaves a deformity in its wake which is particularly important if the cancer involves the face.

In an effort to obviate or to limit the deformity following treatment, a method known as "chemosurgery" is now gaining increasing usage. This method involves the use of a chemical substance, which applied to the cancer, "fixes" or "tans" the superficial portion. Within a day or so, the "fixed" layer is removed with a sharp knife and is then removed in a manner recommended carefully for cancer cells.

Successive applications of the chemical are followed by subsequent removal of the fixed tissue, microscopic examination and determining the number of applications as well as the direction of applications and surgery. When no more cancer cells are found, the treatment is concluded and no tissue other than that actually invaded by the cancerous process is removed, thus limiting the area of subsequent deformity. This treatment is somewhat tedious but not particularly painful and in the hands of a competent operator is very effective.

In cancer, any resultant deformity—of whatever degree can be subjected later to plastic surgery, but ordinarily, the smaller the original deformity, the more promising the results may be following plastic surgery.

X-ray and rellium can cure skin cancer. The earlier the diagnosis is made, the more certain the possibility of cure becomes. The choice of the method mentioned is one for the physician on the scene to determine.

Skin cancer is more readily curable than any other type. Skin blemishes which show any change or growth may be undergoing malignant changes. These are known as "pre-cancerous" and should have prompt attention. Many of these may be removed but ordinarily, the smaller the surgery electrocoagulation or electrodesiccation.

There is little need for anyone to fear or dread a suspicious skin abnormality. Prompt examination, diagnosis and treatment results in a permanent cure in an extremely high percentage of cases.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How's That Again?

I hope this letter arrives in time to prevent a catastrophe. I just received your letter today long after I had mailed this letter to ask about this one. (P. L.)

Answer—Let's begin all over. Please write a complete article instead of above question.

Without Appendix

Friend claims a person can't live without an appendix and that if a person has his appendix removed he is in bad health. (J. P.)

Answer—Your friend must be mistaken—or else I've been under the sod these many years. A million persons, more or less, live happily without an appendix. The appendix in man is vestigial, has no function.

Aspirin Habit

Husband, 50, takes twenty to thirty (disguised aspirin tablets) in a week. He says they keep him in good shape. (Mrs. H. R. D.)

Answer—It might be worth while to read the booklet on the Abuse of Analgesic Drugs in the booklet about Heart disease, CVS. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope. (Copyright by John F. Dille Co.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On a fairly busy street where they were undertaking repairs to the paving, the workmen had erected barriers, overlaid with red lights, to halt its width. Traffic had to slow down and wrestle its way cautiously through the two-block bottle-neck.

Ahead of me was a car that seemed to be in difficulties. The Traffic ahead of it had gone on, leaving quite a long empty gap. But the unconcerned driver was unable to pass. After some little time, the dwelling car decided to go to irk me: and I gave it a polite little snort of my horn to suggest that it was holding up the show.

Nothing happened. I gave it a little more peremptory toot. The car, however, seemed to reduce its speed slightly. Maybe the deliberate chivvying in traffic is an infuriating business. The normal thing to do is to express your feelings publicly. You let go a series of long and short blasts of the horn.

The car ahead put on slightly more speed, but nowhere near the equal that of the traffic ahead of it, nor the traffic coming up against the pull-up as near as I dared to its tail fenders. I gave it another public honking. But the car in front did not even car give of having even heard the uproar.

Then a gap in oncoming traffic allowed me, with luck, to make a dash to get past the car in front.

As I raced past, I turned to glare at the driver: and looked fair into the large, baleful countenance of a policeman. There were two of them in the car.

As I stared, transfixed, the two of them exchanged a grin—and in a wide smile.

"I know exactly how you feel, right now," he called.

Strength for the Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SO WHY WASTE TIME?

Be not anxious.

Thus said our great Master Himself. But how is it possible to obey such a command?

Who can be otherwise than anxious in this strange world in which diplomats and munition makers seem to set a charge of dynamite? Who can avoid anxiety in a world where all the former ways of doing things are being rapidly changed? How can it be expected that men shall not face the possibility of unemployment and industrial blackliting because of world unrest? Who, indeed, can think of his business, his bank account, his debts, or his securities and not toss about consiederably at night?

Yet viewed simply from the commonsense standpoint, it certainly does no good. Physically and mentally we reduced resistance by such tactics, spiritually we dampen the fires which burn within us, happiness for ourselves and others. We might just as well go to work with a happy smile and whistle as it comes every day. To do otherwise is to wreck our happiness and not improve our case in the least with all our worries. Anxiety does not empty tomorrow of its sorrows; it empties today of its strength. It is a good John Wesley once said, "I care no more free than I care cure and swear."

SUMMER HOLIDAYS

Close to the heart of nature,
To Mother Earth's kind breast,
The weary and worn are turning
Seeking a place of rest.

The whispering wind in the hemlocks,
The splashing waves on the shore,
Bring balm to the weary and worn
To hearts that are heavy and sore.

How soothing the sound of the waters
As they splash on the rocky strand!
And sweet the restful silence
That broods o'er the summer land;

Here, cares of the world are forgotten,
The city's turmoil and strife,
And close to the heart of nature
Is felt the throbbing of life.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

MICE WILL PLAY

Comes a time in every man's life when his wife and his little monsters go away to a summer camp, or some other form of asylum, leaving him temporarily a bachelor, a free man in a great big dangerous world.

For most men, particularly if their tots are still in the wailing years, it becomes a monumental task to refrain from signs of relief if not outright shouts of joy in the days before departure.

One must maintain a hypocritical air of regret, as if he can hardly bear the thought of such sweet parting. Otherwise his wife might just decide not to go, or, worse, to leave little Frankenstein and his iron lungs behind "for company."

Eventually the big day arrives and daddy drives the whole trifle to the boat or train or whatever it is, there is a poignant little scene of farewell, they go and—instantly!—daddy looks 18 years younger.

In such circumstances the average man allows the chains of matrimony to slip away from him and begins to feel as debonaire and abandoned as a character from a novel of Scott Fitzgerald.

Main street suddenly becomes the French Riviera, life was meant to be lived dangerously, sigh heigh, sing-ho, the warden's away and daddy's on the loose. Hurry on down to my house, baby, ain't nobody home but us.

A montage of fascinating pursuits presents itself immediately, but a man is inclined first to savor the delights of his own home all to himself. How restful it is without the patter of a hundred little feet and the bellowings of his progeny. How luxurious to lie back on the chesterfield and let the ashes cascade to the carpet.

He looks in the refrigerator and finds a horn of plenty and, like as not, may open a 90-cent can of lobster on the spot. "The life of the bachelor," he will think. "What a wonderful time they have of it, the lucky dogs."

So All Alone

It may be assumed that this first feeling of freedom will wear thin within an hour. I have known cases where men were able to enjoy it for a full three hours, but these were types who had been exposed to extreme suffering such as children with measles or a recent visit from an unemployed brother-in-law.

The second phase begins when the man feels a gnawing restlessness and decides it is time to "do something". The house has come to seem strangely lonely and barn-empty. Almost automatically, he finds himself perched expectantly before the telephone.

Now occurs one of the strangest coincidences known to the human race. Dozens of citizens who ordinarily would be available and eager for fun and games are now bound by previous engagements.

The potential golf partners are out of town, sick, too busy, dead. The boys who might make an all-night poker session are broke, taking their wives to a show, baby-sitting, working nights or their keepers simply won't let them out.

All will decline with thanks and express envy at the happiness of a man whose family is away. The man will do his best to sound enviable.

A little panic now fills the temporary bachelor and he may do something quite desperate.

He finds himself exploring the possibility of going bowling with Susie, the stenographer with the ten-pin legs who greets him—and everybody else—each morning with "Hi, Good-lookin'". He may even try to get Susie on the phone, hanging up furtively after the first ring.

Suddenly he is realizing what a barren life he has come to lead. Without his family he is a man washed up on the shores of an uninhabited island, a wanderer in a strange land, the tree without roots.

Thus Phase Three in which the man becomes morose and given to wandering about the house, reading first paragraphs of old novels, turning the volume of the radio up, looking at himself carefully in mirrors, scanning the theatre advertisements and rejecting them, standing for long periods by the window.

He has begun to feel sorry for himself, to feel that he has been heartlessly abandoned by his loved ones.

It is well to draw a curtain over the first few days of a man's exile. Let us leave him to his own quiet agony and look in three days from the date of his family's departure.

The house, it may be observed, is a shambles. Dirty dishes are stacked in the sink. Empty cans are everywhere including the mantel-piece in the living room. A heavy powder of dust and cigaret ash covers all. Daddy's bed looks as if it had been slept in by six St. Bernard dogs. Everywhere there are drawers half opened.

The man of the house, himself, is in even worse shape. Unable to sleep in a house bereft of familiar sounds, he looks haggard. He has forgotten or neglected to change his shirt and his suit bears the evidence that here was a man who never realized, through all the long years, that it somehow got on a hanger every night.

He is lonely, and, more than that, he has diagnosed it. He misses his wife, who has suddenly become a blend of Betty Grable and Florence Nightingale. He misses his children and their laughter. He misses the easy, comfortable routine that every man takes for granted.

Somewhere, miles away, little Frankenstein is looking up at his mother as they sit upon the sand beach, or beside the lake or on the cool porch, "Mama," he is saying, "When is Daddy going to come, hmm, mama?"

"Sooner than you think," his mother responds in a voice of utter wisdom, for mama always knows about these things.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED E. WILSON

NOISY NESTLINGS

Birdland's babies are by no means equally well behaved. A pair of long-tailed waxwings can, unknown to you, bring up a family less than a yard from your window; but, by the time they are a few days old, purple finches draw your attention at a distance of 50 yards. Most young birds begin to call as soon as they become aware of an approaching parent, and stop once they have been fed and are left alone. Purple finch nestlings seem to cry, "Ch-wee, ch-wee, ch-wee," nearly all day long, at the pitch of their lungs. Fortunately, this commotion lasts only about a week, and, though loud, their call is musical.

This must be inherited from hens. He ranks high among bird choristers, his song combining the prettiness of the song sparrow's, the exuberance of the goldfinch's, and the richness of the rose-breasted grosbeak. And so it is a joy to have him so near, in spite of his noisy nestlings.

Their home is generally 10 feet or more up, on a branch of an evergreen tree, and is built of rootlets and grasses.

Mother is Dull

The parents both help to feed the children on buds, small fruits and some seeds. Their family characteristics are an extra stout bill, and a forked tail; but whereas papa is beautiful, mamma has no lovely coloring. She resembles a sparrow with a very much streaked breast, and the children all take after her.

Mr. Purple Finch is not really purple. He has been well described by one bird watcher as looking like a sparrow that has been dipped in raspberry juice. His coloring is more intense each summer. But he requires sunshine on him to bring out his best points. Then you will be amazed at the brilliance of his maigaga head, which is slightly crested, and the bright, rosy pink of a spot on his back just above the tail.

His breast is a soft pink. Watch for him sitting on the very top of some tree near his home, while he sings his best. That will be until the end of July. Once the children are able to fly he is not heard as frequently, nor is his song as prolonged. But he has taught his little sons to sing a different song, and by autumn they will be able to whistle, "Pee-ter-to-tee-to." This is quite unusual in Birdland

250 Residents Left Homeless, Seek New Quarters

Cap Chat, Que., July 6 (CP)—Forty-four families dispossessed, by fire, today picked up the loose strings of their disorganized lives from the shelter of relatives' and friends' homes.

About 250 residents of this Gaspe peninsula fishing and lumbering town were left homeless yesterday when fire destroyed 37 dwellings, a store and a small woodwork factory.

During the night, firefighters from Rimouski and Mont Joli completed the work of stamping out smouldering ruins that left a gaping hole on the west side of this town of 2,500 population.

Mayor Gerard Cote, who estimated the loss at $300,000, said he was preparing a reconstruction plan to be submitted to the provincial government for assistance. He gave no details.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross and volunteer Cap Chat residents set up relief headquarters in a boy's college. Each homeless man, woman and child today received a voucher worth $1 to purchase food. Supplies were plentiful.

This aid will be extended "for a few days," a Red Cross official said.

Beds and blankets for 100 persons arrived from Quebec during the night and were distributed to persons in need.

Last night, all the homeless were taken in by friends and relatives, eliminating the need of communal dormitories.

MATCHES BLAMED

Windsor, Ont., July 7 — (CP)— Children playing with matches are blamed for a fire Thursday night that destroyed a shed-warehouse at 1187 Wyandotte East and destroyed antique furniture valued at several thousand dollars.

The shed, used as a combination warehouse and workshop by Nicholas Kessler, antique furniture dealer, contained valuable furniture which was being reconditioned for sale.

Origin of the fire is supposed to be in a pile of refuse against one wall of the frame building. It is believed children set fire to the refuse and ran away.

Cleaner Combines Score Upset Over Bakelite

The unbeaten Cleaner Combines upset the powerful Bakelite nine at CNRAA Field on Saturday night by a score of 15-5 in an Intermediate AA fixture of the Belleville Commercial Softball League.

The loss for Bakelite left them still in a tie for first place with Bellville Motor Car but have also played two more games than the Motormen. Cleaners moved up into a three-way tie for second with Avon Jewellers and Stewart-Warner, to make a very tight race in the AA section of the league.

Loscinis, pitching his first start of the year for the Combines, hurled steady ball all the way with very good support by his team-mates. His excellent control of the ball had the opposition hitting right to his supporters and he struck out six while only walking one man to help his own cause along.

Early And Often

Cleaners got to an overworked Bobby Green early and often and forced him to retire after the fourth inning. They scored four runs in the first inning on four hits and an error and never looked back. They added another one in the second before really exploding for six tallies in the fatal fourth frame. Bob Green's getaway as his tired arm failed to respond and he walked six batters, four of them in a row. These combined with only two bingles, produced an insurmountable lead for the Combines.

A single tally in the fifth and three more in the seventh concluded the scoring for the winners, these last four coming from the offerings of Burtch who had replaced Green on the mound.

Bakelite produced a pair of runs in the second inning and had singles in the third, seventh and eighth and outside of a couple of fielding gems by Littlejohn were never in the game after the fourth inning.

Led Hitters

Mulvihill and Derushie led the hitters with three safe blows each with York, Jones and Young adding a pair in the 15-hit attack. Both Mulvihill and Derushie hit three-baggers with the former getting a home run as well. Young's double was the winners only other extra-base blow.

Cousins, Peever and R. Burley hit safely twice in a losing cause with Peever hitting a tremendous triple and the other two pounding out a double each. Peever's blow was the longest hit ball of the night but due to his slowness afoot, he was only able to get as far as the third sack.

The game, despite the 25-hit total, was played in the good time of one hour and 20 minutes.

The Teams:

Bakelite: Littlejohn 3b; Gord Graham 3b; R. Burley ss; Cousins c; H. Powers 1b; Cook lf; Peever rf; G. Burley cf; Green p, cf; Burtch replaced Green on the mound in the fifth; Green replaced G. Burley in centre field.

Cleaner Combines: James c; Mulvihill ss; York cf; Derushie 3b; Jones lb; Young 3b; George Graham rf; Draycott lf; Loscinis p. Herald replaced Graham in the 8th.

72 Golfers Enter Canadian Open For Professionals

Hamilton, July 9 — (CP) — Seventy-two golfers were entered today in the 36th Annual Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship, a record number for the tournament.

The field is six more than that which competed last year at the Summerlea Club in Montreal.

The winner over the par - 70 layout of the Hamilton Golf Club at Ancaster will pick up $1,000 as first prize money and an additional $1,000 as expense for the $73,000 Tam O'Shanter tournament at Chicago next month.

The C. P. G. A. title play, normally with a top cash award of $350, has drawn professionals from all across the country. Most of them competed in the Canadian Open last week at the Toronto Mississauga course.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, defending his C. P. G. A. championship, is ranked favorite to retain the title. Leonard finished the Canadian Open Saturday in a 3-way tie for sixth place, best performance by a Canadian.

This year the prize money was increased by $1,000 loosed into the kitty by E. B. Eastbourn, Hamilton Golf Club president.

On top of that, George May, promoter of the Tam O'Shanter tournament, has contributed another $1,000. This is to look after the expenses of the C.P.G.A. champion in the richest tournament that professionals shoot for.

Second prize is $700 in the C. P. G. A. contest this time will be around $500.

Most of the players shot practice rounds yesterday over the Ancaster course but high winds put a premium on low scoring. The best was a 71, one over par, made by Bill Kerr of Montreal, Beaconsfield.

Canadian Travellers Spending More Abroad While Visitors Are Spending Less Here

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Canadians are relative spendthrifts when they go to the United States, compared with what American visitors spend here.

This is indicated in a study of "the tourist trade and Canada's balance of payments" in the current monthly letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. It says:

"In 1950 Canadians travelling in the United States spent 73 per cent as much as Americans travelling in Canada, in spite of the fact that the population of Canada is only one-tenth that of the United States.

"Canadian tourist expenditures in that year accounted for almost half the total foreign tourist revenue of the United States.

And, Canadian tourist expenditures across the border are increasing, while American tourist spendings here are decreasing. For, in 1950, Canadians visiting the U.S. spent $191,000,000, up $26,000,000, over 1949, while Americans visitors to Canada spent $261,000,000, down $8,000,000.

Factors in this shift include increased American travel in Europe, and lessening of restrictions on Canadian travel spending.

U.S. Greatest Source

However, the United States still is Canada's great source of tourist income, and accounted for 94 per cent of the $275,000,000 which travels from all countries spent here in 1950.

The bank letter adds:

"Continuation of the increase in Canadian travel in the United States and decrease in American travel in Canada would rapidly diminish the substantial credit balances from international travel which Canadians have enjoyed for at least a quarter of a century...

The letter, in a review of present "general conditions" has another comment on Canadian-U.S. dealings.

It notes that in the first five months of this year Canada has bought $300,000,000 more goods from other countries than it has sold to them, and that this trade deficit has resulted in a decline in foreign exchange reserves (of $90,200,000 in the first quarter of the year). It adds:

"These losses are not alarming as our reserves are ample and it is proper to use them to tide us over the transitional period until settlements for United States defence contracts placed in Canada begin to be reflected in our accounts.

Concerning "general conditions" in Canada, the letter concludes:

"Rising incomes, the growing demands of the defence effort, and a continued high level of capital formation indicate, on balance, a continuance of inflationary influences."

Loop to Hold Two All-Star Games This Year

At the Central Ontario Baseball League meeting held yesterday it was decided to hold two all-star games this year, the first being held in Belleville on Tuesday July 24 and the 2nd in Brockville on Tuesday, August 7th. The hope was expressed that this would be an annual affair.

For these two games the league will be divided into two divisions, an eastern and western group, with Kingston, Brockville and Smiths Falls in the east and Napanee, Belleville, Batawa and Picton in the west.

Pat Wilson, manager of the Belleville Senators, was chosen to handle the managerial reins of the western forces in the premiere with Gord Moffitt, Joe Killoran and Walt Frazer acting as coaches. For the eastern end Andy Herschock of Brockville will be doing the honors, capably assisted by Stan Scrutton and Harry O'Neill.

The line-ups for these two games will be chosen by the aforementioned men and will be announced later in the week.

DANGER BY THE RIVER

Lethbridge, Alta., (CP)—Citizens who go hiking or picnicking in the nearby river bottom area have been warned to be careful of rattlesnakes reported there this year.

GOOD-BY, MR. MALIK

Outward bound on the S. S. Gripsholm, Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, waves goodbye to the continent that he may not see again. Going home for a vacation, Malik, who has suffered for some time with a heart condition, may not return to his duties at the United Nations. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.—Central Press Canadian.

Front end styling improvements of Studebaker's 1951 passenger car offerings center around the new grille, which "optimizes" air intake and bumper support splash shield. Design changes in the rear are reflected principally in the new trunk deck handles enclosing lock, lid release and license plate lamp, and the re-designed tail lamps which give much greater lighting both rearward and laterally. Other features include the use of wider rear springs to improve lateral stability, one-piece windshields, centerpoint steering, new instrument panels, and one-piece rear windows on all models except the 2-passenger and business coupes. FOXBORO

Mrs. E. Denyer Talks to W. M. S.

Foxboro—The regular meeting of Foxboro W.M.S. was held on Thursday in the SS. room, under the leadership of Mrs. J. G. Sills and Mrs. Frank Jones. The theme of the worship service was "Tell Me About Jesus".

The Scripture lesson taken from the 23rd Psalm was read in unison. Mrs. Sills gave a short reading on "The Hunger of the Heart of God".

Mrs. E. Tummon and Mrs. V. Prewer rang a duet which everyone enjoyed. Mrs. George Priest gave a short talk on "Trinidad", the mission study for this month.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. H. Shetler conducted the business period and then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Erle Denyes, the Bay of Quinte delegate to the Dominion Board, which met the last week in May in Toronto Emmanuel College. Mrs. Denyes told of the various sessions and discussions in which the leaders of the W.M.S and the missionaries reviewed the work done, and planned for the coming year. She said "we have no idea how far the influence of the W.M.S. reaches", and told us of a delegation going to the Premier of Canada, with a Temperance resolution and being received so graciously, with a promise to do what he could.

She described her visits to the Fred Victor Mission, the Home for the retired missionaries, the Church of All Nations, where she attended a Bulgarian Church service, and a Greek Orthodox service.

The group learned of the missionaries who have had to be recalled from Korea and China and of their great interest and concern for the native Christians, who are still trying to carry on and gave the W.M.S. this thought "To live in the hearts of our fellowmen is not to die".

Mrs. E. Chambers moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Denyes, and all who had assisted in the program. Rev. Mr. Platt closed this very interesting meeting. All enjoyed a cup of tea and a social half hour. Thirty were present at the meeting.

Belleville Redmen Score 2-0 Shutout Over Bata Shoemen With Bower Winning Hurler

By MAURICE REID

Youthful Harry Bower, Redmen righthander, emerged victorious in a thrilling hurling duel with Batawa's Art Wright when the scarlet-shirted homestery shut out the Shoemen by a 2-0 score at the Fair Grounds Saturday night.

The win, second straight for the Reds, bolsted them into a three-way tie for second place in the COBL standing with Kingston and Batawa.

Bower, a slim bespectacled righthander, fashioned one of the finest clutch-pitching efforts seen here in some time. His slow, deceptive delivery had the opposition baffled and despite the fact that he allowed seven hits, all singles, they could not dent his armor and the bases were left cluttered with Batawans. On several occasions he retired the side with foemen in scoring position but his cunning effort came in the ninth inning when with two out and Redmen runners on third and first, he struck out Vern Green to win a striking victory.

Deserved Better Fate

Art Wright deserved a better fate as he too turned in a masterful effort. He handcuffed the Redmen batters to three hits although one of these, a double by Johnny Dean, drove in the only earned run of the night. A couple of costly errors did not help his cause at all. Art struck out seven Bower's five and each pitcher issued two free passes.

Belleville scored their first run in the second inning, when 'Stuck' Reeves received a life on O'Shaughnessy's error, stole second, and came in a minute later when Dick Fitzpatrick's single to right field after Soules had gone down on strikes. "Stuck" Leary then opened the inning with a drive that seemed a sure hit into left field but at the last minute O'Shaughnessy went back and to his left and with a terrific limb fling the ale snagged the ball in the webbing of his glove.

Acquino Elected

The Shoe-towners received a lift to their chances in the third inning, when Johnny Acquino was elected from the game for arguing a call with plate umpire "Lefty" George Whitman. It all happened after Sam Mulholland had singled to left and stole second on the next pitch. With Bob Geary at the plate, and the count one ball and no strikes, Wright pitched one that just missed the inside corner according to umpire Whitman, Johnny chose to disagree, however, and when he persisted in his arguments was ordered from the game. Vern Green came in to catch at this point with right fielder "Mouse" Bush moving to second and Frank Hazzard going into right. Centreal did the catching from the fourth inning on with Green and Bush returning to their former positions and Hazzard retiring from the game.

The Redmen received very few scoring opportunities from Wright but used them to their fullest advantage. They scored their second run in the bottom of the eighth on Johnny Dean's tremendous drive into left field scoring Sammy Mulholland, who had previously walked and advanced to second on Geary's infield out.

Threatened In Every Frame

Batawa, on the other hand, threatened in almost every inning although they had only one solid hit from the third until the ninth. They left a total of ten men stranded on the bases as youthful Barry was impregnable in the pinches.

Their best scoring chance of the night came in the ninth, when Cosgrove, who had replaced O'Shaughnessy at short, singled to open the inning. He advanced as Bush went out second to first on a very close play. Rankin then drew the second base on balls issued by Barry after Cosgrove had advanced to third on a passed ball. Bower took charge of the hub(8).

Kingston Leafs Beaten by Memos

Kingston, July 9 (CP)—Kingston Leafs suffered their second defeat in as many days of Central Ontario Baseball League competition as they bowed Saturday to Brockville Memos 11-3.

The visitors jumped on young Jim Richards for seven runs in the first two innings before he gave way to Babe Stinson, who allowed another one on a wild pitch.

Babe limited Brockville sluggers to another three runs over the remaining seven innings but his teammates failed to break into the run column after a two-run rally in the fourth.

Lefty Jim Hayes hurled brilliant five-hit ball for Memos and had no fewer than 12 Leafs hitting on a third strike to his curve pitching. Hayes fanned 13 batters.

Ray Robinson Heavy Favorite To Defeat Turpin

London, July 9—(AP)— Sugar Ray Robinson, the boxing king of two continents, has tapered off his five-day training for the first defence of his five-months-old world middleweight title.

He meets home-loving Randolph Turpin of Britain over 15 rounds or less at the 18,000-seat Earl's Court arena Tuesday night. The place has been sold out since the day after the fight was announced.

Turpin's record of 43 victories in 46 pro fights—all in Britain—have boosted the 23-year-old clouter's stock to the point where he is rated by the National Boxing Association as the No. 1 middleweight after Robinson.

Turpin is the second Negro to hold a British boxing title — the first was his oldest brother and present trainer, Dirk.

Britain's legal bookmakers, who have made Sugar an odds-on favorite, are laying 6-4 against the clouter ending in the first five rounds. You can get 7 to 1 against Robinson needing the full 15 rounds and 66 to 1 against the possibility of a draw.

Robinson has been in Britain since last Wednesday after a second whirlwind tour of continental rings in which he stopped four opponents and got involved in a hectic decision in Berlin. He knocked out Gerhard Hetz of Germany twice in two rounds, was disqualified for kidney punching and then saw the fight classed as a "no decision" after a meeting of Berlin boxing authorities.

He expects to scale around 155 or 156 for the weigh-in Tuesday. Turpin will weigh about 159.

Sports Roundup

By TED SMITH
(For Hugh Fullerton)

Detroit, July 9—AP—"Where," asked Hank Greenberg with an earnest look on his face, "would you play Orestes Minoso if we had him?"

The implication of course was that the American League's leading hitter, selected for the all-star team, was not quite good enough to make the Cleveland club.

"I wouldn't take out Al Rosen for Minoso," said Greenberg, "and I'm perfectly satisfied with Lou Brissie."

Thus Hank, the one-time Detroit Tiger slugger now president of Cleveland Indians, diagnosed the year's most famous trade that sent Minoso from Cleveland to Chicago White Sox and brought Brissie, the big left-handed pitcher, from Philadelphia to Cleveland, in addition to distributing numerous players.

Thing Baseman

"Minoso is supposed to be a third baseman," continued Hank. "Well, I'd rather have Rosen."

Rosen is hitting almost 100 percentage points less than Minoso and did not make the all-star game, but Hank is right.

The White Sox, however, have not decided where to play Minoso. He's seen more action in the outfield than at third.

Cleveland, after a wobbly start, now is in the thick of the American league pennant race and here is how Greenberg sees it:

"It's going to be a five-team race — Cleveland, Boston, New York, Chicago, and Detroit. It will be tight right up to the wire.

"We were hurt when Lake Easter was injured at the start of the season. He's just getting back into shape. If you count Easter's games in, whether he has played league by 10 games. That's how far us, we would be leading the much difference one man can make to you."

Red Sox Fan Anew Pennant Dreams by Defeating Yanks For Third Straight Time

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Can Boston Red Sox do it this time?

That's the question fans are asking today as the thrilling American League pennant race takes time out for the all-star game.

The Red Sox fanned anew the pennant dreams of their legions yesterday by beating New York Yankees 6-2. The victory was Boston's eighth straight at home over the Yankees and the 13th in the last 17 starts.

By winning the Red Sox took over second place from the fading Yankees and remained one game behind the front-running Chicago White Sox who posted through 5-4 decision over the last-place St. Louis Browns.

The Yankees are two games behind and their third-place position is endangered by the onrushing Cleveland Indians who took a doubleheader from Detroit 8-3 and 10-2. The Indians are only four games out of first place.

While the American League leaders were idle Brooklyn Dodgers pulled 8 1-2 games away from the runner-up New York Giants in the National.

The Dodgers downed Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 in 10 innings while the Giants dropped a 6-5 10 inning decision to Boston Braves. St. Louis Cardinals split a pair with Pittsburgh Pirates, the latter winning the first 9-8 after nosing the nightcap 9-8. A double-header between Chicago and Cincinnati Reds rained out. In remaining American-League action Washington Senators bumbled Philadelphia Athletics twice, 3-1 and 8-2.

A crowd of 29,843 fans roared approval as the Red Sox came from behind to trip the Yankees for the third time in as many days in Boston.

New York nicked Ray Scarborough, who turned in his second complete game of the season, for a 2-0 lead in four innings. But two-run homers by Lou Boudreau and Clyde Vollmer in the fifth and sixth innings off Vic Raschi turned the tied.

Chicago also extended its margin at the head of the Browns, The Sox trailed 4-3 entering the seventh when they tied the score. They won in the eighth on two singles and Bob Dillinger's run-scoring fly.

Early Wynn and Mike Garcia turned back the Tigers before 41,154 fans in Detroit. Cleveland scored five runs in the seventh inning on five hits and a walk to snap a 3-3 tie and win the opener. Vic Wertz accounted for all Detroit's runs with a homer in the sixth.

Garcia breezed to his 10th victory in the nightcap that was called after eight innings because of darkness. Larry Doby supplied the punch with a pair of home runs. The Indians made base won 13 of 14 from the Tigers.

Con Marrero and Sid Hudson pitched Washington to its double victory over the A's, both pitching only seven hits. Mickey Vernon drove in four runs on a triple and single.

Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers belted a home run with Duke Snider on base in the 10th to beat the Phils. Reliefer Jim Konstanty served up Robinson's playoff sock as he was charged with the loss.

A 10th-inning home run also beat the Giants. Sid Gordon delivered the winning wallop for the Braves off Dave Koslo.

Ralph Kiner celebrated his return to action after a three-week suspension by socking his 20th homer and two doubles to lead the Pirates to victory over the Cards in the opener at Pittsburgh.

Doris Hart Sweeps Three Tennis Titles

Wimbledon, England, July 9—(AP)—If one of their own could not win the Wimbledon women's tennis crown, England fans had another choice — "Heartbreak Doris" meaning Doris Hart, of Florida.

The shy Miami girl, runner-up to the coveted title twice, made it in her third try, and the fans were almost as happy as if an English girl had come out on top. That's how fond they are of "Heartbreak Doris."

She defeated Shirley Fry of Akron, O., 6-1, 6-0, in the final Saturday. Miss Hart left no doubt as to her superiority, showing one of the finest collections of strokes seen here in recent years.

The experts here shudder when they think what is going to rule women's tennis here for years to come, American girls with all around games.

But they'll take 26-year-old Doris for the two deposed queens —Louie Brough and Margaret Osborne Dupont.

It was a great all-round day for Miss Hart. After she won the women's title, she teamed with Miss Fry to defeat Miss Brough and Mrs. Dupont in the final of the doubles 6-3, 13-11. Then, finally, she paired with Frank Sedgman of Australia to twirly the Australian combination or Mervyn Rose and Mrs. Nancy Wynne Bolton, 7-5, 6-2 in the mixed doubles.

Ken McGregor and Sedgman won the doubles, just as they are figured to do in the Davis Cup competition in December, when they defeated Vic Seixas and Dr. Drobny and Eric Sturgess 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 8-6.

Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., topped McGregor 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 for the men's singles crown.

Ontario Baseball

Pitcher Bill Slack "blew up" Saturday when he figured he got a bad call.

It cost him a ball game and London Majors and Kitchener Legionaires ended up with a lot of hard feelings.

It all happened in a tense 11th inning when Majors and Legionaires were battling for the winning edge in their Intercounty Senior Baseball League game. Legionnaires won the game 4-1, after a three-run rally.

Slack, the London pitcher, bearing down for 10½ innings, gave up a scratch hit. Two batters were walked. Then, thinking umpire Jack Clark made a poor call, he walked in the winning run.

In two other Intercounty games during the weekend, Galt Terriers retained their fourth place standing with a 5-2 victory over Guelph Maple Leafs and first place Brantford Red Sox defeated Waterloo Tigers 5-4.

In the Central Ontario League Brockville Memos downed Kingston Leafs 11-3 at Kingston.

In the same league, Belleville stopped Batawa 2-0.

Front Tigers won their seventh straight games in Nickel Belt Senior Baseball, defeating Creighton Indians 7-1 and Copper Cliff Redmen 11-4 during the weekend.

7,500 Harness Racing Fans At Thorncliffe

Harness racing returned to Toronto on robust fashion Saturday as more than 7,500 persons attended the opening of the Thorncliffe Raceway's 42-day meeting.

Malcolm Hagyer, owned by Kenneth MacInnes of Owen Sound, accounted for both divisions of the featured pacing stake. He was the betting favorite.

Maudeen Volo was second in the first division but faded to fourth in her second try.

Bill Simmons handled the lines for Malcolm Hanover and drove two superlative races.

The public had a thrill in the first race when Edna Volo, owned and driven by J. E. Seguin of Kingston, trotted home in fine style and paid $28.10. She had been virtually overlooked in the wagering because she was a first-time starter. When Cecilia G., the favorite, won the second race, the daily double paid off at $288.95 for a two-dollar ticket.

Jack Goest, Jr., will row in the Canadian Henley the last week of July and also at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Guest, beaten in the diamond sculls in England last week, will stay home by ship Thursday.

At Dortmund, Germany, Althea Gibson of New York, American Negro champion, Sunday won the women's singles in an international tennis tournament with a straight-set 6-3, 6-3 victory over Hannah Koszulu, self-styled former tennis champion of Czechoslovakia who now lives in Berlin.

Feliciasimo Ampon of the Philippines beat Bengt Johansson of Sweden, 8-6, 6-3, 6-3, to win the men's singles.

At Detroit, the American and National Leagues laid the legal groundwork Sunday for the House of Representatives monopoly committee hearings opening in Washington the end of July when baseball's method of operation will come in for searching study.

In addition the two big leagues, meeting separately, discussed behind closed doors the selection of a successor to Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Canada defeated France 3-2 in an informal lawn tennis challenge match at the Stade Roland Garpos Paris Sunday.

Lorne Main of Vancouver defeated Jean Claude Molliard 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 and Henri Rochon of Rochon of Montreal whipped Robert Abdessedian 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

A four-team Maritime Major hockey league, expected to develop into a six or seven-team circuit shortly, was formed at Charlottetown at a weekend meeting.

Sydney Millionaires, Halifax St. Mary's, Moncton Hawks and Charlottetown posted $1,000 bonds to assure their competition.

Saint John Beavers and North Sydney Victorias said they will compete but did not have their bonds on the table before Saturday's meeting.

At Inglewood, Calif., Calumet Farm's great Bewitch Saturday moved within close striking range of becoming the turf's all-time winning mare when she raced to a convincing victory in the $25,000 Vanity Handicap.

The favored six-year-old toyed with six rival mares and fillies and came in to add $18,950 to her bankroll.

Added to her previous winnings of $435,858, the net purse brought the Bewitch earnings up to $462,808, $3,830 shy of the all-time high for mares.

Wolf pelts are in heavy demand by the United States Defence agencies for use in fur ruffs and parka hoods.

Don Newcombe And Ned Garver Starting Hurlers

By JACK HAND

Detroit, July 9 (AP) — Big Don Newcombe of pennant - minded Brooklyn and Ned Garver of the last-place St. Louis Browns are expected to be the starting pitchers Tuesday in the 18th All-Star Baseball Game at Briggs Stadium.

"Expected" is the word because Managers Casey Stengel of the American League and Eddie Sawyer of the Nationals won't announce batting orders and pitchers until today.

The dope book says Newcombe (13-4) is a cinch. All eight members of the National League staff worked during the weekend, but Newcombe pitched only two innings in Brooklyn's victory over the Phillies Sunday.

Stengel is handicapped by the American League rule forcing him to pick only one pitcher from each club. Three of the best in the league — Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds of the Yanks, and Bob Feller of Cleveland—aren't on the squad. The idea is not to handicap clubs in the race by using up their pitching strength.

If Casey calls on Garver (11-4), he can be assured of not wrecking any contender's rotation. And he won't be giving any pennant rival a break. For the Browns play Philadelphia next and Garver still would be available for use against Boston next Sunday.

The lineups, excluding pitchers, were selected by vote of fans in a national pool by newspapers, radio stations and magazines. The fan-picked men must play the first three innings, at least.

The Lineups

Unless somebody slips on a cake of soap in the bath tub, they'll all be here, lining up like this:

Because they hold a 12-5 edge in games in this series and usually sling the Nationals in the World Series, the American is a 7-to-5 favorite.

The park will seat 52,000. Millions will watch on television or listen on radio.

WEEKEND JOB

London (CP)—A petitioner in a divorce court case told the judge that his wife preferred to polish his motor-car over the weekend instead of letting him drive it.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

The east beat the west in Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior play during the weekend and Toronto's West Yorks got rid of a jinx.

The Yorks ran out on their home floor Sunday to fashion a 14-10 win over the last place Fergus Thistles. The victory was their first at home since they opened the season.

Jack Howes with four, Jim McNulty and Frank Facto with three and Len Teatro with two goals led the York attack. Single counters were registered by Bruce Webster and Benny Harris.

Jay Jay Hill and John Lumley scored two each for the Thistles. Single goals came from Russ McWhirter, Hec Mackenzie, Elmer Harris, Doug Gillespie, Bob Gear and Jack Foote.

In Peterborough Saturday, the Thistles were drubbed 23-5 by the powerful Peterborough Petes. The win, combined with a 13-11 win by Mimico over St. Catharines, put the Petes alone in first place.

Art Dugan scored seven goals to pace the Petes, Russ Slater, Jerry Fitzgerald and Ross Powles got three each, Curly Mason, Joe Whitehill, Harry Whipper, Emmett Creighton and Bob Thorpe scored two apiece. Mick Magee and Don Crowe got singles.

Jack Lumley scored two for Fergus while Jack Foote, Jim Halls and Stan Abbot scored one each.

Mimico Mountaineers, upsetting the St. Catharines Athletics Saturday traded goals with the latter squad during the second half after building up a 5-3 half time edge.

Ken Lyttle, Frank Atwell each scored three goals. Bud Knox and Pep Chard got two apiece and Ted Towner, Don McPhail and Archie Dixon scored once.

Jim McMahon tallied three for the losers.

At Brampton, the Excelsiors came from behind to down Hamilton Tigers 9-5.

Bob Blakely led Brampton with three goals, Al Garbutt got two and Don Beaity, Bob Sutherland, Ralph Gowland and Gord Watt notched single scores.

The Tiger scoring was led by Tom Love's three-goal effort. Blain McDonald and Mer McKenzie got one each.

Jim Ferrier Second Straight Winner of Open

Toronto, July 9 (CP)—Sternfaced Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who pays every shot as if his life depends on it, won his second straight Canadian Open Golf Championship Saturday with a typical display of skill and studied concentration.

Two strokes off the leading pace when he started the last round of the $15,000 72-hole test, the former Australian shot a sparkling 67 over Mississaugua course for a total of 273—two strokes fewer than his nearest rivals.

Thousands jammed around the 18th green roared their applause when the defending champion settled his spikes, paused for more that 30 seconds then tapped home a seven-foot putt for his fifth birdie of the round over the par-72 course.

The 273 was good enough to withstand a last-minute rush by Ed Oliver of Hartsdale and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who wound up with 276. Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., leader for two days, skidded with a disastrous 79 for 277 and fifth place. Dapper Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., finished fourth with 278.

It is Ferrier's fourth big golf title this year and it moved him ahead of Lloyd Mangrum as top American money winner of 1951. His Canadian victory brought him $2,500 cash and possession for another year of the Seagram Gold Cup.

Five Canadians were among the 34 professionals who divided the $15,000 pot of prize money, up $5,000 from previous years. Stan Leonard of Vancouver led the Canadians with a 282 which put him in a four-way tie for sixth place. He collected $750 plus another $200 and the Rivermead Cup as leading Canadian.

Henry Martell of Edmonton scored 287 and won $180, Murray Tucker of London had 288 and won $145, Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon got $107 with his 290 and Jules Huot of Montreal Laval earned $80 with his 291.

A newcomer to Canadian open play, Al Severson from the Hillcrest Club at Mt. Clemens, Mich., was low amateur with 283 and Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex was next with 288.

Ferrier became the third to win the title in successive years. The late Leo Diegel did it twice—in 1924-25 and 1928-29. Sam Snead had two of his three wins in 1940 and 1941.

Ferrier shot the lowest score of the tournament on the opening day Wednesday with a 65. He dropped out of the lead on the second day with a par 72 and then moved within striking distance with a third-round 69 when Burke began his collapse after identical scores of 66.

Montreal's Hold Over Springfield Appears at End

It looks as though the whammy Montreal Royals hold over Springfield Cubs for the first half of the International League season is at an end.

Until Saturday, the league-leading Royals had fattened themselves on the Cubs by beating them 13 straight times. But the tune changed Saturday night when the Cubs won a 14-inning 1-0 affair. Then yesterday the Cubs polished off the Royal again in 14 innings behind the nine-hit pitching of Frank Marino, a flinger who is no stranger to extra-inning games.

Last month Marino chalked up a 1-0 15-inning triumph against Ottawa.

Not only did Marino pitch the victory yesterday, but he won his own game in the 14th. when he singled home catcher Nels Burbrink.

The two weekend losses did not hurt the cause of Royal much. They still have a safe nine-game edge over the second-place Buffalo Bisons, who had a holiday at the expense of Rochester Red Wings. The Bison collected 17 hits off the offerings of four Wing hurlers, to make it easy for Tom Acker to score his seventh victory.

Toronto Maple Leafs, outfit five to nine, nevertheless whipped the Baltimore Orioles 5-2 behind Russ Bauers, who had a shutout going into the ninth inning. But Amo Moore whacked a home run with day-from Syracuse Chiefs 6-2 and Mike Gollat on base to spoil it.

Ottawa Giants won both ends of the only doubleheader of the 2-0. Alex. Konikowski hurled the shutout. Elmer Corwin won the opener although he needed help from George Keller.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The bidding goes round and round. Where it stops nobody knows. Four bridge players are at a table. How many will enter the bidding? It is not known in advance or at the start or in the middle.

There are four types of opening bids; one, two, three, four. So are there four types of defensive bids; simple overcall, takeout double, jump overcall, overcall in opponent suit.

Each shows a different type of hand; each a definite minimum and possible maximum number of tricks. For each type of opening bid there is a similar type of defensive bid.

An opening of one shows five tricks, four highs, two sures. So does a takeout double. An opening of three shows eight tricks with a powerful suit. So does a jump overcall. An opening of two shows nine tricks. So does an overcall in opponent suit.

Only a simple overcall has no similar type hand for an opener. It shows five tricks. But does not promise more than two highs and one sure. It is too weak a hand for an opening bid.

A takeout double orders partner to bid. So does an overcall in opponent suit. Wherein lies the difference between these two? The overcall in opponent suit is forcing to game. The double is not.

Doubler shows a strong hand but not strong enough to assure a game. The other shows a hand strong enough to make game by itself if partner will help decide the best suit for the pair.

South starts with an opening bid of one heart when you have the west hand shown here:

♠K 9 4 3
♥A
♦Q 9 5
♣K 7 10 3

What is your defensive bid? With seven tricks you have not what it takes for an overcall in opponent suit. You have enough to double for takeout. A little more than needed, in fact.

If you have fish, do not call it fowl.

Eastern Canada Fatalities Total 31 Persons

(By The Canadian Press)

Deaths on the highway and in the water took a heavy toll during the weekend as thousands of Canadians sought relief from hot, humid weather in eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press survey showed 31 of the 33 deaths reported occurred in road or water accidents—11 in traffic and 20 in the water. A slaying and a fatal beating accounted for the other two.

Ontario reported the highest toll with 12 fatalities. Quebec had 11 and New Brunswick two.

Ontario's total was made up of 11 water fatalities, five automobile deaths, and a stabbing.

Drowned were: 16-year-old Jurden Laporte of Cornwall during his second day as lifeguard at Alexandria Lake Park; Frank Hazard, 20, of Belleville, while trying to retrieve a paddle in the Bay of Quinte; Judy Neal, 10, of Toronto when she got into deep water in Lake Simcoe; Dr. Arthur Desrosiers, 67, when he dived into the Rideau River near Kemptville and Walter Bemrose, 16, in the Grand River near Paris.

George Zebedee, 5, was drowned in a water-filled basement near his home in Belleville. Richard Chaney or Springfield, Ohio, was drowned in Lake Huron during when high waves overturned his motorboat.

Violet May Savery, 38, of Wiarton, was drowned in the Whirlpool Rapids below Niagara Falls when she fell off the railing of the Rapids Bridge.

Fell Into Slide

Fourteen-month-old Colleen Sullivan of Sudbury was drowned when she fell into the kitchen sink at her home. At Port Stanley, on Lake Erie, Adalgio Reginato, 29, was drowned when he was caught by an undertow. Witnesses said Reginato, who arrived from Italy six weeks ago, didn't understand warnings against the current.

Vincent Chibi, 21, of Leamington was run over by an automobile when he lay unconscious in the middle of a highway near his home. Joanne Murphy was killed in a two-car collision near Thamesville, Ont., William Sproule, 23-months, was crushed to death when he ran in front of a logging truck at Sharbot Lake, Ont.

Gerald Bradley, 36, of Latchford, was killed when his car went out of control through a guard rail north of North Bay.

Charlene Allard, 9, of Windsor was killed when she was struck by a car as she stepped out the curb near her home.

Mrs. Anna Slobodian, 28, of Oshawa, was found in a nearby Whitby ditch killed by a screwdriver thrust into her brain. Her husband, Roy, 39, has been arraigned with murder in the case.

ONLY CASUALTY WAS THE CAR

Men of the British 8th Hussars are trying to get their armored car back into shape after the vehicle was wrecked when it ran over a Communist land mine north of the 38th parallel. Despite the battered appearance of the car the crew of three escaped with their lives.

TEN FEARED DEAD

Bethune, France, July 7 (Reuters) — An explosion rocked ammunitions plant at Haineslez Lahasse, near this northern France town today.

First reports said at least 10 persons were dead and scores injured.

Free TV Shows On Sport Events Appear Doomed

New York, July 9 (AP)—What goes in sports television: Is the free show doomed? Will you pay theatre prices for all big fights of the future.

Will baseball enter the pay-as-you-go field?

It seems everybody has a theory but nobody knows.

The enthusiastic response to the limited theatre-TV experiment for the Joe Louis-Lee Savold fight popped the eyes of promoters around the United States.

Few thought people would pay to see something they had been getting for free once or twice a week.

Promoters can be counted on to seize the new pay-as-you-go angles and shake them for all they're worth. The Louis boxing office, sick for many years, welcomes a transfusion of dollar bills from a new client.

Realizing the terrific impact that the new medium, promoters know people will watch TV—sports or no. They reason it's better if you watch baseball or boxing than some other entertainment. They figure baseball clubs will come back when they tire of sitting home. And they believe new TV-bred customers will go to the events.

More important to the current bucket is the ready cash. Many small fight clubs exist only for TV. The fees paid by cigaret or beer sponsors represent important income to them. Baseball, TV wants sports, too, with its guaranteed audience - drawing power.

Every day somebody pops up with a new survey show (1) TV does not hurt attendance; (2) TV does hurt attendance. It all depends who asks who what.

For example, a recent fight show at St. Nicholas arena in New York Sports Club with the TV rights brought about $17,500.

Despite full television coverage, a New York Yankee-Chicago White Sox doubleheader on a sultry Tuesday afternoon packed 61,956 into Yankee stadium.

With no radio and no television, Louis and Savold sold out the Polo Grounds Garden with 18,179 fans paying $93,918 on a $43,000 last-day sale. And the counter-assessment which has been raised from $4,321,518 to $4,767,-253. The dollar has been requested to prepare a statement by Sept. 1 of the amount of county taxes paid by the town, and what it received in return.

WILL ENTER APPEAL

Goderich, July 7 — (CP) — The finance committee of the town council has been authorized to enter an appeal against the county assessment which has been raised from $4,321,518 to $4,767,-253. The solicitor has been requested to prepare a statement by Sept. 1 of the amount of county taxes paid by the town, and what it received in return.

Three Rouyn Residents Drown, Boat Sinks

Rouyn, Que., July 9 (CP) — Three Rouyn residents were drowned Sunday in Lake Opasatica, 16 miles southwest of here when their boat sank while they were watching power boat races after the dedication of a vacation chapel.

Drowned were: Donatien Charron, 38, his three-year-old son, and Forgues Blais, 25.

Mrs. Charron, 36, the only survivor, said Blais had placed some rocks in the bow of their outboard motor boat to weigh it down against waves from the racing boats.

"All of a sudden a big wave came over the top and the boat sank," she said.

The accident occurred during the fourth race, shortly after the chapel was dedicated by Rev. J. M. Pelchat of Rouyn.

TWEED,

Choir Member Recipient Of Farewell Gift

Tweed.—A pleasant time was enjoyed on Tuesday evening, when the members of St. John's Anglican church choir and the music committee, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor to spend the evening with Mrs. Constance Sharp, a member of the choir, prior to her marriage, when she will be leaving Tweed to make her home in Campbellford.

Mr. Charles Porritt, chairman of the music committee, presided. Mrs. Sharp was presented with two boudoir lamps for which she expressed her thanks.

Mr. Porritt then called on the other members of the music committee, Dr. M. G. Dales, John Sager and Carmen Aitken, who in turn expressed their feelings of regret in losing such a valuable person from musical circles. Mr. Connor, choir leader, spoke of the faithfulness of Mrs. Sharp and how he would miss her work in the choir as quite frequently she was called upon to play the organ. Mrs. W. Beatty, Mrs. W. Prowse and Rev. A. E. Hall also expressed their feelings.

A musical evening was enjoyed with Mrs. Edwin Foster at the piano, Mrs. Sharp singing. Mr. Harold Knapp, of Sulphide, played the saxophone.

Dr. Dales showed a number of slides of local interest.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of the choir, after which Mr. Porritt expressed the thanks of all present to Mr. and Mrs. Connor for their kind hospitality.

Enjoyable Evening

Tweed.—The pupils of S.S. 19, Rawdon, and their parents held a picnic at Bird's Beach, Oak Lake, and during the afternoon the teacher, Miss Eleanore Bush, was presented with a cup and saucer and a boudoir lamp. Miss Bush has taught in the school for the past four years.

WHY WE SAY

When . . . a Strong Knot . . . When . . . as Easy as a cinch, we may not be referring to horse racing, but merely to the fact that something is easy to do. A cinch, though, is a tight saddle girth with a complicated knot which makes it easy to handle during a race.

Mr. Don Donahoe presided and opened with the usual service of worship. Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave a full report of the month's receipts and expenditures.

Mrs. George Heasman spoke briefly on "Girls' Club Work". The eligible age is from 12 to 26 and married women can be included. The project begins in September. Anyone interested can telephone Mrs. Heasman.

Two new members, Mrs. A. Free and Mrs. Ross Smith were received into membership.

Social Meeting

On August 2nd, the next meeting will be held at River Valley school house. Mrs. Irving Coomber will be in charge of games and races with prizes for the children. A basket lunch will be served at 7 p.m. Mrs. John Kane with several assistants will oversee full arrangements for tables, etc. Each family is to provide their own dishes and cutlery as usual. Mrs. Percy Usman and her group will sell ice cream. Mrs. Ralph Usman and Mrs. Gilbert Finkle will convene the fish pond.

The affair will be a social evening for members and friends of the River Valley community and their families.

Program

The program based on "Citizenship and Education", was in charge of Mrs. Alex. Bush who presided with her assistant, Mrs. Earl Morrow.

The roll call was "a prominent man of Hastings County" and this honored many notables of parliament, county and municipal government and others.

Canadian Citizenship Pledge

The following pledge of Canadian citizenship was read in unison.

"I am a Canadian citizen, I inherit from those who have lived before me a vast and beautiful land, a land of forest and plain, lake, mountain and sea shore, — a goodly land. . . . I am heir of a proud record, for the history of my country abounds in stories of the love of freedom, of courage, adventure, sober commonsense and hard work. I accept my inheritance, humbly, knowing that a country's greatness springs from the wisdom and virtue of its people.

To my country—I pledge my loyalty; I will try to be a good Canadian, a good neighbor and a good citizen of the world."

All sang "O Canada", and Miss Barbara Green, Bethel, favored with a piano solo.

Education—Noted Men

Mrs. Earl Morrow gave an interesting paper on Education. She said Abraham Lincoln's message to his people at Gettysburg, was a perfect piece of oratory in the English language. This speech is now inscribed on the monument and Lincoln's home is now a shrine.

This noted man had little schooling, and yet he became a distinguished man of his time. Other men of note like Thomas Edison, William Shakespeare, and Robert Burns, also had little education and yet they were encouraged to think their own thoughts and become great men. Today, the greatest men who are interested in better education realize its great need. They feel that Canada's great duty is to have her young people grow up as individuals and be able to think for themselves and act accordingly. We do not want a whole group of youngsters turned out in the same mold."

Mrs. Ernest Carr read "A Man's Measure" and the group song "My Own Dear Land".

Mrs. Bush read a paper of interest on "Citizenship". This was based on "The Home, The School and The Church".

Home

The home atmosphere means a great deal to the growing child. Patience, tolerance and good dose of humor, is essential. All should strive for better living conditions. The home should be beautiful as much as possible, with all good points stressed. Cleanliness is essential. A good motto is "Everything in its place and a place for everything".

Music and good books are very necessary. Everyone in the home should be polite at all times. Grace said at the table is a good way to express thanks for God for the bountiful food.

Stress on Character

Character should be stressed and children should be encouraged in their work. Each member of the family should have a hobby of his own. A dog or a cat is good for children. Family conferences are essential and family picnics and outings are wonderful ways to enjoy nature at its best.

For the sake of health, the homemaker should provide good meals with efficient vitamins and minerals. Meals should be served on time. The mother should provide clothing for each season according to the family budget.

In school both teacher and children need more encouragement and less criticism. Parents should attend special meetings and discuss education with the teachers. Gramaphone records and sport equipment in schools are greatly appreciated and worthwhile and here is a way that Institute members can assist.

Church Attendance

Regular attendance at church is advised. Mothers should see that their children are baptized. Individuals should give financial help to the church of their choice according to their means. If you have talent, you should sing in the choir, or teach a Sunday School class. All newcomers, especially war brides, should be welcomed. Women should join whatever organizations they can afford and then work to help them carry on their activities.

Remember if you don't put anything in, you can't expect to take anything out. Each individual should use his or her talents for the betterment of the community in which he or she lives. All Institute women should remember "The Creed", as it does not hurt to be kind.

Mrs. Osmond with a poem entitled, "There are two kinds of people, those who lift and those who lean". It has been found that twenty people lean to one who lifts.

The program closed with "a government quiz", after which the lunch committee served refreshments.

Mrs. George Heasman voiced thanks for hospitality, program and refreshments.

Canada Setting Up 15 Reserve Radar Units

Ottawa, July 9 — (CP)—Canada is setting up more than 15 reserve RCAF radar units from coast to coast to train men and women in the complexities of detecting enemy aircraft.

They are called reserve aircraft control and warning units and are shaping up as an important part of the expanding effort to build a network of fighter squadrons, radar stations and communications facilities to defend Canada from air attack.

These part-time servicemen already number in the hundreds and in the fall recruiting will be expanded to take in women. From their ranks would come the trained people necessary in considerable numbers if war comes.

In peace, it is hoped many of them will eventually join the swelling ranks of regular force radar personnel as the latter prepare to take over the stations Canada is putting for the joint Canadian-American early warning network.

Reserve units have been established at Halifax, Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Ste. Anne De Bellevue, Que., Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. Another is being formed at London and more are planned.

Their job is to train people in all aspects of operation and maintenance of the complex equipment used to handle aircraft control, to detect enemy planes and give warning to friendly planes.

The Montreal unit, under dynamic Group Capt. Ken Patrick, has been in operation for a few years, much longer than most of the others.

This summer there will be radar reservist taking two weeks' full-time training at Uplands, Ont., Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Que., Kingston, Ont., and Chatham, N.B.

16 Correspondents May be Allowed At Kaesong Talks

Seoul, Korea, July 9. (AP)—United Nations war correspondents angered at being banned from yesterday's armistice talks at Kaesong while communist correspondents attended, said today the country had stolen a propaganda march.

Brig.-Gen. Frank Allen, general headquarters information chief, promised correspondents a "full investigation". There was a possibility 16 reporters and photographers would be taken to Kaesong tomorrow to cover the high-level, cease-fire negotiations.

The allegedly censorship of the status of Kaesong also aroused a storm among the correspondents. The military has referred to Kaesong as being in a No-Man's-Land leaving the impression it was an open city.

But Col. Andrew J. Kinney, chief of the U.N. liaison team which yesterday arranged preliminaries for the full-scale talks, told a press conference last night Kaesong "definitely is in enemy hands."

After Kinney's statement, the censor at first announced he would not pass the reference. Some correspondents promptly asserted they would ignore the censorship ban. Then the ruling was reversed and Kinney's remarks about Kaesong were passed.

Some newspaper men said the army had deliberately misled the western world concerning the status of Kaesong.

Kinney said several communist photographers were present at Kaesong, probably including newsreel men. He thought communist newspaper men also were there, although he was not certain.

The decision on the recommendation of army public information officers that 16 reporters and camermen be taken to Kaesong tomorrow rested with Allied supreme headquarters.

The 16 would be drawn from the various news agencies and newspapers represented in Korea.

"Time was when people used to joke about the typical artist who starved in a garret. But today those jokes have a hollow ring.

"Look around and you'll see lots of commercial artists like me making a very good living, thank you. I own my own home. Have a pretty good car. Everything's going my way. And yet . . .

"There'll come a day, years from now, when I'll want to start taking it easy. What will happen then? Will the garret get me?

"No sir! I've got things worked out so that I can go right on living comfortably.

It won't be long before old folks will be paid some kind of benefits. And I'll be glad to get that help when my turn comes —just like everybody else. But I'll have to add to that income with my own life insurance.

"That way, I'll be able to live a care-free independent life later on. And my family is being protected with that same life insurance from now till the day I retire.

"So I'm really sold on the idea of planning my future the life insurance way—the way that meets all my security needs!".

PEACE TALKS LIMITED TO MILITARY MATTERS

New Treaty for Japan Provides Few Curbs

Revised Draft May be Signed In Two Months

Occupation Forces Leave 90 Days After Ratification

Washington, July 10 — (AP) — Restoration of Jap's independence without formal restrictions on his military, political and economic development is provided by the latest and nearly-final draft of a peace treaty.

The United States has submitted to the major wartime Pacific allies the 5,500-word revised draft of a proposed "peace of reconciliation" expected to be signed in two months with few changes.

The new text was made available today by the Associated Press.

The State Department is circulating the proposed treaty in the expectation that it will be accepted by the other governments — except Russia—for signing with only minor alterations. The U.S. has proposed that a peace conference be held at San Francisco Sept. 4 to 8.

Settle Differences

The treaty revision reflects the settlement of differences between the U. S. and Britain worked out by Ambassador John Foster Dulles, and rules out reparations as such on ground Japan does not have the capacity to pay. The treaty, however, requires Japan to negotiate possible compensation for the Philippines and other occupied countries by making available Japanese industrial skills and services.

The treaty will clear the way for the projected separate pact by which the United States plans to retain troops in Japan and bases nearby, with Japanese consent.

It calls for the withdrawal of "all occupation forces of the Allied powers" within 90 days after the treaty becomes effective, but permits the stationing or retention of foreign armed forces in Japanese territory under or in connection with any bi-lateral or multi-lateral agreements which have been or may be made between one or more of the allied powers, on the one hand, and Japan on the other.

The proposed treaty would come into force when ratified by Japan and a majority of 14 other countries, including Canada.

Russia would be deprived of a veto which Moscow has been demanding in vainly urging the treaty first be drafted by the big powers alone.

Tokyo, July 10. (Reuters)—Landslides today left 23 persons dead, killing 28 in Kyushu, Japan's southernmost island.

One slide near Ijuin village buried ten children on their way to school. Five died.

The slides were started by heavy rain.

2 Women Killed And Five Injured In Bus Accident

Jasper, Alta., July 10 — (CP)— Two women were killed and five seriously injured late Monday when a sight-seeing bus rolled down a 25-foot incline near this Rocky Mountain resort town. Jasper is about 190 air miles west of Edmonton.

Twenty-eight persons were travelling in the bus operated by Jasper Park Lodge and driven by Ed Reynolds, 35, of Ottawa. The other 21 passengers suffered bruises and abrasions.

Bill Johnson, the driver or another bus following the lodge bus, said the eight-seeing bus slowed down to pass a parked truck just south of the Athabasca River bridge about one mile south of Jasper.

The crust of a new "blacktop" surface of the road gave way, said Bill Johnson who drives for Athabaska Tours. He said the bus stopped, slewed sideways and then rolled down a 25-foot incline at the side of the road.

Names of the dead and injured were not immediately available.

Former Health Minister Wants Cut on Program

London, July 10. —(CP)— Aneurin Bevan, former Health minister, and a group of left-wing M.P.s attacked the British Labor movement Monday to work for a curtailment of the Allied countries' rearmament program.

They suggested Britain should forego its plans for a "considerable part" of their labor and resources into a vast new manned aid plan for fighting poverty— and thus communism in the backyards of the world.

Bevan, leader of the left-wing faction, and about 24 supporters put forward these ideas in a pamphlet as part of a campaign to change the Labor government's home and foreign policies.

The pamphlet, "One Way Only", urged Britain to use its bargaining strength "to restrain the Americans" and halt a drift to war.

"In 1953, the American will possess a force greater than that which was ever possessed by any other community in peacetime. It is not unknown for a giant to wish to use his strength even though he is not attacked.

"The ting for the Allies of the United States is exercising their restraining influence on American policy in the cause of peace is now before it is too late.

"We may have no more than two years in which to save the peace."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 10. (CP)—Sprayshis—A band of unsettled weather extends from Central Ontario to west of Lake Michigan. It is bounded to the southwest by cloudiness, southeasterly winds and showers occurring chiefly at night. This poorer weather was moving toward Southern Ontario on Tuesday morning's weather chart, and may be expected to arrive late Wednesday.

Cool air which entered Georgian Bay area Tuesday morning will likely penetrate as far as Lake Ontario, during Wednesday, but developing southeasterly winds should then cause it to retreat.

ANGLICAN BISHOP DISMISSES RECTOR AT ST. BARNABAS

Rev. Harry Garbutt Says He Will Appeal

Toronto, July 10. (CP)—Rev. Harry Garbutt, dismissed yesterday as rector of St. Barnabas Church here, said today he intends to take his dismissal to the highest courts of the Anglican Church in Ontario.

The 49-year-old clergyman was notified of a "change in the incumbency" in a letter from Bishop A. H. Sovereign of Toronto.

Mr. Garbutt said he would relinquish his charge only if the Bishop proves he had a canonical right to fire him. He said the Bishop, not a minister's resignation from a self-supporting church such as St. Barnabas.

The Bishop told Mr. Garbutt that Hubert C. Cox, chief hospital chaplain for Canada, had been appointed to replace him because "it does not seem possible to you that we can in any peace in the parish unless there is a change."

Reasons for Mr. Garbutt's removal were incorporated in a report from a Diocesan commission on differences which concluded its hearings last Friday.

Claim Breaches

The report stated that "there have been deliberate and repeated breaches of the canons of the diocese during the period of Mr. Garbutt's incumbency."

It listed were alterations to the church building without consent of the congregation or diocese; failure to maintain a proper vestry list; repeated appointment of a rector's warden not qualified at the time by reason of residence, and holding a parochial tribunal which was improperly constituted.

The commission ruled that the burial of divorced parishioners from communion was "not justified in respect to the persons involved" and said the celebration of marriages of divorced persons is another example of his disregard of generally-accepted church practice."

Many Cease to Attend

"Many people have ceased to attend St. Barnabas either than accept Mr. Garbutt's ministry and teaching," the commission concluded. It unanimously recommended his dismissal.

Mr. Garbutt, speaking in his defence, said the trouble in the church was the result of a minority of "troublemakers".

He said he has learned that his predecessor, Archdeacon Alder, and man and W. B. Douglas, have stated that they will refuse to authorize payment of any salary to the new rector.

3 Gunmen Rob Woodbridge Bank of $6,000 and Escape With Fourth Man at Wheel

Woodbridge, Ont., July 10 — (CP) — Three gunmen, so at home they asked for a missing staff member, robbed the Woodbridge branch of the Royal Bank of Canada of an estimated $6,000 today and escaped with a fourth bandit, their driver.

The men are believed to be the same group who stuffed the bank of $9,000 on May 10.

One bandit asked "Where is Miss Bell today?" referring to Miss Velma Bell, who was present at the first hold-up and off duty today.

The quartet entered the bank shortly after 10 a.m. They made a quick escape by motor car after forcing a bank employee, Doug Kearney, to hand over the money.

Glenn Newans, manager of the bank in this village 13 miles northwest of Toronto, and accountant Bob Miller led citizens in a chase along No. 7 Highway. The same bank was held up May 10 by three armed men who escaped with $9,600.

The chase was given up after the pursuers lost the trail in nearby Hutchinson.

Bank employees said the robbers took the cash in the cage and robbed depositors who came into the bank. When the manager refused to open the vault even when a gun was held to his head, they gave up and left after ripping out the telephones.

Bank employees said they believed the robbers were the same men who held up the bank in May. One detected the same accent in one man and others said there were similarities in build in the two groups of men.

Canada Ends Formal State Of War With Germany

Ottawa, July 10. (CP)—Canada today ends her formal state of war with Germany.

The state of war, which began in September of 1939, was ended with the publication of a royal proclamation in the official Canada Gazette.

This country thus followed Britain, Australia and New Zealand, all of which formally ended the war yesterday.

President Truman has asked Congress formally to end the war for the United States.

The action has no effect on war claims and other reparations which will be decided later. It means only that a state of war no longer exists and that German Nationals no longer will be regarded as enemy aliens.

The government announced last fall that it intended to end the state of war as soon as it could.

Active hostilities ended when the Germans surrendered unconditionally June 5, 1945.

A statement by the External Affairs department said: It now is expected that Hon. T. C. Davis, head of the Canadian Mission to the United Nations, will be appointed Canadian ambassador to that area. A German consulate-general recently established in Ottawa also is expected to go up in diplomatic rank.

Blind River Council 'Scolded' By Board for Ignoring Petition

Blind River, Ont., July 10 — (CP) —This town's hottest controversial issue in years will be taken to the public tomorrow when Blind River's power supply is discussed at an open meeting.

The issue has seen the town council "scolded" by the municipal board for ignoring a citizens' petition when renewing a 10-year contract with a private power company. The board has ordered the contract voided.

On July 19 Blind River ratepayers will vote whether or not they favor renewal of the contract with Blind River Electric Light and Power service. The contract expired Jan. 19, 1951.

The Chamber of Commerce, which has called Wednesday night's citizens' meeting, has been advised that the company could not cut off power until the arrangements are made if the contract is thrown out.

The advice came from W. Sheridan, Sudbury lawyer and former Sudbury city solicitor. He said the Hydro Electric Power Commission could, and probably would, order the company to continue supplying power until other arrangements could be made.

The contract, approved by Mayor Louis Beytheiot and town council, followed, because a petition, opposing approval until details had been made public, was submitted to the council by a delegation of ratepayers.

The town has asked for hydro service but has been told it is impossible for at least three years.

Blind River is 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

BRITONS GET MORE MEAT

London, July 10. (Reuters)—Britons are to get more meat starting July 22, Food Minister Maurice Webb today told the House of Commons.

They are to have a sixpenny increase in three stages. July 22 the weekly ration, now the size of a small chop, will rise to a shilling's worth, two weeks later one shilling and twopence and Aug. 19 to one shilling and fourpence.

After that, there will be further increases until the end of 1952 the present ration will be doubled.

PASSES COUNTERFEIT BILL

New York, July 10 — (AP) — A 40-year-old student was accused last night of passing six counterfeit $10 bills at a church bazaar in the Bronx. The student, booked at Robert R. Great, was charged with passing counterfeit money. He was picked up at St. Simon Stock's Roman Catholic Church.

NARCOTICS CHARGES LAID

Windsor, Ont., July 10 — (CP) — New charges of conspiracy to traffic in narcotics were laid today against 30 persons, it was disclosed in Windsor police court Monday.

Charges of conspiracy in possession, distribution, and sale of heroin, were laid by William and Philip Chiampi, Patrick Riley, and Leonard Grimaldi. They were ordered to July 20. The conspiracy charges are in addition to a total of 30 counts now facing the four men, alleging possession and sale of narcotics.

P.C.'S DENY CHARGE

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—A report that the Progressive Conservative party was seeking stop-light Labor men to run at the next election with the Labor portfolio as a prize was emphatically denied by Premier Frost today.

Murray Cotterbill, president of the Toronto Labor Council, told that body at a meeting last night that such overtures were being made.

BRITISH TACTICS IN OIL DISPUTE SEEM TO SWITCH

May Not Withdraw Technicians From Iran

Tehran, Iran, July 10—(CP)— A sharp switch in British tactics in the Iranian oil dispute became increasingly clear today. There's a surprising move to soft-pedal previous threats to withdraw all British technicians from Iran.

A new policy of trying to hand on as long as possible—in the face or nationalization of holdings of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—is replacing the tough talk of only a week ago that the big refinery at Abadan and the surrounding south Iranian oil fields would be shut down.

There was no indication that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh would change his 'no compromise' determination to seize control of the billion-dollar company's Iranian installations.

But a government spokesman said the premier is giving careful consideration to President Truman's offer yesterday to send his personal representative, W. Averell Harriman, to Iran to help find a settlement.

A Little Late

Mossadegh told U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady that Truman's latest mediation attempt came "a little late."

The atmosphere was cleared a little when A. E. Mason, A.I.O.C. acting general manager, said yesterday that the British staff would remain indefinitely.

The policy switch apparently was dictated from London, where the Labor government has been under fire from the Conservatives for 'failing or giving in to the Iranians.

U.S. and British Fliers Honored

Berlin, July 10 — (AP) Grateful West Berlin today invited British, U.S. American and British fliers who gave their lives to the mighty airlift that broke the back of Soviet rule here two years ago.

West German and allied officials joined in dedication of a memorial to the men who died in crashes during the 11-month siege in which West Berlin was fed by air transport alone.

The 53-foot-high stone statue, symbolizing the three "air corridors" to Berlin used by the airlift, was erected at the big American base at Tempelhof.

U.N. Delegates Decline Comment On Initial Meeting

Negotiating Team Pledges Good Faith, Hope for Same

By NATE POLOWETZKY

Seoul, Korea, July 10 (AP)— Cease-fire representatives today "made progress toward an agenda to discuss an armistice," United Nations representatives said tonight.

Discussions will be resumed at 10 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m. EDT Tuesday) in communist-occupied Kaesong.

A communique issued by U.N. spokesman Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said the two opening sessions Tuesday were held in "an open and formal atmosphere."

(Reuters News Agency quoted Maj.-Gen. Lawrence C. Craigie, Vice-Commander of the Far East Air Forces, as saying the talks were "very satisfactory.")

The communique said the Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, head of the five man U.N. delegation, announced that discussion would be restricted to military matters in Korea. He said the allies would not talk about anything else—no politics, no economics, no military affairs elsewhere.

Allied war correspondents were not permitted in Kaesong. They will not be allowed to go Wednesday, either, as planned earlier.

Brig.-Gen. Frank Allen, Chief of Information, announced that plans to send 16 correspondents to Kaesong Wednesday were cancelled because Ridgway "will do nothing to jeopardize the success of the conference."

"In such an atmosphere," he said, "there is every reason to hope for success."

And he set strict limits to the subjects discussed. Joy said the allies want a stable peace but under no circumstances will they talk about:

No Economic Matters

1. "Political and economic matters of any kind." That includes the question of a United Nations trusteeship over China.

2. "Military matters unrelated to the Korean area." That includes Formosa and other trouble spots.

Joy said he and four other military communications officers of the U.N. delegation would only "discuss military matters that are necessary to end "hostilities in Korea, under conditions which will assure a lasting peace and cessation."

Fighting will continue, except in the Kaesong neutral zone, until a cease-fire agreement is reached. Then a combined armistice commission is prepared to function."

The admiral's statement was made at a brief session opening the discussions in Conference Tent No. 1. Reporters predicted the talks would last for weeks.

The ten opposing commanders met from 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Monday EDST) until 12:31 p.m. Then they recessed until 4 p.m. (3 a.m. E.D.T.).

The afternoon session broke up after 2½ hours. The Allied delegation then resumed its journey back to the Allied peace camp.

Cardinal Spellman Leads Pilgrims From Diocese to St. Anne Shrine

Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que., July 10. (CP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York arrived in this 300-year-old shrine town last night, holding aloft a plain black cross, led pilgrims from his diocese to Ste. Anne's Basilica.

The Roman Catholic Church leader of New York diocese was greeted by Archbishop Maurice Roy, archbishop head of the church's oldest diocese in North America.

The pilgrimage of more than 300 persons, including priests and nuns, was the first from New York to this small town built in the steep hills that line the St. Lawrence River since the 17th century days of Quebec City.

The pilgrims are here until Wednesday, when their three-day visit will close with a pontifical high mass celebrated by the United States Cardinal.

Origin of Ste. Anne de Beaupre as a pilgrimage centre goes back to around 1650 when, tradition has it, Breton mariners prayed to Ste. Anne, patron saint of Brittany, to save them from destruction in a St. Lawrence River storm and were rescued to smash their vessel.

The boat was blown ashore on the north side of the river, and the sailors erected a log chapel in fulfilment of a vow made at the height of the storm.

Miraculous cures were reported at the first Feast of Beaupre, word that means "pretty meadow", spread far and wide.

Heilmann Voted To Hall of Fame Before he Died

Detroit, July 10 (AP) —H. G. Salsinger, sports editor of the Detroit News says today in his column, "The Umpire," that Ty Cobb notified Harry Heilmann of Heilmann's election to baseball's Hall of Fame shortly before his death.

Heilmann recently a baseball radio announcer, died yesterday. He was a four-time batting champion of the American League.

Salsinger wrote:

"During Harry's illness Ty Cobb wrote him cheering letters. One arrived at Ford Hospital last Tuesday.

"'I have great news for you,' Cobb wrote. 'I have just learned that you are being elected to the Hall of Fame at baseball ceremonies and the official announcement will be made soon.'

"We corroborated Ty's statement. The special committee that passed on candidates for the Hall of Fame voted Heilmann to the Hall.

"I hope it won't be a posthumous honor," murmured Harry, 'but I'm afraid it will be.'

"It will be."

Seek to Revoke Bail for Reds

New York, July 10. (AP)— The government today sought to revoke bail under which 11 lesser communist leaders charged with conspiracy have been at liberty.

In the petition to revoke the bail, furnished by the Civil Rights Congress Bail Fund, the federal prosecutors contend that the defendants were "wholly irresponsible". Three of the defendants have been sentenced to terms in jail for criminal contempt for failure to answer questions or produce party records.

The government also obtained from Judge Alexander Holtzoff an order directing 16 of the 17 Indicted lesser communist leaders to appear tomorrow to show cause why their bail should not be increased. Four of the 21 under indictment are fugitives.

Defendant Dashiell Hammett, writer Dashiel Hammett sought to obtain bail for himself after landing in jail for refusing to tell who furnished bond for the four fugitive lesser communist party leaders. He drew a six months contempt-of-court sentence last week from Sylvester J. Ryan denied him bail.

Berry Pickers Swarming Over Kaladar Rocks

It's "huckleberry harvest" for hundreds of berry pickers who are swarming over the rocks in the Kaladar district gathering blueberries.

In fact this week the village of Kaladar on No. 7 Highway might well be called Huckleberry Centre, judging from the number of roadside stands offering the berries for sale. For miles along the highway the roadside stands are seen, and they extend right into the village itself.

Huckleberries represent a real cash crop for many residents of the area as well as for itinerant families who are camping "right on the job." Tents of the berry pickers, sometimes whole families are represented, are frequently seen along the highway.

Private owners of property along the highway where huckleberries are growing, pocket up to 50 cents per day for itinerant pickers out to pick a few berries for their own use. Others pick berries on their own properties and sell the land and also to hucksters, who retail the berries in centres of population.

Pickers say huckleberries are a good crop. They are also a good price! Roadside stands yesterday were selling at much as $2.50 per six-quart basket.

Fishing Trip Down the Bay Not so Good

Fishermen's luck, acting in the adverse, was the plight of Jack Mounks and his companions one day last week on their return trip from a day's outing with hooks and lines. Accomplaying Jack in his 28-foot craft, were Ernie and Harry Ridley and Frank Langton.

The foursome had spent the day on the south shore and on their return from Northport had the misfortune to have their motor stop. After considerable tinkering they found the trouble, repaired it and continued on the return trip.

Misfortune struck again however and Frank Langton was hooked through the ear by one of the others who was casting. Not having a pair of snips on board, the group headed for Point Anne. About 15 feet from the dock, the motor threw the propeller and the boat started to drift again. Using weak leaning for oars, they managed jo bring the craft to shore a short way down the beach and they started on foot to a boat docked at the Point.

The nearest thing on the boat to a pair of pliers was a large pair of shears so they went from there to the cement plant. Again there was nothing available and the foursome finally had to get transportation to Belleville and a doctor.

The day was climaxed by Morley Smith taking his boat to Point Anne and towing the other craft back to the city.

DIES AFTER DIVE

Peterborough, July 10 — (CP) — Eddie Roach, 24, died here last night after diving from a high bridge into the Trent canal. He was pulled from the water by bystanders who said that he was badly bruised and was bleeding from the nose. He recovered for a brief time but was dead before police could take him to hospital.

Three American Campers Saved From Drowning Near Harlowe By Plucky Action of Young Girl

Campers in the Land of Lakes district near Harlowe, 60 miles northeast of Belleville, are also having praises for Gloria Gerner, 15-year-old Toronto girl, who last Friday saved three American campers from drowning.

The three campers, Mr. and Mrs. O. Douglas and Mr. Chas. Fuller of Port Jervis, N. Y., were out in Lake Kashawachamac when Mrs Fuller hooked onto a large bass. In the excitement of landing the fish the boat overturned and the three elderly campers were thrown into the lake.

The young Toronto girl who is working for the summer at Happy Landing Camp, was working in the kitchen or the camp, when she heard cries for help. She rushed to the dock and finding all boats out jumped in fully clothed and struck out for the struggling group where the campers were struggling in the water.

Swam 75 Yards

After swimming 75 yards she coolly persuaded two of the campers to hang onto the boat which she helped right. The accident took place in 25 feet of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller were floundering around trying to swim and I got them to hang onto the overturned boat," the girl lifeguard said. "Mrs. Fuller was astraddle the boat with her feet tangled in the fishing line."

The girl was aided in the rescue by Mr. Ralph Mackey, camper in another part of the lake who heard the commotion and came out with his boat.

The girl then assisted Mr. Morton to get Mr. and Mrs. Douglas into the boat and after they were safely ashore assisted in transferring Mrs. Fuller to the rescue craft. All of the Americans are over 65 years of age, one having recently suffered a heart attack.

After the campers were ashore Gloria righted the overturned boat and brought it ashore.

"I didn't see it, but everyone tells me that Gloria's act was a plucky one and that she was responsible for saving the lives of the three campers," stated Charlie Johnson, proprietor of Happy Landing Lodge. The three American campers are guests at Mr. Johnson's lodge.

The American campers have now gone to their homes in the United States, but before they left they voiced their appreciation of the girl who saved their lives. A collection was taken up among them and Gloria was presented with $20.

Gloria Lloyd's second year at Happy Landing Lodge and she "just loves it." Her favorite pastime act has now gone the rounds of the camping district and she is a very popular lass.

Joe Perry, of Marble Lake Lodge, is a lifeguard on the Lake district agreed that Gloria is a brave girl. "What she did was simply marvelous," he said.

Gloria lives at 73 Queensbury Ave., Toronto; and attends Scarboro Collegiate. "I have did she learn to swim? "I taught myself in the tanks near at home", she said.

Jack Yanover Gives Talk On Hotel Business

Guest speaker at the weekly Rotary luncheon, held in the Quinte Hotel, this week, was Rotarian Jack Yanover, owner of the Queens Hotel. His address consisted of a vocational talk given on Ralph Lloyd's management and operation of the hotel in Belleville.

Rotarian Jack was born in Chicago, moving to nearby Pickering at the tender age of five. In 1934 he came to Belleville to take over operation of the City Hotel.

At the outbreak or hostilities of the Second World War he became a member of the reserve army force, going active two years later. He served for four years and attained the rank of Captain before his discharge and return to Belleville.

On his return he took over management of the Queens Hotel and has figured prominently in civic and sporting activities in this community.

He stated: "There are 1960 hotels in the province of Ontario, employing 50,000 people and having a payroll amounting to approximately 50 million dollars. Constituting a small part of this total", he added, "are seven hotels and two motels in this city. These nine establishments employ 200 full-time help and, some others part-time. Together they have a full capacity for 400 guests".

Monday was the inaugural meeting for chairman Court Miller and was conducted in a worthy and capable manner. He received the congratulations of his Rotary boys' camp and also of the recent ladies night.

Guests were present from Saskatoon, Florida, Peterborough, Toronto and Trenton.

Heavily-Laden Truck Ditched, Blocks Traffic West of Kaladar

Through traffic on Highway No. 7 west of Kaladar was completely blocked Monday afternoon for two-and-a-half hours and intermittently for an additional two hours when a transport from Niagara Falls loaded with wine went into the ditch and was half buried in the soft mud of a marsh.

The driver, who was not injured as his truck turned on its side, told police that he had been forced to swerve to his left to avoid striking an approaching car. He lost control and went into the ditch.

The transport went into the ditch at 9 o'clock this morning and was not hauled out until nearly 12 hours later.

Wreckers from Tweed and Kaladar tugged vainly on the big transport for over two hours completely blocking through traffic. Then Provincial Constable Gordon Stout of Napanee ordered the lines loosed to allow piled-up traffic to proceed.

Traffic was then allowed through at intervals until the big transport was finally hauled back into the highway.

Active Week For Fun Club

The first week for the Summer Fun Club was a busy one for the boys and girls of Belleville. The first day was taken up with a bowling tournament, the team that won the prize was the Mohawks captained by John O'Neil. The boys overnight camp was called off due to the weather, however, Mr. Bill Fawcett, manager of the McCarthy theatre, gave the boys a free show and it was well received. Saturday morning the boys held a gym program with basketball, floor hockey, divided into four teams, the winning team, the Moose, being captained by Jack Gill. The afternoon was taken with baseball The program got under way this morning with the boys going on an all-day hike, the boys enjoyed boating, swimming, and had their dinner and returned to the Y in the late afternoon.

MISS REBECCA GLICKLER

Word has been received in the City of the death of Miss Rebecca Glickler, a former resident of Belleville. She was born in Belleville, the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Glickler, who lived on Church Street.

Miss Glickler left Belleville some years ago to live at Snowdon by Yorkville, and in Westmount, P.Q. While in Belleville, she was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and in Westmount attended Erskine Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Mount Royal Cemetery, Montreal.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Charles E. Vallerand, of Montreal, and a niece, Mrs. Albert Brodie, of Westmount.

LATE MRS. JOHN DOWNARD

Marmora—A large congregation was present in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, on Monday afternoon to pay last respects to a highly respected resident of Marmora recently in the person of Mrs. John (Delia) Downard. Rev. Canon Bowden conducted by Canon J. M. Brownlee followed by interment in Marmora Union Cemetery.

The bearers were Arthur Sheridan, Percy Cook, Albert Mercy, George Brown, George Fox and Arthur Carman.

The late Mrs. Downard, who was in her eighty-ninth year was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Simmons. She was of a charitable disposition and a true friend and neighbor. Sincere sympathy is extended to the sorrowing husband in his bereavement.

Father Clapp, who confesses that five years on West Lake with a $200 motor, and at least $50 worth of fishing equipment has failed to yield anything comparable to his grandfather's record ones, also Weaver's Funeral Home and Mr. Ted Weaver in their sad bereavement in the loss of a loving mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burkitt wish to thank friends for gifts, flowers, cards and letters received on their sixtieth wedding anniversary. J10

12-Year-Old Girl Hooks Big Bass At Railway Bridge

Woe to the frustrated fisherman.

For years and years calendar artists have tickled the sportsman's fancy with dew-drenched landscapes complete with the barefoot boy, and his string of huge fish, whistling gaily as he passes the wealthy, equipment-laden, hip-wading fellow who has not a thing.

Of course it is only a joke and everyone knows that the barefoot boy only did this in "Tom Sawyer" and only then because Mark Twain was a perverse old coot anyway. We don't want to destroy any illusions, but, fellows, the story is partly true.

The only difference is that the 'barefoot boy' is a girl. Twelve-year-old Gail Clapp, using a stick with a tiny bit of worm on an old hook pulled the switch yesterday.

She was fishing off the C.P.R. bridge, just off the foot of the main street, when she got a bite. She hauled the fish in, and seeing her daddy coming down the street, shouted at him to come over and see "my little fish". Her "little fish" turned out to be a four and one-half pound black bass.

Father Clapp, who confesses that five years on West Lake with a $200 motor, and at least $50 worth of fishing equipment has failed to yield anything comparable to his grandfather's record ones, also Weaver's Funeral Home and Mr. Ted Weaver in their sad bereavement in the loss of a loving mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burkitt wish to thank friends for gifts, flowers, cards and letters received on their sixtieth wedding anniversary. J10

The 3,200-ton Bulkarter, a Montreal-owned cement carrier, and the Zebrulo, a refrigerator boat owned in St. John's, Nfld., radioed they are taking water in the forward holds but are headed for port under their own power.

There was no immediate indication of what caused the collision.

The smash occurred between Forchu and Gulon Island just before 10 a.m. EDT.

Nervous Disease Threatens Second In Sudbury Family

Sudbury, July 10 — (CP) — Huntington's Chorea — a fatal nervous disorder for which doctors haven't been able to find a cure — threatens to take a second victim in the Wallace family.

Mrs. Molly Wallace and her 3 sons, William, 16, Robert 14, and Howell Donald, 12, live here. Rowell, the second, is the latest to be inherited disease from which his father, Herbert Wallace, died last December at Westminster Hospital, London, Ont. The other children are not yet manifested.

Rowell was healthy until he was five. Now his arms and legs are twisted and semi-palsied. His speech is impaired. He can hobble with a cane but his bad health must be on hand in case he falls.

"None of us are depressed," said Mrs. Wallace. "We all make the very best of it — we never talk of the disease among ourselves."

Mr. McCullough and his nine-year-old daughter, Wendy, were rescued by Ralph Pinney of Scarborough who saw the accident from shore.

ARMY DENIES

Ottawa, July 10—(CP)— The army today denied reports that soldiers have been selling jeep parts to service station operators in the Ottawa valley and said the reports are without foundation.

It denied, too, that a theft which partly destroyed an ordnance depot here a month ago delayed organization of the 27th Brigade by ruining a lot of uniforms. There were no uniforms in the gutted part of the depot, the army said.

Top Man at No. 6 R.D., Trenton, G.C. Stan Green Says Goodbye, Goes to Higher R.C.A.F. Post

Trenton—(Special)— An A.C.2 who rose through the ranks to become a favorite commanding officer of No. 6 Repair Depot at Trenton is leaving Wednesday for a more important post at the Defence Command Headquarters, St. Hubert, P.Q.

Group Captain Stan Green, M.B.E., who gets the biggest kick out of tackling the job and getting it done, has been appointed Senior Technical Staff Officer of that command.

Since the C.O.'s move developed from a rumor into a fact, a feeling of depression has hung over the station, where hundreds of officers and men learned to work and play with a leader who seated them more like a father than a soldier. The warmth of friendship existing between an officer and his men prevailed in abundance at the "going away" parties held for the Group Captain last week.

In his two years and 10 months as C.O. of No. 6 Trenton Repair Depot, G/C Green gathered around him some of the most efficient technical heads in the air force today. Moreover, he made them tick to a point of almost 100 per cent proficiency. How to adapt technical knowledge to gain the best results was a problem which he has solved in joined the R.C.A.F. in June, 1925.

In 26 years in the flying service, life for Mr. Green has been one achievement after the other. First he gained worldwide prominence as a wrestler in the 160 pound class. Then as army non-com. and a non-de-plume at times, he floored practically everything in the 'rasslin' class and engaged in many hundreds of bouts. He was tops in his division for 14 years.

A Wing Walker, Too

As a sideline, this airman, who is one of the few Group Captains in Canada today without wings, thrilled resort crowds in the Muskoka district with daring displays of wing walking. He usually climaxed his blood-tingling show with a hand stand hundreds of feet above the earth without a parachute or any other safety device strapped to his wind-whipped body.

And when World War II came along, Flying Officer Green, who had only seen limited service for months earlier, accompanied the famous 110 Squadron overseas. But his ability and knack for maintenance was needed more at home, and it was back in this country that he performed with high ranking officers in writing the maintenance regulations still in authority in the R.C.A.F.

It was for the part that G/C. Green played in preparing the maintenance thesis that he was honored by the King and presented with the M.B.E. by the Governor-General of Canada.

Group Captain Green has always stood behind his men and an almost perfect record is mute evidence that his men have stood behind him. He has continuously contributed time and know-how service main.

BISHOP DERSTINE

BISHOP DERSTINE is an outstanding and gifted speaker. He has spoken more than 19,000 times. Ordained Bishop of Mennonite Church, December 11th., 1921. Served the State of Illinois. He has been serving Ontario and Western New York State since December 20th., 1924. Editor, and "World and News Editor", of "The Christian Monitor."

A young School Teacher has written of Bishop Derstine:

"Dynamic as a siren's blast,
Yet hushed as snowflakes flurry fast,
Is his voice.
Rare, choicy words that grip the heart.
Each uttered clause, some gem impart.
He's my choice."

"Some big men like him for his courage and style. The little fellow likes him because he likes them. On the street he knows everybody. The common people hear him gladly.

"This speech across the Dominion and the United States from coast to coast to speak to masses, but often is at his best in a sermon preached to 50 in a backwoods church."

"Rev. Dr. C. F. Derstine, though a young people's speaker, is equally appreciated by the older folks. His enthusiasm is contagious. It attracts crowds. He has a scriptural warm-hearted message. He has the gift of word pictures and folksy incidents. He takes you along the Galilean road, and brings you back sharply to Main Street. He speaks the message of the BOOK in the language of today."

Hay Harvest Being Hindered By Heavy Rains

Toronto, July 10 (CP) —Although hay crops in most Ontario counties are exceptionally heavy, harvesting has been seriously hindered by recent heavy rainfall, the department of agriculture said today.

In the western counties of Grey, Halton, Huron and Simcoe South, large quantities of hay have spoiled in the fields and in Wellington County, hay is "one of the greatest headaches on record."

The counties of Haldimand, Norfolk, Durham and Hastings have had haymaking prospects the department said. Exceptions are Oxford, Brant and Elgin counties, where both the hay crop and the prospects of getting it in are good.

The department said some Ontario farmers are having difficulty finding sufficient help. The shortage is acute in southern Ontario, particularly in Haldimand, Norfolk and Wentworth counties. In Wellington county, farm labor is "almost at a standstill" city."

Through most of Ontario, late seeded oats and fall crops are in excellent condition. Winter wheat is fairly good in some areas although Halton, Peel and Simcoe North counties report, damage by Hessian fly.

Beach Ex-Chief Appeals Ouster

Crystal Beach, Ont., July 10—(CP)—Former Police Chief Gilbert Beech, who was expelled by the Ontario Police Constables Association to look into his recent dismissal, was welcomed and called in the provincial police for protection.

Reeve Claude Brewster has called a special council meeting to consider action of Crystal Beach firemen in re-electing Chief Beech mayor. The department is "ready to resume its functions under Chief Pletz."

FIRST SECTION OPENED

Detroit, July 10 (CP)—City traffic began moving Monday over the first section of the multi-million dollar Edsel Ford super-highway after Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, widow of the late Ford president, cut a symbolic ribbon to open it.

The section is about two miles long and is in the east side neighborhood of $12,000,000. It consists of four lanes in each direction, each lane 12 feet wide and capable of carrying 1,500 vehicles an hour.

'Cowtown' Calgary Succumbs To Spell of Stampede Week

Calgary, July 10—(CP)—As it has done since 1912, the city of Calgary this week succumbs to the rip-roaring spell of its chief claim to fame, the color-packed exhibition and stampede.

The city of 137,000 persons, located in the heart of Canada's ranching country, has its ranks swelled by thousands of holidayers from across the continent. Its modern streets take on the aspect of a wild-west "cow-town" for the week.

In dress, the city is like one monster freshman class going through a week of university initiation. Persons not sporting at least one item of a cowboy's outfit—wide-brimmed hats, close-fitting jeans, gally-colored shirts, high-heeled boots—are conspicuous.

The conventional "hello" is blished for the week's frisky "howdy partner" and the air resounds with the shrill "yippee" of modern day cowboys whose every jingle on cement sidewalks instead of board walk or mud roads.

Every day the crowds stream to the exhibition grounds to see cowboys bronch, through perilous rides astride snorting broncos, Brahma bulls and steers; toss lassos at dizzy-doodling calves; and tack ribbons on the horns of wild steers; saddle and ride wild horses and milk equally-wild cows.

But the feature attraction is the evening chuckwagon races, commanding the largest daily silver—$9,000—or the $100,000—plus prize money. They rival the ancient daily Roman chariot races in hell-for-leather thrills.

Fine Stage Show

A top-notch stage show, a big cowboy band, modern fireworks—which many witness free from the top of "Scotchman's Hill" overlooking the grounds — and hundreds of exhibits also have their place.

Crowds of more than 70,000 take in the daily shows, with attendance for the week usually around the 400,000 mark.

The stampede opens with a monster parade that takes about two hours to pass. Last year a record 74,000 persons lined the streets to see the spectacle.

The parade was marred yesterday by a quarter-inch of rain and a chilly temperature of 41, more than 30 degrees below normal. But thousands shivered through it and loved it.

It featured hundreds of horses, drum majorettes, decorated floats, Indian in beaded buckskins and head feathers, ancient, creaking horse-drawn wagons and buggies of the pioneers, and yodelling cowboys strumming guitars.

Besides his wild west show, concessionaires, souvenir vendors and modation is at a premium. Renting space is a field of rich citizens renting out private parking business.

Flapjacks, bacon and coffee are dished up free at street corners by the chuck wagon outfits and the exhibition grounds parade Indians who pitch a tent camp at daily.

Bisley, England, July 10—(CP)— Four members of Canada's Bisley rifle team carried off second prize in the Brinsmead Challenge Shield team aggregate competition.

He was awarded a facsimile of the challenge cup and a prize of £5.

Yesterday, the 36-year-old marksman won sixth prize in the Southern Railway match, scoring 99 points.

THE WAR ENDS WITH GERMANY

The move by Canada, the United States, Britain and France to formally end the state of war with Germany will do more than just recognize that the long conflict of World War II did really have a conclusion. It will open the way for more normal relations between the victor and the vanquished, and as long as a sharp eye is kept on German politics, the nation as a whole will benefit spiritually from the move.

Britain has already ended the state of war; Canada is expected to do so within a short time; Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have followed Britain's example.

Psychologically, the move is more than worthwhile. The Germans, whose country has been divided between a democratic way of life, represented by the western nations, and a totalitarian regime, represented by the Soviet, ever since hostilities ended, will now realize more than ever that there is a sincere western desire to rehabilitate them. In other words, the democratic nations are willing to recognize Germany as one of the free nations of the world, and to resume all the diplomatic and state business which goes with such recognition. It should also show graphically to the Germans what they have to fear from Russian rule — everlasting cruel tyranny, suppression of the liberties of man, and strangulation of national growth.

The western nations could not hope to remain in the role of the conqueror forever. There was no indication that such a situation was desired, but Russian insistence on taking a slice of a once-powerful German state has made it almost mandatory. Now, however, it is considered safe, even expedient, to show the Russian motive for what it is. Or perhaps more realistic is the fact that Germany, for her own sake and the sake of others, cannot be guided and helped by western nations for all time. She must come to a stage of independence at one time or another, and every day that she is guided from above will make the break all the harder.

The Germans, through their government, have shown already that they are definitely on the road to rehabilitation. They have had a remarkable record in the free western sector under the guiding hand of Britain, France and the United States, since 1949. That government was the first that had been elected by free ballot in Germany for a long, long time, and while the path has not always been easy, and its decisions often hard to make, democracy has been proven. And it has been proven the hard way, which, after all, is the best way.

Germany with her innate talents in many fields, can be a welcome addition to the western forces of the world. She can become a powerful bulwark of democracy in Europe. In a trade sense, she can contribute to the welfare of the world. She has had an easy time since the cessation of hostilities, nor can she expect a primrose path for the future. That very fact may help to build her into a fine nation once again, this time headed for a proper way of life.

THERE IS A DANGER

Last week a Harvard training plane from the R.C.A.F. station at Trenton crashed at Wooler, Ontario, killing the pilot and a crewman. Last week, also, four Harvard training planes, operating out of the R.C.A.F. station at Centralia, collided in mid-air. Three of the four planes managed to land with one plane plummeted to earth out of control. These twin tragedies were accidents that might have had a far more serious consequence.

Suppose that the plane that crashed at Wooler had fallen on the main street of Belleville? A most certainly would have claimed the lives of some of our citizens. While Belleville has been fortunate in escaping such a disaster up until the present time, our existing good luck is no guarantee of continuing safety.

Situated as we are close to the hub of Canada's air training program, we will always be subject to the hazards involved in air accidents. The only way that the misfortunes of such crashes can be absolutely avoided is to ask the air force authorities to refrain from flying over the city. There is ample room over the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario, and the more sparsely populated areas of Hastings and Prince Edward counties for all air force manoeuvres without hampering the training program. Everyone realizes that the chances of such a disaster are remote. But crashes do occur. In the interests of public safety it is desirable to eliminate the slightest possibility of mishap. We feel certain that air force authorities will recognize the danger and act accordingly.

SHORTAGES ARE REAL

Washington official suggests that beef shortages are all in the minds of cattlemen and packers. Trouble is, they're also to be found in the pots and pans of the average housewife. — (St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CANDLE LOVERS

How oft this thought occurs to me,
All women must old-fashioned be
In this respect: Despite the gloom,
They candle light the dining room.

Above the table, crystal clear,
They keep a costly chandelier,
But of the wives I've known, not one
Would ever think to turn it on.

"Let there be light!" the good Lord said,
And light upon the world was shed.
But womenfolks, it seems, agree
In dining rooms no light should be.

I like to see what's on my plate,
But I must trust to chance or fate,
Since women, still as long ago,
Prefer to dine by candle glow.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR THOUGHTS

Never in our waking hours are we ever without our thoughts and these thoughts influence our lives more than any other single factor. They can debase us or they can be a power that constantly keeps lifting us into higher mental and spiritual realms.

I came across these lines in the diary that was found upon a dead soldier in the First World War. Said he: "When you first go into a room make it instantly a shrine, for if you live there it is well that you live with nothing ugly. And thoughts clothe an empty room more certainly than wallpaper."

I attended an inspiring lecture, when in college, by a noted public speaker. I recall the spirit of the entire talk but here is a thought that he expressed that has never left me. He said: "Thoughts are deeds and may become crimes." Few of us realize the extent to which thoughts influence our lives or the lives of those in intimate contact with us.

Carlyle and Tennyson were good friends and visited back and forth. I read, however, that both were men of few words, that they would sit an entire evening saying little — their thoughts doing the visiting! I can understand such a friendship. I have been with many a one where I felt the thoughts of that one were in tune with my own, though not expressed in words.

Often your thoughts are of more comfort to you than if you had a dozen friends about you. There are times when we want most to be alone with our thoughts. It is as that soldier said. Thoughts clothe a room. They often light it up as well. Many a time I come into my library and feel as though the very thoughts in the books circulated and offered their love and friendly companionship.

Diaries are interesting reading fro they contain thoughts that a person had at the moment, and so expressed them honestly and without apology. Many of the books that were published after Thoreau's death were collected from his extensive diaries. The abundance and power of his thoughts thus expressed have enriched all literature. Your thoughts are your life!

LIMERICK MAYOR FINED

Irrelevant thoughts of a man on the eve of departing for his vacation.

Did I ever tell you that that five-at-a-time cigarette rolling machine I wrote about some months ago has worked out pretty swell? I've bought a lot of smokemaking gadgets in my time, but this is the only one that hasn't ended up idle in a desk drawer. Cuts my cigarette bill by about $5. If you're a record collector don't miss the recently issued long play of Ella Fitzgerald singing Gershwin. It's a work of art by a very tasteful and sincere artist. I always wonder what groups visiting a newspaper office hope to see. There is no mystery outside my office door and I am typing this very hard and trying to look interesting, but there's a great temptation to spring up and go into a buck and wing or down on one knee to the typewriter, but they won't go away disappointed. The guides who takes such parties whose jobs are the most boring people ask first to see the columnists. Like going straight to the monkey house at the zoo.

Don't put too much stock in those magazine articles about the new, painless dental drill.

One of the city's popular men tells me the drill is years away from perfection and, in any event, works only for cavities, not for excavation. Says the realy exciting story in dentistry is the development of a new cement which claims that the only difficulty is in the psychological reaction of patients like this coward who dread the chair. . . Have you seen that advertising job for a bed-room suite, coal and wood range, carpets, rugs, twin beds and two refrigerators? Another of those interesting classified ad this week stirred for only a wedding ring and a double bed. . . Disappointment of the month: Irwin Shaw's "The Young Lions." I'm sure Shaw would go back to his incomparable short stories and leave the novel alone, because he has a knack there. Our new house — new for us, anyway! — has a bathtub the size of a roasting pan. Before the movers no market any more for bathtubs in which an average man can submerge?

Nearly everything about houses seems to have been designed for midgets.

Have you noted that commercial from the States heralding the true equality of men? Says that a certain mixer has banished the old bad "by the millionaire or the man of means". Crosby Walsh's miracle of growing hair is nothing compared with a formerly bald pal mine who has a few weeks' stop. Claims he did it with sulphur ointment rubbed into the scalp. Got hair, he says, but nearly lost his wife. . . The latest complaint here on the human race inspired a woman reader to send along this little jingle: "I love to eat human race; I wish I loved its silly face; I wish I liked the way it talks; I wish I liked the way it talks: And when I'm introduced to one, I wish I thought 'what jolly fun!' . . .

There must be something basically wrong with me: I've never been able to get passionately fond of watermelon. Yeah, I am passionately fond of is: Corn on the cob, hamburgers made with beef, Spanish onions and mustard and none of the usual garbage, cracked crab, fried oysters and shrimp, chow mein as they serve it at the W. K. Oriental Gardens (the best of the Chinese restaurant), stuffed spare ribs. . . Watched two humming birds having a fight in the garden yesterday and never saw anything so fast in my life. I read somewhere that the hummers are the most feisty of all winged creatures and will tackle anything. . . Wonder if those people who have undergone mental tortures that I did in deciding whether to have a tie-dog or a Scottie ever regret that the operation is performed while the head of the doctor in charge is in relation with the X-ray technician. He interprets the X-ray films. It would be strictly a medical problem to determine whether or not the patient could account for the patient's symptoms, with or without X-ray evidence that gallstones are present.

In her letter Mrs. ___ states merely that the X-rays show that her son has gallstones. She does not mention symptoms. She and her son, and perhaps a few thousand other people who have undergone the X-rays, should know that in one out of every eight or ten instances gallstones are "silent," that is, they are discovered by X-ray, should but give rise to no symptoms of no complaint.

On the other hand, if Mrs. ___'s son has symptoms which will clearly point to gallstones, what is he waiting for?

I regret to learn that he is waiting for further advice from me. It seems that his mother was talking to a friend who told her I had an article a few weeks ago in which I recommended Epsom Salts for the treatment of gallstones, so if I will please give that person's case priority over the hundred other correspondents.

The Horse Radish idea is news to me. If any mention of horse radish in relation to gallstones was made in this column it was without my knowledge or consent.

If Mrs. ___'s son is as great a coward as I am about being sick or endangered, he could have had, say, an appendicitis operation as I have had, and if he knew as much about appendicitis or shock therapy or tension and the like as I know, he would head straight for the hospital and give his doctor the go signal—this, o fcourse, provided he has symptoms and/or signs other than those.

Next time Mrs. ___ may radish in relation to gallstones she can ask her doctor.

Trick Specialist Disapproves

It may have been all right in the days of our grandmothers for a mother not to take a child's temperature on her own. But our grandmothers didn't treat a sick child unless or until we take the child's temperature and report. (Mrs. G. W.)

Answer—Uh-huh. This is what I call "trick specialist" stuff—much of it your paper printed: " . . . practice of taking temperatures which I consider mischievous in any case unless your physician instructs you to do so."

Born Feet First

My first baby was born feet first. Would this have any ill effect on her? (Mrs. A. Z.)

Answer—Not that anyone once in four or five hundred cases.

Metabolism

What should the metabolism of an 18-year-old girl be who is a heavy eater and needs all the oxygen she can get in her lungs. (Mrs. C. A.)

Answer—Fine. But it is a question you should leave to her physician.

Eczema in Childhood

How very much your booklet on skin care helped me with a bad eczema my young son had. It has improved so much since I began supplementing his diet with Vitamin D. Everything our doctor recommended seemed to make him worse. (Mrs. H.)

Answer—Thank you. For copy of the booklet Save Your Skin send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope. It deals with many common skin troubles.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed. Etc.

MANANA, MANANA, MANANA

Mrs. ___ writes that her husband finally decided to follow the suggestion in the pamphlet it is Stupid to Suffer from Piles (for a copy name it in writing and inclose stamped self-addressed envelope), went to a dentist for the ambulant (office, injection) treatment and found it was exactly as I described it—not at all painful, it didn't interfere with his regular work and it proved entirely satisfactory.

So what? That's what scores and scores of readers tell me, when at last they become convinced that maybe I'm telling the truth about it, and consult a doctor who is skilled in the ambulant method.

But wait a moment. Mrs. ___ evidently decided to take even a great chance on the intestinal quack. She thanks me and goes on to say that her son, 60, had X-rays taken and they show that he has gallstones.

Right off the bat I begin to suspect trouble. You don't take X-rays taken as you might have your portrait taken. That is, you don't say you're a gullible sucker for a tumor or a Wisecare trying to "get" your doctor. Nope. Your doctor's son was ordered by his doctor to have X-rays taken if it remains of the doctor to consult with the X-ray technician. He interprets the X-ray films. It would be strictly a medical problem to determine whether or not the patient could account for the patient's symptoms, with or without X-ray evidence that gallstones are present.

In her letter Mrs. ___ states merely that the X-rays show that her son has gallstones. She does not mention symptoms. She and her son, and perhaps a few thousand other people who have undergone the X-rays, should know that in one out of every eight or ten instances gallstones are "silent," that is, they are discovered by X-ray, should but give rise to no symptoms of no complaint.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A badly trained dog is a reflection on its owners. Rather than admit this, the owner of a nuisance dog defends the behavior of the pooch by declaring that it is the dog's nature to behave as it does.

The number of dogs of all breeds that cannot or will not respond to proper training is very small, according to the dog experts. The proportion of dogs that are nuisances is fairly large. On a hundred dogs in the group undertook to tie the animal up. Two refused to bite the one dog was merely playful. The postman proved that it had bitten his trousers and acted in a threatening and vicious manner.

Dogs that bark, growl, threaten and occasionally nip have no right to be at large in any city, town or village premises. Nobody should have to put up with them. Chiefly, they cast a revealing light all on their owner's mind and manners; having failed to train the dog, he proposes to do nothing about it. This attitude is found every year, in all parts of the country, in connection with accidents in which children and adults are attacked by dogs, with now and then a fatal occurrence in which people are savagely mauled.

The public attitude to the negligence and failure of their masters is obviously wrong. To condemn dogs as a race for instinctive behavior because of the ignorance or faulty training of their owners would be worse, though some people do. Some masters and mistresses love to be scientifically victimized by their pet, who jumps up all over them in greeting. If they find mud on their clothes or runs in their nylons, they say, fondly: "Oh dear, dear, dear!" What harmless visitors say, when subjected to the same unwelcome behavior in someone's darling dog, is not "Oh, dear, dear, dear!" at all.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE SUPREME MOMENT

We are always talking about teaching young people how to live. But what we ought to be thinking them how to die? There are a lot of superficial people living who never in some way. A child or a young person is not allowed to attend a funeral. It is a pity. Death is supposed to be unwholesome for a child to get into his mind.

Of course the idea of death can become very unwholesome, but for that matter, so can almost any other idea. Death is not for a moment—we are all here in this world preparing ourselves to die. Of course the most important importance is just where we will stand with reference to great universal values on that day, when the Lord God taps us on the shoulder and tells us that our day of grace is over.

"Stop it," you say, "that gives me the shivers to think about it." What about you? Do you shiver is your unwillingness to think about it and to have your child-

Gen. Ryazanov, Red Air Force, Dies in Moscow

Moscow, July 10 (AP) —The Soviet government today announced the "untimely" death of Lieut. Gen. Vasily G. Ryazanov, 33, an outstanding officer in the Red Air Force.

An official statement said Ryazanov's death occurred July 8. It gave no details.

Ryazanov was one of the outstanding heroes of the Second World War.

Ryazanov also was a deputy to the Supreme Soviet (congress) of Ukraine and a candidate for the Central committee of the Ukrainian Communist Party.

Ryazanov's death occurred on the same day that the Red Air Force staged a major display of new jet aircraft, but the dispatch reporting his death—which passed through Soviet censorship—did not mention the air show or draw any connection between the two happenings.

Previous reports of the air show did not make any mention of air crashes during the display.

Woman Killed When Car Hits Cement Culvert

North Bay, Ont., July 10 (CP) —Mrs. Margaret Tarbert of Cleveland was killed and three other persons were seriously injured when their automobile plowed into the side of a concrete bridge culvert near here Monday.

Injured and in hospital here are Mrs. Tarbert's daughter, Susan, about 16; George Richards and his teen-age daughter, Leonore, all of Cleveland. Richards was driving the car.

Police said the car caught fire, but they have not yet been able to determine whether it started blazing before or after the accident.

The occupants of the car were returning home after a holiday.

Mrs. Tarbert was the second Ohio resident to die violently in this vicinity in less than a week. Richard Chaney, 26, of Springfield drowned Saturday in Lake Nipissing when a motor boat capsized.

A demonstration of making halters was led by Frank Stone, assistant agricultural representative for Hastings county; in this some of the members proved themselves to be most adept. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

18-Pound Muskie Hooked by Angler In Crowe River

Stories of fishermen having poor luck and no luck in Crowe Lake or River, never worry Tommy Paranick of the present proprietor of Marmora's pool room. Tommy, a Rumanian-born veteran has connections with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited a year ago after more than thirty years service. Coming to this district, Tommy took up fishing for the first time in his life in real earnest.

The late R. A. Elliott, former general manager used to avail himself of Tommy's service for the latter would persist in getting his fish. It has fallen to this angler once again to draw first blood this summer.

Taking his sons John and Tommy with him in the boat, he chose once more the waters of Crowe River south of the bridge on No. 7 Highway and by the iron bridges, using a muskh he secured a beauty of a muskie which was good for eighteen pounds.

BRITISH TACTICS

Moscow tells the troubled Abadan area, now ordered under a midnight to dawn curfew starting tomorrow, Brig.-Gen. Asfallah Kamal, military governor in the area, has ordered shipping traffic on the broad estuary of the Shatt El Arab River stopped during the curfew hours.

No Reasons Given

No reason was given for the orders.

The sudden moves came after Iran had notified the United Nations she was withdrawing her recognition of the world court at The Hague.

The court last week recommended that Iran shelve her nationalization plans for the British-owned company and join with Britain in naming a board to supervise the industry until a final settlement of the main issue is achieved.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh today came under fire in the Majlis (parliament) for his handling of the oil dispute.

Noisily-shouting deputies demanded that they be given the right to consider documents seized from the company's offices here, and to decide on any further action that would be taken.

Mossadegh, still confined to his bed with illness, reported to the deputies in a letter dealing with the seized documents. He claimed they proved Anglo-Iranian had interfered in Iran's internal affairs.

He also said that Philip Stockil, chief information officer for the company who left by air last week for London, was under criminal indictment for destroying company documents.

Costume Jewel Magic

BY ALICE ALDEN

THERE is always a new fad, a new notion, to add fun and fashion to the wardrobe, especially when it comes to dressing up for gala doings. Now a girl can wear her heart not only on her sleeve but on her shoulder or bare arm, as shown in the accompanying picture. Coro does a series of jewels to be affixed directly to the skin with a special liquid, and with a variety of little pieces and stones, it is possible to create a variety of earrings and bracelets and a fanciful necklace. Shown are ruby studded hearts.

Princess Elizabeth Chooses Green as Main Wardrobe Color for Canadian Visit

BY MARY BURNET

London, July 10, (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth has chosen green as a main color in her wardrobe for her October visit to Canada.

She has shown a preference for the hue lately, and it will be fashionable in the fall and winter.

But just what will go into the trunks stowed aboard the Empress of France when the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh sail Sept. 25 is being kept secret—usual procedure on royal trips.

Behind closed doors, royal couturier Norman Hartnell is working on the first design sketches for Elizabeth's approval. They have discussed what she will need.

Despite the secrecy, hints of the new outfit have leaked out.

Canada's weather has been considered. There will be lightweight suits and silk dresses for the possible hot Indian summer. Woollens and tweeds—and almost certainly the mink she received from the Canadian government on her 21st birthday—will protect the Princess against late-autumn frosts. She will also have clothes suitable for the damp west coast.

Hartnell's palace is likely to include several of the gorgeous crinoline evening gowns for which Hartnell is famous.

These crinolines, draped with the strikingly-colored sashes of the Orders of Chivalry and worn with diamond tiaras, are favorites both with the 25-year-old Princess and the Queen on formal occasions.

But for the most part, simplicity will be the keynote with travel coats and matching hats predominant. The Princess dislikes ostentation.

Elizabeth has been hat-conscious since she was a school girl, and there will be a wide range of them for the tour. Sunny days will see her in wide-brimmed straws, with head-hugging felts ready for cold winds.

She is expected to have at least one model based on the design of military tricorn which drew admiring glances at this year's trooping-of-the-color ceremony.

Smart Thing Is 'Poodle Look' For Fall Coat

New York, July 10. (AP)—Women will try to look like dogs next fall.

Perhaps they won't walk on all fours, but it is unlikely that they will start barking soon after acquiring that new winter coat.

The smart thing is the "poodle look" for fall. Your new coat or suit should be as shaggy as Fido's if you want to be in on the ground floor of the new fashion trend.

That's what New York designers say, previewing their fall collections this week for the benefit of visiting fashion editors.

Initial showings bear out their predictions. So bulky and shaggy are the new winter coats that often it's hard to find the wearer.

"Poodle C'oth", in a score of different textures and called by as many names is the particular pet of the designers. They will present it in great coats, jackets, suits and dresses, usually in neutral casino colors and in such realistic textures that in all logic a real dog should be provided with a wagging tail.

Some poodles are stiff, heavy fabrics with textures like those of doormats, and others are light as eiderdown, with a deep-pile, doggy surface.

Garment manufacturers predict the poodle coats will make mink old-fashioned.

Despite little basic silhouette change, fall clothes have a different look because of the new fabrics and textures, the bulky look of coats, the fuzzy look of suits and dresses, the new casual "window-play" clothes introduced by designers such as Tina Leser and Claire McCardell, both of whom unveiled their fall lines during the first day of this week's showings.

PRINCESS HAS MEASLES

The husband and wife were in serious condition. Police said Mrs. Bayani Ranjo, 22, told them she poured kerosene over the children, her husband and herself and then set their beds afire.

Bewitching Furs Attract Throngs for London Show

London — (CP) — One of the most comprehensive and fascinating fur trade exhibitions ever held is running for two months ending Aug. 14 in connection with the Festival of Britain.

The exhibition sponsored by the British fur trade tells the story of the trade since the 17th century. Among exhibits is the original Hudson's Bay charter and documents showing how King Charles II and his cousin, Prince Rupert, provided ships for the merchant adventurers who first brought rich furs from Canada to Britain.

Of furs themselves there are 250 varieties, collected from all parts of the world. A section devoted to the dressing and dyeing of skins gives an idea of the intricacy of the work. The processing of one fur such as "beaver lamb" for instance is practically an industry in itself.

Women visitors especially are attracted by a stand where a craftsman cuts mink into narrow strips. Nine thousand cuts are made in the 70 to 100 skins used to make a full-length mink coat, and eight to 10 miles of cotton thread are used.

Magnificent coats of mink and sable are on view, not far from an exhibit of ancient craftsman's tools dug out of the soil of historic London. These include a scraper of flint dating from 2,000 or 3,000 B.C.

U.N. DELEGATES

not be permitted to attend armistice talks at the conference room in an abandoned private home, but they will be briefed by an officer who attends the meetings.

The only announced agreement reached by the delegates in the opening session was that there would be no fighting "in those neutral zones agreed upon along and through the route to Kaesong".

In preliminary sessions Sunday the communists turned down an Allied offer to create a neutral strip centred on Kaesong 25 miles long and 10 miles wide. It would have stretched from Munsan, base of the U.N. negotiators, to Kumchon in North Korea.

The communists said they would rely on the U. N. commander-in-chief, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, not to launch any attacks in the Kaesong area. Ridgway previously declared a neutral zone radiating five miles around Kaesong.

Concluded Smoothly

The official Chinese communist Peiping radio said merely that preliminary sessions "concluded smoothly."

Admiral Joy and his four fellow negotiators left Munsan in five helicopters for the first formal armistice session Tuesday morning determined "to do our part to bring about an honorable armistice on terms that are satisfactory to the U.N. command."

Joy gave a copy of his statement to correspondents.

"Honorable" was heavily underlined.

The delegates were: Admiral Joy who commands the U.S. naval forces in the far east, Maj.-Gen. H. I. Hodes, deputy chief of staff of the Eighth Army; Rear Admiral Arleigh Burke, who commands a U.S. cruiser division, Maj.-Gen. L. C. Craigie, vice-commander of the far east air forces, Maj.-Gen. Paik Sun Yup, commander of the south Korean first army corps.

Opening Statement

Tuesday's opening session with five communist generals had been under way only a few minutes when Joy made his opening statement. The admiral emphasized:

"I desire to state with the utmost earnestness and emphasis and in language so clear that it cannot be misunderstood except by those who deliberately desire to misunderstand that the United Nations command delegation will act in good faith. We must assume that the representatives of the communist forces in Korea here represent will do likewise."

He said the U.N. delegates were "fully and solemnly conscious of the great importance to the people of the entire world of the discussions begun here today."

Joy said:

"The United Nations command delegation is prepared to do its part in trying to work out an armistice agreement with representatives of the communist forces in Korea for the cessation of hostilities in Korea, under conditions which will assure against their resumption.

Here For One Purpose

"This delegation is here for that sole purpose.

"It will discuss military matters in Korea relating to that subject.

"This delegation will not discuss political or economic matters of any kind.

"This delegation will not discuss military matters unrelated to Korea.

"Success or failure of negotiations begun here today depends directly upon the good faith of delegations here present."

Observers in Seoul said they thought the two main points to be discussed would be establishment of just what positions the opposing armies should held during the cease-fire, and creation of a neutral commission to survey activities behind the lines.

Red generals at the meeting are: Gen. Nam Il, chief of staff of the North Korean army; Maj.-Gen. Lee Song Cho, chief of staff of the sub-headquarters of the North Korean army, Gen. Tung Hua, commander of the Chinese communist 13th army group, and Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang.

MELROSE

Mrs. J. English Gives Talk To W. M. S. On Trinidad's Beauty, Needs

Melrose—The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Melrose United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Eugene Badgely on Wednesday last.

The president, Mrs. R. MacFarlane, conducted the worship service. "The Hunger of the Heart for God". "We must share our own discovery and our finding of God with others, whose urgent, even if unspoken request is, "Tell Me About God."

Mrs. Jack English, group leader, took charge of the program on Trinidad 'the land of the humming bird'. She told about the first impressions of a visitor to this Island. He marvelled at the large size of the Port of Spain and its beautiful modern buildings, also the great number of people living on the Island "what they are going to do with them is an economic problem and also a problem for missionary work."

Kindergarten Work

Mrs. Demill told about the kindergartens, where children of many races and many stations in life, sing, play and work and learn to live together as children of one Father.

Mrs. Roy Badgely and Mrs. Pascoe, in dialogue form, told the story of a young East Indian, who had taught for a number of years but now was working among boys and young men, first offenders in the court. The Christian approach has been such a help to him, in dealing with problem homes, poorly adjusted young people and other difficulties which bring ruin to many.

Had Vision

The early workers had vision —they saw that, only as education went along with evangelism, could substantial foundations of life be built. In the course of time, Canadian Mission Schools were started, and used for a place of learning and of worship.

Views of Trinidad

Mrs. John Milligan gave some items of interest about the island its people and showed several views.

Mrs. Pascoe gave a reading on "Christian Stewardship" and stressed that time must be taken and the opportunity to train the little ones in the art of giving and sharing.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served dainty refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Canadian Choir Wins Contest At Welsh Festival

Llangollen, Wales, July 10 (CP) — New Brunswick's St. Joseph's University choir today became the recognized leader in world folk-song singing at the International Eisteddfod, the famous Welsh Festival of Music.

Under direction of Rev. Leander Brault, the 29 Canadian choristers sang their way to victory over 24 competing choirs from 16 other countries.

It was the first time a Canadian choir had appeared at the festival and its achievement was loudly applauded by an audience of more than 20,000 as the International Choral Trophy was presented.

Tied for second place in the feature competition of the day's program were the Homin male voice choir from the Ukraine and an entry from Valois, Switzerland.

The New Brunswick choristers, ranging in age between 17 and 34, chose two French-Canadian folk songs for their test pieces—the internationally-known "Alouette" and "Va l'Bon vent."

Their rendition of the rollicking "Alouette" gained them 96 marks out of 100 with only one less point for their second effort.

Prolonged applause greeted the remarks of Sandor Veress, spokesman for the panel of adjudicators, when he announced the choir's singing as "a performance of excellence, with tradition and art beautifully blended."

The choir will compete in another major event Saturday.

The highly successful College, which has trained an astonishing number of very proficient high school athletes in the last five years, has packed some interesting articles into its new publication, entitled "Research Guide". The 16 page quarterly-in its inaugural issue, has articles on baseball, swimming, tennis, diets for athletes, a discussion of women in sport, and of course valuable tips on track and field. One of many engrossing items is a detailed article on base-stealing in which "stop-watch precision has been applied to the defensive and offensive aspects of this most exciting form of thievery. The results, as follows, are quite unexpected.

For instance, in professional baseball an attempt is steal is successful 63 per cent of the time. In amateur senior baseball in Canada the percentage of successful thefts goes up to 80, and in teen age ball the runner gets his base 85 times in every hundred tries. Tests were made with a runner leading off first base, and breaking for second as the pitcher made his motion. The batter did not try to bewilder the catcher by bunting or swinging away, and the catcher knew beforehand that the runner was going. Even under these ideal defensive conditions the runner was safe four times in every ten tries, and when game conditions were simulated, with the odds against the defensive team, the runner was in there 45 times in every hundred tries. Even in softball, where it is against the rules to leave the bag until the ball is over the plate, it has been found that the defence, on the average, only has one tenth of a second's grace to nail a runner before he steals. Of the thieves it is safe to say, he or wide the runner is safe. There are dozens of other helpful hints to athletes in a dozen sports in the new "Research Guide". If you like your sport scientifically analyzed you'll be delighted with the Sports College's latest addition to the betterment of Canadian athletics.

The astute he praised, and wouldn't you all be thinkin' maybe the good auld 17th has been misplaced now? For the wrestling card lined up for Friday night looks like a calling of the clan. All the old Belleville favorites have been included on one grand and glorious battle, and Hec Sharpe, the handsome Hamiltonian are back, to wrestle those refugees from Ireland's green isle, Dan O'Connor and Pat Flanagan. And that is only the preliminary, my spadgoons, for also in the ring is the more than fair Cowboy Mod Layton, complete with gentleman's gentleman, has been cast against the Zebra. The Zebra, who made fur and feathers fly last week against Chief Soni War Cloud, has moved up a notch to the main event and would like nothing better than to destroy the lovely Lord. However, Layton, who was vanquished by Whipper Billy Watson here two weeks ago, is only too anxious for a victory to put him back on the trail of the title.

ROUND AND ROUND . . .

"Soft-hearted Dick" Burrowes, the man with the way at the speedway, tells us that tomorrow night will be practice night at Speedway Parkland and the fans are invited down, free-of-charge it says here, to watch the boys workout. Saturday, July 14, there will be a special show with a strong field of cars expected . . . The Commercial Softball League moguls are down on their prayer rugs these days praying for sunshine. If the rain threatens any more games the local timetable will be head-on into the OASA playoffs. Already the league has seven postponed games to play. Tonight they will telescope their problems with Howe and Hagerman playing host to the much the same in a four-game contest at Memorial Field. These teams have had three games rained out so far and in an effort to end the schedule both managers have agreed to play a four-point contest with Howe and Hagerman as the team they were to be the home team in two of the washbid out workouts . . . Bakelite, who showed plenty of early foot in the AA race have been blistered on their permant-bound feet with four straight losses. Belleville Motor Car have moved into the league lead. The other three teams in the five team circuit have each won three games with Stewart Warner dropping five while Cleaners and Avons have lost only four. It is a tight race. Tomorrow night it is Bakelite against Bakelite at the Alemite Field . . . Tomorrow night, weather permitting, Houston Lumber Company's entry in the bantam baseball league will trek to Peterborough to meet the league's boys in the Liftlock City . . . Where, Oh Where, have the Yankees gone? Oh Where, Oh Where can they be? . . . A soft chord, professor, as the American league hosiery chore pauses to admire all those Red Sox close behind the White Sox. And do I see Injuns in the background all set to tomahawk those Yankees who move into Cleveland, Thursday? Oh where, Oh where, have the Yankees gone? Oh where Oh where can they be?

ADDS TWO VICTORIES

Thorncliffe Raceway, Toronto, July 10—(CP) — Royal Princess, queen of eastern Canadian pacers, added two more victories to her record at Thorncliffe Raceway Monday when she won both divisions of the featured stake race.

Royal Princess is a real 'Cinderella horse'. She was age seven—one year ago—before she made her debut as a racer. Since that time, she has raced a total of 40 times and has won 38 of those starts. She was second and third in her two other tries. When she sped to two more thrilling wins Monday she chalked up her 17th and 18th consecutive victories without a defeat this year.

Redmen Defeated by Marines Of Peterborough by 6-1

Belleville Redmen journeyed to Peterborough last evening to play an exhibition game with the Peterborough Marines, league leaders of the Toronto Viaduct League, and suffered a 6-1 setback.

The game played in the very good time of one hour and fifty-two minutes, was very cleanly played and but for one big inning for the Marines would have been very close. The homesters scored four times in the 6th on three singles and a pair of free passes. These added to the pair they had claimed in the second gave them a six-run working margin, a hard lead for the Redmen to overcome.

The Redmen threatened strongly in the seventh when Johnny Dean opened the inning with a tremendous triple to dead-centre field and scored a moment later on Tom Buchanan's third hit of the night, a solid single over second. Dick Fitzpatrick then grounded to short and was safe at first when Golden booted the ball. After Russ Soules filled out the left field Stephan hit a sharp single to left, Buchanan tagging up at third. Fitzpatrick tried down at this point, however, and retired the side without further damage.

Three of the Peterborough hits were of the infield variety.

United States Have Real Chance To Redeem Cup

New York, July 10 (AP) — Just 10 months ago, the Australians carried the Davis Cup — amateur tennis' most coveted prize — Down Under for what looked like a long time.

With with the selection of Dick Savitt, Herbie Flam, Bill Talbert and Tony Trabert for the 1951 U.S. team, the complexion of things was almost completely changed today.

Now the United States officials are predicting a better-than-even chance of carrying the ancient mug back to America at the end of the challenge round in December.

Savitt and Flam will play singles in the first round against the Japanese team at Louisville starting July 20. Talbert, a veteran of many a Davis Cup team, will team with the youthful Trabert in doubles.

National champion Art Larsen, Hamilton Richardson, Gardnar Mulloy and Ic Seixas also were named to thVe squad, but unless the United States wins the first three of the best-of-Five series, it's unlikely that they will get a chance to show what they can do.

Savitt whipped Ken McGregor twice in crucial tests—the finals of the Australian championships and at Wimbledon. Flam defeated Frank Sedgman on his way to the Wimbledon semi-finals. The Aussies have made no secret of the fact that Sedgman and McGregor are going to be carrying their load for years to come.

Pitcher Ted Alexander held St. Thomas Legion to six hits and got two himself last night to lead London Maitos to a 6-2 win in an intercounty senior baseball clash.

Alexander, who pitched shutout ball until the seventh when St. Thomas pushed across their runs on a single, a double and a walk, went the distance for his squad and hit a single, a double and a sacrifice to boot.

In other Intercounty action, the leading Brantford Red Sox drowned Guelph Maple Leafs despite Jackie Bowers' sparkling pitching and Kitchener Legionnaires moved into fourth place with a 12-1 walloping of Galt Terriers.

Motors Roll Over Avon Jewellers By 10-5 Count

In a regularly scheduled Commercial AA fixture, Belleville Motor Car rolled on a 10-5 victory over Avon Jewellers at Alemite Field Monday night.

Both starting pitchers, LecClerc for the Motormen and Rogers for Avons, lasted the entire distance and each was nicked for 11 safeties.

However, after the first inning when Avon took a one-run lead, were the winners in much danger of losing the lead. Four in the second and a single tally in the third made their lead secure. They scored their other runs on a pair in the seventh, one in the ninth. Avons scored single tallies in the first, second, fourth, sixth, and eighth.

The noticable difference between the two teams was not at the plate but in their fielding. Whereas the Motormen gave almost flawless support to LecClerc, kicking in with only one error, the men of Avon booted the ball no less than eight times with disastrous results.

Bob Hatfield led the winners at the plate with three safeties in six attempts while Semark and Bland each connected safely twice and Gallaghan getting the only extra base knock for the side.

Big man for the night was "Yank" McBride of Avons, who had four out of four including a home run and a pair of doubles. McBride also played a stellar game afield at the "hot corner," Hull claimed a pair of putouts behind the plate, hit safely twice in a losing cause.

LecClerc, the winning pitcher, struck out one and issued three free passes, while Rogers whiffed six and walked five opposing batsmen.

The Teams:—

Belleville Motor Car:	Thompson cf; Hatfield 3b; Semark 2b; Bone c; Miller ss; O'Brien rf; Hinds lf; Gallaghan lf; LeClerc p. Walsh for O'Brien in the 3rd; Garvin for Thompson in the 9th.
Avon Jewellers:	Donovan cf; Murray 1b; Massey rf; Hull ss; Ford 2b; McBride 3b; Doran c; McTaggart lf; Rogers p. Baldwin for Massey and Rose for Ford in the 9th.

Umpire: Pointer (P); Baldwin (B), Scorer: Don Dolan.

Toronto Marlies Withdraw Team From Senior Series

Toronto, July 10 (CP) —Toronto Marlboros last night withdrew from senior hockey competition for at least one season because they felt they were "not wanted" in the league.

Announcement of the retirement of the team's famous blue and white colors was made by president Harold Ballard and Clarence (Hap) Day, assistant-managing general manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Empire, at a subcommittee meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, they said failure to organize a major hockey series and the fear of inferior senior competition prompted their decision.

Marlboros, 1950 Allan Cup champions, played in the OHA major series in the Alexander Cup race last season. President Ballard said the team's players would be released to other clubs "providing that they be returned should we enter senior or major hockey."

Club officials voiced their fear of senior hockey standards during discussion of a new senior group in Ontario. They told delegates from Chatham, Oshawa, Brantford, Kitchener, Stratford, Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Owen Sound, that senior hockey could not be sold in Toronto.

"The other clubs want us in the new league only if we're in a position to be plastered," stated Ballard.

Delegates met Aug. 2 as a target for drawing up schedule dates, entries and the number of games to be played.

Last night they reached tentative agreements on abolishing import limits if all the clubs stayed in senior A competition.

Kitchener, also in the major series last year, agreed to reduce its squad to senior calibre by sending its first-string forward line of Billy Flick, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan to Stratford.

Delegates agreed to place a percentage of each game's receipts in a pool to be shared at the end of the season. This would assure that teams would SURVEYING Canadian track and field sports in general and the recent Dominion Track and Field meet in particular is enough to bring us to cheers and arms simultaneously. Cheers for the brilliant athletic performances and tears for the fact that our champions will not long be with us. Canada has been the honored host in the history of track and field and it seems a shame that in eighty odd years of competition we, as a nation, have little future to offer our athletes.

Flying Youth

Although the 1951 Senior and Junior track meet suffered from inclement weather, the general calibre of the competing youngsters was very high indeed. However, the success story revealed another fact. Many of the last five years with Lloyd Percival's Parkdale Track and Field Club collecting most of the honours. Percival's Parkdale Club is now commanding 30154 points with the Montreal Olympic Club running second with 6154, followed by the Hamilton Olympic Club, the Queen's City Spikes and the Toronto Olympic Trumps.

Disobeying the advantages of careful, sustained training methods, the TTFC dominated the majority of the competing youngsters was very high indeed. However, the success story revealed another fact. Disobeying the advantages of careful, sustained training methods, the TTFC dominated the majority of all sections with its star performer Rich Ferguson, of Belleville, in reign by setting new records in the two miles and single mile respectively.

With flying youngsters such as Ferguson, Pete Sutton, McEwan and Johnny Rose, Canada should excel at Helsinki in 1952 as all distances from one to six miles, if the Canadian Olympic Association committee is sufficiently impressed in the next few weeks.

Empty Stands

With so much for the cheer department we graduate to a sad report. Attendance at our track and field meets is very, very poor.

It's simple to blame the weather, heat, rain or cloud burst for the general disgraceful attendance at Canadian track and field events. Some of us offer a national holiday or some limping excuse but, even a combination of alibis fails to cover up from deserting our game youngsters on their biggest days.

For instance, turning our head for a moment, from the speeding relay-race at Varsity Stadium (where the teams whipped round like grey-hounds) we were shocked at the endless sweep of empty seats. The fans were giving their all in record-breaking style but few spectators had even bothered to come and see them run. We're sure that many a fan looked up, too, and saw how empty seats and wondered. He likely thought: "What's the matter with us? I guess we're not worth anyone's time or effort!"

Whatever the youngsters thought (after weeks and months of preparation) the answer was very plain; few sport fans thought enough of patched Canadian sporting talent to come out and cheer it along.

We'll leave the reasons to you.

The Result

To sum up our national track and field situation, unfortunately, is a very simple matter. With only two or three races a year, the better-than average Canadian athlete finds himself listening to attractive offers from American colleges because, apparently we have no real use for him.

At the moment, Rich Ferguson, Pete Sutton and other bright Canadian track stars are considering sport scholarships to Michigan State University, Ohio State and Nebraska. Soon they'll be lost to us for always.

What can we do (you ask) to keep them here at home?

Well, we think that Canadian schools and colleges should develop sport scholarships (or an equivalent) and put an end to the continual, damaging drainage of our athletes forced to seek greener fields.

Let's hope increased attendance will justify the efforts being displayed at the Ontario Senior Championships (July 20th) at Hamilton's Civic Stadium and the Eastern Canada Championships at East York (July 14th).

It should never be said we've forgotten our college cheer!

Why is American Loop Favored When Nationals Boast Better Paper Pitching, Batting Power?

By JOE REICHLER

Detroit, July 10 (AP) — The mystery of the 1951 all-star game revolves in the circles as to why the favorite when the Nationals boast the greater power and the better pitching?

The National League squad has walloped 182 homers to 127 for the American and the pitchers have hurled 12 shutouts to only seven for their rivals, yet the Americans rule a solid 7-5 choice today at game time, slated for 2:30 p.m. EDT.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, who has studied through 12 defeats in 17 previous baseball classics, has left it on habit and past performances, but he vows this is a new year.

It is in the starting lineup where the Nationals show their marked superiority in hitting the long ball, a department where the American League squads of the past usually excelled. Exclusive of pitchers, the National's starting eight hammered 41 homers to only 62 for the Americans.

The American League is handicapped further by injuries to key players right up to game time, limiting the manager to choose no more than one pitcher from each team.

At least three members of the American League infield are "ailing," but manager Casey Stengel said nobody would be excused. He denied the request of manager Al Lopez of the Indians that Cleveland Catcher Larry Doby be excused, explaining pleaded Doby was handicapped by a painful bone bruise.

Stengel pointed out he intended using Larry Berra, his own catcher, behind the plate for the entire game although Yogi is bothered by a bad back.

Several injured

Joe DiMaggio, another Yankee, and third baseman Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox are bothered by leg injuries, and Chico Carrasquel, White Sox shortstop, is still not fully recovered from a spike wound in his foot.

Manager Ed Sawyer of the Nationals, on the other hand, reported his squad in tip-top shape. He selected his own pitcher, Robin Roberts (10-7) of Philadelphia, to start for the Nationals. Casey's nomination was Ned Garver (13-4) of the St. Louis Browns, to make it a battle of righthanders.

It was to be Roberts' second straight starting assignment. Garver never before had been named to an all-star squad.

Stengel has probably would follow Garver with Ed Lopat, Yankee southpaw, for the middle three innings and finish with either Bob Lemon of Cleveland or Fred Hutchinson, of Detroit. No hurler is allowed to pitch more than three innings unless the game goes into extra innings.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York July 10 (AP) — A conservative morning - journal, denying a yarn that there's a rift between Joe DiMaggio and Yankee manager Casey Stengel notes that Joe has become something of a "loner" lately. . .he stays alone, seldom talks to his teammates or his manager and is inclined to return short, surly answers to reporters. . .We've heard the same thing elsewhere and the scribes who used to be Joe's friends now are letting him alone . . .You can't exactly blame a guy for feeling sour when he's on the downgrade after a great career. . .and Joe, with a .261 batting average and frequent periods of enforced idleness must realize he's near the end of the string. . . .some advice— Joe Maggio is a guy who made a bad start then learned to accept fame gracefully. You couldn't find a more pleasant companion than Joe when he was at his peak. . .if he'd learn the same graceful acceptance of the end of playing career, he could go right on as one of the great personalities in sports. . .maybe it would be better to come by $100,000 a year, but there isn't anybody who would have better opportunities as an ex-ball player.

Whaddaya Want?

In the same vein, Fred Corcoran tells this one about Ted Williams, whose relations with the press haven't always been the best. . .Ted came to bat in a recent game where a long hit was needed to put the Red Sox in front. . .He was intentionally passed and Vern Stephens followed with a double. . .Williams took off with the sound of the bat, raced all the way around and slid under the throw to home for an all-important run. . .Just as he crossed the plate in a cloud of dust, a Boston writer pointed dramatically from the press box and shouted: "See that Ted, he doesn't hit in the clutch, Stephens does."

Royals Score Four in Ninth To Defeat Leafs

(By The Canadian Press)

New owner Jack Cooke treated his Toronto fans to a right pleasant evening last night, but the league-leading Montreal Royals had to go and spoil the fun.

Last rooters turned out 7,780 strong for the club's first home game under new management. They were entertained before the game by a singing quartet and then came the best part of owner Cooke's "new deal" — free hot dogs and soft drinks for all.

The Royals played the role of spoil sports by coming up with four runs in the ninth inning to win 8-4. The victory preserved Montreal's nine-game lead over Buffalo, who beat Baltimore 5-3.

Bob Morgan hit a pair of home runs for Montreal and Jim Russell also clouted a round-tripper. Frank Colman homered for the Leafs.

The last-place Springfield Cubs continued to show new fire.

The Cubs won two extra-inning games from the first-place Montreal Royals during the weekend, then, as if to show it was just a fluke, came back to whip Syracuse Chiefs before 8,497 home town onlookers last night.

The Cubs pasted Bob Keegan and his successor, Bill Tanner, for 13 hits to win the game 11-3. Bill Padgett, ace Springfield hurler, gave up only eight hits in scoring his 10th triumph against nine setbacks.

The second-place Buffalo Bisons squeaked past Baltimore Orioles 5-3. The Bisons had the game sewed up with a 5-3 margin, but the Orioles came back and tied it in the last of the ninth to send the game into extra innings. In the top half of the 11th Hank Biasatti put an end to things with a home run. Jack Mayo and Marvin Rickert hit home runs to tie it in the ninth for the Orioles.

Dauthuille Wins Decision Over Tony Janiro

Montreal, July 10 — (CP) — Husky Laurent Dauthuille of France last night gained a unanimous decision over Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., in an open air bout at Montreal baseball stadium.

A crowd of 10,126 braved hot, sticky weather and the threat of rain to see Dauthuille outclass Janiro in nine of the 10 rounds at their feature bout.

Although he came out on the wrong end of the decision, Janiro collected the larger sum — a $10,000 guarantee. Dauthuille received about $6,500 as his share of the $33,139 gross gate.

Janiro showed signs of fight only in the third round when he kept his heavier opponent at bay with a sizzling right. He weighed 151½ and Dauthuille 167 1-4.

But Dauthuille's free use of both hands soon had Janiro confused. Rights to the body and a tricky left jab to the head took the sting out of Janiro's blows.

The Frenchman was obviously in fine condition. Janiro was slow and, when he did get his right working, usually was wild. For every blow Janiro landed, Dauthuille drove home five.

Dauthuille gave his best showing in the final round. Although it must have been apparent the fight was his, he lived up to the 3 to 5 odds by giving Janiro everything he had. It wasn't enough to spoil Janiro's record of never having been knocked out.

Race Promoter Suffers Possible Skull Fracture

(By The Canadian Press)

Promoter Albert Schulstrasate of the Canadian Cycling Association suffered a brain concussion and possible small fracture in a bicycle accident at the Delhi arena Monday. The arena is the scene of a nine-day bicycle derby, now in its third day, between teams from the United States and Ontario.

The accident occurred as Schulstrasate was training two young riders who are appearing in the derby. He collided with John Gath, Australian rider who acts as a spare with the Toronto team, when the Australian lost control of his tricycle. Gath suffered severe facial injuries.

In the derby the Chicago team is holding the lead against the pressing Toronto group who are four laps behind and have 84 points in Chicago's 96.

Admission of Brantford Barons into the big four junior football league was announced Monday night during a meeting of league executives at Hamilton.

The Barons, coached by Ted Varns of Brantford, will play against Parkdale Lions, Notre Dame and Hamilton Tiger Cats.

Ted Turner of Toronto was re-elected vice-president, during business session.

Ottawa Giants of the International League defeated their pennant club New York Giants 4-1 at Ottawa Monday night before 10,077 surprised fans.

Ottawa starter, Roger Bowman got credit for the win. He pitched a two-hitter and struck out three in five innings on the mound. Paul Lopez and Chuck Riesmann finished for the home team.

The National League starter Monte Kennedy was tagged with the loss.

Outgoing baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler received a pat on the back and Major League Club owners received a vote of support for organized baseball's fight to retain the "reserve" clause, at the annual player representative-club owner meeting Monday at Detroit.

Chandler was unanimously voted a plaque for his services to players in both leagues.

The player representatives adopted a resolution giving owners a vote of confidence for retention of the reserve clause.

A four-man team, headed by Wimbledon champion Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., Monday was named to represent the United States against Japan in the first round of the North American zone Davis Cup competition July 30 at Louisville, Ky.

Named with Savitt were Hamlin Fisher of Beverly Hills, Calif., 1950 runner-up for the United States title; Bill Talbert of New York and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati.

The longest daily double payoff of the current New England racing season, $3,498.80, was paid at Narragansett Park Monday with a 66-to-1 shot, Ralph Hallowey's Wardrit, won the first race and was followed into the winner's circle by the low-priced Miss Eilaneous in the second race.

Niagara Racing Association, conducting the racing meet at Fort Erie track, Monday night offered to increase purse money during the second seven days' racing here by $5,000. This was in answer to a request by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association for an increase of $8,400.

Charles Hemstead, acting coach of the R.C.A.F. said the offer would be reported to President Vince Sheridan. The H.F.D.A. committee will meet today to discuss the increase.

At Riviere Du Loup, Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of Prime Minister St. Laurent, scored a hole in one at the St. Patrice golf course near here while playing with his father Monday.

The Quebec lawyer hit the ball with a No. 2 iron to send it into the eighth hole, 195 yards away.

Ray Robinson 4-1 Favorite To Defend Title

London, July 10 — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson puts his world middleweight title on the line tonight (4:30 p.m. EDT) against one of the hardest punchers developed in Britain, 23-year-old Randolph Turpin.

The chances are so strong that Robinson will keep the crown despite the punches that anybody backing the champion must risk $4 to win $1. Those who like Turpin can get odds of 3 to 1.

Although the odds make it appear like a one-sided fight, the match has attracted the paying public. Promoter Jack Solomons sold out the 18,000-seat Indoor Sett's Court arena within 26 hours after signing of the contracts.

The gross will run around $234,000, with Robinson getting about $84,000 — the biggest purse ever for a fighter here.

Turpin is also getting his biggest payday. He has never had him first among the "outstanding boxers" in the middleweight division, but didn't class him good enough to be considered a logical contender for Robinson's title. Nobody was.

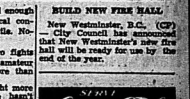
Randy has won 46 pro fights and lost two after an amateur career that included more than 100 bouts.

Turpin has never fought more than eight rounds and he hasn't had to go that far since he met Tommy Yarosz of Pittsburgh here last December.

Robinson isn't giving much. He expects a tough fight but he doesn't think it will go "more than 15 rounds."

BUILD NEW FIRE HALL

New Westminster, B.C. (CP) — City Council has announced that New Westminster's new fire hall will be ready for use by the end of the year.



Two More Teams Of Border Loop Have Withdrawn

Watertown, N.Y., July 10—(AP)—Watertown Athletics and Auburn Cayugas Monday withdrew from the border league and the Athletics threatened to sue the National Association of professional baseball leagues.

The action left the Class-C circuit with only two teams. It opened the season with six clubs.

The Cayugas acted a few hours after the Athletics withdrew.

After a meeting at Auburn, the board of directors of the Auburn Community Professional Baseball Club, Inc., owner of the Cayugas, issued a statement stating it had ceased operations for the rest of the season.

The director blamed what they called "prevalent conditions . . . in the border league." They did not elaborate.

No announcement was made regarding disposition of the players.

Earlier, Clyde M. Graves, president of the Athletics, said here that his team's board of directors would consult lawyers with regard to a suit against the national association, czar of minor league baseball. He said the board would seek to sue on three counts:

1. That a decision by George M. Trautman, president of the association, had forced the Athletics out of organized baseball.

2. That the team had suffered financial loss because the league existed for several weeks.

Turned Down Request

The league's troubles started when two of its six teams, Geneva and Cornwall, Ont., withdrew because of financial difficulties.

Watertown and Auburn then asked Trautman to disband the border league, presumably with the intention of trying again to join the Can-Am circuit after the dissolution.

Monday, Trautman also turned down that request.

Meanwhile, the other two teams in the league, Ogdensburg and Kingston, Ont., have been playing each other. And John Ward of Ogdensburg, president of the border loop, said they would continue to do so if both Watertown and Auburn left the league.

Trautman said Ward had scheduled another game with Watertown in Ogdensburg for the purpose of again considering whether or not to disband the league.

Glen Roy Beats Pointers 8-5 To Lead League

Glen Roy Athletic Club strengthened their hold on first place in the A section of the Conference Softball League and sank Point Anne Cementmen deeper into the cellar last evening as they took an 8-5 decision down at the point.

The locals grabbed a two run lead in the first inning and stayed in front all the way. Point Anne, wearing their complete uniforms for the first time, seemed lifeless with Pat Maracle being way off form.

The Pointers, who had numerous opportunities to score, killed their chances with some inept base running. In both the sixth and eighth innings they had the makings of a strong rally only to be squashed by having men put out on the base-running trying to steal.

Glen Roy used two errors, a passed ball and Doug Sword's double to left field to score two runs in the first inning. Three singles were good for another tally in the fifth.

Point Anne broke into the scoring in the bottom of the third when Art Genereaux slammed a bases-empty home run to centre-field with two men out.

Mallory's single and Baldwin's double in the fifth restored Glen Roy's three run lead.

In the sixth the Pointers loaded the bases with no one away, but Murney Green was picked off third, and Bob Strahan was forced at second to cut off the rally with a single run.

Glen Roy went out in front for good in the eighth inning as a two out rally netted them four runs. Singles by Jack Hunter, Corbett, and Spafford, and Roger Mallory's triple were all that was needed.

Point Anne banged out three singles in the eighth for one run and closed out the game with a two run rally in the ninth.

Marty Halloran went the route for the winners, walking three, striking out three and giving up eight hits for five runs. Pat Maracle went down to defeat walking two, striking out four, and giving up 14 hits and the game.

Roger Mallory led the field at the plate with two singles and a triple in four trips, scoring four of his team's eight runs himself.

Bill Spafford had three for five for the winners.

Murney Green junior, and Art Genereaux led Point Anne with two safeties in four tries.

Lineups:

Glen Roy: Ronsky 3b; Corbett 1b; Spafford ss; Mallory c; Young 3b; K. Baldwin rf; Wm namaker cf, replaced by R. Hunter in 7th; J. Hunter lf; Halloran p.

Point Anne: A. Genereaux rf; M. Green lf; Strahan 1b; P. Green c; Everett cf; L. Maracle 3b; M. Whalen 2b; Finlan ss; P. Maracle p.

Score by innings:

	R	H	E
Glen Roy	201 010 040—8	14	1
Point Anne	001 001 012—5	8	3

Players Favor Reserve Clause In Contracts

Detroit, July 10 (AP) —Major League ball players were formally on record today in favor of the controversial reserve clause.

The 16 player representatives from each team in the majors, meeting here on the eve of the all-star baseball game, voted last night in favor of a resolution giving club owners a vote of confidence in their retention of the reserve clause.

Freddie Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers and Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates said players felt the clause was "necessary to the solidarity of baseball."

The clause, recently under attack by several players in the courts, binds a player to the club with which he first signs a contract.

Stan Leonard Still Favored To Retain Title

Hamilton, July 10 (CP)—The Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship tournament ended up today with Stan Leonard still favored to retain his title.

The draw called for Leonard to make a late start on the final 36 holes of the 54-hole event. He was matched in a three some with Arnold McLean of Montreal Mallock, who shot a 71 in yesterday's opening round, and Fred Wood of Vancouver Shaughnessy Heights, whose initial card also was 71.

Leonard himself posted a 71 yesterday, playing under overcast skies and hampered by a stiff southwest wind.

That was a stroke behind the leader, Stan Horne of Montreal Islesmere, who made the only par score of the first 18 holes.

The winner will take $1,000 as top prize. If he wishes to play in the Tam O'Shanter tournament in Chicago, an additional $1,000 will be thrown in.

Others well in front after the opening round were Gerry Proulx of Ottawa Chaudiere with 71, and Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener-Waterloo Rockway, Murray Tucker of London Sunningdale, Dick Brothwick of Hamilton Ancaster and Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield, all with 72.

The C.P.G.A. annual meeting last night set the date for the assistants' championship preliminaries as Aug. 17 with the matches in Toronto and Montreal. The finals are to be staged in Montreal Aug. 24.

The meeting re-elected association officers. They included: Ken Murray, Royal Montreal, President and Ken Zabowski, Halifax, Vice-Captain.

15-Year-Old Players Wanted By Ball Team

Any boy under the age of fifteen years who is still desirous of playing bantam hardball is advised to be at the fair grounds on Saturday morning. Because of boys holidaying and others taking jobs, several vacancies have occurred on some teams.

Mr. Buller, manager of the Drive-In bantam baseball team, will be on hand to take the names of the boys who are not already playing with other teams.

The Y's Men team will hook up with the Drive-In nine in a regularly scheduled league game immediately following this enrollment.

Stengel Denies Any Animosity Between Himself, Dimag

Detroit, July 10 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees today denied that any animosity exists between him and Joe DiMaggio, his slipping outfield star. He hurried those "who are trying to embarrass Joe through me."

Rumors of strife between Stengel and DiMaggio began last summer when Casey dropped Joe out of the cleanup spot and attempted to convert the great centrefielder into a first-baseman. The rumors were revived over the weekend when Stengel removed DiMag from the lineup during Saturday's game at Boston.

A reporter went to see DiMaggio in the clubhouse and asked why he was taken out of the lineup.

"Go see the manager," Joe replied. "Maybe he'll tell you."

Stengel explained he removed DiMag, along with regulars Phil Rizzuto and Gerry Coleman in order to "rest" them for Sunday's game with the Red Sox.

Unfortunately, DiMaggio did not know he had been yanked until after he had trotted out to the outfield. Casey had to dispatch one of his players to inform Joe he was through for the day. Some reporters took Casey to task for "trying to embarrass Joe."

"Me embarrass Joe?" he said incredulously. "Why should I do that to one who has done 20 times as much for baseball as I ever had done! It is others who are trying to embarrass Joe through me.

"He was the greatest all-around outfielder the game has ever seen. He still is great, oh, he has slipped some, but they want him to be as great at 37 as he was at 21. That just can't be done.

"The fellow could do everything. He could hit, field, throw, go from first to third and get that base on balls... If he had put in 15 years in Boston's Fenway Park he would have broken every hitting record in the book."

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"TRY AND GET ME"
(Adult) (First Run)
Starring Frank Lovejoy and Kathleen Ryan

Frank Lovejoy, an ex-GI living in a typical medium-sized town, is jobless and desperate in his efforts to support his family. He is persuaded by Lloyd Bridges to join in a series of petty holdups, which are built up into a major crime wave through inflammatory articles written by Richard Carlson, a reporter, to stimulate newspaper circulation. When Bridges murders a boy kidnapped by him and Lovejoy, civic resentment, added to fever pitch, Bridges and Lovejoy are arrested and, distraught, Lovejoy's wife pleads with Carlson for help to avoid a lynching. But an outraged mob drags Bridges and Lovejoy from jail and hangs them in the public square. When the fury subsides, Carlson—stunned by the outrage —vows he'll never let those responsible, including himself, forget.

. . . From A Funeral

This expression has an odd origin. It started at a funeral. A Harvard student sent a wreath bearing the letters, "S.Y.L." to the funeral of a colleague. Everyone questioned what the letters meant, since they were not the initials of the deceased. The explanation was that "S.Y.L." meant "See You Later." The expression is still popular.

to Stirling Lodge.

Later Wor. Bro. Gordon Bailey, Wor. Master elect, was invested with the apron.

Following the installation ceremonies, short addresses were delivered by the newly installed officers after which all partook of the fourth degree.

Front and styling improvements of Studebaker's 1951 passenger car offerings center around the new grille, silver-hued "eyebrow," and bumper support splash shield. Design changes in the rear are reflected principally in the new trunk deck handles enclosing lock; lid release and license plate lamps, and the re-designed tail lamps which give much greater lighting both rearward and laterally. Other features include the use of wider rear springs to improve lateral stability, one-piece windshields, centerpoint steering, new instrument panels, and one-piece rear windows on all models except the 5-passenger and business coupes. Reuters News Agency 100 Yrs. Old Wednesday

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 10 (CP) —The story goes that Queen Victoria, if contradicted by her ministers on a point of fact, liked to reply:

"Mr. Reuter says so, and he is generally right."

Such was the fame of Reuters, the international news agency founded in 1851 when one man and an office boy began telegraphing stock quotations from rented rooms in London. The man was a German rabbi's son named Paul Julius Reuters, who earlier had used pigeons to bridge a gap in the cable route between Berlin and Paris.

The agency, now grown to world-wide dimensions, celebrates its centenary tomorrow. One of the anniversary books will be publication of "A Life in Reuter" (Hodder and Stoughton), in which Sir Roderick Jones describes how he fell heir to the Reuter family enterprise and how he struggled through the years to vest the agency's ownership in the British press.

Sir Roderick, Reuters boss for 25 years, also partially breaks the 10-year silence which has surrounded his "outwardly abrupt and enigmatic withdrawal" from the agency Feb. 5 1941.

On that date British newspapers reported Sir. Roderick's resignation, but did not explain why he had quit. Sir Roderick insisted on silence. Now, he explains that the Reuters board of directors felt that negotiations which Sir Roderick was conducting with the British government threatened to compromise the agency's independence.

This accusation, Sir Roderick says, was untrue.

At the same time, Sir Roderick implies that the full story may never be told. He says an Inquest 10 years after the event would be boring.

Things of Past

"Wrongs committed cannot any longer be redressed," he writes cryptically. "They are things of the past and are best forgotten."

Sir Roderick, born 73 years ago in South Africa, became Reuters chief they at 27 and succeeded in the chief executive's post in 1915 after the suicide of Baron Herbert De Reuter, son of the founder. When the new man took over, the agency's financial fortunes were at low ebb. Gradually Reuters recuperated and on retirement Sir Roderick could say it had been enlarged under his tenure to "four times or more its former compass."

Always his abiding preoccupation was to have Reuters ownership vested in the British press, as The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news agency, is owned by Canadian newspapers. His object was to "place Reuters above the variations in ownership and control that would result from its continued dependence upon the life of one individual, myself."

After prolonged negotiations, Sir Roderick persuaded the principal newspapers to buy into Reuters. The London papers held aloof until after Sir Roderick's retirement. Thus he concludes:

"If perhaps I am sad at having been barred by a sinister concatenation of forces from sharing in the complete fulfilment of what for over 20 years was my dream and my steadily-developed plan, I am consoled that the dream was realized, the plan accomplished; that those wearing and persistent efforts were not in vain; and that the future of Reuters is placed where I had labored that it should be."

Spectacular Air Battle South of Sinuiju

3 Migs Shot Down, Another Damaged By US Sabre Jets

Allies Attack Ammunition Factory Near Yalu River

Headquarters, Fifth Air Force, Korea, July 11 (AP) — U.S. Sabre jets today shot down three communist MIG-15 Jets and damaged another in a spectacular 30-minute air battles over northwestern Korea.

Thirty-four Allied planes tangled with an estimated 30 MIGs in dramatic dogfights south of Sinuiju.

The aerial battle ranged from 32,000 feet down to 3,000.

It started when the Sabre Jets went to the Yalu river border area to fly top cover for 31 F-80 Shooting Star Jets which attacked an ammunition factory south of the river.

Capt. Milton Nelson of Tarrant, Ala., sent a MIG spinning down in flames and brought his score of the Russian-made planes destroyed to four, tops for Allied pilots now in Korea.

The ground war in Korea has quieted considerably with the beginning of armistice talks, but there has been no let-up in the bitter war in the air.

Patrol Contact

The U.S. Eighth Army reported patrol contact and artillery fire from the Pusan area, where the United Nations "Peace Camp", base for allied cease-fire negotiators.

The Eighth Army communique said "fight to moderate contact continued along the Korean front as Eighth Army forces continued their aggressive patrolling."

Thirteen B-29 superforts attacked railway yards at Kwangju and Hungnam.

There was no letup in the allied naval attack on the east coast.

Ousted Rector Reported Looking For New Church

Toronto, July 11 — (CP) Rev. Henry W. Garbutt, Anglican minister ousted during a stormy parish dispute, may be seeking a post with a United States episcopal church.

Possibility that the 49-year-old clergyman would leave Canada is disclosed last night by R. H. Sowden, Chancellor of the Diocese of Toronto, during a meeting at which Mr. Garbutt was to have met with Bishop A. R. Beverley of Toronto — the man who dismissed him. The purpose was to discuss Mr. Garbutt's objection to the manner of his removal.

Mr. Garbutt did not attend the meeting. He was reported in have gone to Niagara Falls, Ont., meeting with a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The Episcopal Church in the U. S. is similar to the Church of England in form and practice.

Decides to Drop Fight

Mr. Garbutt's counsel, R. C. Wilson of Toronto, represented him at the hearing. He told the bishop and Diocese officials that Mr. Garbutt had decided to drop his fight against dismissal.

Earlier, Mr. Garbutt said he was going to protest, contending his removal was not in accordance with church canon law. Mr. Wilson told the meeting Mr. Garbutt had later found the objection was based on the wrong canon.

The rector's dismissal climaxed a six-month inquiry into complaints from the strife - ridden parish.

A Diocese commission on differences recommended Mr. Garbutt's removal as the only means of restoring peace. It said the cure for bad blood, several church canons and that this caused much of the dissension.

Mr. Garbutt had argued that the complaints came from a handful of parish "troublemakers."

600 EMPLOYEES RETURN

Hamilton, July 11 (CP) —Between 500 and 600 employees of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited, will return to work Monday, D. C. Gaskin, vice president and general manager, said today. A shortage of component parts had resulted in a two week lay-off.

Mr. Gaskin said employees would work a five day week and the plant would close down for the annual holiday July 27. It will re-open Aug. 6.

CABIN CRUISER FREED

Port Erie, July 11 — (CP) — A cabin cruiser with eight Americans aboard was freed by a United States Coast Guard cutter last night when it went aground on a reef off Dunkirk Beach. Three miles west of Port Erie. The boat is owned by Herbert Cline of Buffalo and was operated by James Cline.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, July 11 (CP) Synopsis: Cool ak with afternoon temperatures higher than predicted all of Ontario and at the time of this morning's weather map in the southern but not south of Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

Deep in the heart of Texas, in north-central Ontario skies are usually sunny, but in the south woodlands cloudiness is caused by the proximity of the warm air. This also makes likely the development of a storm centre the beginnings of which were evident in northern Illinois. Ahead of this centre rain and thunderstowers may be expected to spread through southern Ontario during Wednesday.

IRAN ACCEPTS TRUMAN'S OFFER TO SEND ADVISOR

U.S. Ambassador Receives Reply

Tehran, Iran, July 11 (AP) — Iran tonight accepted President Truman's offer to send his adviser Averell Harriman to Tehran to "talk over" the oil dispute.

U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady was called to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's residence to receive the Iranian reply to Truman's offer to send Harriman to Iran in the hope he could help solve the current dispute.

Grady, told newspaper men he was "very pleased" with Mossadegh's reply.

Earlier it was reported that Iran's oil nationalization committee had advised Mossadegh to accept the Truman offer.

The premier appeared to have been stalling on an answer to President Truman's offer to send Harriman immediately. The commission, however, said it approved the idea "on the ground that Harriman's visit could not conflict with the oil nationalization law," the spokesman said.

Informed circles here say however that Harriman's mission will have little effect unless the Iranians show a disposition to modify — at least slightly — their determination to have full control of the British-operated oil industry.

There was not the slightest indication that Mossadegh was ready to make any compromise.

If Mossadegh accepts Truman's offer to send Harriman to "talk over" the dispute, it will represent a softening of the Iranian attitude. The first election here to Truman's proposal was that it came "too late."

Moreover, a special cabinet meeting last night was said to have been "favorably inclined" to accept. Moderate elements represented to Mossadegh that refusal might be construed as a rebuff to Truman.

Adding to Mossadegh's troubles were reports of rioting between communists and anti-communists in Tabriz, capital of the northern province of Azerbaijan. Several students were said to have been injured in the clashes.

No Vote Reached on Seaway By Public Works Committee, Call New Session Thursday

Washington, July 11. (AP)— The House of Representatives public works committee failed to reach a vote of legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. The group scheduled another closed session tomorrow.

Chairman Charles Buckley (Dem. N.Y.), said the committee, in a two-hour session, discussed only two of eight seaway bills before it.

The group decided by unanimous voice vote, Buckley said, to table the six other bills. The measures discussed, he said, differ only in the amount of tolls that might be charged shipping.

Buckley declined to predict whether the committee would reach a vote tomorrow. "I don't say" was his reply to reporters.

Every member of the 27-man committee was present for today's session.

The committee, in addition to holding extensive hearings early this spring, inspected the seaway site last month. The tour, in which a majority of the members participated, extended from Duluth, Minn., to Montreal.

Under several virtually-identical bills before the committee the legislation, in the main calls for:

27-Foot Depth

Deepening the St. Lawrence River to an average depth of 27 feet — to permit navigation by ocean-going ships, and;

Construction of a 2,200,000 horsepower, hydro-electric generating plant in the International Rapids section of the river — near Massena, N.Y., for the united production of about 13,000,000,000 kilowatt hours annually.

The power yield would be shared equally between the United States and Canada. Each would contribute equally towards the construction costs.

Engineers estimate the combined project would require an expenditure of $385,000,000. The bulk — about $360,000,000 would be used for building the waterway.

Supporters of the project, which President Truman has frequently urged Congress to authorize, include Defence Secretary George Marshall, State Secretary Dean Acheson, Defence Mobilizer Charles Wilson, Labor Secretary Frank Pace, Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman and army engineers.

Judge Denies Govt. Request For Temporary Detention Of Sixteen Indicted Communists

New York, July 11 — (AP) — The government sought unsuccessfully today to have 16 communist leaders placed in the custody of United States marshals pending decision on a move to revoke their bail and increase their bonds.

Judge Vincent L. Leibell reserved the entire bail question to Judge Sylvester J. Ryan for a hearing (at 2 p.m. EDT) and signalled the government request for temporary detention, saying that the government's present motions were related to Ryan's inquiry into the source of funds used at bail in communist cases, and the same judge should hear them.

All 17 arrested defendants in the current conspiracy case were in court. In the case of Israel Amter, the 17th defendant, the government has asked only that new surety be provided for his $1,000 bond.

The 16 now are free on total bail of $125,000. The government petitioned yesterday to raise that amount to $275,000.

At the same time, the government asked that $50,000 bail be put up by the Civil Rights Congress, a unit of the U.S. Leibell it would later try to revoke bail posted by the Congress in immigration cases.

Both motions followed federal court inquiry into the flight of the top communist functionary on the same conspiracy charge on which the 16 have been indicted.

The Civil Rights Congress bail fund supplied, and forfeited, $80,000 bonds for the four fugitives. Three trustees of the bail fund have received contempt-of-court sentences for refusing to name contributors to the fund.

Six-month terms were given two of the trustees, mystery writer Dashiell Hammett and W. Alphaeus Hunton, both of whom spent the last two nights in a city jail.

Judge Learned Hand, of the United States Court of Appeals, will give Hammett and Hunton a hearing tomorrow on their contempt appeal for handing appeal of the contempt citations.

Meanwhile, millionaire leftist Frederick Vanderbilt Field, is free on $10,000 bail pending appeal of his 90-day contempt sentence. He has a date tomorrow with the U.S. Senate Internal Security Committee in Washington.

The move to revoke bail did not apply to two defendants, Gerhart Eisler and Eugene Dennis, who forfeited $15,000 bond came from private sources and not the congress.

PRIME MINISTER OF NEW ZEALAND GOES TO COUNTRY

Seeks Vindication Handling Labor Crisis

Wellington, N.Z., July 11—(CP)—Prime Minister Sydney Holland announced tonight that his national government will go to the country soon to seek vindication of its handling of New Zealand's labor crisis.

The national government, elected in December, 1949, in a strong swing to the right, would not ordinarily need to appeal to the voters again until late next year, but its majority is slim. The labor party won 46 seats in the 80-seat House of Representatives against 34 for labor.

Political observers consider the government decided to strike while the victory in the country's greatest industrial crisis of the past generation was still fresh in the mind of voters.

The crisis began five months ago when dockers went on strike. Miners and seamen went with them. The government deregistered the 1,000-member Dockers' Union and formed new unions.

Strike Crumbling

Now the strike appears to be crumbling as union leaders advised workers they can walk out and return to work.

Holland told the House of Representatives that he would ask the governor-general to dissolve parliament and call a general election to vindicate the government's handling of the dispute.

He gave no date for the general election.

Meanwhile the deregistered Auckland waterfront union will consider tomorrow its national executive's recommendation that it return to work.

Seamen, cooks and stewards, who had been on strike in sympathy with the dock workers' demands for a 40-percent wage increase returned to work today.

The strike, which exploded into violence on several occasions, started in February when the Stevedores' demands for an increase of 16 cents to 84 cents an hour were turned down.

Holds Up Shipments

The government's decision to call for a general election came as a surprise to the opposition, who called Holland's hasty calling of the dispute was inept.

The labor party is said to be divided over the dispute. Moderate unions have opposed the strike from the outset. Labor groups have strongly criticized the governments' handling of the dispute. Holland's enforcement which was not preceded by any "leaks" said the election would be called at the "earliest opportunity."

Cease-Fire Talks Progress in Cold Military Formality

Change in Attitude Seen By 5 Communist Generals

By JIM BECKER

Munsan, Korea, July 11—(AP) —Cease-fire talks are progressing in "cold military formality" with every reason to be optimistic, a United Nations briefing officer said tonight.

"The talks now are on the tracks," said the spokesman, Col. George Rublen, "and there is no more nearer tonight than it was 24 hours ago."

An official communique was less enthusiastic but hopeful.

It said "a better understanding between negotiating parties" developed Wednesday. It credited a change of attitude by the five communist generals.

The communique said the red negotiators showed "less stiffness and less formality."

Neither the communique nor the briefing officer mentioned three communist demands reported by red radio.

They are military status Discussed Only military status Discussed

But allied delegates, returning Wednesday afternoon from the conference, said the opposition made it clear they wouldn't talk about one of the three points—a demand that foreign troops get out of Korea immediately.

Conferees are operating without a chairman. Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy leads allied discussions as U.N. spokesman, North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief communist delegate, is the "dominant figure on their side." Rublen described him as "dynamic and a man with a strong character."

He said neither dominated the sessions—held along a long table in a room decorated with the U.N. banner and a north Korean flag.

Improvement in the atmosphere of negotiations was reflected in a communique announcement that the U.N. delegation tonight would be authorized to go to Kaesong for Thursday's negotiations.

Went To City

Previously they had been banned by communist insistence. Five Allied photographers went to the ancient capital city Wednesday after the U.N. delegation had left.

They travelled along roads guarded by a motley assortment of Chinese, armed with American, British and Russian weapons. The reds stood with their backs to the road. They said they were protecting the peace delegates against "guerrillas."

Allied Convoy to Kaesong Delayed Hour by Armed Chinese Guards

Munsan, Korea, July 11—(AP) Armed Chinese guards delayed an allied convoy to Kaesong for more than an hour today to "protect us from guerrillas," an American spokesman reported.

Pfc. Lewis Milner of Cleveland said the Chinese check point was about five miles south of Kaesong, where cease-fire talks started yesterday.

"They wouldn't let us go through until they found someone to protect us," Milner said, phased it, from guerrillas," he said.

A Chinese interpreter finally arrived and accompanied the convoy into the city.

"That interpreter spoke only two words of English—hello and wait," Milner added.

Chinese guards with rifles, burp guns and other weapons were spotted all along the route past the check point, All United Nations personnel were required to surrender their weapons (pre-sumably to American military police) at the Imjin River bridge and proceed into Kaesong unarmed.

"That gives you a funny feeling," Milner said. "You sure keep an eye on them."

He said Chinese infantry patrols were moving all along the road.

"Everytime we went by, all the Chinese turned their backs to us and faced the rice paddies and fields until we had passed. Probably they were ordered to do this."

Milner said he saw only Koreans in Kaesong, but. . .

"I'll be there outside the town, we saw Chinese."

Milner said armed Chinese in jeeps escorted the U.N. convoy from the city to the check point on the return journey to the peace camp.

Recognition Coming for Man As Father of X-Ray Treatments

Chicago, July 11 — (AP) — Recognition is coming after half a century for Dr. Emil Grubbe, the man whose pioneer work led to saving or prolonging millions of lives.

Dr. Grubbe now is generally credited by medical science as the father of X-ray treatments. This research venture cost the 76-year-old Chicago physician his left hand, the full use of his right hand and a strip of skin from his upper lip.

As a 20-year-old physicist, he used a beam of X-rays to treat a woman cancer patient in Chicago in January, 1896. This was only five months after Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist, discovered that invisible, penetrating X-rays could be produced by sending an electrical charge through a vacuum tube.

An account of Grubbe's early work and belated recognition was published Tuesday in Pageant Magazine.

Dr. Grubbe, still active in medicine, will be cited as one of "our greatest medical pioneers."

Dr. Stobie Realizes Dream By Enjoying Fishing Trip In Famous Salmon Waters

A fifteen-year-old dream of a well-known physician, surgeon and angler was realized the other day.

One and one-half decades ago, Dr. George H. Stobie of this city, promised himself a special trip to the Gaspe Peninsula, and an angling quest for the fabulous Restigouche salmon.

During that period he dreamed of seeing fighting silver furies breaking green water, ripping up cascading rivers, of tense duels between angler and fish and all the things the ardent angler visualizes.

He collected special tackle. He roamed far afield for the proper fishing clothes. He examined and roved the lakes, rivers and streams of his usual haunts booking the speckled muskie, trout and bass. Always Wanted To Go

But always in his dreams, he saw the Restigouche spray-splashed shore of the Gaspe. The foaming pools and the salmon-filled pools of the Matapedia River. The quiet grandeur of the Bay of Chaleur. The solemn majesty of Barry Mountain Lake, 60 miles in the hinterland in the Gaspacedia Fish and Game Preserve, with its moose, deer and bear.

But that was just a dream. A few years ago it became a reality.

For the beaming doctor-angler returned home from a ten-day holiday in the Gaspe region with a trio of Restigouche salmon and 45 speckled muskie, trout and bass, plus one of the piscatorial chase.

"The fightingest fish I ever saw" smiled Dr. "Doc" as he gazed with justifiable pride at three Restigouche beauties weighing 23½, 20 and 19½ pounds respectively.

Explaining the "he smiled, pointing to the 20-pounder" was the fighting daddy of the three. It took me one hour and ten minutes to land him and at one time I had 90 feet of line out."

Two of the salmon were caught in the Matapedia River which joins the Restigouche at the Bay of Chaleur.

Winds Tortuous Way

The matapedia is a stream that winds a tortuous way through the peninsula. Its quiet seven-pound speckled trout appealed by foaming cascading rapids form a natural habitat for the fighting "aristocrats" of the family.

The water in the pools is crystal clear and the salmon can easily be seen.

But, according to Dr. Stobie, if you go fishing for the Restigouche, "you go fishing. There is no following. No trolling for a broad-beamed boat letting a trolling line sift through your fingers. You either fish—or stay at home.

Regulations Stiff

Angling regulations are "stiff" and must be observed. For instance, you can use a "fly only" and up there each fly has a name. I used a "Klondike Kate."

You get yourself a guide, a canoe, your equipment, and you're ready. The guide uses a pole, not a paddle. Silently he pushes the frail craft to a greenwatered pool. He picks the spots where the big kings of the Gaspe swish their tails. They are clearly visible.

Your fly hits the water gently. Suddenly there is a flurry in the cool depths. Ripples eddy away from a foam-splash as the salmon smashes at the lure.

Away Like Flash

"He was away like a flash" said Dr. Stobie, referring to his first minute duel with the 20-pounder.

"Suddenly the line went slack. The salmon wasn't sure what had happened. He turned and raced back for the pool. I took up the slack. He discovered he was hooked. The battle was on."

"Out of the pool he flashed. He broke water. It was a beautiful sight. The big fish flashed in an arc, curved like a fishhook, glistening silver streak in the misty sunlight.

"He raced upstream, ripped through foaming rapids to another pool. At one time I had 750 feet of line out. It was a thrilling fight, all 70 minutes of it and I don't know who was more tired, that fish or I, when it was finally boated".

From his camp on the Matapedia, Dr. Stobie travelled Sixty miles in the hinterland to the beautiful Barry Mountain Lake in the Gascapedia Fish and Game Preserve.

Here in a little over three days he landed 42 speckled trout averaging one pound in weight.

Saw Bull Moose

Sitting in his canoe one evening casting for trout in the lee of a towering mountain, he was startled by a loud splash. Scarcely ten feet away stood a huge bull-moose, watching the lone angler. The animal sought the cool comfort of the water to escape torture of the flies. It was a common sight, the doctor said, to see a moose wading in the lake in the cool of the evening. Cow moose with gangling calves and best-looking bulls loitered lords to the lakes.

Coming out, the party was nearly catapulted out of the car when the driver suddenly jammed on the brakes when rounding a curve in the road.

Bear and Cubs Seen

Directly ahead and oblivious to everything was a huge she-bear with two cubs trailing.

Dr. Stobie made the trip alone but at the Restigouche Salmon on the Matapedia he "met up" with a doctor from Montreal and two other "salmon-nuts" from Chicago and New York. The quartet joined forces and spent an enjoyable fishing holiday together.

The food was excellent, the accommodations nothing to be desired, and the Gaspe hospitality was something never to be forgotten, said Dr. Stobie.

Incidentally, other members of the party booked their quota of trout, which ran as high as 32-pound salmon and another a 22-pounder.

About all that is left for the Belleville surgeon-angler on the fishing calendar is a 3,000 pon sons late month in eastern Kwangtung province.

Optimist Island Still Having Face Lifted

Zwick's Island is no longer Zwick's. From now on, the popular site west and north of the city bridge will become as Optimist Island. The island, under the supervision of the Belleville parks commission and the Optimists, is still having its face lifted.

Cleanup of the south shore goes on this week, and new plans include a softball diamond, horseshoe pitch, and children's playground equipment — slides, teeter-totters, and swings. Already installed is a sandbox for the children. Total of tables now at the picnic spot is 18, with six having been added in the past week. Popularity of the spot is testified to by the many citizens who filled the tables on Sunday.

Parks commission officials voted at their meeting this week that a refreshment booth will be built on the island this Sunday.

Permission Granted

Permission was granted to Bethel Hall to use Memorial Park for a series of Sunday night meetings during July and August. The Kinsmen Club was given permission to use the corner of Victoria Park for a Carnival during the first week in August, as long as the Police Chief approved by the parks superintendent.

All buildings in Belleville parks are being appraised this week by the Insurance Commission members felt that some of the buildings were not rated high enough, and that others were appraised too high.

Technical representatives from the Canadian General Electric Company in Toronto are in the city this week to focus the lights at the fair grounds. Several recommendations passed by the commission will be forwarded to city council. The recommendations dealt with land for parks and playgrounds.

Present at the meeting were chairman J. M. Matthews, Mr. Matthews, Art Keeggan, Jack Devine, Everett Liddle, parks superintendent Gordon Thompson and secretary O. A. Pinkston.

12 Cans Muskie Fingerlings Placed In Quinte Area

Muskie fishermen in the district should be pleased with this news.

George Wallbridge said this morning 12 cans of muskie fingerlings, each five inches long, have been placed in the Bay of Quinte and Weller Lake during the past week. Earlier, 80,000 fry were placed in the waters. Mr. Wallbridge assisted hatchery men from north of Lindsay in the placing. The fingerlings and fry came from the only muskie hatchery in Canada.

The fingerlings were placed for the most part on sand bars where a plentiful supply of food is available.

Boys Win Trail Ranger Badges At Qum-Mo-Lac

The camp for Trail Ranger boys at the new United Church camp at Moira Lake came to a close all too soon for the boys on Saturday last. In spite of very wet weather a couple of days, they managed to get in two long hikes, and a treasure hunt which took them into practically every nook and cranny of the three hundred acre camp site.

These afternoon features formed a small part of the varied program of events, which the boys followed. One of the items of interest to the boys was the hour every afternoon during which the boys went to study their different projects. These projects were studied with the aim of winning a coveted merit badge on the project chosen.

When the final day arrived, the boys waited expectantly as the list was read out and the badges presented. Six boys won the bird life badge; six boys won the forestry badge; nine boys won the woodcraft badge; two boys won the first aid badge; and five boys won the Indian life. During the camp sports programs further badges were won and presented, Fifteen boys qualified for the swimming badge; thirty-two boys qualified for the running badge; and seven boys won the pathfinder badge. Presumably the mothers of these boys are busy sewing these coveted awards on the shirts and the sweaters by now.

A final special badge was won by the boys who slept in Cabin No. 6 with Rev. Harold Robbins as their leader. When the Orderly Officer added up all his copious marks for the whole week, he found that Cabin No. 6 had the honor cabin for the camp. As such, each of its members will be presented with a special badge in honor of the event.

Strike Intervention By Federal Govt. Highly Unlikely

Ottawa, July 11 (CP)—Federal intervention in the strike of 1,500 gold-mine workers at Flin Flon, Man., is highly unlikely, informed quarters said today.

This conclusion followed a telegraphed request from the Timmins town council that the federal government take steps to end the two-day strike by:

1. Moving to increase the price paid for gold to Canadian producers to $35 an ounce in United States funds.

2. Stepping into the wage-dispute between Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

Finance Minister Abbott, who directs gold-buying policy, was out of the capital, but authoritative sources said there are no prospects of any increase in the price of Canadian gold.

It was recalled that this price is regulated by the International Monetary Fund and that the government, rather than break away from the fund set-up to get greater returns for producers, had decided a few months ago to increase its emergency financial assistance to marginal mines.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 11 — (CP) Prices drifted in a mixed, narrow path as the session progressed on the stock market today. It was the third straight day that no decisive trend was established.

Industrials were about evenly mixed with little feature. Steels, agriculturals, retail stores and constructions showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Liquors, textiles and manufacturing companies were lower and the rest of the board was mixed. Maple Leaf Milling was the only issue to attract much attention as it climbed $1.50 to a new high at $17.

Base metals were fairly mixed but the tendency was to advance. United Asbestos was the most active stock in the market as it jumped 25 cents to a new peak.

Western oils were irregular with little change.

Senior golds firmed with Giant Yellowknife higher. Secondary golds were mixed and quiet.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, July 11—(CP)—Cows, bulls and lower grade killers were down 50 cents today at the Ontario stockyards. Choice steers, cattle, 280; calves, 90; hogs, 370; sheep and lambs, 30. The hold over from Tuesday was 850.

Medium to good weighty steers brought $34-$36.50. Common to medium light steers and heifers were $25-$33. Medium to good cows sold from $26.50-$28; good bulls $21-$23. Fed yearlings were $32-$33.

Calves were steady at $35-$36 for choice vealers; $23-$33 for common to medium.

Grade A hogs were quoted at $40. Sows were $21 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $27 for ewes and wethers; $36 for bucks. No sheep sales were reported.

Price of White, Colored Cheese Up on Exchange

Creation of an artificial shortage in cheese for the domestic trade by an Ontario Marketing Board appropriation for export of 40 per cent of the total production boarded on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last evening forced up the price of both white and colored cheese.

Of 1,236 white cheese and 500 colored cheese being appropriated for export, the buyers pushed up the price of colored cheese to 37½ cents a pound, an advance of 2/16 over last week's high and bid up white cheese to 37 5/16, an advance of ¼ on last week.

The quantity of white cheese for sale to the domestic trade was so small that buyers were forced to double up in their selection in order to be assured of at least some cheese.

Production boarded last evening included 2,007 specials, 2,139 white and 2,452 colored. Production by factories is as follows:

PREPARING INVITATION

Lakeland, Fla., July 11 (AP)—Lakeland is preparing an invitation to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to visit here after their October tour of Canada. The city commission voted yesterday to invite the heir presumptive to the British throne and her husband to come to this "citrus centre of the world."

Pea Harvest Well Under Way But Yield Lower Than Expected Due to Heavy Rains Past Weeks

First of the general canning crops in the Bay of Quinte district, the pea harvest is now well under way, underway and will be completed possibly during the first week in August.

Canning in the Belleville area commenced operating a little more than a week ago with the yield of early peas said to be average to above for yield. This means farmers are getting from a ton to a ton and a quarter of shelled peas per acre.

They receive a minimum rate of $92 per ton with some factories paying by grade the price ranging up to $125 per ton for fancy quality. The price is up from last year.

Peas represent a substantial cash crop in the Hastings and Prince Edward County area with approximately 4,500 acres of this crop being sown this year. The acreage is about the same as last year, according to government inspectors.

Too Much Rain

Early season indications were for a bumper crop of peas this year but too much rain has resulted in a lower yield than was at first anticipated. Too much rain causes root rot and mildew. It also holds up harvesting and affects the quality.

Mr. Clinton Rose, inspector with the department of agriculture, said the rain has made it bad for the packers as it has resulted in very uneven pea crop. In some cases all three grades of peas, fancy, choice and standard are found in the one field. Due to the rain pea straw is longer, making longer to thresh.

Large Factory

North of Belleville at Foxboro, Canadian Canners have a large factory for packing peas and corn and this week will can peas from 450 acres. The same company has another factory at Frankford, 10 miles east. At Belleville, Canada Packers will pack peas from 290 acres.

There are 16 canning factories in the Hastings and Prince Edward area processing peas this year.

The same area goes in strongly for tomato growing with about normal acreages being planted this year. Inspectors say that present prospects for tomatoes and corn are not too bright. "But it is a bit too early to make any forecast, the weeks of good weather could do a lot for both crops," it was stated.

Quick Cash Crop

Peas, however, represent a quick cash crop for the farmer with possibly less work entailed per dollar return than for corn and tomatoes. This applies during a good year for peas but they are not always a dependable crop.

It is a busy time for canning factory workers during the summer. During the rush season when peas, corn and tomatoes are being packed they work long hours, seven days a week. Sixteen to 18 hours per day is not uncommon.

Placing of pea viners throughout the district make it unnecessary for farmers to take freshly cut peas directly to the factory for threshing. At the field they are usually loaded on dump trucks and are dumped at the viners, the trucks returning for other loads. At the viners workers fork the peas into conveyors which carry them into the viner for threshing.

Cylindrical Affairs

The viners are large cylindrical affairs set on their side, inside rotating paddles beat the vines separating the peas from the pods. The threshed peas roll down to be caught in boxes while the vines go onto a stack to be sold back to the farmer during the winter for green feed for his cows.

Peas are fanned and weighed as they come from the viner and farmers are generally paid on winer weights. Some factories grade the peas and farmers are paid on this basis, ranging from $94 to $122 per ton. The minimum overall payment, however, is $92 per ton.

It is custom for canning factories to supply the seed to farmers contracting to grow peas. The cost of the seed is then deducted from final returns to farmers.

Prices were unchanged as decreased demand cleared light supplies at the egg market. Graded eggs, cases free, delivered Toronto, were: grade A large 76-77; A medium 74-75; A small 69-70; grade B 59-60; grade C 50. Wholesale to retail: grade A large 80-81; A medium 79-80; A small 73-74; grade B 68; grade C 52-57.

Butter solids: first grade 68 cents; second grade 61 cents; western 64 cents.

THEY SERVED WITH HONOR

The Berlin airlift, a monstrous job taken on by western nations to keep West Berlin alive, seems almost ancient history by now. A great deal of water has flowed under the dam since the airlift, and much of it has been tinged with the blood of peoples wiped out by communist aggression. When the reds found that they could not starve the people of West Berlin into submission, they transferred their heavy activities elsewhere . . . outwardly to Korea, and inwardly to heavier pressures on westerners living in satellite states.

When the Soviets blockaded Berlin by road and rail two years ago, they assumed that those people living in the western sector of the city must starve. What else could they do? The Russians had completely stopped traffic into and out of the city by truck and train, and it was a foregone conclusion that the western nations would not forcibly shoot their way through the lines. They feared the propaganda of an all-out war too greatly.

Thus, the pattern that the communists have used all over the world was being repeated. People would be starved, threatened and beaten into accepting the communist way of life. After the acceptance, they would be made slaves of the state, and relinquish all their natural rights. But the pattern backfired, and the roaring planes in the sky day after day and night after night proved the western determination to keep a foot in the door.

The planes, and the supplies, never stopped as long as the land blockade continued. West Berlin was literally flooded with food, coal, and other necessities of life. Tempelhof airport became a busy place, and its runways were reinforced with huge transports landing and taking off. For almost a year the silent battle went on, and the plans that Russia had for the frustration of democracy in a place where it needed most to get support were for nothing. Instead, it was shown to be a powerful force, and one that would not buckle down without a fight. In turn, the Soviet way was revealed as its true self . . . a harsh, cruel regime that would stop at nothing to achieve its worldwide mission mapped out for it.

The airlift was paid for by 51 American and British fliers who gave their lives in the thrust that snapped the blockade. It is fitting that those men have been honored by West Berlin as a spontaneous gesture of thanks that the world will done. There will stand forever at Tempelhof a huge stone statue in their memory, and in West Berlin hearts there will remain forever a much stronger thank-you . . . a blessing written by the children and other necessities. In western world can be proud of the men who died in airlift crashes, for they are heroes of a battle as surely as those who died in great wars for freedom throughout the years.

THE WANDERING AND THE SLIPPING

There comes a time in the life of every editorial writer when the wheels of thought refuse to turn. Indeed, it comes very often, in varying degrees, and once in a while it comes in its maximum form. On that day, the writer of editorials sits down in front of his typewriter, hoping that the sight of familiar keys and other machinery will help him gain the mood and ideas he so badly needs.

And so he sits. He reviews all the subjects he has given treatment to in the past few weeks, and finds that he has nothing more to say on any of them. The Korean war situation has been adequately dissected, discussed, and in general hashed over; the Korean peace situation has also been examined. It cannot be right that with her nationalization of oil, has been a topic many times, possibly many too many, and the actions of Britain in the same area have had the same blessing bestowed on them.

The dangers of swimming, boating and other summer activities contribute a number of editorial material through several months. Conservation, particularly in this county, is of importance to everyone, rural and city dwellers alike, and its merits have been placed before the reading public time and time again. Communist threats to the free world on almost all international sites has claimed many columns, and the danger of their activities at home has been cited.

There are days, too, when the editorial mind finds the material with which to work, but the fingers are not willing. The page is covered with lines blacked out in erasure. At such times, the lot of the linotype operator is not to be envied. Only with a great effort of will must hope, patience and fortitude, for fear that sharp blasts from the editorial room will smite his ears next morning.

It is a habit of nature for people to tell their troubles to others. It makes one feel just a little more important to unload a few griefs, and puts one in a little stronger light. The burden becomes a little less, and the world seems a little sunnier, after a few troubles are passed on to other severed brows. Thus it is that the editorial writer sits down to let his mind wander, and to let a few troubles slip away from him. And when the wandering and the slipping is over, he has this much of his writing for the day done, and part of the battle is won again.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WALKING ON BEAUTY

How little do we think as we walk across a green lawn that we are literally walking upon beauty. Each blade of grass is a thing of mystery and wonder. I think of this as I walk on a beautiful carpet or rug.

The matchless oriental rugs are not going to be much today as in years gone by. To me there are few created things of art that can surpass a rare oriental rug or tapestry. The Iranians are in the news now, and I can have a warm place in my heart for them, for they love their wonderful rugs and carpets. I read in a current publication that it is among among them that "if you have a carpet you have a home." It was stated that it takes 5,000 hours just to make a small size carpet.

I have a friend who collected rare prayer rugs over the years. They were all works of art, and I don't wonder that people who made them wanted to pray on them, for that could be more appropriate? There is the love of God in every created thing that is beautiful and which costs love and sacrifice.

We walk on beauty wherever we look for God has left it from day to day. People have walked over gold mines, hidden precious stones, vast reservoirs of oil, coal and minerals of every description without ever suspecting it. Nature's carpet is everywhere and its'fadeless are legion.

Not only are we walking upon beauty when we walk over a lovely rug or carpet, but we walk upon the toil, the dream, and the silent story of the one who put that rug or carpet together. Each color and intricate arrangement of its creator are stitched in as truly as if they had all been written out in words.

Perhaps there is something in the mountain climber that we have failed to realize. Some expression that he has hoped to reveal in his climbing. His climbing, this treading upon the carpet of a portion of God's wonderful earth. We should walk upon this earth with a most reverent spirit. It's God's carpet upon which we walk!

Robbers May Have Been Helped By Two Girls

Woodbridge, July 11. (CP)—Three masked bandits, who may have been women, took the loot of two girls, Tuesday robbed the Royal Bank of Canada branch here of $10,000.

The gunmen were still at large Tuesday night. Their first getaway car was found abandoned three miles east of the village a few miles northwest of Toronto.

They may have continued their escape in a car seen at the spot with two girls parked while the robbery was taking place.

Herschel J. Clark, staff manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, who said the loss was $10,600 Tuesday, commented that the same pattern was used in both

England--Then and Now

By Fred Hart

ARTICLE 15

Looking back, methinks this has been the most wonderful day of all the perfect days spent in this England, for we have travelled through all that is lovely and old, tranquil and serene. We embraced bright and early on this glorious July day and travelled east and north to Wargrave, Henley, Marlow, Maidenhead and Slough—all thriving villages and towns—and finally to the end of our sojourn, Stoke Poges.

Yes, everything was so very lovely. To Wargrave and along it had wound our way, ever looking down on the slowly flowing river, through copse and wood, over hill and dale—and on to Henley, its famous Reach with those tall, stately trees and weeping willows—each boat garlanded with potted plants and flowering shrubs. And we saw busky lads, their backs set as straight as ram-rods rowing their shells upstream.

Then on to Marlow, in the county of Buckinghamshire, the home of the poet Shelley—and finally to my real quest in Marlow, the Royal Grammar School, which was founded in the year 1500.

Here I wanted to go through this old school because a good friend once attended there as a youth before Canada called him. Yes, we went through its portals and were greeted warmly by the headmaster, Mr. W. A. Booth, M.A., who, with Mrs. Booth, had made ready for biscuits and coffee. And then he searched the records for me—and found the name for which we sought.

Then on to the large hall. He pointed to the wall and there, bearing the names of the school scores eleven during three successive years, was the name I sought—a shield was emblazoned in gold the name of to whom we are now speaking! Then when we had the privilege of talking for a short period to the present boys of the school. We told them of Canada —and of the chap whom, as we truly stated "We have known for nothing else—if this fellow was a cricketer, or if the latest importation Charlie Smith of Hamilton, Ont., was pure gold."

And the headmaster and I tarried for a while in the old school chapel—and wandered through the Old English gardens divided by gravelled paths—and to the playing fields we went, from whence we had a close up view of a great cedar—where Shelley penned many of his poems. In all we spent a grand morning with a very learned and charming gentleman—the headmaster of Marlow.

After lunch we went on by bus to Maidenhead—still riverwards—and on to Slough. A short visit and then on to Eton. I suppose that everyone with memories of their school days must have a thrill when they look upon "The County Churchyard" by Thomas Gray. We shall remember with me and all those who lay claim to the English language as a mother tongue—all of us have learned to recite Gray's famous elegy.

Grand old arches and gravelled walks lead up to the stately beautiful old church. And the moss were in full bloom—and the panels of the chapel—multi-colored "faces"—all a thing of loveliness and serenity. Ancient this noble edifice is, for it was founded in 1107. And our guide had a small booklet which we took from the vestry along with them, through the grounds and through the church. Now we are approaching, for he quoted lines from 'Elegy' as the points of interest was shown and described.

As we entered the dim church coloured sunlight streamed through stained glass windows kept out the cold. Through the windows the sun, this guide, with the voice of a good orator commenced with:

"The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me."

And Hastings chapel is a thing of rare beauty as are the cloisters and the chantry. And then the tower, the church, constructed of two great oak timbers 60 feet in length. Here, after the lapse of 600 years, Massive columns support the arches inside and the towers are most high. We noted a queer stained glass window—the window of Shirgale Wiryn," so called because of a figure depicted riding a contrivance resembling a bicycle. However, which is being pushed by one foot while the other is off the ground—and this piece bears the date 1653.

The most ancient monument found to date is in Norman French language — probably dates to the 12th century. It reads:

"All those who pass by here
Pray for the soul of this one;
William of Wyiemerse he had for a name."

God grant him true pardon.

So be it."

Then the rather strange thing about Gray's tomb is that his name is not on it—but on a tablet, a wall fragment. The inscription on the tomb states that Mrs. Gray, the mother, and the poet—but her sister, Mary Antrobus, lie buried there. About this quiet, old church is a massive monument to Thomas Gray to the memory of the philosopher, raised on a square pedestal on whose sides are sculptured scenes from his poem. And we went on to those "rugged elms" while our guide spoke:

"Beneath those rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a mould'ring heap,
Each in his narrow cell for ever laid,
The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep."

Sure, our visit to Stoke Poges will long remain in our memory. We would like to state too that the words of a couple of post-card to Belleville from right within the church—and the fact that the ancients in them will know in all truth that I have fulfilled that mission. Those post-cards were very particular that the "Stoke Poges" portion should be lightly stamped thereon.

And again we heard our guide say:

"The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour:
The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

It was nearing dusk when we left this hallowed spot. And the thought of our school days when it always seemed to us that the last period, the last afternoon, that "Elegy', of which we thought so much, would be cut off that we had to be learned on a miserable day. And we used to go through Gray's Elegy on our way home sometimes— and we always thought of what we had been taught. Perhaps we now thought, as we looked back on those days long ago, that it was time, that it would have been better if the weather was not so perfect on the fateful evening, then all would have seemed as it was then and not as it is.

We went back again through Slough and Maidenhead and through Wargrave and lovely Sonning—and up through the Grand old village divided by London Road—all so different to that of the old world.

On the morrow we shall be leaving the home counties — the counties of Surrey, Sussex and Bucks—back to the busy metropolis. And I shall always feel that part of England where my wife-to-be is nineteen miles from Marlow, Berks., shall from here we shall visit the seaside places Worthing, Reach at Hove, Bognor, Yarmouth, Felixstowe, Harwich perhaps—and then to Ascot for the races—to the Newmarket Races—for the first time in my life. And then we bring this article to a conclusion, we have to say, with a sigh, a sweet old village in Buckinghamshire:

"Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight."

And all the air a solemn stillness holds."

Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds.

Seeking Clues In Slaying Of Young Girl

London, July 11—(AP)— Two detectives called on American boxer Sugar Ray Robinson's party today seeking clues in the slaying of a seven-year-old girl.

But the battered, violated body of Christine Butcher, who vanished from a camp outside Robinson's training camp at Windsor, was found in London.

Robinson's aides said police asked questions about "a white man in a gray suit," apparently being sought.

The child lived in a house only about 30 yards away from Robinson's training camp at Windsor, a short distance west of London.

Police questioned the girl's parents she wanted to show her black-face doll, "Blackie" to Robinson and hoped she might get to ride in his Cadillac.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will Be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed. Write:

THE KIDS WHO DO NOT PLAY FOOTBALL

Even though only two or three of each of the boy or two competitive girls on the school athletic coach?—tall you timid, wishywashy parents again, deaden the growth and nerve of a boy and not a game for growing boys.

Most boys are growing, developing until they are eighteen years of age—and many of them continue to grow in strength if not in size until they are 22 or 23 years of age.

Even the overgrown boy in the early teens who is dragooned into football for football's sake is in peril of sustaining irreversible damage to his heart. Boys who are growing fast have little more reserve power than the heart requires to keep up the normal demand for active play. It is very bad medicine to subject them to the stress and strain of life, to the strain of violent effort. A reasonable amount of exercise (wrestling) of the heart is good for a growing boy; but the violent efforts of football stretch the heart wall beyond recovery of its normal condition. Many a boy has been handicapped the victim for years, may be for the rest of his life.

The teen age boy who succumbs to the propaganda which tends to make football a law or unloyal if he does not report for practice, and who tries out for candidates has to compete with players who are heavier and stronger than himself, is in danger of being a few years older than he is. His heart is put to a much greater effort and so much great risk of damage to his heart.

Don't let your son fall for any of these statements. Ask any reputable physician if what I say is true. If you can find a physician of standing who cares to contradict me, I'll be glad to go through it short) and identify him or keep his identity secret, as he or she wishes.

The escapades of high school children after a "big game" are committed, if you will notice, not by the players but by the children who participate only in the hysterics of the cheering section. This excitement of the athletic game has the same physiological effect on players and spectators —pouring of an increased amount of adrenin from the adrenal glands into the blood stream. This generates glycogen (animal starch, blood sugar)—the fuel which is quickly converted into muscular or cerebral energy by oxidation. The players apply the energy in participation in the sports, while even the cheering section, cannot use or absorb the energy just screaming. So, when the game is over the players can relax and rest. The children who have been under great excitement and overstimulation for hours are eager for action of any sort to release their, emotion, and especially a stunt or adventure that allows them to "show off." It would be a wholesome thing for them "unwind" and for the "nerves" of their families if these children were overtired only the hysterics to the high school football specials were required to go to bed an hour immediately after the show. That would burn up the fuel of their excitement and restore metabolism to normal.

Strength for the Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A FIRM FOUNDATION

As the national rearmament program consumes more and more vital materials, it is very likely that shortages will soon be halting the big post-war building era. Already it is possible to look back at the products of this five-year period of building and find many of some of the results.

On one hand, many substantial homes are being constructed, some of them embodying the latest improvements in design and materials. n the other hand, unfortunately, there are many houses, hastily thrown up to take advantage of the huge demand, whose shallow foundations and shoddy construction now make them almost unfit to use while they are still brand new.

In these badly built homes we see the vivid enactment of a familiar story. It is the ancient story of the house built upon the sand in the house built upon sand. The former stood up through rain, wind, and flood. The latter, of course, collapsed. By the strength of the house built upon rock, Jesus symbolized the strength of a life built on the practice of Christian principles.

A house whose foundations have given way is very dangerous. But a man whose life lacks a strong foundation is in an even more perilous state. The only sure foundation for a Christian is a belief in Jesus Christ and a willingness to follow him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Industry is so busy improving and perfecting its products that the question begins to arise: for whose advantage are these improvements designed?

Is it for the benefit of the consumer? Or for the profit and convenience of the manufacturer?

Let us take ice cream, for example. The original cone used in these countries was usually a piece of sugary pastry rolled into the form of a rough cone, and filled with ice cream. Sometimes it is and the gob of ice cream could be securely squashed into it. In fact, you had to pursue the ice cream down as far as you could reach with your tongue, and then start nibbling the cone itself.

But the industry improved. It invested some sort of machine that made cones, with more flavor than newsprint. It was merely a handle for a knob of ice cream. You literally ate it.

Finally, the economists of ice cream decided that a cube of delicacy which could be seated lightly on the top of the cone. Profits zoomed. Now, in some cones purveyors go for this idea. Large numbers of them still exist. The ice cream out of a bucket, the old-fashioned way. But so perfected is the cream, nowadays, that it does not seem to sink down as it used to, and seems more brittle with each improvement.

What do all these advances add to the ice cream? Or anything more tragic in the whole world than the plight of a small boy of around four, when the beautiful, immoral, stupid ice cream slips off the cone, splott on the pavement, just as he advances his open mouth to receive it? I should be threatening to have the ice cream industry name it.

300 Pilgrims Return Home

Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que., July 11—(CP)— Some 300 pilgrims from New York diocese returned home today after a three-day visit to this St. Lawrence River shrine near Quebec City.

Special ceremonies came to a close with a pontifical high mass celebrated by Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York who led the United States group.

The high mass took place in the high-domed basilica of Ste. Anne built on the spot where 300 years ago ship-wrecked Breton mariners erected a log chapel in fulfilment of a vow to Ste. Anne, and started a popular devotion among French settlers.

The church was filled with hundreds of visitors and local residents who attended the high mass sung here for the first time by a United States cardinal.

Last night Cardinal Spellman led the pilgrims in a torchlight procession through the hills of the famous shrine.

A relic of the mother of the Virgin Mary—a chip from an arm bone—enclosed in a massive gold reliquary decorated with precious stones, was carried during the procession.

The relic was brought here in 1892. It was presented to the redemptorist fathers, keepers of the shrine, by Pope Leo XIII.

Rev. A. R. Beverley, Anglican Bishop of Toronto, left, is also contrary to canon law, and will not protest the dismissal. Rev. H. C. Cox, right, has been appointed new rector to Barnabas. A special commission investigated charges against Mr. Garbutt and recommended his dismissal. Among alleged breaches of canon law were: repeated appointment of an unqualified warden; failure to keep a proper vestry list; holding of an unconstitutional parochial tribunal; the barring of seven parishioners from communion; and permitting the marriage of divorced persons in the church. — (CP Photo.)

WEDDINGS

BATES—DUKELOW

All Saints' Anglican Church, Burk's Falls, Ont., was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday— July 7th, at 2 p.m., when the Reverend F. Dodd united in marriage, Lorna Marguerite Dukelow, of Burk's Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Dukelow, and the late Mrs. Dukelow to Charles Clayton Bates, of Midland, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates. The ceremony was performed before a background of tall standards of foxglove and delphiniums.

Miss Betty Bates, sister of the bridegroom, was soloist, rendering before the ceremony, "Answering" and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love".

The bride,who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of nylon sheer fashioned in redingote style having bodice, sleeves and front panel of French lace. Her veil of tulle illusion was caught to a crescent of iridescent beads and pearls, and she carried a white Bible with pink rosebuds and heart breath.

Miss Patricia Dukelow, of Burk's Falls, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, dressed attractively in blue satin and lace with matching hats. She carried a basket of Sweetheart rosebuds, radioli flowerets and baby's breath.

Mr. Ronald Bates, of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Elwood Smythe, of Toronto, and Mr. Ford Hodgetz, of Melrose, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Parish Hall, where the guests were received by the bride's aunt, who wore a gown of teal blue crepe with corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in mauve sheer with corsage of white roses.

For the wedding trip to Sault Ste. Marie, Detroit and other centres in the south, the bride chose for travelling a pale blue suit with navy accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bates will reside in Melrose.

SELLS—LONT

The Ameliasburg United Church was elaborately decorated with baskets of Canterbury bells and peonies, also potted ferns for the event of a wedding at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 30th, when Ida Marie Lont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lont, Ameliasburg, was united in marriage with Mr. John William Morden Sills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sills, of Amelialsburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Hillis, of Belleville. Mrs. Harold Skinner, of Yarker, played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Donald George, of Fenella, who sang "Because" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a picturesque floor-length gown of nylon sheer over white slipper satin, fashioned with a pleated fitted bodice with covered buttons to the waist and having three-quarter length sleeves. A sweetheart neckline of seed pearls held her veil of imported embroidered tulle, which flowed into a train. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses with white satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a double-strand necklace of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Miss Marjorie Cannons, of Belleville, was bridesmaid. She was becomingly gowned in orchid nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with tight fitted bodice and pencil-draped with lace edging, full-length skirt. Her headdress and gloves were in matching tones and she carried a basket of mauve and white sweetpeas, pink Sweetheart roses, blue cornflower, mauve larkspur and adiantum fern.

Little Dorothy Fritz, Amelisburg, made an entrancing picture as flower girl in her frock of pale green net over taffeta, featuring short puffed sleeves, fitted bodice with Peter Pan collar. Wearing white flowered headdress and white mitts, she carried a basket of mixed flowers, similar to those of the bridesmaid.

Mr. Newton Sills, Amelisaburg, was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Messrs. Otis Sills, brother of the groom, and Earl Wood, cousin of the bride, both of Amelisaburg Village.

The reception was in Amelisaburg town hall, which was very prettily decorated for the occasion with a variety of summer flowers, among them being orange blossoms. To receive the guests, the bride's mother wore a navy crepe dress, a navy velvet hat with grey feathered accents and a corsage of red roses and adiantum fern. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing powder blue crepe with lace yoke and sleeves with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses and fern.

Besides the traditional white wedding bell and streamers, the bridal table was decorated with red and white peonies and centred with a beautifully decorated three-tier pillared wedding cake topped with a nesting dove, surrounded with pink and white tulle and pink rosebuds and flanked by white tapers in silver holders.

Serving the guests to a delectable luncheon were Mrs. Leonard Wood and Mrs. Morris Williams, assisted by Misses Joan Wood, Joan Ferguson, Lois Casson and Merilyn Fritz, while Mrs. Arthur Parliament and Mrs. Clinton Sager poured tea. The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Fletcher, of Wooler, and responded to by the bridegroom. Reeve Norris Whitney, Consecon, R. 1, proposed the toast to the parents, which was responded to by Mr. Ashton Sills.

The bride gave her bridesmaid, rhinestone earrings; the flower girl, a silver bracelet; the organist, earrings, and the soloist, a glamor pin. The groomsman and ushers received gold-plated tie clips.

Following the reception, the bride chose for travelling a navy gabardine suit with white hat and accessories and a corsage of sweetpeas. The honeymoon trip included Sherbrooke, Que.; Rochester, N.Y., and points in the United States. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Sills will reside in Amelisburg.

Out-of-town guests were from Rochester, N.Y.; Toronto, Kingston, Vineland, Yarker, Fenella, Picton, Wooler, Trenton and Belleville.

A special feature was the bride being presented with a white leather covered Bible on behalf of the congregation of the United Church after the marriage ceremony.—(The Picton Gazette.)

Fashion Flashes

REFRESHING summer dresses now have the spotlight. Crackling-crisp, thin parchment silks in white, with a criss-cross pattern in green, grey, red or navy —makes a handsome dress, the full skirt mounted over a stiff white net underskirt. A giant white organdie bow, and organdie edging for the neckline and the brief sleeves complete a pretty picture.

A CINCH for packing are the pretty cotton lace dresses, blouses and separates now in the stores. Heavy white cotton lace is used for a full, short-skirted evening dress with halter top and brilliant button closing. It is worn over a foundation of white taffeta, the bottom of which is stiffened.

JUST THE TICKET for the bride is a pair of stockings embroidered with two tiny seed pearl hearts.

The scripture lesson from Matthew 7 was read by Marina, the subject being, "A wise man who built his house upon the rock", Mrs. Ross Shelter's group leader read lesson thoughts and a poem, entitled, "The Weaver." Mrs. Raymond Clarke also read a poem, "If We Could See Beyond Today," followed by an interesting reading on the author and origin of the well loved hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul", and the singing of the same by Mrs. Elmer Vivian, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry Sine.

The business meeting was under the direction of the president. Mrs. Claude Clarke read a letter of thanks from Major R. Honeychurch, of the Salvation Army, Belleville, for the $10 contribution to the Red Shield. She also reported $37 paid for needed replacements at the parsonage and $45 for chairs purchased by the W.A. Plans were made for catering at Scott's live stock sale on Tuesday. A bale valued at $200 containing quilts and good used clothing was reported packed. It was decided that the W.A. and W.M.S. share the express charges of this equally.

An enjoyable duet by Marina and Beverley Mastin was heard.

Mrs. Vivian expressed appreciative thanks to the hostess for opening her home for the meeting.

After the close fo the meeting, Mrs. Mastin, assisted by Marina and Beverley served refreshments. The next meeting will be held on September 12th at the home of Mrs. Robert MacFarlane.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Think carefully about writing to a boy in jail

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I started writing to a boy in jail. I just looked on him as a friend, and wrote to him so he wouldn't feel lonely.

Now I've had a letter from him saying he loves me and is going to look for me as soonas he gets out. They will send him to the federal prison in a few days, and he said if I would write to him, it would make it easier for him.

Do you think I should write to him? If I don't, I'm afraid he might do something wrong while he is in prison and if I do, I am afraid he might think I love him.

I am 14 and look old for my age, and he is 18.

Agnes

Dear Agnes:

I think you should take your mother into your confidence about all this. You haven't told me enough about this boy for me to be able to tell whether or not you should be writing to him at all. Let your mother be the one to decide.

In general however, I would say that since you have already started writing to this boy, it would be a bit unfair to suddenly drop him now. At the same time, you should, of course, be very careful what you say to him in your letters, so that you will not become too much involved with him, or give him a wrong impression of how you feel about him.

I think you should tell him that you are much too young to think of being in love with anyone. Say frankly that if he wants you to write him friendly letters, you will be glad to do it once in a while, but not too often, and that he must not talk to you in his letters about being in love. And when you write, tell him about your school activities and other interests; the boys you go with, and the good times you have with them. Keep away from anything he could interpret as romance, and if he insists on trying to make something romantic out of your friendship, stop writing. If you follow this procedure, I think you'll keep out of difficulties. But don't go ahead without your mother's knowledge in any event.

A "chronic liar" wants to break habit

Dear Miss Fairfax:

This will probably be a strange letter, but my problem is a strange one. I am a chronic liar and I can't break myself of the habit.

The way I got started lying was when I was in school and my father wouldn't let me wear make-up or date boys until I was 16. So in order that my schoolmates wouldn't think me a freak, I wore make-up to school and lied to my father about it. I also told my friends that I was dating.

Now, in my early 20's, I can't break this terrible habit of lying. If I keep on my guard, I don't lie myself do it, but if I'm not extremely careful, I slip. I have never been caught lying and maybe if I were, it might embarrass me enough for me to reform.

Please help me if you can. I want so desperately to break this habit.

M. D.

Dear M.D.:

Perhaps it would help you if you were to realize that lying is generally due either to fear or to a feeling of inferiority. In your case, I think it grew out of both these things. You lied to your father about the make-up because you were afraid for him to know the truth, and you lied to your friends about your dates because you felt inferior to them to have them think you didn't have any.

If you could get up courage enough simply to be yourself, it would probably do more than anything else to help you break this habit. It would also help you if you could talk it over with some experienced adviser, who would help you understand how and why the habit has fastened itself on you so firmly. A psychiatrist would probably be the best person to talk with, if you can afford to consult one. If not, write to me again and I will try to suggest some place in your town where you could get similar advice, either free or less expensively.

GOOD MANNERS

(By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman)

"Bouquet" that charming word, so often misstated.

Bouquet is a delightful word—delightful in sound, delightful in meaning. That's why it's too bad that it is so often mistreated, so often misspelled, so often mispronounced. So often it's spelled bouget. And so often it's pronounced bo-quet (bo—as in rhyme with go.) And I suspect that most of the people who spell it bouget pronounce it as they spell it, bo-quet! It should be spelled bouquet . . . and it should be pronounced boo-kay (boo—to rhyme with you).

If divorce is granted, what form of name for bride's mother on invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My daughter is to be married this fall. I expect, my divorce (which is now pending) to be granted next month. If it is granted, what form of name should I use on the wedding invitations?

2. Since my husband and I have been separated for the past four years, would it be proper for my daughter to have her uncle give her in marriage? And should she send her father an invitation?—R. W.

1. The correct form of your name, after your divorce has been granted, is your maiden surname prefixed to your married surname. (In other words, you use your maiden surname in the place of your ex-husband's first name.) For example: Mrs. Jane Brown, maiden name was Rose Graham, and that you married and divorced George Williams. Then your correct name after your divorce will be Mrs. Graham Williams. (An alternative, although not as good a form as I have indicated, is to use the initial of your first-name also: Mrs. R. Graham Williams.) It is more important that the bride's mother use the correct form of her name on such an extremely important item as her daughter's wedding invitation . . . for her name is then used for all the world to see and for all the relatives and friends to know that she knows what's correct.

If you alone are sponsoring the invitations, the correct form is:

Mrs. Graham Williams requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter

2. You and your daughter must decide these very personal and delicate questions. . . the decision depend on many circumstances that only you tow can know and understand.

Present from best man and ushers to groom at bachelor dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be the best man for my college roommate (of several years ago) at a very important and "social" wedding the last part of September — large, formal church wedding; large reception. There are to be twelve ushers. I would like to ask the ushers to join with me in giving the groom a quite fine present, perhaps to be presented to him at the bachelor dinner he is planning to give. What do you suggest as this present?—Bill B.

The present most often given for this occasion, really what might be called "the standard present", is a silver cigaret box, engraved with the facsimiles of the signatures of all the donors. Next in popularity is a silver tray, similarly engraved; or a silver frame for (eventually) a wedding photograph.

What's Cooking?

about FOOD . . .

Eggs are ammunition.

Every time you eat an omelette instead of a steak, you're helping to lower the flag of surrender on high meat prices. In Europe, where scarcity of beef is normal, egg dishes have always been served as main courses for noon or evening meal.

The French have learned to make light, toothsome omelettes because they've practiced the art for generations.

A big omelette of six or eight eggs is necessarily tough because the large amount of eggs requires long cooking. Long cooking or overcooking toughens the delicate protein in eggs. Make single or double portion omelettes of 2 or 4 eggs each and serve them piping hot with a fresh asparagus garnish.

Asparagus Omelette, Cheese Sauce
Serves 4.

8 eggs
4 tablespoons cream or milk
Salt—pepper
1 lb. fresh asparagus
1 can undiluted cream of asparagus soup
1-4 lb. old Canadian cheese
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1-2 teaspoon dry mustard

Peel asparagus with vegetable peeler to remove scales on sides. Cut off thick ends. Wash well.

Put asparagus in a pan containing 1-2 inch boiling salted water. Cover with a tight lid. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Drain asparagus, and cut into pieces about 1-2 inch long. Reserve cooking liquid.

Stir 1-2 cup cooking liquid into soup. Cut cheese into 1-2 inch cubes. Put the soup, cheese, prepared mustard and dry mustard in a double boiler over simmering water. Heat until cheese melts. Stir well. Remove from fire.

Combine asparagus and cheese mixtures. Add salt and pepper to taste.

To make one omelette beat 2 eggs with a rotary beater or wire whip until whites are not visible. Add 1 tablespoon cream. Add 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Heat 1 tablespoon butter in a frying pan until butter sputters. Add eggs. Lift edge of omelette to permit uncooked portion to roll onto pan.! Place omelette under a moderate broiler; flame if too liquidly on top.

Add 1-4 cup asparagus mixture to omelette. Fold omelette. Turn onto serving plate. Spoon more asparagus mixture along side omelette on plate. Continue making single omelettes, using two eggs at a time.

Cowboy Sculptor Gains Wide Fame for Western Art

Banff, Alta. — (CP) — Known all over the continent for his range sculptures, Charlie Bell started his career by raffling off jackasses in western gambling halls.

They weren't real jackasses, but clay models of the long-eared critters which he fashioned between jobs when finances were low.

Charlie was a cowboy in those days, drifting around Nevada and Montana range country.

He made his money horse-wrangling, whenever he needed it, grubstake between bunkhouses he'd knead a model out of clay and raffle it off.

Back in 1921, while a guide in Glacier National Park in Montana, he met the late Charles Russell, famous painter of cowboys and western scenes.

Russell influenced Cowboy Bell to regard sculpturing as a livelihood rather than a hobby.

So for nine years while working around Montana, Bell would go to California each winter to study, and as his reputation grew he was commissioned to do work for Will Rogers and William S. Hart, two of the famous movie cowboys.

While on a trip through the U. S. and Canada he rode around Banff and liked the country so much he settled there.

That makes him one of the few artists who moved to Canada from the United States. Not only does he make his living at the job, but his art has a purpose in his life: his studio is dedicated to preserving the colorful life of Alberta's foothills.

During Calgary Stampede week you can see his work all over the city — chuckwagon outfits, bucking horses, riders, all in color—milling in bronze replica.

His work is a long process. First he makes his model in clay, then casts it in plaster of paris, then a wax cast, and then in bronze.

Today examples of his artistry can be found in all parts of North America. Much of it is in the Will Rogers Museum.

His "Range Rider" is owned by the Society for Promotion of Arts in London. It was first the gift of a Calgary club to Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada.

On his death, Viscount Bennett left it to the society.

"He pleased me," says Mr. Bell, "because most of his art works were sold. He had minor down in his will, so he must have thought quite a bit of it."

LANDS IN JAIL

Frederick Vanderbilt Field, wealthy New Yorker and secretary of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund committee, is pictured about to enter New York court. U.S. Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan had told Field to produce the books and records of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund committee or be adjudged in contempt of court. On the witness stand, Field refused to give the names of any of the owners of $20,000 in treasury bonds posted by the committee for the four Communist leaders who jumped bail and are now being hunted by U.S. police. So Mr. Fields spent the night in jail himself. —Central Press Canadian.

Fine Needlework Features Show Opened by Royalty

London — (CP) — Britain's greatest needlework show is the display of contemporary and historical work opened by Queen Mary at St. James's Palace, in elaborate historical garb including centuries-old pieces.

Many royal robes are on view in the palace throne room in the exhibition organized by the Royal School of Needlework, which since 1872 has been encouraging high standards of craftsmanship.

Along with coronation robes there are the little lace dresses and robes in which Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret appeared at the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in 1937, the robes worn by the Duchess of Northumberland, the suits of the pages in attendance and the mantles and full dress of the knights of various orders of chivalry.

Great interest is shown in the pieces which come from Britain's great houses. These include a military scarf said to have been presented by William the Conqueror to an ancestor of the Pitt-Rivers family, a marshal of the Norman army which defeated the English at Hastings in 1066. The 900-year-old scarf is of white silk gauze with interwoven stripes of colored silks, sewn with silver and silver-gilt thread with fringes at each end. The fragile piece is mounted on a piece of green silk used at the ceremonial of the male member of the Fitzwilliam family.

Another curious little glimpse into history is provided by a set of baby clothes said to have been worn by Oliver Cromwell. The tiny shirts and vests and the christening robe are similar to those made by any modern mother, but beautifully worked by hand. There is also a set of miniature lawn caps and tiny lawn mittens trimmed with bobbin lace.

Royal mementoes are numerous, from King Charles the Second's nightcap, clothing and the exquisitely embroidered in colored silks and metal thread, to handkerchiefs carried by successive English queens — Charlotte, Adelaide, Victoria, Alexandra, Mary and the present Elizabeth.

Members of the royal family sent samples of their own work, including Queen Mary, the Duchess of Gloucester and the Countess of Athlone.

Ferryboat Skipper Never Leaves Home

Prescott, Ont.— (CP) — Capt. Prudent Boivin has travelled nearly 250,000 miles in his work without even getting more than a mile from home.

The man with the merry-go-round job has been sailing back and forth across the St. Lawrence River for the last 26 years with the Prescott and Ogdensburg Ferry Company.

His trips between Prescott and Ogdensburg, N.Y., have taken him a distance equivalent to 23 round-trips between Montreal and Liverpool but the greatest obstacle that he has encountered in all that travelling is the Ogdensburg sand bar.

Despite frequent dredgings the persistent bar still forces the ferry boat to detour on its international runs.

Captain Boivin, born in the Saguenay district of seafaring folks, has been a mariner since 1905. In his off-duty hours he likes nothing better than getting out his violin or mouth organ and entertaining himself and his friends with French-Canadian and other folk songs.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

W. M. S., Mission, Baby Bands Hold Meeting

White's District—The Sunbeam Mission Band, the Baby Band and the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society convened at White's Church on Wednesday afternoon and despite the heavy downpour of rain there was an attendance of 41.

The leader, Mrs. Leonard Young was in charge of the program. The junior choir sang "Get Together" to welcome all to the meeting, then sang "Sowing in th Morning" as part of the worship service.

Donna Bunnett and Glen Scott illustrated the story of "The Sower" by placing the pictures on the flannelgraph as part of scripture, Mathew 13 was read. Mrs. Young then read Mathew 13:18-24 which explained the former reading. This was then explained and illustrated on the flannelgraph by Mrs. Young. The seed was the "Word of God" and the soil is the hearts. Janet said, there were four kinds of hearts, but the best heart is the one which accepts the "Word of God." Prayer is a must and faithful attendance at Sunday School and church to be a good Christian.

Object Lesson

This was also illustrated by pictures of a Bible and a church drawn on a balloon. As air was blown into the balloon both the Bible and the church grew larger showing how Jesus' teachings increased and as these were accepted the church grew, Prayer followed and the repeating of Bible verses by the Mission Band.

Mrs. W. May presbyterial secretary of the Mission Band then spoke to the children and congratulated them on their work. She explained the use of the pink thank-offering envelope. One Japanese girl had been trained in Canada and has now returned to teach in Japan. Twice each year some special goal is attained and all Mission Bands work together to accomplish this.

Children Congratulated

Miss Mabel Clazie who served for many years as a missionary in Japan also congratulated the children on their good work and told them how much easier it was to memorize Bible verses when young. These lines of scripture they will remember for life. She showed small copies of the people, their home, grass or wooden shoes, table, bath, cushions, bed and other things used each day by the Japanese. These articles and her informative talk were most interesting.

Mrs. Glen Meyers, the Baby Band leader, then introduced the members present and presented each with a small book. The youngest member, Tommy Blong, and the oldest member Larry Billham, each received a colored handkerchief.

Girls and boys representing the months of the year in Japan recited bits of poetry and each carried the national emblem for that month. These in order were taken by Anne Blong, Wayne Scott, Audrey Bowers, Glen Scott, Gail Gingras, Donald Bowers, Joan Shoemaker, Marilyn Bowers, Bobby Sarles, Barbara Shoemaker and Donna Bunnett.

"Children of Jerusalem" was sung by all, then "The Farmer" a motion song was given by the girls. Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was pianist for the afternoon.

Mrs. G. Leach moved a vote of thanks to all who had assisted in the program.

While the ladies were preparing refreshments Mrs. Leach entertained the children with bits of story and song. Then all partook of the dainty refreshments and finally candy for the children.

May be Worth $4,200 to Nurse

London — (CP) — Because a queen's instructions were ignored 90 years ago, an English nurse hopes to make enough money to provide for her own retirement.

Nurse Diana Bernard is offering for sale an exact replica of a seal holding used by Queen Victoria in 1860 as a present for Prince Albert.

The queen had commissioned sculptor Frederick Beadle to make the two-inch statue of St. George and the Dragon as a seal-holder for the prince consort. Beadle liked the result so much that he made a duplicate; although Queen Victoria had asked that no replicas be made.

This he gave to his wife who kept it safely hidden until her last illness. She then presented it to Nurse Bernard, who attended her.

Miss Bernard pushed the model into a drawer—thinking it of little value. Later she showed it to an art dealer who offered her £1,500.

"I felt as though I was dreaming," she said. "But I just put it back in the drawer."

Now Miss Bernard wants a cottage in the country to which she can retire and the model is being offered for sale.

NEGOTIATORS

The U.N. communique reported "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates to the armistice negotiations that progress is being made."

Opposing delegations have not yet agreed on the majority of items on the agenda", it said. But "a better understanding of the intended scope" of cease-fire talks has been reached "by all concerned."

The language barrier has slowed negotiations considerably.

In the more informal weeks of Admiral Burke, progress has been "fair—but you never can tell about these things."

Communist radios in Pyongyang and Peiping said North Korean and communist negotiators have laid down a three-point demand for a cease-fire agreement as:

1. Establish a 12 1-2 mile buffer zone at the 38th parallel.

2. Re-establish the status quo as of June 25, 1950, when the Koreas war started, with the 38th parallel dividing north and south Korea.

3. Withdraw all "foreign troops" from Korea and start talks immediately for exchange of prisoners.

When Burke alighted from his helicopter at this "peace camp" he was asked if he had any comment on Moscow radio reports that the U.N. delegation refused to discuss withdrawal of troops from Korea, on the grounds it was a political problem. The U.N. delegation announced at the outset it would not discuss political or economic questions.

Would Be Political

"The withdrawal of troops probably would be political," Burke said.

Then he smiled wryly and added, "I talk too damn much."

Information was scarce as to just what is happening in the communist-guarded private home in Kaesong where the meetings are held.

Allied correspondents have been barred from the ancient Korean capital at the insistence of communist negotiators.

But the North Korean Pyongyang radio and the Chinese Peiping radio broadcast a detailed report on what they said was the basic red demand for armistice terms.

The broadcast said the terms were laid down by North Korean Gen. Nam Il and endorsed by the chief Chinese delegate, Gen. Tung Hua.

There was nothing startling about the demands. They have been voiced frequently by the communists. They are sharply divergent from expected U. N. demands.

It is generally understood in this peace camp that U.N. delegates will insist on an armistice commission including neutral observers on both sides of the demarcation line. The U.N. also may demand a cease-fire line more nearly along the present front.

U.N. forces are 30 miles north of the parallel in the east, roughly, 30 miles north in the centre, and south on the line only in the west, Kaesong, where meetings are being held 12 miles beyond the U.N. lines, is three miles south of the parallel.

The red demands would ask the U.N. forces to do most of the withdrawing. Naval blockades, which the red demands also want, are maintained only by the allies. And almost all air reconnaissance is done by U.N. planes. The reds would stop this.

Policies Necessary

Most important omission from the United Nations view was the lack of any provision for policing North Korea, and a similar plan for South Korea. Allied spokesman have said such policing is necessary to prevent any build-up of forces during final negotiations or after a settlement.

The United Nations want the right of aerial surveillance over communist-Korea, and are willing to grant the same privilege to the reds in the south.

Communists never have permitted any neutral or other observers north of the 38th parallel since it was first created a divided line for the Germany territory in Second World War. Nor have the communist countries elsewhere agreed to foreign observers in their territory.

These points may be under discussion.

But the settlement of them, and any other stumbling blocks to peace, will not come immediately. The negotiations are a slow and tedious process. Actually talks are still in the formal stage.

Highway Patrol Gives Motorist A Helping Hand

Calgary — (CP) — A visitor from Pennsylvania stood on the side of the road near Banff one recent afternoon, casually surveying a flat tire on his car.

Dressed in neat white flannels, the tourist regretted that he was about to get very dirty changing that tire.

While he pondered the problem, a highway-patrolled men on motorcycles approached, stopped, and with little ceremony got down to the business of putting on the spare tire.

When it was all over, the American learned his good Samaritans were members of the Alberta Motor Association road patrol which helps motorists in distress.

The Calgary patrol is the first one in Canada, say A.M.A. officials. It operates north, south, and west of Calgary on Friday-evenings, Saturdays and Sundays.

The A.M.A. patrol has been operating a few weeks, and already hundreds of motorists have been assisted.

They are changed, headlights adjusted, towing trucks obtained, and maps and information supplied.

The Alberta Motor Association will start a similar travellers' service out of Edmonton this summer.

Experiments Produce New Grain Varieties

Saskatoon — (CP) — Farmers may be saved millions of dollars by the results of a University of Saskatchewan research project to "weatherproof" grains.

Dr. J. B. Herrington, head of the field husbandry department, says new varieties of grain developed after 15 years of laboratory and field research will prove invaluable in the fickle climate of the prairies.

Grains have been developed which yield well and are still highly resistant to spring frost, sprouting, shattering, bleaching and drought.

He referred to the development as "weatherproofing" and said this was the first time plant breeders had worked toward immediate grain development in the

Designing Women Learn Methods Of Home Repairs

Providence, R. I. — (AP) — There's much to be said for marrying a designing woman — if she comes from the Rhode Island School of Design.

Many a man spends a good part of his spare time with hammer, saw and screwdriver, fixing things because the little woman wants them fixed up. You can't expect her to do it herself, can you? You can, if she comes from R. I. design school.

A visit to the school here showed a Canadian girl, Louise Knight from Grimsby, Ont., running a drill press, in a corner rug. Nancy Buell of Pittsburgh operating a band saw. She's one woman who can cut out her own cornice board.

Carolyn Harris of Elwood, Ind., was busy operating a metal lathe and the girl at the work table, Christine Guarino of Providence, was building a chest which she herself designed.

This is because the school believes that women who know how to use hand or power tools make better designers, than those who just sit around at drawing boards.

In their senior year the girls take shop practice in metal working alongside male students.

The first semester is spent in learning the functions of tools," explained Earle Young, instructor in woodworking. "They also learn about various kinds of wood how to measure, saw and dress it.

"During the second semester they construct projects of their own design: tables, benches and magazine racks, chairs.

"The project for this year is 'My Room.' The student must think of his or her own problem —here in Providence—at a school with dormitories, making it necessary to rent a room. She has free rein in style and economic means. What fits her problem? What can she afford?

Three young boys, Gary Reid, Ronald Ferguson and Robert Bourdeau escaped drowning on Thursday afternoon when they drifted from Coronado Park at Bayside in a leaky punt across the bay of Quinte to the south shore. Here they were rescued by an airplane from the Trenton Station. This near catastrophe should be a warning to other little girls and boys who are enjoying their holidays.

Lawmakers Caution That New Aggression May be Lurking Behind Cease-Fire Talks

KEY AIR POST

Air Vice-Marshal J. L. Plant, 41, has been appointed assistant chief of staff for personnel and logistics of the Allied Air Forces in Central Europe. The appointment is considered one of the key posts in the Atlantic Pact Air Force in Europe. Born in Wales, Air Vice-Marshal Plant was educated in British Columbia. — (CP from National Defence.)

Washington, July 11 — (AP)— Wary lawmakers cautioned today that new communist aggression may be lurking behind seeming good willingness to negotiate a ceasefire in Korea.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (Rep., Mass.) told a reporter he fears the current manoeuvring by the reds at Kaesong might be only an effort to throw the United Nations forces off guard for an attack on Europe in August.

"We must watch this thing carefully," Lodge said. "If they were planning an attack in Europe or to move Chinese communist troops against India — the cease-fire move would be just the sort of thing they would attempt."

Lodge, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he does not believe the U. N. should settle for a cease-fire at the 38th parallel, as the reds have proposed. He joined Senator Paul Douglas (Dem., Ill.) in cautioning that the narrow neck of the Korean Peninsula, about 100 miles north of the 38th, is made the dividing line. The 38th was the old border between North and South Korea.

Douglas said in a letter to Defense Secretary George C. Marshall yesterday that the communists would advertise any settlement at the 38th as a "victory" over U. N. forces.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N. H.), an armed services committee member, said he was informed American military leaders are "uneasy" about the progress of cease-fire talks, believing a communist truce would be followed by an attack.

However, Senator Lester Hunt (Dem. Wyo.), another armed services member, said he is willing to have the 38th as a dividing line if there are "absolute guarantees" that inspections can be carried out by the U. N.

Navigational-Aid Buoy Torn Adrift In Recent Storm

London, Ont., July 11—(CP)—Flares fired by U.S. coastguard vessels searching for survivors from a capsized rowboat off Lexington, Mich., touched off an alarm in the Kettle Point area of Lake Huron near Sarnia which led to a four hour search by the R.C.A.F. and a private plane.

An R.C.A.F. Expediter spotted an object on the waters which was first believed to be a vessel in distress at 2:40 a.m. it was found to be a red-lighted navigational-aid buoy which was torn adrift in a recent storm.

Reports from Lexington, Mich., indicated one woman drowned and her two male companions are missing after their rowboat capsized during a windstorm. She was identified as Mrs. Martel Koerber, of Detroit. Thetwo men are said to be brothers of Mrs. Koerber.

Provincial police were called when both fliers fired a faint red light were seen shortly after midnight by people on the Canadian beaches. Rescuers learned that two small craft had collided.

A private plane from Grand Bend and an R.C.A.F. plane from Centralia began winging over the dark waters of the Lake. Squadron Leader J. R. Grindley directed the search from Centralia's control tower.

Provincial Constable Charles G. Wilkinson was in charge of the search from Kettle Point.

A U.S. army plane from Selfridge Field, Mich., was reported ready to join the search at one stage.

RED CHINA BOMBARDED WITH RICE

One of the odd developments of the Far Eastern political morass is the "air raids" conducted by the Nationalist Chinese government from Formosa. The pilot, top, is about to take off to bomb the mainland, not with high explosives, but with rice. The rice, labelled "from the Free Chinese on Formosa," is dropped to Red China, where thousands are reported to be starving. Bags of it are being loaded into a plane, above.—Central Press Canadian.
